WASHINGTON (NOV. 29) UPI - The United States should aid the Soviet Union by giving it access to export credits that could be used to buy food, Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter and a key senator said Thursday.

Their statements were the latest in a series of appeals from the agricultural community, which sees Soviet food needs as a sales opportunity that could dampen a downturn in grain exports.

For months, the Bush administration has said the Soviet Union will not qualify for trade assistance programs until it reforms emigration laws. Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev recently asked for Western assistance, saying it would ease the process of economic restructuring.

Reports circulated in Moscow this week that the Soviet capital had only a three- to five-day stock of meat and is short of milk and other food. But city officials and Western diplomats blamed problems with distribution rather than overall shortages.

''We have the tools to take effective action. Denying the Soviet Union access to this program (export credits) ... is tantamount to shooting ourselves in the foot,'' Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., said in a letter to President Bush.

''Our caution may deprive us of the long-term benefits of this huge market.''

A handful of farm-state senators personally asked Bush on Wednesday to approve an offer of credit guarantees. Under them, banks are guaranteed repayment of loans made to finance sales of farm goods.

Meanwhile, Yeutter made the strongest statement yet on the Agriculture Department's interest in export credit sales.

''In my view, we should provide credit guarantees to the Soviet Union,'' Yeutter told reporters. ''I have expressed my views on that for the past several weeks.''

In a speech earlier this week, Yeutter stressed the importance of human rights and said: ''All we can do at this stage is to encourage the Soviet Union to deal with the emigration issue.''

In a monthly report on developments in the export market, an Agriculture Department agency raised the possibility the Kremlin would be unable to satisfy its obligations under the U.S.-Soviet grain agreement unless credit is offered.

''The current level of U.S. export commitments to the (Kremlin) is so low that it is increasingly unlikely that the (Kremlin) will meet minimum purchasing requirments for the October-December'' period, the Foreign Agricultural Service said.

''Without extension of U.S. credit guarantees, it may also be very difficult for the (Soviet Union) to purchase further quantities of U.S. grains during the current marketing year. U.S. grain is no longer competitive with grain sold with credit by other major exporters.''

The grain agreement calls for the Soviets to buy at least 1 million tons of U.S. grain by the end of this year. However, sales have lagged for weeks. A sale of 15,000 metric tons of flour, reported on Tuesday, was the first sale in more than one month.

There have been repeated reports the Soviet Union is strapped for cash to pay for imports.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 29) UPI - President Bush signed into law Thursday an anti-crime bill that was watered down by a Congress unable to reach agreement on the death penalty, appeals by condemned prisoners and gun control.

''I must note my deep disappointment over many provisions noticeably absent from the legislation,'' the president said in a statement.

Bush pushed for an expansion of the death sentence to cover mail bombings and terrorist attacks, and favored a reduction of what he described as seemingly endless appeals by inmates on Death Row.

Although the president opposed a ban on semiautomatic weapons, he requested tougher penalties for criminal use of a firearm. Congress failed to reach an agreement on a ban or on stiffer penalities.

The measure lawmakers passed does raise funding of local law enforcement and federal agencies such as the FBI, increases penalties for child abuse, and provides prison alternatives such as house arrest for some crimes.

It also takes note of the savings and loan crisis with stiffer bank fraud penalties and addresses the continuing drug epidemic with tougher laws for certain offenses.

The president's anti-crime bill was first introduced in May 1989. It became the subject of heavy lobbying by the National Rifle Association and opposing gun control groups and was laced with amendments.

Bush lobbied for the first broad expansion of the federal death penalty since the Supreme Court reinstated capital punishment in 1976 and he supported changes in appeals procedures that would speed executions.

The president said in his statement Thursday, ''Americans have the right to be free from fear in their homes, in their streets and in their neighborhoods'' and called on Congress to pass the rest of his anti- crime package next year.

UNITED NATIONS (NOV. 29) UPI - Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze said Thursday that his country had no intention of sending troops to the Persian Gulf, but he sternly warned Iraq not to harm Soviet citizens trapped in Iraq.

He was speaking moments after the U.N. Security Council passed an historic resolution allowing the 27 nations with troops in the gulf to force Iraq out of Kuwait if it is still occupying that country in 45 days.

The Soviet Union voted for the resolution along with 11 other countries, including the United States. China abstained. Cuba and Yemen voted against.

''This is a difficult question for our country,'' Shevardnadze said, when asked whether the Soviet Union would join the U.S.-led multinational force assembled in Saudi Arabia. The force also includes troops from France, Britain Canada and several Arab countries.

He said the Supreme Soviet was unlikely to agree to such a move.

Displaying a frankness unimaginable a year ago, he said, ''The memories of Afghanistan and Czechoslovakia are still fresh in the minds of our citizens.''

The Soviet Union invaded Czechoslovakia in 1968 and fought a bloody eight-year war in Afghanistan.

But Shevardnadze said, ''If even one Soviet citizen (in Iraq) is harmed, I cannot say what the consequences would be, but it will be very serious.''

He added that President Mikhail Gorbachev has the right under Soviet law to send troops to protect Soviet citizens and ''may everyone know that.''

The Soviet Union has about 1,000 citizens stuck in Iraq.

LOS ANGELES (NOV. 29) UPI - Lockheed Corp.'s board of directors will meet next week to discuss Texas investor Harold Simmons' proposal to take the aerospace giant private in a $1.6 billion deal, the company said Thursday.

Simmons, who has been trying to gain control of Lockheed for nearly two years, recently proposed working with the company to buy about 40 million Lockheed shares at $40 a share, about $10 above the range in which the stock has been trading.

Lockheed stock fell 50 cents Thursday to $30.375 a share on the New York Stock Exchange.

Simmons already owns about 12.5 million shares, or 19.8 percent, while shares owned by the company but not allocated under its Employee Stock Ownership Plan would not have to be obtained.

Under the proposal, Simmons would provide $400 million in cash and about $400 million in assets.

Lockheed already has about $1.3 billion debt on its books. Analysts believe the board, which will meet Monday, is unlikely to approve Simmons' offer, setting the stage for a repetition of last March's proxy fight for control of the company.

Lockheed spokesman Scott Hallman also said that Lockheed Chairman Daniel Tellep plans to ask the board to approve four new board members who are either nominated or ratified by major institutional holders of Lockheed stock.

Tellep had promised at the annual meeting in March to name at least three directors designated by major institutions to the 14-member board.

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (NOV. 29) UPI - TRW Inc. may be forced to lay off as many as 300 workers in its classified military programs next year as a result of reduced funding, a spokeswoman said Thursday.

TRW's Space & Defense Sector, which has eliminated 1,600 jobs this year as result of tightened defense spending and laid off about 950 workers, made the disclosure this week in a notice to workers.

The unit, a subsidiary of Cleveland-based TRW told employees it may have to lay off between 200 and 300 workers next year because of funding for secret defense programs had been cut significantly, spokeswoman Julie Wright said.

''The cuts would not take place until next year,'' Wright said.

The TRW unit, which employs about 25,900 workers nationwide, produces satellites and other advanced technology products. Analysts estimate that the federal government spends about $5 billion a year on intelligence satellites.

The TRW unit employs about 15,600 workers at Southern California plants in Redondo Beach and San Bernardino,

(NOV. 29) UPI - The U-N Security Council is preparing to approve a resolution that will authorize the use of force if Iraq does NOT get out of Kuwait ''on or before January 15th, 1991.''

President Bush says he has NO plans to call Congress back to Washington for a special session on the Persian Gulf crisis. But Bush told a Spanish-language T-V network that he would continue to consult extensively with congressmen.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein reportedly told Arab youths in Baghdad today that his nation has the advanced technology needed to spot American ''stealth'' jets.

President Bush today signed into law an anti-crime bill that makes it easier to combat child pornography, child abuse and bank fraud. He also said that the bill does NOT include one of his major crime-fighting requests... an expansion of the death penalty to such crimes as mail- bombings and terrorist murder.

The president also signed into law a landmark immigration bill that he hailed as the most comprehensive change in 66 years in the way America admits immigrants.

(NOV. 29) UPI - President Bush says he has NO plans to call Congress back to a special session to deal with the Persian Gulf crisis. Bush told a Spanish-language T-V network that he will continue extensive consultations with congressional leaders- quoting now- ''because it is important that we send a solid signal'' to Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein .

Saddam told Arab youths in Baghdad today that Iraq has the advanced technology needed to spot American ''stealth'' jets. The official Iraq News Agency says the Iraqi leader told the youths that- quoting now- ''The American Rambo will be futile on Iraqi territory....''

Saddam released still more Western hostages today... part of an apparent effort to dampen enthusiasm for a U-N Security Council resolution authorizing the use of force against the occupation of Kuwait.

On Capitol Hill, former Navy Secretary James Webb told the Senate Armed Services Committee that if President Bush is serious about taking the offensive against Iraq, he should seek a resumption of the draft. Webb testified at committee hearings on the Persian Gulf crisis that Bush also should ask for a declaration of war. He says the draft will be needed if the United States wants to take on Iraq's one-Million-man army.

The federal Centers for Disease Control says a growing number of young women are contracting AIDS. A spokesman says that by 1991, AIDS will be among the five leading causes of death in women aged 15 through 44. Officials predict that AIDS cases among women will exceed 15- thousand by the end of this year. They say AIDS cases among women are increasing steadily and account for an increasing share of all AIDS cases in the United States.

British Prime Minister John Major appeared in Parliament for the first time since taking on the job, fending off charges that the only woman in his Cabinet is what one opposition legislator called ''the backseat driver''... former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. (NOV. 29) UPI - The U-N Security Council voted 121 today to authorize the use of force against Iraqi troops in Kuwait if Saddam Hussein does NOT withdraw them by January 15th, 1991. China abstained on the vote, as expected, and Cuba and Yemen voted against it. The Security Council session was presided over by Secretary of State Baker, who said Iraq must realize that- quoting now- ''the just, humane demands of this council and the international community canNOT be ignored.''

Baker had continued his lobbying campaign for the resolution virtually up to the minute the discussion began. Baker said that if Iraq does NOT get out of Kuwait, other ''necessary measures- including the use of force- should be authorized.'' Baker called on the council to give Saddam a choice in what he called ''unmistakable terms.''

Shortly before the Security Council opened its discussion, Saddam told Arab youths in Baghdad that Iraq has the advanced technology needed to spot American ''stealth'' fighter-bombers. Saddam also ordered the release of more Western hostages today. Sweden says Saddam ordered the release of 56 Swedes being held in Iraq and Kuwait. And an unofficial delegation of Italian pacifists returned to Rome with 68 hostages and told reporters that Saddam is ready to talk with anyone.

Scientists report that they have genetically engineered rats with a disease similar to a form of human arthritis... a step that could find the cause and improve the treatment of the disabling illness. One scientist describes the findings as ''startling'' and ''significant.'' The research has created a new model for scientists researching a form of arthritis. Previously, experiments had to be done in mice with symptoms that were NOT close to those found in humans. The report says that because the disease spreads so rapidly in the genetically engineered rats, scientists said they think arthritis is largely caused by heredity, NOT environmental factors.

Scientists today linked an inherited genetic defect to a rare cancer syndrome... a step that may help detect people at risk for the syndrome and shed light on the genetic basis of more common cancers. Only about 100 families world-wide are known to suffer from Li-Fraumeni Syndrome, which renders them highly susceptible to breast cancer... various childhood cancers... brain tumors... bone cancer, and leukemia. In a study of four families with the syndrome, a team of cancer researchers identified the genetic culprit as a defective gene known as P-53. When healthy, the gene carries instructions for production of a protein known to suppress tumor growth.

(NOV. 29) UPI - For the first time since July of 1950, the United Nations Security Council has endorsed the use of military power. The council today approved a resolution authorizing the use of force if Iraq does NOT withdraw from Kuwait by January 15th. The margin was 12-2... with China abstaining and Cuba and Yemeni voting against the measure.

President Bush applauded the Security Council vote... saying he thinks the resolution will finally convince Iraqi President Saddam Hussein ''that he's got to get out of Kuwait.'' Before the vote, Saddam said his country is NOT ''panicked'' at the thought of force and would fight ''ferociously'' in the event of war.

In Baghdad, the Iraqi News Agency INA quotes Saddam as saying his country has the technology to detect America's most sophisticated aircraft, the Stealth bomber. Saddam reportedly told Arab youths in Baghdad that with Iraqi technology the United States' ''ghost'' bomber can be seen ''even by the shepherds in the desert.'' According to the news agency, Saddam says the Stealth will be ''futile on Iraqi territory'' and he threatened to bring it down- quote- ''like any other hostile plane.''

That's when the federal tax on gas goes up an additional five cents a gallon... increasing from nine cents to 14 cents a gallon on unleaded fuel and 15 cents to 20 cents on diesel. The gas tax hike is part of the 1991 budget deal worked out last month between the Bush administration and Congress.

Secretary of State Baker says the presence of 13 foreign ministers in today's council session was a testimony to the seriousness of the Persian Gulf crisis. He joined his Soviet, British and French counterparts in calling for renewed diplomacy to persuade Iraq to withdraw.

In Washington, President Bush called the U-N resolution ''a very powerful statement.'' Bush said- quote- ''Everybody wants a peaceful resolution. I think this would drive home the point to that he's got to get out of Kuwait.''

(NOV. 29) UPI - The U-N Security Council today authorized the possible use of force against Iraq. The council voted 121 for resolution 678 approving war if needed to remove Iraqi troops from Kuwait if they don't leave voluntarily by January 15th. It's the first such authorization since the Korean War. Cuba and Yemen voted against the resolution and China abstained. China's foreign minister says he didn't vote because his country opposes war in the Middle East.

NEW YORK (NOV. 29) UPI - Standard & Poor's said Thursday that it placed the triple-C-plus rating on R.H. Macy & Co.'s subordinated debt on CreditWatch with negative implications. About $2.5 billion of debt is affected.

The credit-rating agency said the move, meaning it may downgrade the rating later, ''reflects continuing weak retail operations in the context of the company's highly leveraged capital structure.''

The well-known retailer is saddled with more than $5 billion in debt as a result of undergoing a 1986 leveraged buyout and acquiring the Bullock's and I. Magnin chains in 1988.

Macy's performance over the last several quarters has been ''substantially below'' expectations, due in part to the deterioration in the retail environment, S&P said.

''Further weakness could jeopardize relations with its banks and the trade,'' S&P's added.

The agency said the retailer's debt-service burden is likely to remain heavy despite being able to buy debt at a steep discount as a result of $100 million in proceeds from the planned sale of Macy Credit Corp. and $150 million expected from equity infusions.

''Although Macy's liquidity should be adequate to meet short-term debt amortization schedules, longer-term funding of principal and interest payments along with capital requirements, will be impossible without a rebound in the business or a restructuring of Macy's balance sheet,'' S&P's said.

According to S&P, ratings of single-B on senior debt and triple-C- plus onsubordinated debt of R.H. Macy Credit Corp. and R.H. Macy Overseas Finance N.V. remain on CreditWatch with positive implications, meaning upgrades are possible. They were placed on CreditWatch Oct. 22 as a result of the planned sale of the credit subsidiaries to triple-A rated General Electric Capital Corp.

TOLEDO, OH (NOV. 29) UPI - The lip-syncing duo Milli Vanilli, which lost its Grammy Award for faking its songs, was charged with consumer fraud in a suit filed by a radio station that sponsored one of its concerts.

Maumee radio station WRQN claimed the duo defrauded it and its listeners by not performing live music during a concert this spring.

Air personality Diane Scribner said Thursday WRQN filed the suit, asking the Lucas County Common Pleas Court to award $200 damages for each person who attended the performance and $500,000 in punitive damages. The station claims the group and its management firm violated Ohio's consumer protection laws.

In addition to duo members Rob Pilatus and Fab Morvan, the suit filed Wednesday also named as defendants the duo's producer, Frank Farian and their label, Arista Records.

Arista Records in Beverly Hills, Calif., deferred comment to its New York office, but attempts to reach a spokesman there were unsuccessful.

Scribner said it was up to the record companies to ensure that musical acts were genuine.

Milli Vanilli's troubles began when its producer admitted the two performers never sang a note in concert. The two were stripped of a Grammy Award for best new artist for the song ''Girl You Know Its True,'' which sold 7 million copies.

Scribner said the suit also seeks an injunction that would prevent the group from performing in the future.

Listeners' reaction to the group's loss of the Grammy Award and the station's subsequent dropping them from the play list has been mixed Scribner said. While older listeners applauded the move, younger listeners still want to hear the songs, she said.

''We have gotten a couple of calls from younger listeners saying they didn't care,'' she said.

Another Toledo radio station had dismissed the group as a fraud in April shortly before the Toledo concert. WIOT staged a ''Bury Milli Vanilli'' event by breaking the duo's records and using them for pothole filler in its parking lot.

''We were the first people to really speak out against them,'' said spokeswoman Cara Sabin.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - The Atlantic Recording Corp. announced Friday that Doug Morris has been appointed co-chairman and co-chief executive officer.

Morris, who was the label's president and chief operating officer, will continue to work alongside Atlantic founder, co-chairman and co-chief executive officer, Ahmet M. Ertegun, who said: ''It gives me great pleasure to welcome Doug Morris as my co-chairman. We have worked as close partners for many years and this makes it official.''

Robert J. Morgado, Time Warner's senior executive responsible for the Warner Music Group stated, ''Atlantic Records has played a major role in the recent strong growth of the Warner Music Group, and we are extremely fortunate to have the leadership provided by Ahmet and Doug. Their partnership ensures a wonderful future for Atlantic.''

Doug Morris has deep roots in the music industry, having started his career as a songwriter and singer. Shortly after his graduation from Columbia University, Morris became a staff songwriter for the music publisher, Robert Mellin Inc. In 1965 he joined Laurie Records, where he began as a writer and producer and ultimately was named vice president and general manager.

Morris left Laurie Records in 1970 to start his own label, Big Tree Records. Big Tree marked his first formal association with Atlantic Records, which distributed Big Tree's releases. Big Tree was purchased by Atlantic in 1978, and in short order Morris became president of Atlantic's ATCO Records. In 1980, Morris was named president of Atlantic Records, and in 1989 he assumed the additional position of chief operating officer for the Atlantic Recording Corp.

The Atlantic Recording Corp. is a subsidiary of the Warner Music Group, a wholly owned division of Time Warner Inc.

LOS ANGELES (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - The Kushner-Locke Company (NASDAQ:KLOC) has received an initial 13-week order from CBS Television to produce ''Barbara DeAngelis,'' a new daily half-hour morning talk series, hosted by the popular counseling therapist, author, and television and radio therapist, set to premiere on Monday, Jan. 14 (10-10:30 a.m. EST; 9-9:30 a.m. PST), it was announced Friday by Kushner-Locke co-chairmen Peter Locke and Donald Kushner.

With her new series, to be taped before a live audience, Dr. DeAngelis will not attempt to solve problems, but to illuminate situations and, it is hoped, provide guidance that can make a difference in people's lives. There will be occasional celebrity guests, and participation by the studio audience.

''We are delighted that Barbara DeAngelis will bring her exceptional talents to CBS,'' said Lucy Johnson, vice president, daytime programs, CBS Entertainment. ''The series will go beyond today's talk shows: it was developed specially for her ability to present practical, helpful information with vitality, humor and professional expertise.''

DeAngelis is the author of a No. 1 best-selling book, ''How To Make Love All The Time,'' and the newly released ''Secrets About Men Every Woman Should Know.'' Her articles appear in numerous national magazines, and she has recently become a contributing editor to Redbook.

She teaches and lectures extensively, and is the creator of ''Making Love Work '' a popular relationships seminar. She moderates a popular call-in radio talk show on KFI Los Angeles radio, the station's top-rated program, and has appeared on hundreds of local and national television talk shows.

She appeared for two years on CNN as their ''Newsnight'' therapist, and for a year as KABC-TV's human relations correspondent in Los Angeles.

''Barbara DeAngelis'' is a Kushner-Locke Production in association with 100% Productions, a DeAngelis/Sams Company. David Sams is executive producing the project with Peter Locke and Donald Kushner.

The Kushner-Locke Company is a publicly traded television production and distribution company providing programming for pay cable services, first-run syndication and the major television networks.

DENVER (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Random Access Inc. (NASDAQ:RNDM), the Rocky Mountain Region's largest microcomputer reseller, Friday announced record revenue and a sixth consecutive profitable year for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1990.

Revenue advanced 64 percent to $36 million compared to revenue of $22 million in the prior year. Net income for the year was $338,000, or 7 cents per share compared to $484,000, or 11 cents per share, last year.

Earnings per share for the year would be 13 cents assuming the 2 million shares placed in escrow by Random Chief Executive Officer Bruce Milliken subsequent to fiscal year end were deducted from the total number of outstanding shares used in the calculation.

The escrowed shares may be returned to Milliken only if Random meets certain earnings requirements over a five-year period. Future financial statements will contain a line item showing primary earnings per share in addition to fully diluted earnings per share. The primary calculation deducts from the total outstanding shares the number of Milliken's shares still in escrow.

Bruce Milliken, chief executive officer of Random Access, said the increase in revenue for the year was attributable to growing market acceptance of Random's value-added approach to computer sales.

He said the decrease in net income was due to significant investments made during the second half of fiscal 1990 in preparation for servicing a large new contract with US WEST as well as other growth opportunities expected in the new fiscal year.

During fiscal 1990, US WEST, the $25 billion communications company, named Random to be the primary supplier of microcomputer hardware and peripherals to US WEST's 14-state region.

Random was also recognized by ''Inc. Magazine'' as being the 15th fastest growing small public company in the United States. The company is the sales volume leader among the more than 500 affiliates in the Connecting Point of America network, which is one of the largest computer reseller networks in the United States.

STAMFORD, CONN. (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Citizens Utilities' (NASDAQ:CITUA/CITUB) shareholders Friday approved an amendment to Citizens' certificate of incorporation increasing the authorized shares of its Series A and Series B common stock and authorizing a new class of preferred stock.

A portion of the additional authorized Series B common stock will permit Citizens to complete its acquisition of Louisiana General Services Inc., whose shareholders Friday approved the merger of Louisiana General into Citizens.

In the merger each share of Louisiana General common stock will be converted into between 0.6719 and 0.8 shares of Citizens' Series B common stock, the fraction being based on the average price of shares of Citizens' Series B common stock as determined under the Merger Agreement. It is expected that the merger will be completed next week.

Citizens Utilities is a diversified operating public utility providing telecommunications, electric, gas, water and wastewater services to more than 500,000 consumer connections in 12 states: Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Nevada, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah and Vermont.

Louisiana General Services is principally engaged in residential, commercial and industrial gas operations in Louisiana.

LONG BEACH, CALIF (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Jack J. Schoustra, chairman and chief executive officer of The Earth Technology Corp. (USA) (NASDAQ:ETCO), Friday announced that as a result of declining economic conditions in the Northeastern United States which has significantly impacted the company's asbestos consulting practice, the company will experience an operating loss for the first quarter of fiscal 1991.

The loss is expected to be approximately 6 cents per share, for the period ending Nov. 30, 1990.

Schoustra indicated that although operating costs have been significantly reduced in the asbestos segment of the business, it was not enough to offset the decline in this portion of the company's bsuiness.

At the same time, the company experienced some softening in its commercial waste management market. He estimated that the weakness in the asbestos consulting portion of the business will continue for the next several months.

SAN DIEGO (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Wells Fargo & Co. will close the purchase of the first phase of Great American Bank's California branches Saturday, Dec. 1, 1990.

Phase one includes 92 Great American branches in San Diego, Riverside and Orange counties with total deposits of approximately $4.4 billion and approximately $4.0 billion of assets, reflecting a purchase price of approximately $.4 billion, subject to certain adjustments.

Also, Wells Fargo will acquire mortgage servicing rights on approximately $7 billion of single-family mortgages and will assume responsibility for Great American's data center in National City, Calif.

Great American has 130 retail branches throughout the state with $6.3 billion in deposits. Branches extend from San Diego to Sonoma County in Northern California.

Although no assurance can be given that the second phase of the acquisition will be completed, it is expected to occur in 1991 and will include the remainder of the branches, deposits and assets that comprise substantially all Great American's California operations.

In San Diego County, Wells Fargo is retaining 90 percent of Great American's branches, a total of 57 offices out of 64. Combined with 20 Wells Fargo offices the bank is retaining (out of 26), the Great American branches will boost Wells Fargo's total offices in San Diego County to 77.

After Jan. 19, 1991, the Great American branches will offer the longest weekday and Saturday hours of any major bank or savings and loan (9 a.m. - 6 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Saturdays), 24-hour person-to-person telephone service and access to more than 1,500 Wells Fargo ATMs statewide.

WICHITA, Kan. (NOV 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Lodgistix reported a net loss of $1.035 million, or 17 cents per share, on total revenue of $2.1 million as compared to net income of $0.253 million, or 4 cents per share, on total revenue of $5.3 million for the prior year.

The shortfall of approximately 61 percent in total revenue for the first quarter of fiscal 1991 compared to the prior year was the primary contributor to the resulting net loss. System contracts were abnormally slow during the fourth quarter of fiscal 1990 as well as in the first two months of the first quarter of fiscal 1991.

This led to significantly lower systems installations in the first quarter of fiscal 1991. In addition, prior year revenues included funds (approximately 13 percent) provided by a vendor to offset certain product transition costs incurred with the development of the Lodgistix LANmark property management system.

Additional reductions in staffing levels, office space requirements, and associated costs occurred effective during the month of September 1990 and therefore had a minimal impact on expenses during the first fiscal quarter. The reductions however will begin to decrease those expense categories thereafter.

Lodgistix is the hotel industry's leading developer of automated property management systems with over 1,600 worldwide installation sites since 1978.

REDWOOD CITY, CALIF (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Graphtec Precision Image Corp. has promoted Paul Busse from executive vice president to president to fill a position left by the recent exit of former President Gary Hughes.

Busse first joined Graphtec Precision Image in June 1988. His prior responsibilities included the management of manufacturing, research and development, financial operations, and administration.

Busse has held senior financial, administrative and operations positions at several high technology companies before joining Graphtec Precision Image Corp. He holds a bachelor's degree from Valparaiso University, a master's degree in business administration from Northwestern University and a CPA certificate.

Graphtec Precision Image electrostatic plotters produce monochrome and full color D- or E-size drawings from any mainframe, mini- or microcomputer. They support most hardware interfaces including RS-232-C, Centronics, IBM 3211 Printer emulation, SNA, Ethernet, and DECnet.

The plotters are also software-compatible with Versaplot, CalComp (ISDP), HP-GL, CGI, and CGM (ANSI/ISO). Graphtec Precision Image produces the markets's highest accuracy plotters (0.05 percent) to address the demanding plotting requirements of the mapping, electronics, mechanical, architectural, and engineering markets.

In addition to its electrostatic plotter line, Graphtec Precision Image recently introduced the TM1110 thermal plotter producing D-size monochrome drawings with the market's only 406-dpi, single-unit writing head. The TM1110 produces direct thermal, thermal transfer, and clear film output with black and grey line imaging. Markets for the TM1110 thermal plotter include geophysical, mechanical, and architectural.

Graphtec Precision Image has headquarters in Redwood City. The company has a broad installed base of customers in the United States, Canada, Europe, Japan and the Pacific Rim. Graphtec Precision Image maintains sales and service offices worldwide.

KANSAS CITY, MO (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - On Nov. 30 the board of directors of Kansas City Southern Industries Inc. declared a 27 cent quarterly dividend on the company's outstanding common stock.

The dividend will be payable on Dec. 31, 1990 to stockholders of record at the close of business on Dec. 11, 1990.

The board of directors also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share on the outstanding preferred stock of Kansas City Southern Industries Inc. payable on Jan. 15, 1991, to preferred stockholders of record at the close of business on Dec. 28, 1990.

Kansas City Southern Industries Inc. Friday announced that Nicholas H. Wheless Jr. retired as a director effective Nov. 30, 1990. Wheless, age 74, has served as a director since 1973. He was a member of the Compensation and Organization Committee and the executive committee. Wheless of Shreveport, La. serves as chairman of the board of Wheless Industries Inc.

Wheless also served as a director of The Kansas City Southern Railway Co. and the Louisiana & Arkansas Railway Co. from 1973 to 1982.

KCSI has benefitted from the many contributions of Wheless as a director. His executive and business experience and knowledge of the energy business as well as his familiarity of the business and market environment of Northeast Louisiana and East Texas have been valued by both management and the board.

''His colleagues wish him well on his retirement,'' said Landon H. Rowland, president and chief executive officer.

KCSI also announced Friday the acceptance of the resignation of William N. Deramus IV as a director of KCSI and all subsidiaries and affiliated companies. Deramus had served as a director of DST Systems Inc. and The Kansas City Southern Railway Co. and the Louisiana & Arkansas Railway Co.

The board of directors elected Edward A. Allinson and Paul F. Balser to the board of directors to fill the vacancies created by the retirement of Wheless and the resignation of Deramus.

Allinson, age 55, of Boston, is executive vice president of State Street Bank and Trust Co. and chairman of the board of directors and chief executive officer of Boston Financial Data Services Inc.

SAN DIEGO (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - TeleQuest Inc. Friday announced it had executed a general assignment for the benefit of creditors with San Diego Wholesale Credit Association as assignee and, as of Friday, Nov. 30, the assets of TeleQuest would be managed by the assignee.

TeleQuest's major shareholder, Teletech International Holdings Ltd., which was providing the majority of the company's financing and supplying the majority of the company's products, had been acquired in an unfriendly takeover by Swilynn International Holdings Ltd. in August 1990.

Recently, the company has been informed by Teletech and Swilynn that Teletech is refocusing its attention on its audio and video business and is discontinuing its interest in the telecommunications business. The company was also informed by Teletech and Swilynn that the company would not receive any additional financial support from Teletech.

The company has been unsuccessful in finding additional or alternative financial support and, as a result, the TeleQuest board of directors voted to discontinue operations and liquidate the assets of the company.

HENDERSON, KY. (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Farmers Bank & Trust Co. of

Henderson has acquired $21 million in core deposits and selected assets of Henderson Home Savings and Loan Association, F.A., from the Resolution Trust Corp. (RTC).

The RTC is the government agency charged with managing insolvent thrift institutions.

The acquisition is a purchase and assumption transaction with purchased loans and other assets being subject to liberal putback rights. Any loans or assets not purchased by Farmers Bank & Trust Co. will be retained by the Resolution Trust Corp., which is the receiver for Henderson Home Savings & Loan.

Farmers Bank & Trust Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Pete Lambert says: ''Our bank is pleased to help the U.S. government resolve this local savings and loan situation. This acquisition allows us to expand our customer base in Henderson, and at the same time, provide continuity of financial service to thousands of local citizens.''

In the next seven days, Henderson Home Savings and Loan customers will be receiving letters from Farmers Bank regarding their individual accounts. The Henderson Home Savings & Loan office at Third and Elm Streets has been closed. Customers should now transact all business at Farmers Bank, which has a nearby downtown office.

Acquisition of the failed S & L will bring Farmers Bank & Trust assets to approximately $140 million. MOORPARK, CALIF (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Terminal Data Corp. (TDC) (NASDAQ:TERM) Friday reported that sales for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1990 were $21,455,000, compared with $22.23 million in 1989, a decline of 3 percent.

The company had a net loss for the year of $3,325,000, or 73 cents per share, compared with a loss of $2,299,000, or 50 cents per share, for the previous year.

The loss for the fourth quarter of 1990 was $1,533,000, or 34 cents per share, compared with earnings of $7,000, or 0 cents per share, in 1989. Sales for the fourth quarter were $5,246,000, down 11 percent from the $5,910,000 reported in the comparable prior year's period.

Jeffrey Wilson, president and chief executive officer of Terminal Data said that the 1990 fourth quarter was affected by non-recurring expenses related to the company's restructuring efforts. These included discontinuance of the DocuScan 1250 document scanner and the writedown of certain equipment and tooling, which is no longer required or in service.

Wilson added, ''While the DocuScan 1250 proved to be reliable and rugged in the life cycle testing and enjoys a price performance ratio favorable to current competition, TDC is not currently willing to invest the necessary resources to promote and distribute the product, since these resources would have to be diverted from TDC's core products.''

''TDC will focus on its core micrographic and document imaging products to return the company to profitability,'' said Wilson. ''The combination of TDC's outstanding customer base, technology leadership and renewed focus on sales and marketing, is expected to create shareholder value.''

Wilson also announced the appointment of Tony W. Loigu as vice president of sales and marketing. Loigu comes to TDC with extensive and successful experience in the micrographics and document image processing field. He was most recently vice president with Optigraphics Corp., after several years with Intergraph Corp. and Unisys.

Wilson added that Loigu's background and experience will make him an invaluable addition to TDC's new management team.

PHOENIX (DEC. 2) BUSINESS WIRE - Bank of America Arizona announced Friday that it has agreed with the Resolution Trust Corp. to act as agent for the insured deposits of Sun State Savings and Loan Association.

Headquartered in Phoenix, Sun State has three branches in Phoenix, Sun City and Sedona. It has been in receivership since June 14, 1989.

Under the terms of the agreement, the RTC will transfer the insured deposits of Sun State to Bank of America. Bank of America paid a premium of $1,000 to the RTC for receiving the transferred deposits, which total approximately $800 million. Bank of America is neither purchasing the deposit accounts nor acquiring any significant assets of Sun State.

Sun State branches will remain open for at least two weeks for the convenience of customers who want to access their accounts or who need to close out safe deposit boxes. After the branches are closed, customers may access their insured funds at nearby Bank of America branches.

''We're happy to assist the RTC with this transaction,'' said David Hanna, president of Bank of America Arizona. ''We welcome the opportunity to serve Sun State's customers and hope many of them will decide to become Bank of America customers.''

Within two weeks, Bank of America will begin contacting Sun State customers with information about their deposits. Customers will have the option of opening an account with Bank of America or receiving their funds.

LOS ANGELES (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Hotel Investors Trust, a real estate investment trust, and Hotel Investors Corp., a hotel management company, whose shares are paired and trade together (NYSE:HOT), Friday announced that they had been advised by a representative of Park Plaza Inc. and EIE International Corp. that, due to the deterioration in international financial markets, it was highly unlikely that Park Plaza and EIE would be able to obtain all of the financing required to complete the purchase of 27 hotels from Hotel Investors at a price of approximately $152 million pursuant to the previously announced Asset Purchase Agreement.

Park Plaza and EIE also proposed to Hotel Investors an alternative transaction involving Park Plaza's purchase of a portion of such hotels and leasing of the remainder.

While the ability of Park Plaza to obtain financing is not a condition to the existing purchase agreement, the board of trustees of Hotel Investors Trust and the board of directors of Hotel Investors Corp. will be considering such developments and an appropriate response, as well as the implications for the special meetings of shareholders and stockholders currently scheduled for Dec. 20, 1990.

ENGLEWOOD, COLO. (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Medical Dynamics Inc. (NASDAQ:MEDY), a provider of minimally invasive surgical and diagnostic camera systems, Friday announced results for its year ended Sept. 30, 1990.

As expected, the company reported a net loss of $764,600, or 19 cents per share, on revenue of $3,172,000 for the year vs. net income of $60,900, or 2 cents per share, on revenue of $3,543,000 in 1989.

Van A. Horsley, president and chief executive officer of Medical Dynamics, outlined several factors that contributed to the net loss for the year: The company invested heavily during the year in marketing and promotion in introducing both the Model 5960 and 5990 camera systems. In addition, depreciation and amortization expense was up substantially due largely to the Med-Pacific acquisition in 1989 and to an increase in the number of camera systems on loan to physicians for clinical studies and to the Medical Dynamics sales force.

Also contributing to the loss, Horsley said, was a nearly $200,000 non-cash write-off of obsolete inventory taken in the second quarter and a decision by R. Wolf, a former key OEM customer, to produce its own line of camera systems.

''Despite showing a loss for the 1990 fiscal year, management is very optimistic about the company's overall business opportunity, particularly with respect to sales of the Model 5960 Surgical Camera System to laparoscopy markets,'' Horsley said.

''As announced earlier this month, Medical Dynamics has established an important new OEM customer for the Model 5960. The timing of this new account is particularly good in light of the fact that orders from the company's other OEM account are expected to be filled by Dec. 31, 1990, and additional orders from that customer are questionable in the near term due to the fact that they are introducing their own camera.

''As always, the company is aggressively pursuing other OEM and license agreements for both the Model 5960 and 5990.''

Horsley said the company's cash position remained strong at year end at approximately $1.2 million. Current assets were $3.2 million and the current ratio was 7-to-1. Total assets were $4.3 million and the company had no long-term debt.

ALAMEDA, CALIF (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Scientists from Glycomed Inc. have discovered a family of carbohydrates believed to be capable of blocking the biological process of inflammation.

A review of these findings, co-authored by researchers at Glycomed and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), is being published in Friday's issue of the journal ''Cell.''

Researchers have known that an interaction takes place in the lining of human blood vessels between Endothelial-Leukocyte Adhesion Molecule 1 (ELAM-1) and white blood cells produced by the body to fight inflammation. ELAM-1 acts as a receptor to the white blood cells, initiating a series of events which can result in significant pathological damage.

Glycomed scientists discovered a class of naturally occurring carbohydrates that bind to ELAM-1. The carbohydrates may also be capable of blocking white blood cells from attaching to the ELAM-1 receptors, thereby reducing inflammation and harm to the body.

Phillips W. Robbins, Ph.D., professor of biochemistry at MIT, co-authored Friday's ''Cell'' paper with Drs. Brian Brandley and Stuart Swiedler of Glycomed.

Alan R. Timms, Ph.D., president and chief executive officer of Glycomed, said the findings provide an important first step in developing anti-inflammatory drugs to treat conditions such as rheumatoid arthritis, pulmonary emphysema and respiratory distress syndrome.

''These findings suggest a specific carbohydrate may block critical binding events of the inflammatory cells and thereby affect the disease process itself -- currently available anti-inflammatory drugs only treat the symptoms of inflammation,'' Timms said. ''We have cleared a critical hurdle in this research process.''

Glycomed is a privately held company that is developing complex carbohydrates for pharmaceutical applications. The company was formed in 1987 and has headquarters in Alameda.

PENNSAUKEN, N.J. (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Anthony J. Gurley has been named executive vice president and chief operating officer of the Environmental Control Group Inc., it was announced Friday by ECG President and Chief Executive Officer Brian R. Esher.

As chief operating officer, Gurley will be responsible for the daily planning and administrative operations of all ECG companies.

ECG provides a broad range of products and services related to the control and abatement of solid hazardous wastes in commercial, industrial and public buildings. The company has subsidiaries involved in environmental assessment consulting, abatement contracting, laboratory analysis, product development and distribution and insurance services.

Gurley, who was previously vice president and chief financial officer of ECG, will retain his title as chief financial officer.

''This move provides greater depth and strength for our management team,'' explained Esher, who will now focus on long-term strategic opportunities, including potential acquisitions, mergers and business combinations in the broad-based environmental control industry. ''Mr. Gurley has been the driving force of our team in reducing our bank debt levels from $15.8 million in September of 1989 down to approximately $5.6 million today. We anticipate that our debt levels will continue to decline further by year end,'' said Esher.

''It's also significant that the company has been able to pay down its debt and strengthen its balance sheet in spite of the recessionary pressures that now exist in the northeast as well as throughout the nationwide asbestos abatement industry.''

Gurley, who joined ECG in 1989, previously spent 14 years with the Warner Co., a diversified firm involved in minerals extraction, solid waste management, real estate development and contruction materials, which became a subsidiary of Waste Management Inc.

For eight years, Gurley served as the vice president of finance and administration as well as the treasurer of Warner. He received a bachelor of science degree in accounting from Wheeling Jesuit College in Wheeling, W.Va., attended the Wharton Graduate Division of the University of Pennsylvania and is a member of the Financial Executives Institute, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

NASHUA, NH (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Lockheed Sanders light weight, man portable Search and Target Acquisition Radar (P-STAR) system has been selected by the U.S. Army as the winner of a competition to build a new battlefield radar for the Army's light infantry forces.

Sanders P-STAR radar is a low-cost, light weight, state-of-the-art system designed to provide an effective air defense umbrella for light infantry forces. It also has potential applications for organizations with drug interdiction missions. Weighing approximately 300 pounds, the four piece unit is man portable and simple to setup and operate.

P-STAR has exceptional target visibility, in high clutter, permitting early detection of low flying aircraft of all types.

The pulse doppler radar can direct and classify helicopters based on the unique signature of their roter blade returns. It can classify both friendly and hostile fixed wing aircraft and helicopters using its identification friend or foe (IFF) capability.

Rapid weapon alerting and cueing improves firing unit reaction time and shifts the battle initiative to the air defender. Other key features include multiple Electronic Counter Countermeasures (ECCM) performance enhancers and a near real-time capability to directly interact with a command and control network. The P-STAR can be delivered by parachute and move in and out of battle positions quickly.

The P-STAR continues the long experience of Sanders in building Forward Area Air Defense and Short Range Air Defense radars. Sanders has played an important role in U.S. Army and international air defense programs since 1966 with systems including the Forward Area Alerting Radar (FAAR), the Low Altitude Aircraft Detection System (LAADS) and the Tracked Search and Target Acquisition Radar Systems (TRACKSTAR).

PHOENIX (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - America West Airlines (NASDAQ:AWAL; PSE:AWA) will launch new daily non-stop service between Honolulu, Hawaii, and Nagoya, Japan, on Feb. 1, 1991, utilizing the 381-passenger Boeing 747.

The Nagoya flight will originate in Phoenix, offering Arizona direct service to Japan for the first time.

Nagoya ranks with Tokyo and Osaka as one of Japan's leading economic centers and as the country's third largest city with a population of more than 2 million. Nagoya, located in the industrial heart of Japan, is one of the world's major manufacturing centers for automobiles, ships, aircraft, iron and steel, machine tools, textiles and processed food.

While modern Nagoya thrives, it also preserves a wealth of cultural and historical relics such as the spectacular Nagoya Castle, built in 1612.

Fares for America West's Nagoya service will be available through travel agents or the America West reservations center at 800/247-5692 in early December pending government approval.

America West's Nagoya flight schedule follows:

MURFREESBORO, TENN. (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - The Federal Housing Finance Board recently announced that First City Bank (NASDAQ/NMS:CITY) became the sixth commercial bank of the Fifth District, and the first Tennessee commercial bank, to join the Federal Home Loan Bank (FHLB) of Cincinnati.

Passage of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act (FIRREA) in late 1989 opened membership in the FHLB to a broader range of mortgage lenders, including commercial banks. First City Bank is the latest of six commercial banks to take advantage of the FHLB's wholesale financial services.

Since the FIRREA legislation, three commercial banks in Kentucky and two commercial banks in Ohio have become members of the FHLB of Cincinnati.

As a member and stockholder of the FHLB of Cincinnati, First City Bank is entitled to a quarterly dividend on its capital stock and has access to the FHLB's services, including credit products, check processing programs, investment and deposit accounts, community housing services and financial modeling products.

Robert B. Murfree, president and chief executive officer of First City Bank, commented: ''We are pleased to be the first commercial bank in Tennessee to join the FHLB of Cincinnati. Our association with the FHLB will enhance our mortgage lending growth. First City's focus remains on originating high-quality loans in the local markets of Middle Tennessee.''

First City Bank, an FDIC-insured, state-chartered commercial bank with over $152 million in assets, is the sole subsidiary of First City Bancorp Inc. First City Bank serves customers in Murfreesboro, Smyrna, Columbia and the Nashville suburb of Bellevue.

The common stock of First City Bancorp is traded over-the-counter in the National Market System under the NASDAQ Symbol CITY.

OCALA, FL (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Microdyne Corp. (NASDAQ:MCDY) announced its intention to sell Antennas For Communications (AFC) -- its wholly-owned subsidiary.

Negotiations are currently in process with several potential buyers.

AFC, which manufactures radomes, antennas, microwave components and shelters, accounted for approximately 10 percent of Microdyne's fiscal 1990 revenues; however, operating losses for AFC are projected to be approximately $1.4 million, substantially impacting the company's overall performance.

Kenneth Harple, Microdyne's president, stated, ''Although we feel that AFC has the potential to become a profitable operation, it is focused on markets that management has determined as not compatible with our long-term strategic plan. We believe it is in our shareholders' best interest to divest ourselves of this operation and we are taking steps that will accomplish this in early 1991.''

Microdyne will establish a reserve of approximately $1.8 million for the sale or discontinuance of AFC operations. The reserve will impact earnings in the recently concluded fourth quarter of fiscal 1990. The reserve, plus AFC's 1990 operating losses, will result in a significant net loss for Microdyne in 1990.

Harple further stated that, ''The company's continuing operations are at satisfactory profit levels and without AFC we expect that overall corporate profitability will be strong.''

WRIGHT PATTERSON AFB, OH (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - SofTech Inc. has recently been awarded a contract by the Wright Research and Development Center's Avionics Laboratory to enhance the Weapon Systems Interaction Modeling (WSIM) prototype model.

WSIM simulates the engagements between weapon systems with sufficient detail and fidelity to evaluate weapon systems performance in an Electronic Combat (EC) environment. This effort will enable the WSIM prototype to meet future trends and developments in the multi-spectral/multi-sensor arenas and advance the state-of-the-art for Object Oriented Ada simulations.

The WSIM prototype will directly support the Electronic Combat Simulation Research Laboratory's (ECSRL) Advanced Development Electronic Warfare programs and establish a core analytical capability as part of the Air Force EC test process.

The SofTech WSIM project addresses the interaction between Radio Frequency (RF) threats, integrated Electro-optical/Infared (EO/IR)RF threats, and EW countermeasure systems in Air Force combat engagements under a range of realistic environmental and operational conditions.

A continuing comprehensive program of Electronic Countermeasures (ECM) requirements analysis and modeling is needed to assess the effectiveness of proposed ECM systems. The innovative methodology will be employed for advanced development of defensive systems on platforms such as the B-1B, B-2, F-15, F-16, and ATF.

Founded in 1969, SofTech Inc.is a publicly-held company providing software design and development, systems engineering, and integration services to government agencies and commercial companies. Headquartered in Waltham, Mass., the company employs over 600 people in 18 locations throughout the United States.

DALLAS (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Southwest Airlines (NYSE: LUV) announced Nov. 30 that it has signed a five-year contract with its aircraft mechanics, aircraft cleaners, and stock clerks.

The agreement reached between the company and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers of America - Airline Division (Teamsters) provides for increased basic compensation and benefits during the term of the agreement, with additional possible compensation tied directly to the profitability of the corporation. The agreement is effective from Aug. 16, 1990, to Aug. 16, 1995.

Southwest Airlines Chairman of the Board, President and Chief Executive Officer Herbert D. Kelleher, said, "We are especially pleased to be able to announce this agreement of five years' duration which ensures that our employees will continue to be fairly compensated and the most productive employees in the industry. The length of the contract is indicative of the excellent relationship that exists among Southwest Airlines, our employees, and their Union."

TAMPA, FLA. (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - The company (formerly Larry's Ice Cream Inc.) announced that it will not have an office after the close of business Friday and that for all intents and purposes it will cease all operations at that time.

The lease with respect to the more than 20,000 square feet of former manufacturing and office space in Tampa, Fla. was terminated by court order in September 1990 for the failure to pay rent. The company had been able to temporarily continue to occupy a portion of the premises under an arrangement with its landlord, but that arrangement expired on Nov. 30.

The company also announced that it is considering the protections afforded by a bankruptcy petition, and that it expects to soon file the materials necessary to terminate its obligations to continue filing reports under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

TAMPA, FL (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Seahawk Deep Ocean Technology announced Friday that the Seahawk Retriever is back in Tampa, Fla., for the holidays early because of weather and Gulf Stream current problems.

According to President John Morris, the combination of currents and high winds pulled the 200-foot vessel off site, submerging and consequently imploding and sinking two of its mooring buoys.

The Seahawk Retriever had just returned to its shipwreck site 20 miles south of the Dry Tortugas to operationally test a second remotely-operated vehicle (ROV) to work as a helper to Merlin, the company's $2 million ROV which was custom designed for archaeological recovery of deep water wrecks. The Tortugas wreck site is 1,500 feet deep.

The combination of winds and currents prevented the testing of the two ROVs working together as well as any additional artifact recovery. To date, Merlin has recovered 28 gold bars, over 700 silver coins, over 3,000 pearls, three mariner's astrolabes, gold jewelry, over 40 clay "olive jars," and thousands of other artifacts. The full list of recovered artifacts is scheduled to be released in December following verification of inventory.

The Seahawk Retriever was originally scheduled to return to Tampa on Dec. 14 for the Christmas holidays and ship inspection and repair. The ship is scheduled to be ready to go back in early January, but its actual return to the site will be determined by weather and current conditions.

TAMPA, FL (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Silk Greenhouse Inc. of Florida filed for protection under Chapter 11 of U.S. Bankruptcy Code in the Middle District of Florida, Tampa Division, Friday morning.

Silk Greenhouse officials announced that they are currently discussing with their lendors the situation and the banks' providing debtor-in-possession financing. As the company discusses with its lendors such financing, it will be able to continue to operate from funds provided from continuing operations.

Silk Greenhouse had previously reported for the six months ended July 31 a loss of over $18.5 million. The company's continued shortfall in sales prevented the company from meeting its operating plans and resulted in the current cash flow problems.

As a result, the company was unable to adequately service its ongoing obligations to its creditors. ''As the softness in sales continued into the company's Christmas Season, it became apparent that the company was no longer able to meet its current obligations as they became due and necessitated our filing,'' said Silk Greenhouse President and Chief Executive Officer, B.B. Tuley.

''This filing, we believe, will give our vendors, landlords and other creditors the assurance they need to continue to work with us going forward.''

GLEN COVE, NY (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - At its annual shareholders' meeting Friday, Maurice G. Hardy, president and chief executive officer, discussed the outlook for the current fiscal year, which ends Aug. 3, 1991, and reported on first quarter sales and orders.

In discussing Pall's preparedness to meet the challenges of the new global market, Hardy commented that, ''We are responding with major changes in our technology and also with alliances with complementary specialist companies.

''We are completing a period of major investment, driven by the need to be ready for EC '92 and the opportunities of Asia -- and particularly of Japan, Korea and Southeast Asia.

''The bricks and mortar -- that is, the factory buildings -- are in place to satisfy the protectionist forces of Europe and North America and to give us most of the capacity to do a billion dollars in sales. Along with this, our management structure and a good deal of our infrastructure is in place to accommodate this growth. As a result, we look forward to gradual improvement in gross profit and in SG&A as a percent of sales over the next few years.''

Commenting on prospects for the current fiscal year, Hardy said, ''Some time ago, we developed a model of our goal for the year based on a 3 percent positive rate impact in currency translation. This resulted in a 16 percent increase in revenues over last year to $655 million.

''Our latest revision, at the beginning of this month, using a 6 percent currency increase model is for an 18 percent revenue increase broken down by market as follows:

	Sales FY 1990	Sales Goals FY 1991	Percent Increase
Pharmaceutical-Beverage	$ 118.9	$ 140.0	18 pct.
Hospital-Diagnostic	95.2	125.0	31 pct.
HEALTH CARE	214.1	265.0	24 pct.

SUGAR LAND, TEXAS (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - BMC Software Inc. (NASDAQ:BMCS) Friday announced that it has closed its acquisition of Integrity Solutions Inc., a privately held Littleton, Colo., company, in a stock-for-stock transaction.

BMC Software will account for the merger using the pooling of interests method and will issue approximately 300,000 shares of its common stock in the merger. Integrity Solutions Inc. is recognized as a leading supplier of data integrity products for CICS/VS and batch VSAM environments.

''The addition of Integrity Solutions will provide BMC with a comprehensive family of journal management and data recovery products for CICS/VS and batch VSAM environments to complement our base of DB2 and IMS products,'' said Max Watson, president and chief executive officer of BMC Software.

''Our customers will have a complete, single-vendor data recovery solution for strategic mainframe systems running under IMS and CICS.''

The staff of Integrity Soltuions will become a part of BMC Software's research and development team. Integrity Solutions founders Jerome Nickerson and Karl Schulz will remain at the Colorado development office as product architects.

Integrity Solutions will continue to market their products until the end of the year when BMC will repackage and enhance the products as part of an expanded worldwide marketing effort.

''The alignment of BMC and Integrity Solutions is a very positive move for both companies,'' said Jerome Nickerson, Integrity Solutions CEO. ''We will benefit by having the larger resources of BMC Software which will allow the product line to expand quickly.

''Also, Integrity Solutions staff will continue to develop and support the products from Littleton, Colorado, assuring the high quality of development and product support for which we have been known.''

BMC Software Inc., an international company headquartered in the Houston suburb of Sugar Land, develops, markets and supports systems software products to enhance IBM's database management and data communication systems, principally IMS, DB2 and CICS. BMC currently markets a total of 42 products to customers in 42 markets.

NEW ALBANY, IND (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Larry W. Burke, president and chief executive officer of Robinson Nugent Inc. (OTC:RNIC), and the Indiana-ASEAN Council jointly announced Friday in Indianopolis, that Robinson Nugent Inc. and its partner, Microtronics Holding Pte Ltd., had formed a joint venture company located in Singapore to produce Robinson Nugent electronic connectors.

Operations are to commence on Dec. 1, 1990. Microtronics Associates, a division of Microtronics Holding Pte Ltd., has distributed Robinson Nugent products in Sinapore for over 10 years.

The new company, RN-Microtronics Pte Ltd., is chartered to manfacture Robinson Nugent products to serve principally Singapore and the Southeast Asian markets. Robinson Nugent will provide product design, engineering support, and manufacturing technologies. Microtronics will oversee day-to-day operations and provide marketing and sales support.

Larry Burke, in his discussions, said: ''This new joint venture operation is a major step to expansion into Asia. It is our strategic direction to have local manufacturing in each of the major markets we serve. Prior to this time Robinson Nugent had served Singapore and the other Southeast Asian countries from manufacturing facilities in the U.S. and Europe.

''Our presence in Singapore under this strategic alliance will present us with the opportunity to better meet the needs of our major customers in the region and to capture new business. We have determined the high growth Singapore market is best served by local manufacturing and engineering support. The new company has been structured to meet these needs.''

Robinson Nugent Inc. designs, manufactures, and markets electronic connectors, integrated circuit sockets and cable assemblies. Its products are sold throughout the world for use by manufactures of computers, telecommunications equipment, automobiles and industrial controls, and a wide variety of other products to interconnect components of electronic systems.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - November 30, 1990 -- Rawlings

Sporting Goods Company, a division of Figgie International Inc., today announced the consolidation of its baseball manufacturing operations in Costa Rica.

The action will result in the company closing its plant in Port-au-Prince, Haiti, effective November 30, 1990. Rawlings, the official supplier of baseballs to the Major Leagues, has been supplying balls from its Haitian and Costa Rican facilities to both the American and National Leagues for the last two seasons. All the baseballs used in the 1990 World Series were manufactured in Costa Rica.

The company said all of its baseball manufacturing operations will now be handled at the company's Costa Rica facility. Rawlings opened the Costa Rican plant in 1987 following a comprehensive multi-year relocation study to establish a new source for baseball production and assure product continuity and delivery to the Major Leagues and other customers.

Rawlings attributed the unstable manufacturing environment in Haiti dating back to the long Duvalier family dictatorship as a major factor in its decision to relocate its baseball manufacturing operations.

The company said that serious concerns about continued operations in Haiti because of its unstable political climate have existed since the very early 1980s. The company discontinued Haitian production of baseball gloves in 1986 and clothing in 1989.

Haiti has served as the company's primary source for baseball production during the last two decades. This move represents the fourth time baseball production has been relocated in the last 30 years.

Figgie International is a diversified Fortune 500 company serving consumer, technical, industrial and service markets worldwide. Sales in 1989 were $1.3 billion.

LAWRENCEVILLE, N.J. (NOV. 30) BUSINESS WIRE - Multi Soft Inc. (NASDAQ:MSOF) announced Friday that Help System s.a.l. has signed an agreement that grants the Madrid-based firm exclusive distribution rights in Spain and Portugal for the INFRONT family of cooperative processing and software re-engineering products.

''We are very pleased to represent Multi Soft and its fine products in Spain '' commented Adolfo Campos, Help System's Managing Director.

''As PCs proliferate in Europe, many of our clients tell us that their existing mainframe applications do not meet their current business needs. Users are demanding that data processing departments give them PC-style interfaces to those applications. We found that Multi Soft's INFRONT software offers us the most-comprehensive set of tools available to meet those needs.''

''INFRONT is a complete programmer's workbench that makes cooperative processing applications easy to build and use,'' said Jon Rubin, Multi Soft's Director of Reseller and International Operations. ''Help System chose INFRONT because of our reputation for helping international corporations gain a competitive advantage through increased programmer and terminal operator productivity.''

Charles J. Lombardo, chairman of Multi Soft, noted, ''We look forward for the very best firms overseas as we expand our presence there. This contract with Help System is one more important step in our goal of providing complete coverage of Europe with our pace-setting products.''

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows on Nov. 7, 1990, Children's Creative Workshop Ltd. entered an agreement with its president, Bernard Tessler, selling and transferring to Tessler 92.5% of all of the outstanding common stock of its subsidiary, CRCW Combination Corp.

The transaction was in consideration for Tessler retiring 8.33 million shares of Children's common stock into treasury.

The company retained 7.5% of the CRCW common stock outstanding as of Nov. 7, 1990.

In other news, Tessler resigned his position as president and a director of the company, and Phillip Baird also voluntarily resigned as a director.

As a result, the company now has only two remaining directors, and it reports a change of control.

Additionally, Barney Rosset, vice president of Children's, entered an agreement with the company to retire 1.59 million shares of common stock into treasury.

Its telephone number is (212) 505-6880.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows that completion of a modified plan of reorganization of the company will result in a change of control.

The company filed the modified plan under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

Pursuant to that plan, the company will issue 4.84 million shares of its common stock to holders of the company's outstanding 13-1/2% senior subordinated debentures, due in 1997 upon their surrender by the holders.

New shares to be issued to debenture holders will represent 82.35% of the new shares on a fully diluted basis.

The company will issue 184,948 new shares to holders of its common stock, in what amounts to a 25-for-1 reverse stock split.

This will occur upon surrender of the certificates representing the shares by the holders thereof.

New shares to be issued will represent 3.15% of the new shares on a fully diluted basis.

Additionally, Circle will reserve 851,350 new shares for issuance pursuant to options granted as of the effective date to management of the company and its operating subsidiaries and to Compton Management Corp, which will provide management services to the company.

TOKYO (NOV. 30) - The Japanese government said Friday it wanted to make next week's GATT talks in Brussels a success.

"It is important for Japan, which has made rapid economic development under the multilateral free trade system, to further expand free trade by ending the talks in success," the country's cabinet ministers pledged in a statement.

Foreign Minister Taro Nakayama said the same day that "if the Uruguay Round does not come to a successful conclusion, the harmful effects on the international community will be immeasurable."

Ministers of member countries of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) are to gather in Brussels November 3-7 to wrap up the four-year-old trade talks aimed at setting the framework of a free trade system.

Mr. Nakayama, who later left Japan to attend the talks, stressed the importance of establishing new rules in services, intellectual property rights, trade-related investment measures and market access, aside from maintaining existing GATT rules.

He dismissed protectionist moves, citing the Super 301 clause of the United States Trade Act and exclusive regionalism.

While acknowledging difficulties in resolving issues such as agriculture and services, Mr. Nakayama failed to mention Japan's rice market whose liberalization the United States is demanding.

SINGAPORE (NOV. 30) - Singapore will see the arrival of the 54th international airline to operate services to its Changi Airport when Gulf Air lands here on Saturday.

The Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore (CAAS) said in a press release Friday that the new air link here was "timely as it will fill the void created by other international carriers which have reduced their Gulf stops and consequently reduced the available capacity for Gulf passengers."

The flag carrier of Bahrain, Qatar, Oman and the United Arab Emirates (UAE) will operate two flights weekly on the Bahrain-Singapore-Sydney route and vice versa using Boeing 767 aircraft.

The inaugural flight comes after Singapore and Bahrain signed a liberal air services agreement in February 1988 which allows the airlines of both countries to operate seven Boeing 747 services weekly with full traffic rights.

Similar agreements have also been concluded between the island republic and Qatar, Oman and the UAE, the aviation authority added.

Gulf Air becomes the fourth airline from the Gulf and Middle East regions to operate to Changi airport, after Saudi Arabian Airlines, Royal Jordanian and Emirates.

Singapore is now linked by air to 109 cities in 54 countries.

TOKYO (NOV. 30) - Japan recorded a 5.98 billion dollar trade surplus in October, up from 5.48 billion dollars in the corresponding month a year ago, the Finance Ministry said Friday.

Exports during the 12-month period rose 15.9 per cent to 26.002 billion dollars, while imports climbed 18.1 per cent to 20.016 billion dollars, the ministry said.

The balance on current account, which includes transfers and services as well as export earnings, slipped back to 2.73 billion dollars from 3.73 billion dollars 12 months ago.

Inflation rose 3.5 percent in October over the corresponding month of the previous year, according to official statistics released Friday. It was the highest increase since December 1981.

Officials said a major factor fueling inflation was higher prices for petrol and other petroleum products.

Japan's jobless rate in October was 2.2 percent after seasonal adjustments, unchanged from September, the government Management and Coordination Agency announced.

The number of the people without work rose to around 1.39 million from 1.38 million in September and 1.37 million in the same month a year earlier, the agency said.

LONDON (NOV. 30) - The price of Brent North Sea oil dropped 70 cents in early trading Friday in spite of a U.N. Security Council vote calling on Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait by January 15 or face the use of force.

Brent oil was trading at 32.25 dollars a barrel for delivery in January compared with 32.95 dollars at the close Thursday.

A trader for Kleinwort Benson said since the Security Council decision had been expected it had given the market time to adjust in advance.

Brent oil had risen three dollars a barrel last Monday.

The vote "makes war more likely but no more imminent", the trader added.

The market expects war to break out "in the middle of January at the earliest" and no longer "at any moment", he said.

KUALA LUMPUR (NOV. 30) - Malaysian crude palm oil prices have surged to a two-year-high of around 850 Malaysian dollars (315 U.S.) a ton, boosted by speculative activities, dealers said Friday.

Dealers said that the uptrend started in late October following short-covering here by refiners and in Rotterdam, the Netherlands, because of fears that coconut oil production in the Philippines could be affected by a typhoon.

Another factor was a November 15 report by the Palm Oil Registration and Licensing Authority that Malaysia's total palm oil stocks fell 3.93 per cent to 900,934 tons in October from September.

Also encouraging were Pakistan's purchase of 12,000 tons of processed palm oil on Wednesday and a forecast of lower soyabean production next year.

Some planters are saying that prices could hit 1,000 dollars (370 U.S.) a ton during the low crop month early next year, but dealers said the forecast was too optimistic because of an expected decline in demand next month.

"A lot of refiners are going to operate on lower capacity in December," a dealer said.

He added that the prices were quite high at the current level. "If it goes any higher, it will chase away consumers," he said.

Dealers also expected producers to take advantage of still bullish sentiment to sell forward.

MANILA (NOV. 30) - Filipinos lined up at gasoline stations across the capital for the second day Friday amid anticipation of an impending increase in fuel prices.

The panic-buying was an apparent reaction to reports Thursday that the government had complied with demands by the International Monetary Fund (IMF) to raise fuel retail prices.

Earlier this week, some gasoline stations had complained that they were exhausting their weekly supplies earlier than usual while the oil companies were tardy in sending new supplies.

Energy officials however denied that there was any shortage of fuel but admitted that there had been a stoppage in the pipeline of a local refinery. The stoppage had been cleared and regular gasoline deliveries would resume, they added.

Gasoline station owners interviewed in the city said Friday they had enough supplies and were not limiting purchases.

The government previously shortened the operating hours of gasoline stations and limited the amount they could purchase weekly as part of measures to stretch out the fuel supply amid fears of rising international oil prices caused by the Gulf crisis.

Beirut (NOV. 30) - Traumatised by the hardships of living in Beirut and by a legacy of failed ceasefire agreements that marked their country's civil war, Lebanese distrust the promise of peace as militias pull out of their capital.

''They can return as easily as they've gone'', noted Marcel Abu-Chakra, 25, as he watched from his balcony in East Beirut long columns of Christian militia tanks and trucks withdrawing to the city outskirts.

The Lebanese government is pressing ahead with a peace plan that would rid Beirut of all militias and restore stability here after 15 years of civil strife that have claimed over 150,000 lives.

All Moslem militias have already moved out of the city. Some withdrew to the southern region, others to the Druze Chouf Mountains and the rest to eastern Lebanon.

The powerful Christian Lebanese Forces militia has announced it pulled out 1,200 tons of military hardware to its northern strongholds and said it will complete withdrawal from the city by the weekend.

President Elias Hrawi on Friday invited the warring militia leaders to abandon fighting and join a new national unity government to be shortly formed under his leadership.

NEW DELHI (NOV. 30) - India's new commerce minister strongly opposes import cuts to help stave off a balance of payments crisis, saying the government should approach a variety of foreign creditors for loans instead.

Subramaniam Swamy told The Economic Times in an interview published Friday that India needed three billion to four billion dollars "right away" to overcome difficulties created by depleted foreign exchange reserves.

But he said he did not favour suggestions from some quarters of cuts in imports of industrial raw materials and components, which have aroused concern in import-dependent businesses, as a solution.

"If the country is facing a foreign exchange crisis, we should exercise the option of a loan instead of a cut in imports," the former Harvard economist was quoted as saying.

He said he favored slashing imports of consumer luxury items, however.

He said he had told Prime Minister Chandra Shekhar that India should look for loans.

"I think we can get bilateral loans from the Arabs, Japan and some loan from the International Monetary Fund (IMF)," said the commerce minister, who left for Brussels Thursday to take part in the final round of GATT negotiations.

"After that we will have elbow room," Mr. Swamy said. "Such assistance should be linked in some way to exports so that we can make easy payments and avoid a debt problem."

SOFIA (NOV. 30) - Bulgaria's socialist-dominated parliament Friday accepted the resignation of Prime Minister Andrei Lukanov and his government of former communists.

The resignation was approved by 316 deputies while 43 voted against and 16 abstained.

Mr. Lukanov stepped down Thursday after a meeting with President Zhelio Zhelev and leaders of political parties where it was agreed to set up a transition government headed by a premier who came from neither the Socialist Party of reformed communists nor the opposition Union of Democratic Forces (UDF).

"The agreement on the formation of a national transition government is a genuine chance for Bulgaria", Mr. Lukanov said. Not abiding by it could lead to "a new political crisis with unforeseeable consequences", he warned.

Mr. Lukanov said that his resignation which came on the fourth day of a general strike was not due to the pressure of public opinion.

The situation in Sofia was back to normal early Friday, but students were still striking. On Thursday demonstrators had disrupted all traffic in the capital by setting up roadblocks on major crossings.

President Zhelev said early parliamentary elections would probably be held next May, the daily of the official union organization Trud said Friday.

Mr. Zhelev, who was elected earlier this year on a UDF ticket, said the current parliament would continue work until March before being dissolved.

He felt there was a "good chance" that some key new laws would be adopted by the end of the year and that the new constitution would be adopted by next March.

SINGAPORE (NOV. 30) - Singapore Airlines (SIA) and British Airways (BA) Friday signed an agreement for cooperation in air cargo systems development which will bring Asia and Europe closer together.

The agreement represented a significant move by the two airlines to work together in providing the infrastructure for cooperation in electronic cargo tracking, space reservations and other vital cargo functions, SIA said in a statement.

The airlines will develop an an electronic link-up between SIA's FORSC system in Singapore and BA's CARAT system in Britain.

Huang Cheng Eng, SIA's Cargo Manager (Worldwide), said the link-up would benefit the cargo agents who "will continue to be our main customers accounting for more than 90 percent of our cargo revenue out of Singapore."

Mr. Huang said the airlines would update each other's cargo systems with the latest information on the status of their shipments in places where one airline handled the other.

Both countries would be brought closer together via each other's cargo computer systems and both airlines' cargo divisions would participate in a Cargo Community Systems in their respective home bases, he added.

Both airlines also believed that the development of a sophisticated Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) would contribute to the future success in marketing air cargo capacity.

Denis Connolly, BA's senior cargo manager for the Far East, said the cooperation demonstrated the carriers' commitment to air cargo business and that BA looked forward to continued success together in developing EDI opportunities.

Cargo traffic load between the two countries amounted to 16,653 tons for the first nine months of the year while for September alone, there was a five percent increase over the same month last year to 2,045 tons.

Mr. Huang said both carriers set a milestone in 1988 when they started a joint weekly Boeing 747 freighter service between Singapore and London.

The two carriers also signed in 1989 an air services agreement which grants BA rights to use Singapore's Changi Airport as a regional hub to other destinations in the region.

GENEVA (NOV. 30) - The first new drug in 40 years has been found to treat African sleeping sickness, the World Health Organisation (Who) announced Friday.

Called Ornidyl, the drug has been used successfully to treat more than 600 people infected with the West African variety of the disease, formally known as African trypanosomiasis. Most of them were near death.

The Who estimates the drug can save about 3,000 patients a year. The disease, which affects an estimated 25,000 people annually, is fatal if untreated.

Ornidyl, which has fewer side effects when administered intravenously, costs about 140 dollars for a two-week dosage. The American pharmaceutical company Marion Merrell Dow will distribute it at cost to hospitals and health centers in Africa.

African sleeping sickness is caused by parasites transmitted by tsetse flies. The disease occurs in scattered areas throughout sub-Saharan Africa. The Who estimates that over 50 million people in 36 countries are at risk of contracting the disease.

The onset of sleeping sickness is characterized by malaise, fatigue and low fever followed by symptoms including somnolence, high fever, joint pains, swollen tissues and enlarged liver and spleens. When the parasites invade the central nervous system, patients experience mental deterioration, seizures, coma and death.

Until Ornidyl, originally developed as a potential therapy for cancer, all available drugs to treat sleeping sickness had serious shortcomings. dpa ob 301237 nov 90

FUKUOKA, Japan (NOV. 30) - Japanese businessmen called Friday for new trade and investment strategies for the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) to reflect Japan's growing economic ties with the region.

"We want ASEAN nations to reach the same level as us," Nissan Motor Co. Ltd. chairman Takashi Ishihara told a news conference. "Otherwise we cannot export high value-added items to the United States and Europe."

Mr. Ishihara, speaking at the end of an annual meeting of Japanese and ASEAN businessmen in Fukuoka, noted that simmering trade disputes had forced Japanese firms to limit their export growth to the United States and Europe.

"So we have to increase our exports to ASEAN countries," the head of Japan's second-biggest carmaker said. "But in turn, we have to import more manufactured goods from ASEAN."

ASEAN groups Indonesia, Thailand, the Philippines, Malaysia, Singapore and Brunei.

Mr. Ishihara, who chairs the Japan Association of Corporate Executives, also urged Japanese firms to do more to promote local employees, a major complaint among the 80 participants from ASEAN at the two-day meeting.

"We have to promote local staff. If there's no promotion, we can't internationalise," he said.

Other criticism of Japanese business practices focussed on the reluctance of companies to procure local parts and the tendency of Southeast Asians educated in Japan to work for European or American rather than Japanese firms.

Some of the 70 Japanese participants, however, were surprisingly frank in admitting their shortcomings.

"Japanese companies do not invest in nurturing staff," admitted Nobuo Tateisi, deputy chairman of Omron Corp., Japan's biggest producer of control components with extensive activities in Malaysia.

Mr. Tateisi also noted that a recent survey in Singapore did not list a single Japanese company among the most popular foreign firms to work for.

KUALA LUMPUR (NOV. 30) - The Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) will mount a mission to explain its forest management policies in the United States, Australia and Japan next year, a top Indonesian official said here Friday.

Forestry Minister Hasjrul Harahap, who led ASEAN's first forestry mission to the European Economic Community last month, said the missions were to ensure that laws imposing constraints on imports of tropical timber were not enacted.

Mr. Harahap was speaking at a news conference at the end of a two-day ministerial meeting of the Malaysia-Indonesia joint working committee on forestry here.

ASEAN groups Malaysia and Indonesia with Brunei, the Philippines, Singapore and Thailand.

Western environmentalists have blamed loggers in Malaysia and Indonesia for the destruction of tropical rainforests and have lobbied for a boycott of tropical hardwoods.

ASEAN officials have, however, said the anti-tropical timber campaign was a protectionist measure backed by softwood producers.

Mr. Harahap said ASEAN countries should divert their timber exports to markets in the Soviet Union, China and India if the protectionist acts of Western countries were prolonged.

Malaysian Primary Industries Minister Lim Keng Yaik told the same news conference that Malaysia and Indonesia had agreed to cooperate on projects to encourage greater use of non-wood forest resources.

Some of the products named were rattan, bamboo, honey, mushroom, resins and essential oils, fruits and medicinal plants.

Mr. Harahap said Indonesia had offered to train Malaysians in bee-keeping at its national apiculture centre.

NEWARK, New Jersey (NOV. 30) - A former U.S. soldier born in Kuwait was being detained in a New York jail on charges of plotting to kill President George Bush and attack military installations.

According to court papers published here Thursday, Jamal Mohamed Warrayat, 32, revealed his plan to assassinate the president, Secretary of State James Baker and members of Congress to an undercover FBI agent.

Mr. Warrayat, speaking in Arabic, also told the FBI agent in August that he planned to attack military installations in North Carolina and Texas.

"At this point in time there is no evidence to show that any foreign government promoted or assisted in this activity," U.S. Attorney Michael Chertoff said Thursday. He decline to elaborate.

Mr. Warrayat was held without bail at the Metropolitan Correctional Center in New York. If convicted, he faces up to 10 years in prison and a 500,000-dollar fine.

His defense lawyer, Terence Scott, said his client had denied the charges.

Mr. Warrayat moved to the United States in the 1970s and finished a four-year stint in the Army in 1979. He had worked as a taxi driver until recently and was unemployed at the time of his arrest Tuesday.

DELITZSCH, Germany (NOV. 30) - West German sugar producers are to invest two billion Deutsche marks (1.3 billion dollars) in eastern Germany, Agriculture Minister Ignaz Kiechle said here Friday.

All of the sugar refineries in former East Germany date from before World War II, he said, according to an ADN agency report.

By way of comparison, he said, the 38 refineries in western Germany have a payroll of 9,000 and produce around three million tons of sugar per year, while in the east, the 41 refineries have a workforce of 15,000, producing only 900,000 tons per year.

In a first step, a third of the east German capacity is to be taken over by Suedzucker AG of western Germany, the largest sugar producer in Europe, under an agreement announced earlier this week. The value of the deal, and any details of job losses, have not been disclosed.

The European Economic Community (EEC) has given eastern producers a quota of 847,000 tons per year, a figure that Mr. Kiechle described as a good starting point for the industry.

Bonn has also been given permission to make exceptional aid of 320 million marks (213 million dollars) to the industry over the next two years.

The EEC sugar industry has been through difficult times in recent years because of declining public demand for its product and rising use of artificial sweeteners. Aid to the industry is closely monitored by the EEC's executive Commission in Brussels.

Baghdad (NOV. 30) - The last Swedish hostages in Iraq, numbering about 50, were flown out Friday along with five Finns whose release was negotiated by two former Finnish ministers.

However, at least three more Finns remained in Iraq after being refused exit visas. The two ex-ministers, Paavo Vaeyrynen and Ulf Sundqvist, said they had not signed any ''peace declaration'' of the kind said to have been signed by a Belgian parliamentary delegation.

The Iraqi National Assembly had approved Monday the release of all remaining Swedish hostages in Iraq. The assembly agreed later Thursday to allow all Belgians held in Iraq to leave the country. Twelve had still been refused permission.

A flight taking them out of Iraq was expected to leave Sunday, after bringing in medical supplies. Finland was also reported to have promised to send in medicines.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has in the past weeks ordered the release of hundreds of foreign nationals held as ''human shields'' to guard against reprisal attacks by U.S. forces and their allies over the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait on August 2.

There are as many as 2,000 foreigners, including about 900 Americans, believed held against their will in Iraq and Iraqi-annexed Kuwait.

TOKYO (NOV. 30) - Japan's net sales of foreign securities almost doubled to 2.7 million dollars in October, boosting the country's surplus in long-term capital transactions to an all-time high, the finance ministry said Friday.

The surplus in the long-term capital account - securities transactions, direct investment, certain trade credits and loans - expanded from the previous high of 5.7 billion dollars in September to 7.1 billion dollars.

Japanese investors became less interested in U.S. securities due to the uncertain economic situation in that country and smaller interest rate gap between the two countries, a ministry official said.

The official also blamed the Gulf crisis for pushing down world stock prices, thus discouraging Japanese investments abroad.

Japanese transactions in foreign securities swung to a net sales in September for the first time in six months at 1.4 billion dollars.

Net Japanese sales of foreign stocks rose from one billion dollars to 1.2 billion dollars, and net bond sales grew from 1.5 billion dollars to 1.9 billion dollars.

But Japanese investors remained net buyers of yen-denominated bonds issued by non-residents, although net purchase contracted from 1.2 billion dollars to 370 million dollars.

Foreign investors stayed as net buyers of Japanese securities, with net buying of Japanese bonds dipping from 1.91 billion dollars to 1.89 billion and purchase of bonds issued abroad by Japanese falling from 4.2 billion dollars to 3.6 billion dollars.

But foreigners sold more Japanese stocks than buying, with net sales falling sharply from 1.6 billion dollars to 54 million dollars.

HONG KONG (NOV. 30) - Asian governments Friday backed a U.N. Security Council resolution authorizing military action to remove Iraqi troops from Kuwait but reiterated calls for a peaceful settlement to the crisis.

The Security Council voted Thursday -- with Cuba and Yemen voting against and permanent member China abstaining -- to authorize the use of force against Iraq if it fails to withdraw from Kuwait by January 15.

Japan, Thailand, Australia and Taiwan backed the measure, while Philippine President Corazon Aquino told her country to brace for further economic hardship in the event of a military confrontation in the Gulf.

In New York, Chinese Foreign Minister Qian Qichen said China's abstention reflected Beijing's desire for a peaceful solution, but the resolution was not vetoed because it also demanded that Iraq comply with all previous resolutions for which China had voted.

"The peaceful option may take longer, but the cost will be well lower and the consequences less serious than a solution that involves resorting to force," Mr. Qian said.

In Tokyo, chief cabinet secretary Misoji Sakamoto said: "Japan appreciates the efforts made so far by the Security Council for a solution of the Gulf crisis, and supports this resolution as it strengthens the said efforts."

Tokyo "demands once again that Iraq, taking this resolution as its final opportunity, implement the relevant Security Council resolutions promptly," Mr. Sakamoto said.

Japan also wants Iraq to "withdraw from Kuwait and release all the foreign nationals immediately and unconditionally, so that Iraq will not be confronted with a really grave situation," he said.

But he added that Japan "will maintain an earnest hope right up to the last moment that the crisis will be settled peacefully."

Japanese Premier Toshiki Kaifu said Japan's policy of seeking a peaceful settlement would remain unchanged and that he hoped Iraq would accept the resolution as an ultimatum by the international body.

In Kuala Lumpur, Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad of Malaysia -- a non-permanent member of the Security Council -- said his government could not condone "strong nations invading or annexing small nations."

PARIS (NOV. 30) - Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati will visit France from December 5-7 for talks with French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas, it was confirmed here Friday.

Relations between the two countries have improved markedly over the last few months in the wake of the European Economic Community decision last month to lift sanctions imposed on Teheran in February 1989 over the Salman Rushdie affair.

The sanctions were imposed after late Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini sentenced the British author to death over his book "The Satanic Verses" judged blasphemous to Islam.

The EEC decided to lift them afer Teheran agreed to conform to a U.N. embargo against Iraq following Baghdad's invasion of Kuwait on August 2.

Industry Minister Roger Fauroux visited Teheran in mid-October after which both sides called for their differences to be settled.

Negotiations over financial differences are still a stumbling block. Iran is seeking outstanding sums plus interest on a billion dollar loan made by the late Shah to the Atomic Energy Commission for a uranium enriching plant. France, in return, is seeking compebnsation from Iran for broken contracts after the Islamic republic was founded.

Mr. Dumas last visited Teheran in February 1989.

PARIS (NOV. 30) - France has called on other EEC nations to join a French plea to Chinese authorities for leniency for detained pro-democracy militants, a foreign ministry spokesman said here Friday.

Six prominent Chinese intellectuals and students including student leader Wang Dan, arrested when the army put down demonstrations in Beijing last year have been charged with "counter-revolutionary activities" and are to stand trial within the next months.

The spokesman said France proposed that the 12-nation European Economic Community contact Chinese authorities to ask for leniency for those indicted.

The EEC has already made it clear that it wants human rights in China to be enforced, he added.

The EEC decided last month to lift a number of sanctions imposed after last year's crackdown.

TOULOUSE, France (NOV. 30) - Japan Air System (JAS) on Friday ordered two more Airbus A300-600 R craft for delivery in April and September, 1993, Airbus Industrie said in a statement from its headquarters here.

The new contract brings to nine the number of A300-600 R craft ordered by JAS, which also has an option to buy seven more, the Airbus consortium said.

JAS, which will take delivery of the first of these craft next April, plans to use the A300-600 R on its domestic and regional lines to boost its current fleet of 16 A300 B2 and B4 aircraft.

The Airbus models ordered by JAS will have 308 single-class seats. The planes will be powered by Pratt and Whitney PW4158 jet engines.

Airbus Industrie currently has 667 orders for A300A310 aircraft from 78 clients. So far 514 have been delivered.

WINDHOEK (NOV. 30) - Namibia Friday increased the maximum penalty for elephant and rhino poaching to 20 years imprisonment or a fine of 200,000 rands (79,687 dollars) -- or both.

In terms of a bill adopted in the National Assembly here people convicted of poaching or trading in products from other specially protected game species like mountain zebras and giraffes face a maximum fine of 20,000 rands (7,968 dollars) or six years in jail.

Namibia has an elephant population of 6,000 and the largest single population of black rhinos -- 450 -- in the world.

Namibia's Conservation Minister Nico Bessinger said here Friday that the government's long term objective was to deal with the social aspects of poaching and to educate the public.

"That is the long term solution ... until that is implemented one has no choice but to have necessary legislation that would act as a deterrent to poachers", Mr. Bessinger said.

Africa's rhino population has declined from more than 65,000 in 1970 to 3,400 this year and in a bid to discourage poachers, Namibian conservation authorities have embarked on a programme to remove the horns of rhinos.

Most rhinos are killed for their horns which is regarded as a powerful aphrodisiac in the East.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) - President George Bush will address the nation on the Gulf crisis at 11:00 a.m. (1600 GMT) Friday following the U.N. vote Thursday authorizing the use of force to dislodge Iraqi troops from Kuwait, the White House announced.

After the televised speech and questions from reporters, Mr. Bush will consult with leaders of Congress at the White House on the Security Council resolution White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

Shortly after the 12-to-2 vote at the United Nations, Mr. Bush hailed the U.S.-sponsored resolution, which he said would give Iraqi President Saddam Hussein a strong indication of how determined the international coalition in the Gulf was to put an end to his aggression in neighboring Kuwat.

Mr. Bush, however, said he hoped the U.N. resolution would lead to a peaceful resolution of the Gulf crisis.

BERLIN (NOV. 30) - Demolition workers Friday pulled down the last part of the 32-kilometre wall which once divided Berlin, leaving just three small sections preserved for historic interest.

The last section to come tumbling down was near Schoenholz suburban rail station in the city's Reinickendorf district, a city construction department spokesman said.

The three sections of the wall being preserved are in Bernauer Strasse - scene of dramatic escapes when the wall was first being built in August 1961 - at the Invaliden Cemetery and near the imposing Martin Gropius Building, a city centre art museum.

The spokesman said about half the 160-kilometre wall which enclosed the perimeter of the former West Berlin had also been demolished.

The work, being carried out by former East German border guards who once patrolled the wall, was expected to be finished by the end of next year.

More than 300,000 tons of demolished wall had been crushed for re-use as gravel for street surfacing, the spokesman said.

NAIROBI (NOV. 30) - South African foreign minister Roelof ''Pik'' Botha was due in Nairobi Friday for talks with Kenyan President Daniel arap Moi in the highest level contact between the two governments for 27 years.

No official mention was made of what Botha and Moi were to discuss, but was likely the two would focus on establishing air links between their countries.

Moi said in October that he would not allow any South African Airways flights to Kenya until the apartheid political system was abolished.

When it gained its independence from Britain in 1963, Kenya cut all commerical cultural and political ties with South Africa, although many European airlines stop over in Nairobi en route to South Africa.

The decision to renew direct flights between Kenya and South Africa was first mentioned in September, following a visit to Nairobi by a South African trade official.

COPENHAGEN (NOV. 30) - Soviet citizens fleeing famine will not be granted asylum in Denmark, Danish Prime Minister Poul Schluter has said here.

Mr. Schluter, speaking to the press as part of his campaign as a conservative for an early general election on December 12, said: "Soviets, including Baltic people, fleeing the threat of famine in the Soviet Union, will not receive asylum in Denmark."

He said that "the refugees from the Soviet Union are not victims of political persecution and consequently cannot benefit from the right to asylum".

Mr. Schluter rejected the idea of launching a Danish food-aid programme for the Soviet Union to prevent a flood of starving Soviet refugees, and said that he preferred "to wait for a joint initiative along these lines by the European Economic Community (EEC)".

Justice Minister Hans Engell told a press conference that "Denmark will not grant asylum for social reasons to Soviets and to other nationalities of central and eastern Europe".

He said that he was inclined to "expel candidates for immigration in short order, even on the day of their arrival".

Noting that Denmark was experiencing an unemployment rate of about 10 per cent of the workforce or 275,000 people, which was one of the highest levels in western Europe, he said that Denmark "will not open its frontiers to immigration under these conditions".

But he said that "tourists are welcome provided that they do not intend to seek asylum in Denmark".

Paris (NOV. 30) - Eastern Europe needs huge and prompt injections of foreign capital and radical economic reforms without delay, experts said here Friday at the close of a conference held by the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development.

''The task which faces these countries is getting bigger and bigger. You definitely cannot say they are over the worst,'' said one economist at the conference.

An economic collapse in the Soviet Union would add to the problems of the other eastern European nations which all still depend on the Soviets for trade, concurred the experts.

''Capital has to flow from west to east, or else you'll have labour moving from east to west,'' said German Professor Herbert Giersch, former head of the prestigious Kiel Institute of the World Economy, in an interview.

The conference considered that eastern European governments should push ahead with the transition from a communist to a free-market economy by ending price controls, privatising industry and adapting to the world marketplace.

The experts said those governments should not be deterred by the hardship that would hit low-income earners through such policies.

LONDON (NOV. 30) - An upsurge in tanker demand was seen in the Middle East Gulf over the past week, prompting an increase in rates, London brokers E.A. Gibson said Friday in their weekly report.

This was due to charterers scrambling for supplies, as fears of war were increased by the U.N. resolution authorising the use of force against Irak if it has not withdrawn from Kuwait by January 15.

Thirty vessels, approximating to 8 million deadweight tonnes of cargo, were fixed during the week. This leaves only some 46 vessels, or 13 million tonnes of cargo, available for the balance of the year.

In contrast an over-abundance of tonnage in West Africa, combined with a slight reduction in enquiry, resulted in rates declining.

Lower rates were also seen in the Mediterranean, in the Caribbeans and in the North Sea.

JERUSALEM (NOV. 30) - Israel's former defense minister and the Labor Party's number two, Yitzhak Rabin, said Friday his country should not dismiss a possible federal agreement with a future Palestine.

Speaking to a group of Labor doves at Beit Berl near Tel Aviv, Rabin said he was opposed to a "rewriting of the peace model with Egypt, with Arab factors in the region," as proposed by the ruling Likud government. He added that Likud's aim is "to sidestep the Palestinian problem but it won't work."

He was referring to the previous Likud administration of Menachem Begin which in March 1979 signed the Camp David accords with Egypt under U.S. auspices.

The agreement provided for Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai peninsula. But a second accord, which has not been implemented, calls for "autonomy" for Palestinians in the occupied territories.

In another meeting, this time with Labor hardliners on Thursday in the Tel Avi suburb of Ramat Gan, the party's leader Shimon Peres blasted doves Arie Eliav and Yossi Beilin, whom he charged with wanting to change the party's program banning talks with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"We will not hold talks with (PLO chairman Yasser) Arafat, the friend of Saddam Hussein. We've never accepted to talk to the PLO in the past and we have no intention to do so now," he said. He added that Arabs from the occupied territories should not be pinned to the wall, "we must provide them an outlet instead, a dialogue."

TAIF, SAUDI ARABIA (NOV. 30) - Kuwait's government-in-exile Friday joined other countries in welcoming the U.N. Security Council resolution which authorized the use of military force against Iraq if it does not withdraw its troops from Kuwait by Jan. 15.

Kuwaiti Crown Prince and Prime Minister Sheikh Saad al-Abdullah as-Sabah said the ''historic resolution'' was a victory for ''right, justice and peace''.

In a statement carried by the Kuwaiti News Agency (Kuna), Saad said: ''The resolution, by affirming the unity and determination of the international community to put an end to the Iraqi occupation of Kuwait, constitutes a clear and firm message which, we hope, the president of the Iraqi regime will understand its meaning by acting to withdraw completely from all Kuwaiti territory.''

Abdullah Yaqoub Bishara, Secretary General of the six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council (Gcc), said Friday the resolution reflected the will of the international community and was based on the principles of the U.N. Charter.

''The resolution was a message not only to Iraq, but also to anyone who acts in Iraq's manner and resorts to force instead of solving problems through dialogue,'' said Bishara, a Kuwaiti, in a statement broadcast by Kuwait Radio, which is believed to be transmitting from somewhere in Saudi Arabia.

The Gcc comprises Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain, Oman and the United Arab Emirates (Uae). It was set up in 1981 to coordinate economic and defense policies of the six oil-rich states.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) - U.S. President George Bush Friday said he would send Secretary of State James Baker to meet Iraqi President Saddam Hussein in Baghdad next month and invited Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz to meet him here in Washington in a last ditch bid to avert war in the Gulf.

Bush, in a nationally televised address, said "to go the extra mile for peace" he was inviting the Iraqi foreign minister to the White House during the latter part of the week of Dec. 10 to discuss the Gulf crisis with him.

Ambassadors from other partners in the U.S.-led anti-Iraq alliance in the Gulf would also be invited to the discussions, he said.

Baker could then go to Baghdad for talks with Hussein between Dec. 15 and Jan.

15, the deadline set Thursday by a U.N. resolution calling on Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait or face military action by the military forces now in the Gulf, he said.

"Within the mandate of the United Nations resolution, I will be prepared -- and so will Secretary Baker -- to discuss all aspects of the Gulf Crisis, " Bush said.

"However, to be very clear about these efforts to exhaust all means to achieving a political and diplomatic solution, I am not suggesting discussions that will result in anything less than Iraq's complete withdrawl from Kuwait, restoration of Kuwait's legitimate government and freedom for all hostages," he said.

I hope we will never have one singly shot fired in anger" in the Gulf, he said.

LONDON (NOV. 30) - The natural rubber market traded quietly over the past week in London, as demand remained low, traders said Friday.

The price for Ribbed Smoked Sheet No. 1 (RSS 1) for December delivery closed at 520 pounds per tonne against 512.5 the previous Friday.

Traders said there were few orders from the industry on the physical market, and higher grades of rubber, which had been fairly strong recently, came off slightly. Lower grades held well.

On the production side, recent heavy rains in the Far East seemed to be receding, although tapping is still running below last year's levels, they added.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) - An air offensive could dominate any war against Iraq, experts said after Thursday's U.N. vote authorizing the use of military force to dislodge Iraq from Kuwait.

Former assistant defense secretary Richard Perle defended the idea of heavy reliance on air power and scant use of ground forces in his testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"It would seem to me an entirely plausible approach, if force becomes necessary, to execute air strikes against critical Iraqi installations to achieve control of the air over Iraq and Kuwait," Mr. Perle said.

"And then over many weeks or even months if necessary," he added, air strikes could "further ... interdict the supply of Iraqi forces in Kuwait to the point where I think we could hope to force surrender without engaging the Iraqi army on the ground."

"I would not recommend engaging the Iraqi army on the ground," Mr. Perle stressed.

The scenario favored by Mr. Perle differs from the strategy advanced most often since the onset of the crisis in early August.

This would entail use of air power to attack certain Iraqi installations to disrupt communications, as well as a tank offensive to cut off Iraqi troops in Kuwait from back-up forces, and subject them to attack from another front.

Retired admiral William Crowe, former chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, voiced support of an air-and-ground offensive before the Senate committee Wednesday.

Mr. Crowe called for an "intensive air campaign" against Iraqi weapons-producing installations followed by "a subsequent ground campaign to cut off Kuwait and subsequently free it."

BEIJING (NOV. 30) - China and the United States are to open a joint business center in the northeast that will act as a "one-stop" information source for traders and investors, U.S. diplomatic sources said here Friday.

The U.S.-China Business Information Service Center is to officially open December 17 in the industrial city of Shenyang, in what was once known as Manchuria, the sources said.

Billed as the "first in China to combine the resources and information of American and Chinese business and trade organizations," the center comes as Western nations drop sanctions imposed after last year's Tiananmen crackdown.

Washington, which led the global outrage at China's use of military force to silence pro-democracy protests, was set Friday to receive Foreign Minister Qian Qichen, effectively ending its post-Tiananmen ban on high-level contacts.

The U.S. sources said the Shenyang business center would provide Americans with data on trade and investment opportunities in northeast China, a stronghold for state-owned heavy industry.

Chinese businessmen meanwhile will be able to turn to the center for help in finding U.S. suppliers or partners, they added.

The United States is China's second-biggest source of foreign investment, after Hong Kong, and its third-biggest trading partner, after Hong Kong and Japan.

LONDON (NOV 30) - North Sea Brent crude oil dropped here late Friday afternoon, after a U.S. announcement that Secretary of State James Baker would visit Baghdad to meet with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein over the Gulf crisis.

Brent for January delivery was at 31.95 dollars a barrel at about 1630 GMT, against 32.15 just before the announcement and 32.95 dollars a barrel at the Thursday close.

U.S. President George Bush also said he would invite Iraqi foreign minister Tariq Aziz to Washington. These moves were interpreted by the market as a conciliatory U.S. gesture.

In New York, crude dropped sharply. At about 1730 GMT, Light Sweet Crude for January delivery was down 2.91 dollars on the day to 30.00 dollars a barrel.

SAN SALVADOR (NOV. 30) - Salvadoran rebels said Friday they had shot down their second air force helicopter in four days as an 11-day-old guerrilla offensive continued.

An underground radio of the rebel Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front (FMLN) said the guerrillas shot down the U.S-made UH-1H copter with small arms fire during an air force counterinsurgency operation in the central department of Cuscatlan.

In another development, rebels here in the capital threw a grenade at an army tank early Friday near the University of El Salvador, killing one soldier and wounding two others, eyewitnesses said.

Last Tuesday FMLN forces brought down a first UH-1H helicopter in the southeastern Usulutan region. A week earlier they shot down an A-37 jet fighter.

The FMLN recently confirmed that it had obtained Soviet-made SAM missiles and U.S.-made Red Eye missiles and said one of the SAM's had been used to shoot down the A-37.

The Salvadoran Armed Forces Press Committee had no comment on the reported downing of the latest helicopter, which the rebels said occured in the past few hours.

Meanwhile, military spokesmen said Friday that two rebels had been killed in separate incidents in the rural provinces of Chalatenango and San Miguel.

The committee also said two women were injured Thursday in the rebel bombing of an electrical post in the southwestern area of the capital, San Salvador.

HONG KONG, (NOV 30) - Former British prime minister Edward Heath met Chinese Premier Li Peng in Beijing Friday for talks on Chinese economic matters and international affairs, the New China News Agency (NCNA) said.

In a report monitored here, the official agency said Mr. Li praised Mr. Heath for his efforts in promoting Sino-British relations and described him as an "old friend of China" during their one-hour meeting.

Mr. Li also briefed the former premier on the policies and measures China had taken to curb inflation, stimulate production, "enliven the market, provide more jobs and expand economic cooperation with other countries," NCNA said, without giving further details.

Also present at the meeting was Han Nianlong, president of the Chinese People's Institute of Foreign Affairs, who had invited Mr. Heath to China.

Mr. Heath, who is on his 14th visit to China, arrived three days ago and is next scheduled to tour Shanghai, the agency said, without specifying the length of the visit.

AMMAN (NOV 30) - Jordan's Foreign Minister Marwan al-Qassem on Friday hailed U.S. President George Bush's proposal to send his chief diplomat to meet Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and invite Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz to meet him in Washington in a bid to avert war in the Gulf.

"Jordan welcomes this proposal which opens the door to dialogue and in which it encourages all parties to participate," he told Agence France-Presse, adding that negotiations "will save the world a tragic catastrophe."

Mr. Qassem said that Jordan had "from the start of the (Gulf) crisis been opposed to the use of force."

In a nationally televised address, Mr. Bush said he was going the extra mile

"Our geographical position makes us more aware of the military threat and has led us to make every effort to avoid it," Mr. Qassem said. Jordan has backed Iraq while calling for it to withdraw from Kuwait and has complied with international sanctions against the government of Baghdad.

The Jordanian foreign minister also said that "lifting the embargo on talks will facilitate an honorable compromise for all parties."

HANOI (NOV 30) - Australian carrier Qantas is to begin flights to Ho Chi Minh City later this month, the official Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said Friday.

The clearance follows talks between Vietnamese civil aviation officials and Qantas last week, VNA said.

The first Qantas flight from Sydney through Melbourne and on to Ho Chi Minh City (formerly Saigon) will take place on December 22, the news agency said.

Ho Chi Minh City, the country's economic capital, is now served by Thai Airways, Garuda Indonesia, Air France, Lufthansa, and Aeroflot.

The relatively isolated capital of Hanoi, in the north, is only served by Eastern European carriers and the region's airlines -- Thai Airways, Laotian carrier Lao Aviation and Cambodian airline Air Cambodge.

WELLINGTON (NOV. 30) - The head of New Zealand's largest public company demanded on Friday the sacking of Reserve Bank Governor Don Brash and senior officials of the central bank and Treasury.

Hugh Fletcher of Fletcher Challenge Ltd. said in an opening address to an economic conference convened by new Prime Minister Jim Bolger: "The governor and senior officials of the Reserve Bank and Treasury should be sacked.

"If the private sector is to believe that monetary policy and the real exchange rate have permanently changed, the people wedded to past policies must go and be replaced by people committed to the new," he said.

Mr. Fletcher also said the government should scrap defence spending, close diplomatic posts, immediately relax monetary policy and guarantee low wage increases for the next three years.

He said there should be "an announcement that New Zealand cannot afford its grandiose aspirations to defence forces and foreign affairs overseas representation and that getting New Zealanders back into well-remunerated employment is the most important security issue New Zealand faces.

"The announcement should incorporate cancellation of military hardware orders and closure of overseas offices."

He also advocated that the Reserve Bank Act, which states that the governor's sole objective is to achieve an inflation rate of between zero per cent and two per cent by 1992, should be changed to aim for a rate less than the average among the 24-nation Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development.

"If we do not want disaster, an immediate package of consistent action to increase demand is necessary," he said.

At the conference were Mr. Bolger, Finance Minister Ruth Richardson, other cabinet ministers and key private sector leaders.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) - President George Bush Friday said a group of Iraqis had given food and cigarettes to American diplomats holding out at the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait, but warned he felt "provoked" by Iraq's treatment of the diplomats.

While fielding reporters' questions after reading a statement in which he proposed high-level U.S.-Iraqi contacts to avert a war in the Gulf, Mr. Bush said he had been informed Friday of the deliveries made at the U.S. embassy.

He said a group of Iraqis Thursday had given the U.S. diplomats fruit, vegetables and a case of cigarettes, promising to return Saturday with more supplies, including soft drinks.

Without saying whether the Iraqis were civilians or military people, Mr. Bush said they had also instructed the diplomats to make a list of medical supplies they needed.

"This could be a positive sign, but it's so far short of compliance with international law that I can't be rejoicing," said Mr. Bush.

Twenty-five American diplomats have been resisting Iraqi orders that they redeploy to Baghdad, since Kuwait was declared an Iraqi province shortly after it was overrun by Iraqi troops on August 2.

The diplomats have been living on a diet of tuna fish and rice and drinking water from the embassy's swimming pool. Iraq refuses to allow any supplies into the compound.

"This treatment of our embassy violates every civilized principle of diplomacy ... it demeans our people, it demeans our country," Mr. Bush said in his televised statement.

"Consider me provoked when I see Americans without proper food and medical equipment," he added.

Mr. Bush said he was "deeply concerned," adding that he was "determined that this, embassy, as called for under Security Council Resolution 674, be fully replenished and our people free to come home."

During his speech, Mr. Bush said the treatment given the American diplomats, the holding of foreign hostages by Iraq and the atrocities committed by Iraqi troops against the Kuwaiti people were among the reasons he had committed U.S. troops in the Gulf.

His speech came a day after the U.N. Security Council passed its 12th resolution on the Gulf crisis, authorizing the international coalition in the Gulf to "use all means necessary" to dislodge Iraqi troops from Kuwait if Baghdad does not pull them out voluntarily by January 15.

NDJAMENA (NOV 30) - Chad's government on Friday admitted it was "worried" about fighting in the east of the country, where the French government say Chadian rebels have captured a key town, but went on blaming Libyan-backed "mercenaries".

President Hissein Habre's government said in a statement issued here after a crisis meeting that regular troops were confronted with "hordes of mercenaries from Libya and Sudan" in eastern Chad, where the military situation "remains worrying".

In Paris, a French Foreign Ministry spokesman confirmed that rebels led by former Chadian army chief Idriss Deby had captured Abeche, the most important town in the region, which is very close to an air force base manned by some 500 French troops.

Abeche, the traditional, religious centre of eastern Chad, lies in a ring of hills in the desert, some 800 kilometres (500 miles) from Ndjamena, and has more than 25,000 inhabitants.

"Libya has not given up its dream of dominating Chad," the government said in its statement here, calling for "general mobilization and vigilance" among the people. Radio Chad meanwhile commended the United States for reportedly taking a "courageous position" in condemning Libya for "massively arming the rebels".

Mr. Deby's Patriotic Salvation Movement (MPS), well-trained and well-armed, moved around the French base and took Abeche without a fight, while government troops fell back to Oum Hadjer, 100 kilometres (some 60 miles) to the west on the road to Ndjamena, according to reliable sources in Paris.

"The job of French forces is not to intervene in fighting among Chadians," the French Foreign Ministry spokesman said in Paris, adding that "to the best of our knowledge, there are no non-Chadian elements among the rebels".

As in the past, the Ndjamena government, which has a long-running border dispute with Libya, has charged that Tripoli and Khartoum are behind the latest rebel attack, launched on November 10 from Sudan's western province of Darfur. Chad says the shadowy Libyan-formed Islamic Legion has massed there.

JOHANNESBURG, (NOV 30) - Kenya has given South African Airways (SAA) the go-ahead to begin a weekly flight to Nairobi from December 8, the SAA said in a statement late Friday.

The announcement followed talks Friday between South African Foreign Minister Pik Botha and Kenyan President Daniel arap Moi in the Kenyan capital. It was not possible to obtain immediate confirmation of the report in Nairobi.

Last month Mr. Moi cancelled a plan to start weekly flights between Nairobi and Johannesburg, saying he would not allow the flights until apartheid was fully abolished and the international community had reviewed its stance on sanctions against South Africa.

The cancellation was thought to have been in response to a plea by African National Congress (ANC) deputy president Nelson Mandela, who had criticised the decision to start the flights, which were to have begun on December 1.

The new flight, which has been delayed by a week, was a further indication of "the normalisation of relations between African countries" and followed approval of the weekly service by the Kenyan government, the SAA said.

State-run television said Friday night the main purpose of Mr. Botha's visit to Kenya was to discuss trade links and did not hinge only on air links.

Mr. Botha, who flew into Nairobi aboard a private jet, was due to return to South Africa later Friday.

WARSAW, (NOV 30) - Polish bishops urge Poles in a diocesan letter to be read Sunday in all the country's churches to vote for Lech Walesa as president, the news agency PAP reported Friday.

The bishops said "the nation's helm" must be handed over to the person who would continue the "great effort" made by "the nation, gathered around the idea of solidarity, to get rid of the totalitarian system."

In Poland, where 95 per cent of the population is Roman Catholic, the church's opinion carries considerable weight, notably in the countryside.

A public opinion poll published by PAP on Friday showed that Mr. Walesa led his rival Stanislaw Tyminski by 58 per cent to 30 per cent.

The president of the Solidarity trade union is running against Polish-Canadian-Peruvian businessman Mr. Tyminski in the second round of Poland's presidential election on December 9.

In their letter the bishops also urge Poles to cast a vote, stressing their "moral duty" to do so.

ACCRA (NOV. 30) - A ceasefire accord signed in the Malian capital Bamako last Wednesday by the three factions in the Liberian civil war broke down Friday with the small rebel group led by Prince Yormie Johnson fighting remnants of slain president Samuel Doe's Armed Forces of Liberia (Afl), the British Broadcasting Corporation (Bbc) reported.

Bbc said Johnson was on his way to see the interim president Amos Sawyer when he was told by civilians not to go because an ambush had been laid for him by Doe's forces.

The rebel leader sent spies into town who confirmed that Doe's troops were at the ministry of defence waiting for him, Bbc said.

Johnson then collected his men from two fronts and they engaged the Armed Forces of Liberia troops at the ministry of defence, killing three of them and capturing a lieutenant.

They pushed from there to Johnson Street where they killed two more, according to the broadcast.

Bbc said Johnson's men are now in the market across the street from the Barkay training centre and on the beach behind it with orders to take the training centre where the Afl is encamped.

''We will continue to to fight until the interim government makes a decision on whether it will use my army or the Afl. Doe did not go to Banjul (Gambia) to elect an interim government. We elected Sawyer. Ecomog (the West African peacekeeping force) has failed,'' Bbc quoted Johnson as saying.

Ceasefire agreements between the two factions have repeatedly broken down. Doe was captured and later killed by Johnson's men shortly after a ceasefire between them last September. Only last October 24, the two sides signed another truce at Banjul.

BANGKOK (NOV 30) - Burma's military government signed a tin production-sharing contract with a private Thai firm Friday in Rangoon, state-run Rangoon Radio said in a broadcast monitored here.

The contract calls for Bangkok-based Sahapol Siri Co. Ltd. to conduct tin exploration near Mong Kyawt, near the Thai border some 450 kilometers (280 miles) northeast of Rangoon.

It is the fourth tin production-sharing venture the Burmese Mining Ministry has signed with a Thai firm this year, the radio said.

The radio also said that a total of 615 private enterprises and 512 joint-venture firms were registered with the military government. A total of 76 foreign companies have opened in Rangoon in the past two years, it added.

The military junta, which seized power in a September 1988 coup after crushing a student-led movement for democracy, has attempted to implement an open-door economic policy to revive Burma's economy.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) - U.S. President George Bush, armed with a U.N. green light for war against Iraq, Tuesday offered to dispatch Secretary of State James Baker to Baghdad to "go the last mile for peace."

But Bush stressed he would not negotiate with Iraq and warned that if the United States had to go to war over Kuwait it would be quick and not "another Vietnam."

Bush delivered the surprise message in a solemn, televised broadcast the day after the U.N. Security Council voted to approve the use of force against Iraq if Baghdad fails to withdrawm from Kuwait by Jan. 15.

"To go the extra mile for peace, I will issue an invitation for Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz to come to Washington at a mutually convenient time during the latter part of the week of Dec. 10th to meet with me," he said.

Ambassadors of several countries allied with the United States against Iraq would also be invited to attend the meeting in Washington, Bush said.

He proposed sending Baker to meet Iraqi President Saddam Hussein in Baghdad anytime from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15.

"However, to be very clear about these efforts to exhaust all means for achieving a political and diplomatic solution, I am not suggesting discussions that will result in anything less than Iraq's complete withdrawal from Kuwait, restoration of Kuwait's legitimate government and freedom for all the hostages."

Emphasizing that despite 12 U.N. resolutions Hussein still failed to understand that he was up against the world, Bush added, "I can't think of any better way to do it at this juncture, in the wake of a U.N. resolution, than this face-to-face meeting."

Asked why he was proposing talks now when previously he had rejected sending an envoy to Iraq, Bush said the situation had changed with the approval of the U.N. Security Council resolution.

"The United Nations resolution, I think, has a good chance of making Saddam Hussein understand what it is he's up against. I have not felt that he got the message. I hope this will do it," Bush told reporters after making the announcement.

"But I am convinced that these two direct meetings that I've discussed here will guarantee to all the people of the world, certainly to the American people, that Saddam Hussein not misunderstand, not misintepret."

At the same time, he said such a U.S. mission to Iraq should not be considered an ultimatum.

The U.S. president said he had received no signal from Iraq that it wanted to talk and he noted that it was not certain Baghdad would accept the U.S. proposal. "I'm not all that hopeful that we'll get a big result out of all this, "he said.

Bush immediately set limits for the meeting between Hussein and Baker. "But it isn't, you know a trip of concession. When you've done what he's done, I don't see that there's room for concession, there's room for giving something to save face," he said.

Bush also disclosed a "very interesting report." The Iraqis, he said, had delivered fruit, vegetables and a case of Iraqi cigarettes to the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait Saturday, which has been besieged by Iraqi forces since early August.

"And apparently there's going to be another delivery tomorrow, including soda pop. And they asked what medical supplies were required," he said.

"This could be a positive sign. But it's so far short of compliance with international law that I can't be rejoicing. But it is a very interesting development," he said.

Reaffirming his concern over the "rape and pillage" of Kuwait, its future, the condition of the hostages and the U.S. Embassy and Hussein's "insatiable appetite" for nuclear arms, Bush responded to members of Congress and others who have counseled patience by warning that there were disadvantages to waiting too long.

"I want peace, not war," he said, adding that he would continue to be patient. But he said the U.N. resolution is a clear message to Hussein that "time is running out."

"If there must be war, we will not permit our troops to have their hands tied behind their backs, and I pledge to you there will not be any murky ending," he said.

Bush referred to the "heart moving" mail he has received and noted the fears of a repeat of the U.S. experience in Vietnam.

"Let me assure you," he said. "Should military action be required this will not be another Vietnam. This will not be a protracted drawn-out war."

He said he personally would make the decision whether to take military action, adding that he could not ask the advice of every member of Congress.

WINDHOEK (NOV 30) - The Namibian government is irrevocably committed to a mixed economy in which the foreign investor has a critical role to play, Trade and Industry Mnister Ben Amathila said on Friday.

Introducing the keenly-awaited Foreign Investments Bill in the national assembly here, Mr. Amathila said it sought to provide certain basic guarantees to foreign investors, addressing most of their concerns.

"Special recognition is, however, given to economicaly important investments, in respect of which the government will issue to the investor a status investment certificate," he said.

The Bill essentially provides a foreign investor with certain privileges, particularly in regard to repatriation of the investment and profits made on the investment, the Minister said.

It provides for a "liberal foreign investment regime" with the only possible contraints being in regard to exploitation of Nambia's natural resources, or in respect of business providing services or producing goods that could be done adequately by Namibians.

Criteria for eligibility for a status investment certificate include the extent to which the investment would contribute toward Namibia's development objectives, Mr. Amathila said.

Under the bill submitted on Friday, certificate holders would be able to freely, after tax, transfer profits and dividends out of the country.

Provision is also made for retention of foreign currency outside Namibia for goods produced by certificate holders in the country or from exports.

No foreign national doing business in Namibia is required to have government participation or any Namibian as a partner or shareholder, or to transfer his business to the government or a Namibian.

In case of dispute, the certificate provides for arbitration in accordance with the arbitration rules of the United Nations Commission on International Trade Law in force at the time.

In cases where provision is not made for international arbitration, the case will be decided by Namibian courts.

The Namibian government is preparing to hold a private sector investment conference in Windhoek from February 3 to 6 next year.

BAGHDAD (NOV. 30) - Baghdad will officially respond on "Saturday at the earliest" to U.S. President George Bush's proposal to hold talks with Iraq to avert war in the Gulf, reliable Iraqi sources said here late Friday.

"Iraqi authorities, who followed with interest President Bush's statements in a bid to study and review their import, will not be able to respond before Saturday at the earliest," one of the sources said.

In a nationally televised address, Mr. Bush said he was going the extra mile for peace by inviting the Iraqi foreign minister to the White House during the latter part of the week of December 10 to discuss the Gulf crisis with him.

Secretary of State James Baker could then go to Baghdad for talks with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein between December 15 and January 15, the deadline set Thursday by a United Nations' resolution.

The resolution called on Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait, which it invaded on August 2, or face military action by the forces mustered in the Gulf, Mr. Bush said.

Iraqi television and radio broadcast no reaction late Friday to Mr. Bush's statements and the Iraqi News Agency carried no dispatches or comments from officials.

Analysts here noted, however, that Mr. Bush's proposal represented a change from previous (U.S.) positions.

The initiative "is in response to the need, underlined repeatedly by Iraqi oficials, to engage in direct talks (with the United States) on a peaceful settlement of the Gulf crisis," one said.

In Jordan, a close ally of Iraq, Foreign Minister Marwan al-Qassem hailed Mr. Bush's statements.

"Jordan welcomes this proposal which opens the door to dialogue and in which it encourages all parties to participate," he told Agence France-Presse, adding that negotiations "will save the world a tragic catastrophe."

Mr. Qassem said that Jordan had "from the start of the (Gulf) crisis has been opposed to the use of force."

Jordan has backed Iraq, while also calling for it to withdraw from Kuwait and complying with international sanctions against the government of Baghdad.

In Tunis, a senior Palestine Liberation Organization official said the PLO warmly welcomed the U.S. initiative on peaceful discussions and asked that the dialogue include other regional problems.

Yasser Abed Rabbo, a member of the PLO's executive committee, told Agence France-Presse Mr. Bush's initiative was "a step in the right direction" but asked that the Iraqi-U.S. dialogue also treat "in a substantive manner all the problems of the Middle East region, including the convocation of a peace conference and the need to settle the Palestinian question."

In another development, Iraqi television reported late Friday that Iraqis would demonstrate Saturday morning to protest against what officials here call an "unfair" U.N. Security Council resolution.

According to the television, the demonstrations "will be organized to protest against the unfair U.S. resolution, adopted under the guise of the United Nations Security Council."

The demonstrations will coincide with the commemoration in Iraq of the "Day of the Martyr" -- celebrated every December 1 -- marking the death of 1,500 Iraqi prisoners whom Baghdad said were assassinated by Iran in 1981.

JERUSALEM (NOV 30) - Israel's Defense Minister Moshe Arens decided Friday to scrap a project to build two military submarines in Germany, Defense Ministry sources in Tel Aviv said.

The two Dolphin-type subs, whose purchase was first proposed a decade ago, were part of a contract signed with German shipyards and for which 10 percent of the cost -- 570 million dollars -- has already been paid.

According to the sources, Mr. Arens decided to terminate the vessels' construction for financial reasons. "The Defense Ministry doesn't have the means to pursue the project."

Military sources said the next Israeli chief of staff, General Ehud Barak, who assumes his new duties on April 1, was opposed to the project, preferring instead "more important weapons systems."

The Israeli navy's commander, Admiral Misha Ram, and his predecessor Abraham ben-Shoshan, have repeatedly spoken in favor of the project.

"Without submarines, the Israeli navy has no future."

During the Reagan administration, Israel attempted to use Foreign Military Sales (FMS) credits to purchase the German-made diesel subs but Washington insisted that under the conditions of the loans, the funding had to be used in purchasing American hardware.

U.S. shipyards, upon the insistence of then navy secretary John Lehman, had been converted from building the cheaper diesel submarines to nuclear-powered vessels, which would have added substantially to the Israeli FMS price tag.

BEIJING (DEC 1) - Australia's Minister for Primary Industries and Energy John Kerin was due to leave here Saturday after lobbying China to increase its purchases of Australian wool, diplomatic sources said.

China's wool imports have dropped sharply due to the austerity program implemented here in September 1988 and weak domestic demand.

After importing more than 213 million kilograms (470 million pounds) of wool in 1988, including nearly 80 million kilos (176 million pounds) from Australia,

China is expected to buy just 22 million kilos (48 million pounds) of wool abroad this year, at most nine million kilos (20 million pounds) of it from Australia.

Mr. Kerin, who arrived here late Thursday, met Friday with top officials of the China National Textile Import and Export Corporation before dining with Textile Industry Minister Wu Wenying, the Australian Embassy said.

He met during the afternoon with Agriculture Minister Liu Zhongyi.

Mr. Kerin is the second Australian minister to visit China since the June 1989 crackdown on the democracy movement, following Minister for Trade Negotiations Neal Blewett who was here in September.

PRAGUE (NOV 30) (AFP) - The Czechoslovak government adopted an austerity budget on Friday, calling for a surplus of 6.2 billion korunas (258 million dollars) and marked by a sharp cut in military spending and a rise in social expenditures.

The budget calls for receipts of 108.5 billion korunas (4.5 billion dollars), and for spending 55 billion korunas in the social domain, more than half of the planned spending of 102.3 billion.

Some 8.5 billion is planned for unemployment compensation, and some studies say the country must expect as many as 800,000 unemployed workers next month.

Thirty-four billion korunas will go into offsetting various increases in the prices of foods, electricity and heating, for poor classes, while 11 billion will be used for family allowances and related payments.

Two-way trade should reach 1.44 billion dollars next year, up from 1.2 expected this year, the same level as in 1989, according to the Thai Embassy here.

The agreement was signed here Thursday by China's vice-minister for trade, Shen Jueren, and Thai Deputy Foreign Minster Amnuay Yossuck, the newspaper said.

Under the agreement, China will import Thai rice, sugar, tapioca and rubber while Thailand will buy Chinese oil, cement, cotton, coal, medical products and electrical appliances.

JEDDAH (NOV 30) - U.S. President George Bush Friday conferred by telephone with each of Saudi Arabia's King Fahd and Kuwait's exiled Emir, Sheikh Jaber al-Ahmed al-Sabah, on his call for direct U.S.-Iraqi talks to find a solution to the Gulf crisis, informed sources here told the German Press Agency dpa.

Earlier, the Saudi Press Agency (Spa) said Bush and Fahd reviewed during their telephone conversation ''the latest developments in the Arab Gulf region and discussed matters of mutual concern.'' It gave no other details.

An official Kuwaiti spokesman in Taif, the Saudi summer resort where Kuwait's government-in-exile has set up shop, said Bush and Jaber ''exchanged viewpoints on the latest regional and international developments in the light of the latest U.N. Security Council resolution,'' which authorised military action against Iraq if it does not withdraw its troops from Kuwait by Jan. 15.

The telephone conversation between the two men was very cordial and their viewpoints were completely identical, the spokesman said in a statement carried by the Kuwaiti News Agency (Kuna).

Egyptian President Hosny Mubarak also telephoned King Fahd ''as part of constant consultations between the two leaders on developments in the Arab region aimed at serving the issues of the Arab and Moslem nations,'' Spa reported.

It said Fahd later telephoned Jaber to exchange viewpoints on the Gulf crisis, spawned by the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait on Aug. 2.

WASHINGTON (NOV 30) - The United States is sending more warplanes to the Gulf including of F-111 tactical fighter bombers and F117A Stealth fighters, as part of a deployment to strengthen U.S. offensive capability in the region, officials said Friday.

In another development, the Air Force, Marine Corps and Navy said they had called up more than 3,500 reservists for active duty in Operation Desert Shield, bringing their total to about 100,000 reservists.

The Air Force said the F117A Stealth fighters would be sent to the Arabian peninsula next week from the 37th Tactical Fighter Wing based at Tonopah Test Range, Nevada.

The number of stealth fighters -- designed to evade detection by radar -- being deployed was not disclosed.

A squadron of F-111s from the 48th Tactical Fighter Wing were sent to the Gulf beginning Thursday from the Royal Air Force Station Lakenheath, said Captain Besty Well, an Air Force spokeswoman at the Pentagon.

She said maintenance and combat personnel from the 48th Tactical Fighter Wing also were dispatched to the Gulf but she declined to say how many.

Air Force officials said there were plans to deploy other aircraft to the Gulf but would provide no further details.

Air Force spokesman Col. Joseph Purka said he could not comment on a report Friday in the Los Angeles Times that the Pentagon was sending 300 more warplanes to the Gulf.

Citing unidentified defense sources, the newspaper said the new deployment would include a second squadron of F-117 Stealth fighters and additional A-16 tank killers, F-15E ground-attack jets, F-16 fighters, RF-4C photo-reconaissance jets and refueling tankers.

Reinforcements reportedly will come from 27 Air Force units with about 10,000 personnel. The extra units will be dispatched from Europe and U.S.-based Air National Guard and reserve squadrons, the paper said.

Earlier this month President George Bush said he would send up to 200,000 more troops to the Gulf in addition to the 240,000 deployed since Iraq invaded Kuwait August 2.

RIYADH (DEC 1) - Saudi Arabia decided Friday to wipe out Egypt's 4.5-billion-dollar debt, the official Saudi news agency SPA reported.

Quoting a spokesman, SPA said "King Fahd has handed down directives to wipe out the debt due by Egypt to the Saudi Government." The decision was to be relayed to Egypt Saturday at a meeting in Cairo of the Saudi-Egyptian joint commission.

Egypt has deployed some 20,000 soldiers in the Gulf, many in Saudi Arabia, as a leading member of the anti-Iraqi coalition.

In October Riyadh had given Egypt 675 million dollars in aid, including 175 millions to assist the return of Egyptians who fled Kuwait following the Iraqi invasion of August 2.

The remaining 500 million dollars were a contribution toward economic projects in Egypt, which has been hard-hit by the Gulf crisis.

The United States recently cancelled Egypt's military debt, which was estimated at some 7.5 billion dollars.

LONDON (DEC 1) - Five British hostages from Iraq returned here late Friday, with wives of three of the hostages meeting them at Heathrow airport.

The three released men met by their wives had all been working on decorating Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's palace in Baghdad when Iraq invaded Kuwait on August 2.

The Iraqi authorities agreed to release on December 5 some 21 men involved in building the palace, the wife of one of the men released said. They agreed to let three go early after their wives put in a special plea on their behalf.

The two other men to return with them on a flight taking other hostages back to Europe via Istanbul, Stockholm and Copenhagen, were released due to ill health.

The five British hostages released were Jimmy Concepcion from Runcorn, James Forshaw and David Thelwell from Liverpool, Richard Padgett from Manchester (all in the North of England) and Julian McCulloch from London.

WASHINGTON (NOV 30) - President George Bush telephoned four Middle East leaders Friday to inform them of his decision to launch high-level discussions with Iraq over the Gulf crisis, the White House said.

Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said that Mr. Bush made separate calls to Saudi ruler King Fahd, Kuwaiti Emir Sheikh Jaber Al-Ahmad al-Sabah, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and Turkish President Turgut Ozal.

Mr. Bush told the four of his invitation to Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz to come to Washington for discussions and his intention to send Secretary of Madrid (NOV. 30) EFE - The Spanish deputy who secured the release of Spanish hostages from Baghdad said Friday the United Nations Security Council resolution sanctioning the use of force against Iraq was unacceptable and announced that women in Madrid would march next week in protest.

"To use force seems to me unacceptable," said United Left deputy Cristina Almeida, who travelled to Iraq in October to ask Iraqi President Saddam Hussein for Spanish hostages to be freed.

Negotiations to end the crisis, which began in August when Iraq invaded neighboring Kuwait, should proceed with "much more calmness, and not with the rush which has prevented other forms of dialogue being examined," Almeida said.

Jerusalem (NOV. 30) EFE - The number of Soviet Jews migrating to Israel was higher in November than in any previous month this year, a Jerusalem newspaper reported Friday.

One thousand Soviet Jews were due to arrive on Friday alone, bringing the number for the month to 30,000, according to figures published in the daily Jerusalem Post.

So many arrivals were expected that Transport Minister Moshe Katsav has given special permission for two planes expected from Budapest with 650 Soviets aboard to land on Friday evening after the start of the Jewish sabbath.

Israeli El-Al flights are prohibited from landing after sundown on Friday night except in cases where human life is at stake.

Some 1,700 Soviets arrived Thursday on 14 separate flights from Budapest, Warsaw and Bucharest, a record number of immigrants to arrive in one day, the Jerusalem Post said.

By the end of the year, 200,000 Soviet immigrants will have arrived in Israel, with at least one million more arriving in the coming years, the daily Haaretz reported Friday.

"The state of Israel will increase from four million inhabitants to six million within a decade," Housing Minister Ariel Sharon said.

Israel's plans to settle many of the immigrants in the Occupied Territories has brought a storm of protest from Arab nations and has been opposed by Tel Aviv's main ally, the United States.

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev has threatened to cut back sharply the number of Soviet Jews allowed to leave for Israel if the policy is not abandoned.

Rabbi Isaac Perets, in charge of immigration, has claimed that up to 30 per cent of the Soviet immigrants are not Jews and are moving to Israel because it offers a better standard of living than the Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) EFE - U.S. President George Bush is to leave Washington this weekend for a one-week tour of five Latin American countries, during which he is expected to seek support for his idea of a free trade zone stretching the length of the American continent.

From December 2-8, he will spend one day in each country to visit his counterparts, starting on Sunday in Brazil and moving on to Uruguay, Argentina Chile, and Venezuela.

Officials predicted that talks will focus on trade, U.S. investment in Latin America, and the reduction of Latin American official debt, the three components of the Enterprise for the Americas Initiative which Bush hatched in June.

"This legislation is good for our neighbors, good for the hemisphere, and I think very good for the United States," Bush said, when he sent the proposal to Congress in September.

The plan involves a three-pronged U.S. approach to relations with Latin America which would involve the reduction of official debt owed by selected Latin American countries to the United States, the stimulation of private investment in the region, and steps to liberalize trade throughout the Western Hemisphere.

Chilean Finance Minister Alejandro Foxley hosted a meeting in Santiago Friday of Latin American finance, planning and economy ministers to hammer out a consensus response to the Bush initiative in advance of the arrival of the U.S. president.

In Brazil, Bush will meet Brazilian President Fernando Collor de Mello. Brazil's relations with Washington have improved since Collor became president in March and intiated a drastic series of economy measures aimed at stabilizing the country's shaky economy.

On Tuesday, the U.S. president will meet Uruguayan President Luis Alberto Lacalle in Montevideo, moving on to Buenos Aires where he will visit Argentine President Carlos Menem.

Argentina is hoping to come away from the meeting with a series of bilateral trade accords and agreements which would increase U.S. investment in the country. The two leaders are also expected to sign guarantees for mutual legal assistance to combat the laundering of drug money in the United States.

For the government of Chilean President Patricio Aylwin, who is due to meet Bush on Thursday, the visit is a sign that Washington might at last lift sanctions imposed against Chile during the military regime of former dictator Gen. Augusto Pinochet.

Sanctions such as the Kennedy Amendment, which prohibits the sale of arms to Chile, are still in force ten months after Pinochet handed over power to Aylwin following democratic elections.

Chile is also hoping to be included in the Generalized System of Preferences which would give it the opportunity to export some products to the U.S. market free of tariffs.

Talks on Friday between the U.S. president and Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez in Caracas, are likely to focus bilateral trade and oil. Since oil-producing Iraq invaded Kuwait in August, sparking the Gulf crisis, Venezuela has become the second most important supplier of oil to the United States after Saudi Arabia.

Since the crisis, Venezuela has increased its oil production by 400,000 barrels per day to help the United States cope with the loss of the 800,000 daily barrels it formerly received from Iraq and Kuwait.

Bush and Perez are also to discuss U.S. investment of up to $8 billion to help Caracas increase its supplies to 3.6 million barrpened the way to a bilateral trade agreement between the United States and its closest Latin American neighbor.

WARSAW (NOV. 30) XINHUA - CHAIRMAN OF THE SUPREME CHAMBER OF CONTROL OF POLAND TADEUSZ HUPALOWSKI SAID HERE THURSDAY THAT HARD LIQUOR SMUGGLING FROM ABROAD HAS COST THE COUNTRY A LOSS OF AT LEAST 1,700 BILLION ZLOTYS (ABOUT 170 MILLION DOLLARS) IN THE PAST ONE AND HALF YEARS.

SPEAKING AT A PARLIAMENT SESSION, THE CHAIRMAN SAID THAT IN THE PAST ONE AND HALF YEARS, IN THE HOME MARKET, THE ILLEGALLY IMPORTED HARD LIQUOR HAS FAR OUTNUMBERED THE LEGALLY IMPORTED LIQUOR WHICH CONSTITUTES 15-16 PERCENT.

THE POLES ARE HEAVY DRINKERS, NEXT ONLY TO THE RUSSIANS, IN EUROPE. DRUNKARDS ARE COMMONLY SEEN AT RAILWAY STATIONS, AIRPORTS AND ON THE STREETS IN THIS COUNTRY.

A DECREE ON LIMITING AND BANNING THE SALE OF HARD LIQUOR WAS ADOPTED AT THE PARLIAMENT IN 1982.

HOWEVER, FOLLOWING AN AMENDMENT TO THE DECREE, MASSIVE SMUGGLING OF HARD LIQUOR APPEARED IN RECENT YEARS.

TO CRACK DOWN ON THE SMUGGLING, THE POLISH AUTHORITIES HAVE TAKEN A SERIES OF MEASURES RECENTLY, INCLUDING ARRESTS AND LAWSUITS.

SIX PEOPLE WERE ARRESTED IN SZCZECIN TODAY FOR SMUGGLING OVER 15,000 LITRES OF HARD LIQUOR FROM DENMARK, ACCORDING TO THE STATE NEWS AGENCY PAP.

BEIJING (NOV. 30) XINHUA - MORE THAN A THIRD OF THE INCREASED FARM PRODUCTION OUTPUT IN NORTHWEST CHINA'S GANSU PROVINCE WAS REALIZED THROUGH THE INTRODUCTION OF MODERN SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY, THE "GUANGMING DAILY" REPORTED TODAY.

THE PAPER SAID THAT DURING THE SEVENTH FIVE-YEAR PLAN PERIOD, GANSU PROVINCE INVESTED MORE THAN 1.3 MILLION YUAN IN 36 BREEDING PROJECTS WHICH RESULTED IN THE PROMOTION OF 78 NEW CROP VARIETIES, INCLUDING WHEAT, CORN, RAPE SEED AND PEPPER.

WITH THE AID OF AGRICULTURAL SCIENCE, THE PROVINCE WAS ABLE TO IMPROVE ITS OUTPUT OF GRAIN AND OIL-BEARING CROPS BY MORE THAN 150 MILLION KG THIS YEAR, ACCORDING TO THE PAPER.

IN THE MAJOR GRAIN PRODUCING COUNTIES, LOCAL AUTHORITIES HAVE INVESTED 2.7 MILLION YUAN TO IMPROVE SOIL FERTILITY AND THE CROPS' RESISTANCE TO PESTS. AS A RESULT, AN AVERAGE OF MORE THAN 15 TONS OF GRAIN WERE HARVESTED PER HECTARE ON 2,666 HECTARES OF FARMLAND, THE PAPER SAID.

SINCE 1987, THE PROVINCE HAS CONTRACTED OUT LARGE AREAS OF FARMLAND TO OVER 4,000 FARM TECHNICIANS. AS OF 1989, THE GRAIN OUTPUT ON 760,000 HECTARES OF THIS CONTRACTED FARMLAND INCREASED BY 300 MILLION KG.

NAIROBI (NOV. 30) XINHUA - PRESIDENT DANIEL ARAP MOI TODAY OFFICIALLY OPENED KENYA'S FIRST EXPORT PROCESSING ZONE IN THE SAMEER INDUSTRIAL PARK NEAR NAIROBI.

ADDRESSING THE OPENING CEREMONY THIS MORNING, THE PRESIDENT SAID THAT THE EVENT MARKS THE BEGINNING OF A NEW ERA IN KENYA'S DEVELOPMENT STRATEGY.

THE STRATEGY REFERS TO THE EFFORTS MADE BY THE KENYAN GOVERNMENT TO TRANSFORM ITS ECONOMY IN ORDER TO MEET THE CHAL- LENGES OF THE NINETIES AND BEYOND IN A MORE EFFECTIVE MANNER.

PRESIDENT MOI SAID THAT HIS GOVERNMENT HAS INSTITUTED A SERIES OF MEASURES AIMED AT REDUCING HEAVY DEPENDENCE ON EXPORTS OF PRIMARY AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE AND PLACE MORE EMPHASIS ON EXPORT OF MANUFACTURED GOODS.

THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE EXPORT PROCESSING ZONE IS AN INTEGRAL PART OF AN EXPORT DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM WHICH STARTED ITS IMPLEM- ENTATION RECENTLY, HE SAID.

UNDER THE PROGRAM, THE PRESIDENT SAID, INVESTORS WILL BE ABLE TO ENJOY VARIOUS PRIVILEGES INCLUDING COMPLETE EXEMPTION FROM EXCHANGE CONTROL FOR THE REPATRIATION OF CAPITAL, PROFITS AND DIVIDENTS.

THEY WILL BE ALOWED TO OPERATE FOREIGN CURRENCY ACCOUNTS THROUGH LOCAL COMMERCIAL BANKS AND ENJOY A TAX HOLIDAY DURING THE FIRST TEN YEARS FOLLOWED BY A REDUCED TAX RATE OF 28 PERCENT FOR THE NEXT TEN YEARS, HE ADDED.

THE SAMEER INDUSTRIAL PARK OWNED BY FIRESTONE EAST AFRICA LIMITED IS A PART OF A MASSIVE PROJECT WHICH WILL OCCUPY 40 ACRES OF LAND AND PROVIDE 50 FACTORY UNITS WHEN IT IS COMPLETED IN FOUR PHASES.

THE KENYAN GOVERNMENT IS PLANNING TO SET UP EXPORT PROCESSING ZONES IN THE CAPITAL CITY OF NAIROBI AND PORT CITY OF MOMBASA.

CAIRO (NOV. 30) XINHUA - THE ISRAELI ARMY HAS ORDERED FOUR PALESTINIAN UNIVERSITIES CLOSED FOR AN ADDITIONAL THREE MONTHS, REPORTS FROM JERUSALEM SAID TODAY.

THE REPORTS QUOTED A UNIVERSITY SOURCE AS SAYING THAT NOTIFICATION OF THE CLOSURE EXTENSIONS WERE RECEIVED THURSDAY.

THE MOVE WOULD KEEP AT LEAST 12,000 STUDENTS OUT OF SCHOOL IN THE OCCUPIED WEST BANK AND GAZA STRIP.

THE ARMY ORDERED ALL SIX PALESTINIAN UNIVERSITIES CLOSED SHORTLY AFTER THE START OF THE PALESTINIAN UPRISING AGAINST ISRAELI OCCUPATION IN DECEMBER 1987. IT SAID THE CAMPUSES WERE HOTBEDS OF ANTI-ISRAELI VIOLENCE.

THE ARMY PERMITTED BETHLEHEM UNIVERSITY TO REOPEN ITS CAMPUS IN OCTOBER, SAYING "GOOD BEHAVIOR" AT BETHLEHEM WOULD LEAD TO THE REOPENING OF OTHER SCHOOLS.

SEVERAL WEEKS LATER, AL-QUDS UNIVERSITY IN JERUSALEM GOT THE PERMISSION TO REOPEN ITS TWO SMALL CAMPUSES.

NO MAJOR INCIDENTS HAVE BEEN REPORTED AT BETHLEHEM SINCE OCTOBER, AND PROFESSORS AT OTHER UNIVERSITIES HAD HOPED THIS SIGNALED THE ARMY'S CLOSURE ORDERS WOULD BE LIFTED FROM THE FOUR REMAINING UNIVERSITIES: HEBRON, BIR ZEIT AN NAJAH IN NABLUS AND ISLAMIC IN GAZA CITY.

THE NOTIFICATION OF THE CLOSURE EXTENSIONS DASHED HOPES THAT CLASSES WOULD RESUME FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THREE YEARS.

SAED ERAKAT, A LECTURER IN POLITICAL SCIENCE AT AN NAJAH, SAID, "THE CLOSURE IS PART OF THE ISRAELI WAR AGAINST THE PALESTINIAN PEOPLE IN CULTURE, ECONOMICS AND POLITICS."

THE ARMY CLOSURES OF SCHOOLS AND UNIVERSITIES IN THE WEST BANK AND GAZA HAVE BEEN ROUNDLY CRITICIZED BY INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY AS COLLECTIVE PUNISHMENT.

OTTAWA (NOV. 30) XINHUA - FOR THE FIRST TIME IN HISTORY, THE AVERAGE CANADIAN FAMILY LAST YEAR EARNED MORE THAN 50,000 CANADIAN DOLLARS (43,000 U.S. DOLLARS), STATISTICS CANADA REPORTED LATELY.

AFTER INFLATION, AVERAGE FAMILY INCOME IN 1989 WAS 50,083 CANADIAN DOLLARS (43,071 U.S. DOLLARS), UP 3.3 PERCENT OVER 1988, THE GOVERNMENT AGENCY SAID IN A REPORT RELEASED THURSDAY.

REAL FAMILY INCOMES ACROSS CANADA, AFTER ACCOUNTING FOR INFLATION, HAVE INCREASED MORE THAN 11 PERCENT SINCE 1984, WHEN INCOMES STARTED TO REBOUND AFTER FALLING DURING A RECESSION IN THE COUNTRY IN THE EARLY 1980S.

IN 1989, FAMILIES IN THE MOST POPULOUS PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, WHICH IS CANADA'S INDUSTRIAL HEARTLAND, HAD THE HIGHEST AVERAGE FAMILY INCOME AT 57,330 CANADIAN DOLLARS (49,304 U.S. DOLLARS), ACCORDING TO STATISTICS CANADA.

FAMILIES IN THE EASTERN PROVINCE OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND REPORTED AVERAGE INCOMES OF 38,726 CANADIAN DOLLARS (33,304 U.S. DOLLARS), THE LOWEST IN CANADA. THE ISLAND'S MAJOR INDUSTRIES ARE TOURISM AND PRIMARY-RESOURCE-RELATED MANUFACTURING.

STATISTICS CANADA ALSO REPORTED THAT FEWER CANADIAN FAMILIES WERE LIVING BELOW THE LOW-INCOME CUTOFF, OR POVERTY LINE. IN 1989, 12.2 PERCENT OF CANADIAN FAMILIES WERE CONSIDERED LOW-INCOME, COMPARED WITH 13.1 PERCENT IN 1988.

IN A MAJOR CANADIAN CITY, ANY INDIVIDUAL EARNING A GROSS ANNUAL INCOME OF LESS THAN 12,148 CANADIAN DOLLARS (10,447 U.S. DOLLARS) WOULD BE CONSIDERED LOW-INCOME. THAT WOULD RISE TO 16,027 CANADIAN DOLLARS (13,783 U.S. DOLLARS) FOR A TWO-PERSON FAMILY AND TO 24,706 CANADIAN DOLLARS (21,247 U.S. DOLLARS) FOR A FOUR-MEMBER HOUSEHOLD.

TOKYO (NOV. 30) KYODO - JAPAN'S MAJOR OIL FIRMS ARE LIKELY TO LOWER THEIR WHOLESALE PRICES FOR PETROLEUM PRODUCTS SUCH AS GASOLINE AND KEROSENE BY ABOUT 3 YEN PER LITER EFFECTIVE FROM MID-DECEMBER, INDUSTRY SOURCES SAID FRIDAY.

THE MINOR PRICE CUTS BY THE JAPANESE OIL COMPANIES ARE A RESULT OF A FALL OF MORE THAN 3 DOLLARS PER BARREL IN THE AVERAGE SPOT PRICE OF THE BENCHMARK DUBAI CRUDE IN NOVEMBER FROM THE PRECEDING MONTH, THE SOURCES SAID.

THE REDUCTION MARKS THE FIRST ACROSS-THE-BOARD DOWNWARD PRICE ADJUSTMENT BY THE JAPANESE OIL REFINER-DISTRIBUTORS SINCE THE OUTBREAK OF THE PERSIAN GULF CRISIS AFTER IRAQ'S INVASION OF KUWAIT IN EARLY AUGUST.

THE SOURCES SAID THE AGENCY OF NATURAL RESOURCES AND ENERGY INTENDS TO ASK THE OIL COMPANIES EARLY NEXT MONTH TO CUT THEIR WHOLESALE PRICES AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE AFTER COMPLETING HEARINGS ON THE CURRENT FLUCTUATIONS IN THEIR PRODUCT COSTS.

JAPANESE OIL CONCERNS RAISED THEIR WHOLESALE PRICES FOR TWO STRAIGHT MONTHS IN SEPTEMBER BY A MARGIN OF 8 YEN AND IN OCTOBER BY ABOUT 4 YEN PER LITER IN RESPONSE TO SOARING WORLD CRUDE OIL PRICES.

IN NOVEMBER, TWO OUT OF THE 10 MAJOR OIL COMPANIES ANNOUNCED A PALTRY 0.50-0.60 YEN PER-LITER REDUCTION IN THEIR WHOLESALE PRICES, BUT THREE OTHER OIL FIRMS HIKED THE PRICES OF THEIR PETROLEUM PRODUCTS. THE REMAINING FIVE OIL CONCERNS KEPT THEIR WHOLESALE PRICES UNCHANGED IN NOVEMBER.

TOKYO (NOV. 30) KYODO - THE TOYOTA MOTOR GROUP OF COMPANIES HAS BEGUN BORROWING MONEY FROM JAPANESE BANKS TO FINANCE NEW INVESTMENT IN PLANTS AND EQUIPMENT, INDUSTRY SOURCES SAID FRIDAY.

THE SOURCES ADDED THAT THE TOYOTA GROUP HAD TO TURN TO BANKS TO FUND NEW INVESTMENTS DUE TO DIFFICULTIES IN RAISING ADEQUATE EQUITY FINANCING IN THE STOCK MARKET.

THIS IS THE FIRST TIME IN 10 YEARS FOR THESE COMPANIES TO APPROACH BANKS FOR FINANCING, AND THE GROUP WILL HAVE TO RELY ON PROFITABLE BUSINESS RESULTS TO OFFSET THE HIGHER INTEREST RATES CONNECTED WITH THEIR DEBT, THEY SAID.

TOYODA MACHINE WORKS, A TOYOTA PARTS MAKER, HAS TAKEN ON 4 BILLION YEN IN DEBT FROM JAPANESE BANKS THIS FISCAL YEAR, AND AISAN INDUSTRY, A CARBURETOR AND ENGINE VALVE SUPPLIER, HAS DECIDED TO BORROW 4 BILLION YEN.

BANGKOK (NOV. 30) KYODO - CHINA AND THAILAND AGREED ON FRIDAY TO SET UP AN AD HOC COMMITTEE TO CARRY OUT FEASIBILITY STUDIES ON THE POSSIBLE PARTICIPATION OF CHINA IN THE UNITED NATIONS-SPONSORED MEKONG RIVER DEVELOPMENT PROJECT, THAI DEPUTY FOREIGN MINISTER AMNUAY YODSOOK SAID.

THE DECISION TO SET UP THE COMMITTEE WAS REACHED AT THE 6TH MEETING OF THE THAILAND-CHINA JOINT COMMISSION ON ECONOMIC AND TRADE COOPERATION, THE DEPUTY MINISTER SAID.

THE MEKONG RIVER PROJECT, OFFICIALLY CALLED THE LOWER MEKONG BASIN DEVELOPMENT PROJECT, WAS CONCEIVED IN THE 1960S AND OFFICIALLY SPONSORED BY THE U.N. DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM (UNDP). BUT POLITICAL DIFFERENCES AMONG THE PROJECT MEMBERS, THAILAND, LAOS, CAMBODIA, AND VIETNAM, BROUGHT PROGRESS ON THE PROJECT TO A HALT.

THE PROJECT WAS RECENTLY REACTIVATED BECAUSE OF PROSPECTS OF A COMPREHENSIVE POLITICAL SOLUTION TO THE CAMBODIA PROBLEM IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

THAI FOREIGN MINISTER SUBIN PINKHAYAN RECENTLY INVITED CHINA TO CONSIDER PARTICIPATION IN THE PROJECT SINCE THE MEKONG RIVER ORGINATES IN SOUTHERN CHINA, WHERE IT IS KNOWN AS THE LANCANG RIVER.

AT THE THAILAND-CHINA JOINT COMMISSION MEETING, THE TWO SIDES ALSO AGREED TO SET THE TWO-WAY TRADE VOLUME TARGET FOR 1991 AT 6 BILLION BAHT (240 MILLION DOLLARS), OR 25 PERCENT HIGHER THAN THE TARGET FOR THIS YEAR, ACCORDING TO THE DEPUTY MINISTER.

THAILAND'S MAJOR EXPORTS TO CHINA INCLUDE RICE, RAW SUGAR, RUBBER, SYNTHETIC PRODUCTS, AND LEATHER, WHILE CHINESE EXPORTS TO THAILAND ARE MAINLY OIL, CEMENT, COAL, COTTON, PARAFFIN, AND MEDICINES.

THE COMMISSION ALSO AGREED ON A NUMBER OF TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE EXCHANGE PROGRAMS, HE SAID.

UNDER THE AGREEMENT REACHED FRIDAY, THAILAND WOULD PROVIDE CHINA WITH EXPERTISE ON THE ANIMAL FEED INDUSTRY, SHRIMP FARMING, THE LIGHT ELECTRONICS INDUSTRY, AND TOURISM, WHILE CHINA WOULD SEND ITS EXPERTS ON TUNNEL CONSTRUCTION, SILKWORM RAISING, AND A NUMBER OF OTHER AGRICULTURAL SPECIALTIES

TO THAILAND, HE SAID.

TOKYO (NOV. 30) KYODO - STRONG WINDS AND HEAVY RAIN FROM AN UNSEASONAL TYPHOON DISRUPTED AIR AND RAIL TRAFFIC THROUGHOUT CENTRAL JAPAN ON FRIDAY BEFORE FADING IN STRENGTH AND LIMPING OFF TO THE SEA OF JAPAN, THE METEOROLOGICAL AGENCY SAID.

THE UNSEASONABLY LATE TYPHOON NO. 28 LANDED EARLIER FRIDAY AFTERNOON ON THE KII PENINSULA IN WESTERN JAPAN AND MARCHED ACROSS THE MAIN ISLAND OF HONSHU, BEFORE BEING DOWNGRADED TO AN EXTRA TROPICAL LOW PRESSURE SYSTEM BY THE AGENCY.

THE RECORD SIXTH TYPHOON TO HIT JAPAN THIS YEAR IS ALSO SEASONALLY THE LATEST TO ARRIVE IN POSTWAR HISTORY. IN 1948, TYPHOON AGNES, THE 34TH OF THE SEASON, HIT THE KII PENINSULA ON NOVEMBER 19.

STIFF WINDS FRIDAY FROM THE TYPHOON, MEASURING 20 METERS PER SECOND, FORCED SHINKANSEN EXPRESS TRAINS TO REDUCE SPEEDS ALONG A 170-KILOMETER RUN BETWEEN MISHIMA, SHIZUOKA PREFECTURE, AND MIKAWAANJO, AICHI PREFECTURE.

JAPAN RAILWAY TOKAI OFFICIALS SAID THE DISRUPTIONS TO THEIR TRAIN SCHEDULES WERE EXPECTED TO CONTINUE THROUGHOUT THE DAY.

MEANWHILE, 169 FLIGHTS INTO AND OUT OF CENTRAL JAPANESE AIRPORTS WERE CANCELED BECAUSE OF THE TYPHOON, STRANDING SOME 11,000 DOMESTIC TRAVELERS.

IN WAKAYAMA, WHERE THE TYPHOON LANDED AROUND 2 P.M., SOME ELEMENTARY AND MIDDLE SCHOOLS CANCELED CLASSES SHORTLY PAST NOON WHILE SHOPPING DISTRICTS, DECORATED FOR THE HOLIDAYS, WERE LARGELY DESERTED.

LOCAL MANDARIN ORANGE FARMERS, HARVESTING THE CROP FOR THE NEW YEAR HOLIDAYS, WERE FORCED OUT OF THEIR ORCHARDS, SAYING THIS WAS THE FIRST TIME THE HARVEST WAS HALTED BY A TYPHOON.

THE METEOROLOGICAL AGENCY WARNED OF HEAVY RAINS IN WIDE AREAS ACROSS THE NATION. THE TYPHOON BROUGHT RAINFALL EXCEEDING 450 MILLIMETERS IN WESTERN AND CENTRAL JAPAN.

THE TYPHOON, WITH A CENTRAL BAROMETRIC READING OF 975 MILLIBARS, MOVED AT A SPEED OF 40 KILOMETERS PER HOUR WITH A WIND VELOCITY OF UP TO 30 METERS PER SECOND ACROSS HONSHU AND WAS EXPECTED TO CROSS INTO THE SEA OF JAPAN NEAR AKITA AROUND 3 A.M. SATURDAY, THE AGENCY SAID.

DURING THE HEIGHT OF THE STORM, WINDS WERE RAGING AT OVER 25 METERS PER SECOND WITHIN A RADIUS OF 80 KILOMETERS OF THE TYPHOON CENTER AND AT OVER 15 METERS PER SECOND WITHIN A RADIUS OF 800 KILOMETERS OF THE CENTER, THE AGENCY SAID.

TOKYO (NOV. 30) KYODO - JAPAN'S COPYRIGHT COUNCIL ON FRIDAY MADE A PROPOSAL CALLING FOR FOREIGN RECORD MAKERS AND PERFORMERS TO BE GIVEN THE SAME PROTECTION AS ACCORDED TO JAPANESE, OFFICIALS SAID.

THE COUNCIL, A GOVERNMENT ADVISORY BODY, SUGGESTED THAT THE CULTURAL AFFAIRS AGENCY SUBMIT TO THE DIET A BILL TO REVISE THE COPYRIGHT LAW ALONG ACCORDINGLY TO MEET FOREIGN CRITICISMS ABOUT DISCRIMINATION IN THE LEGAL PROTECTION OF JAPANESE AND FOREIGN PHONOGRAPH RECORDS, COMPACT DISKS, AND TAPES, AGENCY OFFICIALS SAID.

THE AGENCY WILL PRESENT THE AMENDMENT TO THE DIET AT ITS NEXT ORDINARY SESSION THE OFFICIALS SAID.

THE COUNCIL'S PROPOSAL CALLS FOR A BAN ON THE REPRODUCTION WITHOUT PERMISSION OF IMPORTED RECORDS, COMPACT DISKS, AND TAPES PRODUCED ABROAD BEFORE 1978, WHEN JAPAN BECAME A PARTY TO AN INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION ON THE PROTECTION OF RECORDS.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT ALSO PROVIDES FOR FOREIGN RECORD MAKERS AND PERFORMERS TO BE GUARANTEED THE LEGAL RIGHT TO ALLOW RENTAL RECORD SHOPS IN JAPAN TO RENT THEIR PRODUCTS TO THE PUBLIC, AND TO REQUIRE PAYMENT.

THE PROPOSAL ALSO CALLS FOR AN EXTENSION OF THE COPYRIGHT PROTECTION PERIOD TO 50 YEARS FROM THE PRESENT 30.

UNDER THE REVISED LAW, CONVICTION FOR A VIOLATION WOULD RESULT IN POSSIBLE IMPRISONMENT FOR UP TO ONE YEAR OR A FINE OF UP TO 300,000 YEN, THE SAME PENALTY AS FOR JAPANESE-MADE RECORDS.

TOKYO (DEC. 1) KYODO - JAPAN ANNOUNCED SATURDAY IT WILL DELETE APRIL 1 NEXT YEAR A PROVISION IN JAPANESE PASSPORTS WHICH VIRTUALLY BAN ITS CITIZENS FROM TRAVEL TO NORTH KOREA.

THE GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCEMENT IN SATURDAY'S OFFICIAL GOVERNMENT GAZETTE FOLLOWED A JOINT DECLARATION ISSUED LATE SEPTEMBER BY JAPAN'S RULING LIBERAL DEMOCRATIC PARTY, THE NO. 1 OPPOSITION JAPAN SOCIALIST PARTY, AND THE KOREAN WORKERS' PARTY WHICH GOVERNS NORTH KOREA.

THE DECLARATION URGED THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT TO REMOVE "ENTRIES MADE IN JAPANESE PASSPORTS WITH REGARD TO THE DEMOCRATIC PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF KOREA (NORTH KOREA)."

THE JAPANESE AND NORTH KOREAN GOVERNMENTS INITIATED PRELIMINARY TALKS AIMED AT NORMALIZING BILATERAL RELATIONS IN EARLY NOVEMBER IN ACCORD WITH PLEDGES IN THE DECLARATION.

UNDER THE CURRENT PASSPORT LAW, JAPANESE CITIZENS MUST GET SPECIAL PERMISSION FROM THE FOREIGN MINISTRY WHEN VISITING NORTH KOREA, THE ONLY COUNTRY TO WHICH SUCH A BAN APPLIES.

THE MINISTRY WILL ADOPT SIMPLIFIED LEGAL PROCEDURES BETWEEN JANUARY 1 AND MARCH 31 NEXT YEAR FOR THE ISSUE OF SUCH TRAVEL PERMITS PRIOR TO REMOVAL OF THE PROVISION, OFFICIALS SAID.

FALLS CHURCH, VA (NOV. 30) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

The COMMERCE DEPARTMENT says its index of leading indicators was down 1.2% in October. Analysts say the third consecutive monthly decline signals impeding recession.

The Nikkei loses another 258 points. ... British shares are up modestly, with the FTSE gaining 8 by early afternoon. ... U.S. stocks in London are lower, led down by IBM and GM. ... The long bond yields 8.47% and the dollar is mixed overnight. ... North Sea crude is 45 cents cheaper at $31.95.

The COMMERCE DEPARTMENT reports that personal income was up 0.1% in October overall, but down 0.5% after inflation and after being adjusted for taxes. Personal spending was flat. ... COCA-COLA and NESTLE S.A. are linking up to bring coffee or tea in a can to vending machines and supermarkets worldwide. ... GENERAL MOTORS is slashing production in reaction to sliding sales.

WHAT'S AHEAD:

TREASURY SECRETARY NICHOLAS BRADY addresses the SECURITIES INDUSTRY ASSOCIATION this morning in Florida. ... The federal gasoline tax goes up five cents a gallon tomorrow.

FROM THE BULLS:

EUGENE PERONI at JANNEY MONTGOMERY SCOTT thinks the market may be ready for a significant breakout - initially to about 2665 on the Dow. "Most of that is technical," he says. "Getting above that area will send out some very positive smoke signals: a little bit better investor conviction [and] better psychology, probably spurred by some sort of external event." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 11/29)

"It's not surprising to see investors reluctant to buy stocks since a U.N. resolution could take us to war," says MITCHELL MEISLER of LEHMAN BROTHERS. But he says his firm is bullish, even if war comes. "If there is a sell-off in the market due to a war, we think it will bounce back quickly because there is an awful lot of money waiting to come back into stocks." If the market fell below 2400, Meisler says it would be "a gift." ("Investor's Daily", 11/30)

FROM THE BEARS:

"I think we are going to start slipping from here a wee bit," says JOSEPH BATTIPAGLIA at GRUNTAL & CO. "The reason is that the Fed is already in the process of easing and that is probably the last great catalyst left that could help us along. So anticipating that, bonds have rallied [and] stocks have come up from their lows in October. Now we're going to start slipping because the economic numbers are coming out which confirm the recession - now the Fed is talking about it - and basically the investor attitude is going to become more defensive. In addition, you have to add the great uncertainty that a deadline for resolution in Kuwait adds. Because if you say Jan. 15 or else, you better mean or else. As each day passes and nothing happens, there will be a growing edginess on investors part that they had better step aside." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 11/29)

STOCK MARKET:

The market has already priced in yesterday's U.N. vote, says JAMES PIZZO, strategist at OPPENHEIMER. "Now ... the market may have some sort of lid on it going forward. The clock is ticking." The Dow is unlikely to get past 2650 even with more good news on interest rates, which Pizzo says is the only positive element driving stocks. (CNBC "World Business", 11/30)

Money manager NEIL WEISMAN, who heads CHILMARK CAPITAL PARTNERS, sees "a massive rally - which may be a bear market rally - that'll push up the Dow to 2780 by April, maybe sooner. The market is discounting the worst. All the negatives are known." ("USA Today", 11/30)

"It looked like we were going to sell off pretty hard, but the market has been finding support at around the 2500 level" on the Dow, says DALE TILLS, manager of institutional trading at CHARLES SCHWAB. "If the DJIA holds and can break above 2550, then it could rally into the mid-2600s." (WSJ, 11/30)

"All in all, the market isn't looking too badly," says TRUDE LATIMER at JOSEPHTHAL. "I was surprised there wasn't more selling [yesterday]." ("USA Today", 11/30)

"People are beginning to say, 'We're never going to pick the bottom, so let's risk a fall of another 10% so we'll get the benefit of the recovery," says HENRY SCHEMLZER at NEW ENGLAND SECURITIES in Boston in explaining an upturn in mutual fund investments. (WSJ, 11/30)

"Everytime they [short sellers] try to knock down the market ... the bids come in," says LANCE ZIPPER, head of over-the-counter trading at KIDDER PEABODY. (WSJ, 11/30)

"We are not being left behind by a new bull market," says JAMES STACK, editor of "Investech." Stack does see better internal strength but looks only for more sideways consolidation. "This market is not about to launch an assault on new all-time highs," he says. Downside leadership remaining strong on a day-to-day basis worries Stack, who's model portfolio remains invested 100% in the safety of money market funds. (CNBC "World Business", 11/30)

STOCK TIPS:

CARDINAL DISTRIBUTION "is a company on a roll," according to GEORGE ZAGOUDIS of BARRINGTON RESEARCH ASSOCIATES. "They just haven't stumbled." Cardinal set an all-time closing high of 26 on Wednesday, before slightly fading 1/4 yesterday. ("Investor's Daily", 11/30)

IBM is off three-quarters in London this morning. LEHMAN's MICHAEL BENSON says traders are worried about the sale of Big Blue's Selectric typewriter division. "People are nervous that it might be cancelled, not just delayed." (FNN "Business A.M.", 11/30)

The yield on Treasury bills could fall to 6% or less, predicts STEPHEN LEEB in "Personal Finance." "Stocks have always rallied dramatically in response to big drops in interest rates," says Leeb. Declining interest rates are one reason he sees a major buying opportunity in utility stocks, calling them "one of the most exciting growth industries of the 1990s." (CNBC "World Business", 11/30)

"The area we are buying is in the medium-capitalization sector - that is companies with market caps between $300 million and $2 billion," says KENNETH HACKLE, president of SYSTEMATIC FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT. He likes TIMES MIRROR and MEREDITH CORP. in the publishing sector. "We like NCR very much. We have a very big position in LOTUS. ... The oils are played out with two exceptions:

MOBIL and ROYAL DUTCH. An oil type play which we also own is LUBRIZOL." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 11/29)

OPPENHEIMER has identified several out-of-favor equities selling for less than five dollars which were worth many times more several years ago. Two are S&L's. "CAL FED is a three dollar stock that was forty dollars and change ... DIME SAVINGS is two and half dollars and that was as high as twenty seven," says strategist JAMES PIZZO. "What you're doing is making a bet on real estate [in New York and Los Angeles]. ... Will the recession eventually end?" (CNBC "World Business", 11/30)

J.C. PENNEY is in the "Company Spotlight" this morning in "USA Today." The article says some analysts question the company's decision to push into upscale clothing at this time. "There is some question if they've upgraded too far too fast and whether they're alienating their traditional customers," says RICHARD NELSON, analyst at DUFF & PHELPS. Still, he thinks the decision will prove to be sound over the long haul. ("USA Today", 11/30)

Investors should go into the market "with both the recession in mind and the recovery in mind," advises GEORGE JACOBSEN, JR. of TREVOR, STEWART, BURTON & JACOBSEN. He likes the drug, food, household products and energy stocks, specifically COLGATE, HEINZ and McDONALD'S. (FNN "Marketwrap", 11/29)

beverage analyst at OPPENHEIMER. "Their profit curve will probably be in the area of 20-25% a year." (CNN "Moneyline", 11/29)

Computer retailer INTELLIGENT ELECTRONICS climbed 2 to 28 after the company announced that earnings would exceed the consensus estimate of 56 cents. "I wouldn't be surprised to see a number in the upper upper 60-cent range," says KEVIN McCARTHY of MABON, NUGENT & CO. But he warns of "continued consolidation and shakeout" in the computer sales business. ("Investor's Daily", 11/30)

FALLS CHURCH, VA (NOV. 30) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

"I thought [the rebound in the dollar] was going to take place over a two-or-three week period," says ROBERT WHITE of FIRST INTERSTATE BANK. "But it all happened in one day." ("Investor's Daily", 11/30)

"I think the dollar has a lot more to the upside," says JOSEPH BATTIPAGLIA at GRUNTAL & CO. "We are still the dominant economic power in the world and once Europe recognizes their own weakness and that the integration process with Eastern Europe will take time, [that it] will be inflationary [and] will yield some unemployment, my guess is the dollar will be the currency of choice. And as the oil market stabilizes, that also will be a plus factor. And if the U.S. is successful [in the Mideast] that will bring back the notion of America as the world's policeman - again reinforcing the notion of a strong dollar. I see a big upside in the dollar for 1991." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 11/29)

"The market was looking for reasons to take the dollar up," says ANDREW SMITH of LONDON & BISHOPGATE INTERNATIONAL. But VICTOR POLCE of ALGEMENE BANK NEDERLAND says, "The fundamentals still point to the dollar going down." ("Investor's Daily", 11/30)

"FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD CHAIRMAN ALAN GREENSPAN's comments confirming a slowdown in the economy lead us to believe the Fed will ease monetary policy," says MITCHELL MEISLER of LEHMAN BROTHERS. "We foresee a significant decline in the federal funds rate, possibly to 6% from 7.5% within the next 12 months." ("Investor's Daily", 11/30)

NORMAN ROBERTSON at MELLON BANK says yesterday's personal income report is one of many recent economic reports that is likely to "persuade the Federal Reserve" to lower interest rates. He notes that the last time real income fell three months in a row was during the 1981-82 recession. (WSJ, 11/30)

"Investors today are terribly risk-averse," says LACY HUNT of MARINE MIDLAND BANK. "They do not want to take on a lot of risk and show it on their balance sheet." Because of that factor, some of the less secure bonds have seen rough waters lately. (FNN "Marketwrap", 11/29)

"If economic statistics continue to come in as they have, it will put us in the direction of seeing further declines in interest rates," says RICHARD SYRON, president of BOSTON'S FEDERAL RESERVE BANK. But he described the downturn as "a technical recession driven by temporary factors." ("Investor's Daily", 11/30)

DAVID JONES of AUBREY G. LANSTON says problems in the banking system are drying up capital and that the Fed's response has been "too timid and too slow. ... What [Alan] Greenspan should have done ... was to pleasantly shock the banking system by reducing reserve requirements. going to be the only institution to get us out." (CNN "Business Morning", 11/30)

"It's got to be something of a frustration to the Fed, I would think," says JAMES PATTERSON of CHEMICAL BANK. "They've moved interest rates lower, but, to date, that hasn't affected the cost of borrowing." (FNN "Marketwrap", 11/29)

THE ECONOMY:

"Businesses are laying off workers, they're paying them less - that squeezes income in spendable dollars," says MORGAN STANLEY's STEPHEN ROACH. "What we're seeing here is that consumers are bringing their spending into better alignment with the moderation of income generation." (FNN "Marketwrap", 11/29)

"We have enough negative numbers to prove [a recession has arrived] and, furthermore, I think it is going to last a lot longer than the consensus thinking," says DAVID JONES at AUBREY G. LANSTON. "A lot of people think it will be over by spring of next year. I think it could take perhaps two years before we are out of the soup, mainly because the banking system is in such bad shape and it is going to take a while to repair the damage." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 11/29)

"We all advise, 'Save for a rainy day' ... but very few of us do it," says DAVID BLITZER of STANDARD & POOR'S. "It's at this point, when the economy starts to go into recession, that a lot of people say, 'Oh my gosh. It's raining now.'" (FNN "Marketwrap", 11/29)

"It looks like consumer spending will be negative in the fourth quarter," says JOHN SILVIA, an economist at KEMPER FINANCIAL SERVICES. He looks for GNP to be down for the current quarter and the first three quarters of next year. "The consumer has retrenched," says GILBERT BENZ at THE SWISS BANK CORP. "It [yesterday's personal spending report] clearly supports those who say we're in a recession." (NYT, 11/30)

"We really are in a recession," says GEORGE JACOBSEN, JR. of TREVOR, STEWART, BURTON & JACOBSEN. "You can be involved in semantics, but we're clearly in a period of economic weakness." He says we should "work our way out of it" by early 1991. (FNN "Marketwrap", 11/29)

Following this month's flat personal income and spending figures, next month's will be "pretty weak," and that is "not a good sign" for the U.S. economy, according to IAN BORSOOK of MERRILL LYNCH CAPITAL MARKETS. While the depth of the recession is hard to predict, "inflation pressures are looking better," and that may help to mitigate the downward pressures says Borsook. ("Investor's Daily", 11/30)

"The economic data were very weak," says ROBERT CHANDROSS, chief economist at LLOYDS BANK. "After adjusting for inflation, consumption was lower in October than it was during any month since May. There is no strength there at all." (NYT, 11/30)

IN WASHINGTON:

PRESIDENT BUSH says bank regulations are "increasingly outmoded" and that his administration will introduce legislation next year to overhaul the banking system. "In the age of the ATM and the 800 number and in the face of intense competition from non-banks to meet the ... consumer's credit needs, we must rethink and re-examine our existing regulations and the need for change," the president told the ASSOCIATION OF BANK HOLDING COMPANIES yesterday. ("The Washington Post", 11/30)

"Recession is still not here, and we hope and think it will not be here," says Optimist of the Week and SECRETARY OF COMMERCE ROBERT MOSBACHER. He does, however, admit that "consumer confidence is on hold," and blames at least part of the downturn on the credit crunch. (CNN "Moneyline", 11/29)

The FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORP. is proposing that savings and loan institutions be permitted to convert to state-chartered savings banks. (NYT, 11/30)

"If Iraq does not reverse its course peacefully, then other necessary measures including use of force, should be authorized," says SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES BAKER about the U.N. Security Council authorization of force if Iraq does not withdraw by Jan. 15. "We must put the choice to SADDAM HUSSEIN in unmistakable terms." ("Investor's Daily", 11/20)

The current embargo against Iraq is "the most efficient alliance mounted in this century," according to a report written by GARY HUFBAUER, JEFFREY SCHOTT and KIMBERLY ANN ELLIOTT which was published by the INSTITUTE FOR INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS. "Iraq is unusually vulnerable to such economic coercion because crude oil represents 90% of its total exports and is easily monitored and interdicted," says the report. The authors conclude that since Iraq imports more than 60% of its food, sanctions would inevitably be successful, but might take as long as two years to have any real effect. SUNNYVALE, CA (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - MASS Microsystems (NASDAQ: MMIC) today provided an outlook for the fourth quarter ending Dec. 31, 1990.

"During the current quarter, we are continuing to experience pricing and margin pressures on our line of removable storage disk drive products. In addition, the recession has affected several of our multimedia distribution outlets resulting in lower than anticipated shipments. The combination of these factors could result in a net loss of approximately $500,000 for the quarter," stated Adel M. El-Shimi, president.

"We have taken swift action to maintain the company's competitiveness in this difficult operating environment," added El- Shimi. "These measures include a reduction in workforce and a voluntary senior executive pay reduction. In addition, we are aggressively implementing strategies to enhance our market position."

For the first nine months, MASS Microsystems previously reported revenue of $16,346,000 versus $13,983,000 and net income of $462,000, or 9 cents per share, versus $675,000, or 19 cents per share. As of Sept. 30, 1990, the company's book value was $1.51 per share.

MASS Microsystems is a multimedia-driven, peripheral enhancement company operating worldwide. The company manufactures the award-winning ColorSpace line of videographic products and the DataPak line of 45mb removable cartridge storage systems for the Apple Macintosh family of personal computers.

ATLANTA (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Oglethorpe Power Corp. and Georgia Power Co. have concluded negotiations on a series of agreements which enhance Oglethorpe Power's ability to buy and sell bulk power, establish new terms under which the corporation purchases power from Georgia Power, and alter the method by which jointly owned nuclear facilities are operated.

Oglethorpe Power President and CEO F.F. Stacy hailed the agreements as "significant developments that should place Oglethorpe Power in a better position to face an increasingly competitive utility environment. I'm very pleased with what we've been able to accomplish in our negotiations," he said.

He said the agreements confirm the right of Oglethorpe Power to use the state's Integrated Transmission System (ITS) to purchase power from and sell power to other utilities including those outside of Georgia. Oglethorpe Power and the other ITS owners will share capacity at all interfaces with other systems according to their proportional peak loads. Georgia Power will coordinate, dispatch and schedule Oglethorpe Power's generating resources according to schedules provided by Oglethorpe Power. The corporation, however, would have the option of assuming this function in the future.

The agreements also establish a new method by which the corporation purchases power from Georgia Power. Under the new arrangement, Oglethorpe Power will purchase from Georgia Power fixed amounts of power in future years, subject to reductions or extensions with proper notice. That amount is fixed at 1,250 megawatts for an initial nine-year term, to be paid for under a fixed rate schedule. This will replace Oglethorpe Power's current purchases under Georgia Power Co.'s partial requirements tariff.

The new agreements are subject to approval by the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) and, in certain cases, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), among others. As a result, they are not expected to be implemented before early 1991.

Oglethorpe Power Corp. is a generation and transmission cooperative providing electric power to 39 of Georgia's 42 consumer-owned EMCs. These EMCs serve more than 2 million Georgians in about 71 percent of the state's land area.

HOUSTON (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - National Asset Bank (a bank in liquidation) (NASDAQ: NABK) today announced that its board of directors had authorized a distribution to stockholders in partial liquidation of 15 cents per share of common stock. The record date for the determination of stockholders entitled to the distribution is Dec. 10, 1990, and the liquidating distribution will be paid on Dec. 27, 1990.

The liquidating distribution declared by the bank represents the fourth such distribution to be made by the bank under its plan of liquidation since its inception on Jan. 29, 1988. A spokesman for the bank stated that the 15 cents per share distribution was determined by the bank after giving consideration to, among other things, the bank's current cash accounts and anticipated obligations for operating expenses, advances, fees, taxes and other cash requirements. The spokesman added that future liquidating distributions of the bank to its stockholders will be dependent upon the amount of its future collections and expenses and will be made only after giving consideration to existing circumstances and the bank's cash requirements. Accordingly, there can be no assurance as to the amount or timing of any future liquidating distributions by the bank to its stockholders.

The outstanding shares of common stock of the bank were issued to the stockholders of Allied Bancshares Inc. as a distribution in connection with the merger on Jan. 28, 1988, of Allied with and into First Interstate Bancorp of Texas Inc.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) today placed First Southwest Savings and Loan Association, Tyler, Texas, in receivership and chartered a new federal mutual institution to take its place.

The new institution, First Southwest Federal Savings & Loan, will assume certain assets and liabilities of the old thrift, and will operate in conservatorship under the management of the Resolution Trust Corporation.

The receivership did not result in any interruption of First Southwest's day-to-day operations. The institution will remain open for business as usual. Holders of insured accounts are not affected by the action, which was taken by OTS to protect insured depositors and the interests of the thrift insurance fund.

OTS initiated the action because First Southwest was operating in an unsafe and unsound condition in that it had insufficient capital, with no prospect of replenishment without federal assistance.

First Southwest's condition is due primarily to loan losses, a high cost of funds, and the consequences of poor investment decisions made by former management beginning in 1988.

The institution had no reliable method for determining the value of its assets and engaged in a securities hedging program without the proper expertise.

Although First Southwest had a substantial residential and consumer loan portfolio, the institution invested too heavily in mutual funds and mobile home loans purchased on the market or from other institutions. Declining yields on those investments resulted in losses of $853,600. The institution booked an additional $688,000 loss on its hedging program.

As of Sept. 30, 1990, First Southwest Savings and Loan Association had assets of $51.2 million, liabilities of $53.1 million and tangible capital of negative $1.84 million, for a tangible capital-to-assets ratio of negative 3.59 percent.

PENNSAUKEN, NJ (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of MEDIQ Inc. (AMEX: MED) announced today that it had adopted a strategic plan to reshape the company, addressing the effects of the present business recession and positioning the company for the '90s and the post-recession period.

In developing the plan, MEDIQ's management and board, having previously retained Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co. Inc., examined and evaluated a number of fundamental issues:

-- Unrecognized Shareholder Value. The present market price of MEDIQ's common and preferred shares translates into a total market value of approximately $50 million. Evaluating the intrinsic value of MEDIC by analyzing each subsidiary using different methodologies including discounted cash flow analysis, comparison to publicly traded comparable companies and evaluating recent mergers and acquisitions within each industry, both Smith Barney and management said they believe that the market valuation does not reflect MEDIQ's true intrinsic value.

-- Leverage. Exclusive of the obligations of Copelco, MEDIQ's leasing and financial services subsidiary, the company has $235 million of debt, of which commercial bank obligations represent approximately $65 million. While leverage may have been a desirable method of fueling corporate growth in the '80s, it is clearly not in the '90s. Further, a reduction in debt will greatly enhance the company's operating flexibility.

-- Liquidity for Shareholders. MEDIQ's institutional investor following is minimal, contributing to a trading pattern reflecting less than desirable liquidity which in turn further discourages new institutional investment.

-- Market Perception. The market perceives the company to be an aggregation of businesses that do not benefit from being owned by a single parent. MEDIQ's shares trade at a multiple of earnings which reflects the fact that the market does not understand the company's business or direction. If traded separately, many of the company's subsidiaries would be expected to command a multiple of earnings in the mid-teens, and it is believed that none of these would trade at the lower MEDIQ multiple.

MEDIQ Inc., whose shares (MED and MED.Pr) and debentures (MED.C) are traded on the American Stock Exchange, provides products and services to hospitals, nursing homes, health care professionals and consumers through its subsidiaries. MEDIQ's businesses include diagnostic imaging and testing, maintenance of diagnostic equipment, pharmaceutical packaging, medical equipment rental, planning, design and project management of healthcare facilities, management and ownership of psychiatric units, utilization review of medical claims made to insurance companies, and financial services.

POMPANO BEACH, FL (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Agripost, Inc. (NASDAQ: AGRI) (the "company") filed a Form 12b-25 Notification of Late Filing, giving notice it is unable to timely file its annual report on Form 10-K without unreasonable effort and expense. For reasons described in detail in the Form 12b-25, the company will file its Form 10-K no later than the 15th calendar day following the prescribed due date, in accordance with Regulation 240.12b-25.

The company is filing a Form 8-K today in order to report certain events to its security holders, as follows: FACILITY OPERATIONS

The company's first solid waste processing plant (the "facility") accepted approximately 48,000 tons of waste during the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1990, and approximately 9,300 tons of Agrisoil were shipped to growers for testing. The process achieved its goal of producing a product that is consistent in quality and meets all Florida compost regulatory guidelines for Class B compost. However, the facility has not yet attained full-scale production. The company is currently operating the facility at approximately one-quarter capacity, pending required modifications to the post-composting portion of the processing equipment (the "tertiary modification"). Operating the facility at this level does not generate sufficient revenues to cover operating and interest costs and, therefore, is not viable for the long term. On Nov. 1, 1990, the company received permission from its construction lenders to draw on a letter of credit in favor of the lenders in the amount of $475,000 to provide funding for operations. It is not expected that this will be sufficient to fund operations beyond Dec. 31, 1990.

Completion of the tertiary modification will require substantial capital. The company is working on arranging this financing, but to date the company has been unable to obtain a firm commitment for such capital.

As explained in the Form 12b-25, the company, primarily as a a rs?ult of its inability to operate the facility at full capacity, is continuing to suffer substantial losses; these losses will be substantially greater than those reported for the last fiscal year. LOAN EXTENSION

Agri-Dade, Ltd., a majority-owned subsidiary of the company, has received a further extension of its construction loan to Jan. 14, 1991 (the "construction loan"). The lenders, National Westminster Bank USA and Dresdner Bank AG, have agreed to accept a note in lieu of cash payment of the accrued interest. The terms of this extension are identical to those of the previuos extensions. FINANCING

The company is continuing its efforts to raise additional funds to finance the completion of its facility and the tertiary modification. The company has received and extension until Dec. 31, 1990, of an inducement to issue industrial revenue bonds from the Dade County Industrial Development Authority. To date, the company has not been able to obtain a firm commitment for the letter of credit required as security in connection with the bond issuance. It is thus uncertain whether the company will be able to close on the bond transaction by Dec. 31, 1990. The company is, therefore, currently attempting to carry-over its bond allocation until 1991, to allow additional time to obtain the required letter of credit.

There can be no assurance that (1) the company's bond allocation can be carried over until 1991; (2) the IRS will approve such carry-over; (3) the company will be able to obtain the letter of credit required as security in connection with the bond issuance; (4) the company will be able to obtain the financing required to complete the tertiary modification; (5) the lenders will agree to any further extensions of the construction loan; or (6) the company will have sufficient funds to continue operating until the bond transaction can be completed. PERMITS

The company currently has a construction permit from the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation ("DER"), which expires in May, 1993, but not an operating permit. The company has been unable to shred and screen all of its compost to its appropriate particle size for marketing because the tertiary modification has not been completed. For this and other related reasons, the company has been forced to store substantial quantities of unscreened product adjacent to its facility site. On Aug. 7, 1990, DER issued a warning to the company alleging violations of Florida law as a result of the storage of such unscreened product on unpermitted acreage. The company is negotiating the terms of a consent order with DER reaching settlement with respect to these alleged violations. The terms of this consent order have not been agreed upon and there can be no assurance the company will reach a satisfactory resolution of this matter. DER has represented orally, however, that it will issue an operating permit as soon as the consent order is agreed upon.

The compost product from the facility is exempt from DER regulations because these regulations were finalized after the facility began operations. Nevertheless, the company has agreed to voluntarily subject the product to the full regulatory approval process. The company has voluntarily filed a Quality Assurance Plan ("QAP") with DER, which details the sampling and testing procedures to be used by the company. Approval of this QAP was received on Nov. 13, 1990, and product sampling and testing commenced on Nov. 15. DER has indicated that it would expect to approve the product by year end, assuming the test results to be submitted under the QAP are consistent with the data already submitted by the company.

The company also had a local operating permit for the facility from the Dade County Department of Environmental Resources Management ("DERM"). This permit expired in December, 1989, and has not been renewed due to issues related to the storage area. In letters dated Nov. 7 and 26, 1990, DERM has issued orders with which the company must comply in accordance with a mandatory timetable, as conditions to continued operation of the facility. According to DERM, compliance with the orders will enable DERM to renew the facility's operating permit, while failure to comply with all orders to DERM's satisfaction will result in DERM ordering the facility to cease operations and formal enforcement action against the company.

DERM's orders include but are not limited to: commencement of mandatory monitoring programs by Nov. 15, 1990; submission of plans for a trial area compost storage program by Nov. 19; completion of certain required hydrogeological reports by Nov. 23; completion of a survey and legal description of the proposed area to be used for the temporary outside storage of the composted end product by Dec. 1; submission of a stormwater management plan by Dec. 1; submission of an odor-control plan no later than Dec. 1; submission of all existing data from previous groundwater monitoring tests by Dec. 15; submission of a plan to study the long-term effects of the application of the composted end product by Jan. 30, 1991; commencement of a groundwater monitoring program by Feb. 1; and submission of evidence of compliance with the county's requirements for the compost storage area by Feb. 1, 1991. DERM has further ordered, if and when DERM approves the company's odor-control system: Submission of plans for a study to determine the long-term effects of the company's operations at the facility; performance testing of the odor-control system at incremental operating levels so DERM can determine the appropriate capacity level at which the facility will be permitted to operate; and a risk analysis of the air emissions, including potential long-term health effects.

The company has thus far met the deadlines established by DERM; however, there can be no assurances that the company's continued efforts will meet with DERM's satisfaction. ODOR PROBLEMS

During September and early October, the company experienced odor problems at the facility and received complaints from neighboring landowners and from the students and teachers of the elementary school located directly across the street from the facility. Recent publicity given to the odor problem has prompted some of the members of the Dade County Board of Commissioners to threaten to close the facility until the odor problems can be alleviated. The company may be forced to stop its acceptance of solid waste until it obtains the required capital to alleviate its odor problems.

The company believes it is necessary to install odor-control equipment, estimated to cost approximately $375,000, to alleviate the odor problems at the facility. Funds for such odor-control equipment are included in the proposed financing for the tertiary modification discussed above. No firm commitment for such financing has yet been obtained. There can be no assurance the company will be able to obtain such capital, that the odor can be eliminated through odor-control equipment, or that the estimated amounts are sufficient to alleviate the problem. CONTRACT WITH DADE COUNTY

The company is attempting to negotiate an amendment to its contract with Dade County which would, in part, increase its tipping fee for solid waste delivered to the facility by the county until the year 2002. An increased tipping fee is necessary if the company is to be able to secure the necessary financing and operate the facility on a self-sustaining basis. The amendment must be approved at a meeting of the board of commissioners, which meeting is expected in December 1990. Given the recent publicity to the odor problems at the facility, there can be no assurance the county will agree to the increase in the tipping fee included in the proposed amendment. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

The company is currently involved in two legal proceedings; the amounts claimed against the company are reflected in its financial statements: 1. Metric Constructors, Inc. vs. Agri-Dade, Ltd., by and through its managing general partner, Agripost Dade County, Inc., Case No. 90-51994, filed in the Eleventh Judicial Circuit Court of Dade County, Florida. On Oct. 24, 1990, Metric Constructors, Inc. ("Metric") served a complaint upon the company, alleging breach of contract and foreclosure of a mechanics' lien filed by Metric against the facility. Metric has claimed $1,271,050, plus interest and costs, as the balance due on the design, construction, and operational testing of the facility. The company disputes the amount claimed by Metric and believes that any amount claimed by Metric must be set off by one-half of the cost of the tertiary modification, which the company believes is Metric's responsibility. The company has not yet filed a response to the complaint. Representatives of the company and metric have met in an attempt to resolve this dispute (and the dispute referenced below) without protracted litigation, but there can be no assurance this litigation will be resolved. 2. Jones Operations & Maintenance Co. vs. Agri-Dade, Ltd., by and though its managing general partner Agripost Dade County, Inc., Case No. 90-2398, filed in the Southern District of Florida, United States District Court. On Oct. 22, 1990, Jones Operations & Maintenance Co. ("Jones") served a complaint upon the company for alleged nonpayment of monies owed to it in connection with Jones' operation and maintenance of the facility pursuant to a service agreement. Jones alleges a total of $780,595.18, plus interest and costs, is now owed to it. Jones and Metric are affiliated companies with the same parent, the Jones Group, Inc. Because the Jones Group, Inc., has guaranteed the Metric contract the company believes it has the right to set off any amounts owed Jones against Metric's obligation to pay its share of the cost of the tertiary modification. The company has not yet filed a response to the complaint. Representatives of the company and Jones have met in an attempt to resolve this dispute (and the above-referenced dispute) without protracted litigation. There can be no assurance of any acceptable settlement of this litigation at this point.

CHICAGO (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Sheldon Good & Co., the Chicago- based national real estate marketing, auction and consulting firm, and pioneer of the national real estate auction, has announced a 12-state, 15-city, multiple-property, commercial real estate auction, to begin Dec. 5 in Kansas City, Mo., and conclude Dec. 21 in Cleveland. The firm, recognized as the nation's largest real estate auction firm, will offer properties from corporate sellers including Burger King, Chevron, Chrysler and McDonald's Corporations; retailer W. Bell & Co., Meritor Financial Group; Great West Life; and Kinark Corp. According to Good & Co. President Steven L. Good, "The real estate auction has come into its own as a state-of-the-art marketing tool for residential properties throughout the country. Now, major corporations are discovering the technique works well for the disposition of surplus real estate."

Corporate sellers, says Good, are once again taking advantage of the multi-site, multi-property auction program his firm developed in 1985. "One of the key benefits of this program is the cost efficiency generated by the shared marketing and promotion effort. The properties are exposed to a much broader audience, at a lower cost, than with more conventional marketing methods. And from the buyers' viewpoint, the savings in carrying costs achieved by the auction's accelerated time frame provide tremendous opportunity to acquire choice commercial industrial and office properties at attractive prices."

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) today placed San Jacinto Savings Association, Bellaire, Texas, in conservatorship and appointed the Resolution Trust Corporation to manage the institution.

The takeover did not result in any interruption of San Jacinto's day-to-day operations. The institution and its 20 branches will remain open for business as usual. Holders of insured accounts are not affected by the action, which was taken by OTS to protect insured depositors and the interests of the thrift insurance fund. Deposits remain insured to the $100,000 legal limit.

OTS initiated the action because San Jacinto was operating in an unsafe and unsound condition in that it had insufficient capital, with no prospect of replenishment without federal assistance.

San Jacinto's condition is due primarily to a consistent pattern of losses suffered on high-risk real estate investments made after it was acquired by Southmark Financial Corporation, a diversified real estate and financial services company based in Dallas. Southmark declared bankruptcy in July 1989.

Poor underwriting, the slumping Texas economy and inattention to interest rate risk by San Jacinto and Southmark led to a debilitating level of delinquencies and reposssessions. As of Sept. 30, 1990, delinquent loans and real estate owned totaled $837 million, or 26 percent of total assets. In all, assets of $1.5 billion, or 45 percent of total assets, were termed by regulators as troubled.

The institution had inadequate procedures for setting aside loss reserves, and relied excessively on brokered deposits to fund its real estate investments. As of Sept. 30, 45 percent of San Jacinto's deposits were brokered.

Southmark purchased San Jacinto in October 1983 as a primary source of capital to finance its nationwide real estate enterprise. By 1986, San Jacinto had grown from $450 million in assets to a $3 billion institution, largely through income property loans and real estate syndications sponsored by Southmark. Within two years of the acquisition, more than 80 percent of San Jacinto's mortgages were high-risk, non-traditional loans. As of Sept. 30, 1990, the institution had 122 subsidiaries.

NEW CASTLE, PA (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - John W. Sant, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of First Western Bancorp Inc. (NASDAQ: FWBI), New Castle, Pa., today announced that it had completed the acquisition of First Federal of Western Pennsylvania, located in Sharon, Pa., under the terms of an agreement and plan of reorganization that had been approved by both First Western's and First Federal's stockholders at special meetings held on Nov. 20 1990, and earlier by all applicable regulatory and governmental agencies. The transaction, valued at approximately $21.4 million, is to date the largest bank holding company acquisition of a healthy savings association in Pennsylvania, under provisions of the Aug. 9, 1989, enactment of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989, known as FIRREA.

The agreement provided that First Federal would become a separate, wholly owned savings association subsidiary of First Western and that stockholders of First Federal would receive $19.00 cash or .76 shares of First Western common stock, or a combination thereof, in exchange for all of the shares of First Federal common stock owned by them. The election deadline for those stockholders of First Federal wishing to elect the form of consideration that they desired in exchange for their shares expired on Nov. 20, 1990. The aggregate purchase price to be paid by First Western is approximately 40 percent in cash and 60 percent in First Western common stock. Since total cash elections were received by the exchange agent in excess of the 40 percent cash limitation, First Western has determined that a proration factor will be applied to all parties electing cash (exclusive of odd lot shareholders), or a combination of cash and stock, such that approximately 56 percent of the cash elected will be accepted for cash payment and First Western common stock will be delivered for the remaining 44 percent of the cash elected.

First Western expects to mail checks and stock certificates in accordance with prorated elections on or about Dec. 7, 1990, to First Federal stockhl?ders who had completed proper election forms and delivered their shares of First Federal common stock to the exchange agent. Those remaining stockholders of First Federal who did not respond will automatically be determined as eligible to receive First Western common stock. Such shares will be held by First Western until such First Federal stockholders submit their First Federal shares to the exchange agent or First Western.

Since 1984, First Western's basic strategic plan has been to create a significant banking presence in the proposed Route 60 corridor from the new Pittsburgh International Airport to Interstate 80 running east-west through Mercer County. First Western's current 18 banking locations in Allegheny, Beaver, Butler and Lawrence counties cover about two-thirds of this corridor.

First Western anticipates this corridor will have a strong and steadily growing economy for the foreseeable future, an ideal banking climate. First Federal's seven Pennsylvania banking locations, mainly in Mercer County, are ideally situated to complete First Western's presence in this Route 60 corridor. First Federal's three branches in the Ashtabula, Ohio, area will provide a beginning franchise in Ohio.

First Federal is a federally chartered savings association located in Sharon, Pa., with seven western Pennsylvania branch offices located in Mercer, Butler and Venango counties and three northeastern Ohio offices located in Ashtabula County. As of Sept. 30, 1990, First Federal had total assets of approximately $342 million. First Federal is a profitable and healthy thrift with capital in excess of present regulatory requirements. First Western will bring to First Federal additional consumer, commercial and trust services to better serve its customers. First Western believes there is potential for earnings improvements at First Federal as First Western's higher profit margin commercial banking products are added to First Federal's base of business.

First Western, which had total assets of approximately $583 million as of Sept. 30, 1990, will have in excess of $900 million in assets as a result of the acquisition, with three banking subsidiaries and 28 branches in western Pennsylvania and northeastern Ohio. First Western's headquarters will remain in New Castle, Pa., but each subsidiary's headquarters remain in the community in which it is based. Existing subsidiaries First National Bank of Western Pennsylvania and Beaver Trust Co. are based in New Castle and Beaver, Pa., respectively. First Federal of Western Pennsylvania's headquarters will remain in Sharon, Pa., as a separate subsidiary of First Western.

Effective with the closing, Stephen R. Sant, previously a vice president with First Western, will assume the responsibilities of president and chief executive officer at First Federal, positions previously held by Donald H. Mong, who is retiring but who will remain as chairman of First Federal's board of directors.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) today placed First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Nacogdoches, Nacogdoches, Texas., in receivership and chartered a new federal mutual institution to take its place.

The new institution, First Federal Savings Association of Nacogdoches, will assume certain assets and liabilities of the old thrift, and will operate in conservatorship under the oversight of the Resolution Trust Corporation.

The takeover did not result in any interruption of First Federal's day-to-day operations. The institution will remain open for business as usual. Holders of insured accounts are not affected by the action, which was taken by OTS to protect insured depositors and the interests of the thrift insurance fund. Deposits remain insured to the $100,000 legal limit.

OTS initiated the action because First Federal was operating in an unsafe and unsound condition in that it had insufficient capital with no prospect of replenishment without federal assistance.

First Federal's condition is due primarily to poor asset management, poor accounting records and operating losses resulting from a high level of non-performing assets. As of Sept. 30, 1990, repossessions and delinquent loans totaled $8.8 million, or 14.3 percent of total assets. Commercial overbuilding and a depressed local economy contributed to First Federal's asset deterioration.

Since June 1990, the institution has been operating under regulatory directives to upgrade its asset classification procedures and to improve appraisals on real estate owned.

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Nacogdoches was a federally chartered stock association. Shareholders will retain no interest in the new institution.

As of Sept. 30, 1990, First Federal reported assets of $61.9 million, liabilities of $61.8 million and tangible capital of $23,000, for a tangible capital-to-assets ratio of 0.04 percent.

RALEIGH, N.C. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Firstcorp, Inc. today announced the following developments:

I. Changes in the Board of Directors Willard G. Ross, acting President of Firstcorp, Inc., announced that Firstcorp, Inc. and its principal subsidiary, First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Raleigh (FFR), had restructured their respective boards of directors. He noted that each individual serving on the various boards of the subsidiaries of Firstcorp will continue to serve as a director; however, the memberships of the boards had been realigned to serve better the interests and goals of the respective companies. Messrs. Stone and Strawbridge, previous members of the board of Firstcorp, have rejoined the board and Messrs. Riley and Whalen, Directors of First Federal of Durham, have also joined the board.

As restructured, the membership of the boards of directors of Firstcorp and FFR are as follows:

Firstcorp First Federal Raleigh Texanna J. Montague
Karl G. Hudson, Jr. Ralph C. Moore Bertram A. Jones James M. Poyner Edward G. Lilly, Jr. Homer L. Riley
James D. Lumsden James H. Sparger Willard G. Ross Walker S. Stone
J. Nelson Strawbridge Dr. Robert E. Whalen II. Stock Quotations Having previously reported that its Class A common stock was being delisted from the AMEX, Firstcorp announced that its common stock will be traded over the counter with quotations over the National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotation System (NASDAQ).

III. Consent Agreement At the time of the Office of Thrift Supervision's (OTS) disapproval of the capital plan and based on the insufficient level of capital of Firstcorp's subsidiary, FFR, the OTS requested FFR to enter into a Consent Agreement. Firstcorp announced today that FFR has entered into the Consent Agreement with OTS which contains restrictions substantially the same as those under which the institution is currently operating.

Mr. Ross, President of FFR, stated, "The Consent Agreement will have very little effect on the day to day operations of First Federal. In fact, I'd be surprised if our depositors notice any difference in the service they receive and of course their accounts will continue to be insured."

HONOLULU (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - First Hawaiian Inc. (NASDAQ: FHWN) is "pleased with" a Federal Reserve Board decision issued today to allow its purchase of First Interstate of Hawaiian Inc., according to a statement by Walter A. Dods, Jr., First Hawaiian Inc. chairman, president and chief executive officer.

"The Board's decision confirms what we have been saying al along: that the merger is pro-competitive, is good for Hawaii and will enable us to build an even stronger financial institution," according to Dods. "We are pleased with the Board's action and believe that the decision is fair, especially in light of recent decisions by the Board, including one in our own market."

The board's order provides for a 30-day waiting period before the acquisition can be consummated.

Last month, the Department of Justice issued a report to the board saying that it objected to the merger on the grounds that it was anti- competitive. Subsequently, First Hawaiian submitted a follow-up report to the board, stating that the Justice's report contained many inaccuracies and was narrow in its focus.

"If the Department of Justice decides to file a suit, we will do our best to present our case to the courts. If no objections are filed, we will move to close the purchase as soon as possible after the 30-day waiting period," concluded Dods.

First Hawaiian Inc. is a one-bank holding company whose principal subsidiary is First Hawaiian Bank, one of the two largest financial institutions in Hawaiian with nearly $5 billion in total assets. First Interstate of Hawaii Inc. is the holding company for First Interstate Bank of Hawaii, the state's fourth-largest financial with nearly $900 million in total assets.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Wickes Companies, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of WCI Holdings Corp., today reported operating income of $24.4 million on sales of $651.8 million for the third quarter ended Oct. 27, 1990, compared with operating income of $10.7 million on sales of $746.9 million in the comparable period of the prior year. For the nine-month period the company reported operating income of $73.7 million on sales of $2.0 billion compared with operating income of $44.7 million on sales of $2.3 billion for the nine-month period last year. Operating income for the quarter and nine-month period ended Oct. 28, 1989, is after restructuring costs of $7.3 million and $13.5 million, respectively.

For the third quarter, the company reported a net loss of $41.7 million compared to net income of $161.1 million in the third quarter of the prior year. For the nine-month period of the current year, the company reported a net loss of $31.4 million compared with net income of $164.8 million in the prior year. Net income for the third quarter and nine-month period ended Oct. 27, 1990, includes extraordinary gains on the repurchase of debt of $8.1 million and $46.6 million, respectively. Net income of the prior year third quarter and nine-month periods include income from discontinued operations, principally gains on disposal of the discontinued businesses, of $150.8 million and $209.3 million, respectively. Additionally, extraordinary gains on the repurchase of debt were $41.0 million in the third quarter of the prior year.

Wickes also announced that its board of directors authorized additional expenditures of up to $150 million for the repurchase from time to time of its outstanding publicly traded debt. Purchases may be made through open market or privately negotiated transactions. The timing of any repurchases will depend on market conditions, available cash and other relevant factors. The repurchases will be funded by cash from operations, borrowings under existing lines of credit and the proceeds of any additional financing that the company may obtain. The company is currently exploring a number of financing alternatives.

GRAND RAPIDS, MI (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Old Kent Financial Corporation (NASDAQ: OKEN) announced today that it has acquired the assets of St. Charles Federal Savings Association totaling approximately $92 million. The thrift has three offices, all located in St. Charles, Ill., with total deposits of approximately $89 million. Old Kent acquired the thrift through its subsidiary, Old Kent Bank, N.A., Elmhurst, Ill., in an auction held by the Resolution Trust Corporation, the federal agency responsible for liquidating failed savings and loan associations. Old Kent paid a bid premium of $1,725,000 and assumed certain of the thrift's liabilities in the transaction, which was completed today.

John C. Canepa, president and chairman of Old Kent, said, "This acquisition complements Old Kent's existing offices in St. Charles, Elmhurst, Naperville, Rolling Meadows, and Wheaton, Ill. Old Kent continues to view the Suburban Chicago communities as attractive markets for expansion."

Old Kent recently announced a pending transaction with First Federal Savings Bank and Trust, Pontiac, Mich., to acquire six of that thrift's branches, all located in southeastern Michigan. Old Kent is a multi- bank holding company based in Grand Rapids, Mich. Old Kent owns 19 affiliate banks with 197 banking offices located in Michigan and Illinois. As of Sept. 30, 1990, Old Kent had total assets of approximately $8.2 billion.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Calvary Holdings, Inc. announced today that it intends to commence a tender offer for all of the outstanding shares of the common, $1.00 par value, stock of Diceon Electronics, Inc. (NASDAQ: DICN) at $5.25 per share. The offer is conditioned upon, among other matters, obtaining the required financing to consummate the transaction and the purchaser's satisfaction that the terms of the Delaware Business Combination Statute will not be applicable to the transaction which, in turn, is likely to require approval of the tender offer by the company's board of directors.

Calvary indicated that it has been informed that Diceon's annual meeting is scheduled to be held on Jan. 16, 1991, at which shareholders of record on Nov. 27, 1990, will be entitled to vote. Accordingly, shares purchased after Nov. 19, 1990, and settled in the ordinary five business day settlement period without receipt of a proxy from the record owner will not be able to vote at the meeting.

In connection with the annual meeting, Calvary notified Diceon on Nov. 27, 1990, that it intended to nominate a slate of directors and propose certain amendments to Diceon's by-laws which, if approved by a majority of the shares present and voting at the meeting, could result in the disqualification of the existing members of the board and Calvary obtaining control of Diceon's board of directors. If the amendments to the by-laws are not authorized at the meeting, only a single seat on the four member board will be up for election at the annual meeting. If Calvary's nominees are successful in obtaining control of Diceon's board, they have announced that they intend to consider options to maximize shareholder value, including the possible approval of the tender offer made by Calvary or any other offer at a price which represents a substantial premium over market.

Calvary also announced that on Nov. 21, 1990, it delivered to the company a letter offering to purchase all of the company's shares for $5.25 per share, which offer expired at 6 p.m. California time, Nov. 25, 1990. On the date Calvary delivered its letter to the company the stock closed at $2.50 per share, and thus the offer was more than twice the closing market price for the company's shares. Neither the company nor any member of the company's board of directors responded to Calvary's proposal.

Calvary Holdings, Inc. was formed by Calvary Partners, LP, a San Diego-based LBO research and deal origination firm. Diceon, headquartered in Irvine, Calif., manufactures sophisticated multi-layer printed circuit boards for the computer industry.

HARTFORD, CONN. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Society for Savings Bancorp, Inc. ("Society") (NASDAQ: SOCS), a diversified bank holding company, said tody that its board of directors has approved a plan designed to refocus the institution on its core strengths and geographic markets, reduce expenses, ensure a strong financial condition and restore profitability.

Society will shrink the assets of its banking subsidiary, Society for Savings ("the bank"), by up to $1.6 billion over the next 13 months and reduce significantly the bank's work force and non-staff related expenses.

The totality of these steps would result in an estimated after-tax loss in the fourth quarter which ends Dec. 31, of approximately $54.4 million (or $4.57 per share). The anticipated loss for the year is expected to be $52.0 million (or $4.37 a share). The 1990 loss includes a restructuring charge of $58.6 million, after related tax benefits, attributable to the anticipated sale of non-performing commercial real estate loans and other real estate owned, sales of securities in the fourth quarter of 1990, sales of other assets the bank expects to complete in 1991 and severance expenses attributable to the restructuring. The bank said the restructuring charge assumes some further deterioration in the economy and in the quality of the assets to be divested.

The restructuring will bring the total level of valuation reserves for loans (including those loans identified for sale) and real estate owned to $103.5 million, prior to charge-offs, from the $49.5 million reserve level at Sept. 30, 1990. Reserves would be used to absorb any losses incurred on asset sales.

While the losses from the restructuring charge will have an initial negative effect on the capital ratios of Bancorp and the bank, the anticipated year-end capital ratios are expected to be above the regulatory requirements on both a leverage and risk-based capital basis. In addition, management estimates that Bancorp's equity to asset ratio will be approximately 5.46 percent at Dec. 31, 1990. Society's equity and retained earnings account at Dec. 31, 1990 is anticipated to be approximately $213 million or $17.88 per share.

Society said the steps authorized reflect a careful assessment of prevailing industry conditions and the New England regional economic environment affecting the bank. This review included a rigorous analysis of the bank's assets and liabilities in light of the industry- wide, continuing deterioration in the quality of some asset categories, the present and likely future cost associated with some funding sources, and the continuing pressure on interest spreads that afflicts financial organizations generally.

NEWTOWN SQUARE, PA. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - ARCO Chemical Co. (NYSE: RCM) announced today that Harold A. Sorgenti, its president and chief executive officer, has elected to take early retirement effective June 30, 1991.

He will be succeeded by Alan R. Hirsig, 51, currently a senior vice president of ARCO Chemical Company and president of ARCO Chemical Europe. His appointment is effective Jan. 1, 1991.

Sorgenti, 56, has been elected vice chairman of ARCO Chemical Co.'s board of directors, effective Jan. 1, 1991, and will continue as a director of the company following his retirement.

"Hal's tenure at ARCO Chemical Company has been one of remarkable achievement " said ARCO Chemical chairman Lodwrick M. Cook. "The company has been a textbook case of responsible worldwide growth, and Hal has been the leader in that effort.

"We regret Hal's early departure and wish him well," Cook continued. "He has been a leader in the chemical industry for many years, starting with his early work in the laboratories of Atlantic Refining Co. where he was instrumental in helping develop ARCO Chemical's proprietary process for manufacturing propylene oxide, a technological breakthrough."

In announcing his retirement, Sorgenti said: "I've had a long and satisfying relationship with ARCO for over 30 years. The past 11 years as president of ARCO Chemical Company have been especially exciting and gratifying, but it's time to move on to other challenges."

ARCO Chemical Company is a leading multi-national manufacturer and marketer of intermediate chemicals and specialty products used in a broad range of consumer goods. Principal product lines include propylene oxide and derivatives such as urethanes, intermediates and solvents, tertiary butyl alcohol and derivatives such as MTBE, and styrene monomer and derivatives.

WORCESTER, MASS. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Transgenic Sciences, Inc. (NASDAQ: TSIN) announced today that it has acquired a 57,000-square-foot preclinical testing facility in Redfield, Ark. TSI plans to use the facility to expand its testing activities into the agricultural chemical and veterinary drug areas. Terms of the acquisition, from the Simmons First National Bank in Pine Bluff, Ark., were not disclosed.

"This excellent facility will allow us to expand rapidly our overall preclinical/toxicology testing capacity and to enter two new market segments," said Jim Sherblom, TSI's chairman and chief executive officer. "At full capacity, the facility has the potential to increase our existing preclinical testing revenues by well over 50 percent." TSI's current preclinical testing business is focused on human therapeutics and vaccines. Sherblom added that the facility "offers proximity to the FDA's National Center for Toxicological Research, with whom we anticipate developing important research collaborations and the University of Arkansas' new biomedical research center."

The Simmons First National Bank, Arkansas Industrial Development Commission and the Arkansas Science and Technology Authority participated in the financing. "We are pleased to join the Arkansas biotechnology/biomedical research community," commented Sherblom. "TSI was particularly impressed with the commitment to biotechnology by Governor Clinton, Senator Bumpers and the Jefferson County Industrial Foundation, as well as by the other state agencies that helped pave the way for the acquisition."

The facility, located on a 45-acre site, was developed in the early 1980s to provide preclinical testing services to the federal government and to private companies.

TSI is a life sciences company developing advanced toxicology tests and disease models based on genetic engineering and transgenic techniques to improve the efficiency of the pharmaceutical/chemical development process. TSI is also developing animal strains capable of producing commercially valuable pharmaceutical proteins, as well as strains with desirable growth and genetic characteristics.

HARRISBURG, PA. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Keystone Financial, Inc. (NASDAQ: KSTN), the 10th largest multi-bank holding company in Pennsylvania, today announced its second cash dividend increase during 1990. The fourth quarter dividend will rise to 25 cents per share payable Jan. 20, 1991, to shareholders of record on Jan. 12, 1991.

This is a 16 percent increase over the dividend paid in the fourth quarter of 1989 and a nine percent increase over the 23 cents per share paid for the third quarter of this year. In July 1990, the cash dividend was increased in connection with a stock split. The cash dividend has been raised annually since Keystone was formed in 1984, including increases totaling 56 percent since 1988.

Carl L. Campbell, president and chief executive officer, stated, "Keystone's record earnings performance for 1990 has contributed to our confidence in the company's future. The substantial dividend increases that we have enjoyed provide tangible evidence that our board of directors strongly believes shareholders should participate in the progress of the company."

Keystone Financial has three member banks -- Pennsylvania National Bank, Pottsville; Northern Central Bank, Williamsport; and Mid-State Bank, Altoona -- which operate 93 community offices in 20 Pennsylvania counties.

OSAKA, JAPAN (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Matsushita Electric Industrial Co., Ltd. (NYSE: MC) announced today that its subsidiary, Matsushita Acquisition Corp., commenced its previously announced tender offer for all outstanding shares of common stock of MCA INC. (NYSE: MCA) at $66 per share in cash. As part of the transaction, MCA shareholders will also receive shares in the MCA subsidiary which owns WWOR-TV, MCA's independent television station based in Secaucus, N.J. The aggregate value of the transaction to MCA shareholders is approximately $6.13 billion plus the value of the WWOR-TV shares.

The boards of directors of both companies have approved the transaction. The tender offer is conditioned upon, among other things, Matsushita receiving valid tenders for more than 50 percent of MCA's outstanding common stock on a fully diluted basis. Consummation of the offer is also subject to receipt of necessary regulatory approvals for the WWOR-TV spin-off and to payment of the WWOR-TV dividend. Certain customary conditions must also be satisfied.

The tender offer and withdrawal rights are scheduled to expire at 12:01 a.m. on Saturday, Dec. 29, 1990, unless extended.

On Nov. 26, 1990, MCA and Matsushita jointly announced that they had signed a definitive agreement providing for the acquisii?on of MCA by Matsushita. NEW YORK (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Nagelvoort & Company Inc today announced the closing of two related transactions. NCO Investors, L.P., an investment partnership formed by the principals of Nagelvoort & Company, and David J. Skidmore have acquired a substantial interest in JRM Holdings, Inc. (NASDAQ: JRMX). In conjunction with this transaction, JRM Holdings, through its newly formed subsidiary, DJS Industries, Inc., has acquired the assets of the LeRoi Princeton Hosiery division of Munsingwear, Inc. (NYSE: MUN). Terry L. Nagelvoort will be named the new president and chairman of JRM Holdings and Skidmore has been named president and chief executive officer of DJS Industries.

LeRoi Princeton manufactures and markets children's hosiery, sleepwear and playwear. The principal sales and marketing office is in New York City and production facilities are located in Princeton, Ky.

Skidmore brings over 25 years of experience within the apparel industry to LeRoi. Skidmore previously was president of the Gold Toe Hosiery division of Cluett Peabody & Co. and vice president of sales for the H.D. Lee Company, a division of VF Corporation where he had sales responsibilities for over $800 million annually. Skidmore believes, "LeRoi Princeton can efficiently bring 'market-right' products to its customers due to its vertical manufacturing capability. Further, given its solid capital base, it is poised to take advantage of significant growth opportunities."

Nagelvoort is also enthusiastic about the prospects for LeRoi and said, "This investment epitomizes many of the ideals we seek for our investors. LeRoi is a good, solid business with historical profitability in a niche market that is generally less cyclical than the apparel industry in aggregate. With the experience of Dave at the helm, we should accomplish superior investment returns for the shareholders of JRM. This is an excellent opportunity that brings together an outstanding manager, a good business and additional capital to fund growth in a corporate form with public shareholders. Our goals are clear: to participate in a growth opportunity with our operating partners and to provide high returns to our capital partners. NCO Investors is pleased to be a part of this transaction."

LeRoi has annual sales over $25 million and employs approximately 400 people. Financing for the transaction was provided by Congress Financial Corporation, JRM Holdings, and NCO Investors.

GREAT NECK, N.Y. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Hudson General Corporation (AMEX: HGC) announced today that the Kohala Joint Venture, a joint venture between Hudson General and Oxford First Corporation, has entered into an agreement pursuant to which a third party will purchase land and develop a 27-hole golf course in Project IV (the Village) at Kohala Ranch. The agreement is subject to numerous conditions, and there can be no assurance that the conditions will be satisfied or that the transaction will be consummated. The Kohala Joint Venture is the developer of approximately 4,000 acres of land in the North Kohala region on the Island of Hawaii.

Based upon Hudson's equity interest in the Venture, Hudson's share of the purchase price will be approximately $30 million. Approximately 50 percent of the purchase price will be paid to the Venture in cash at closing. The balance of the purchase price, which will be deposited in escrow at the closing, will be paid to the Venture upon the Venture meeting specific conditions of the agreement but in no event later than Jan. 2, 1992. Following the closing, the purchaser is obligated to construct a 27-hole premium golf course. Among the conditions to the consummation of the agreement is that the purchaser perform a satisfactory due diligence review prior to Jan. 14, 1991 and that the parties enter into mutually acceptable agreements relating to the development of the golf course, including special golf course privileges for Kohala Ranch owners, and certain other matters. Assuming satisfaction of the conditions, the agreement provides that the closing occur by Jan. 29, 1991.

Thomas Giles, vice president of the Kohala Joint Venture, stated: "This transaction is an attractive opportunity that will ensure that Kohala Ranch will continue to be developed as a first class community to the benefit of not only its residents but to the entire North Kohala region."

The Kohala Joint Venture has to date developed three phases of Kohala Ranch with parcels ranging in size from three to ten acres. The Venture is currently seeking to change the zoning for the approximately 1,300 acres at the Village in order to develop a master planned community there. Subject to receiving final zoning approval, the Village is expected to include, in addition to the golf course, 1,490 residential units containing medium density half-, three-quarter- and one-acre parcels, as well as a shopping village and community facilities.

Hudson General Corporation provides various services to airlines, airport operators and the general aviation community throughout the United States and Canada.

MINNEAPOLIS (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Cray Research, Inc. (NYSE: CYR), announced today that Mazda Motor Corporation in Hiroshima- ken, Japan, has ordered a CRAY Y-MP2E computer system and Solid State Storage Device (SSD), with a total system value of approximately $8 million. This is the second order of Cray Research's new CRAY Y-MP2E system and the first CRAY Y-MP2E system order outside the United States.

The purchased system will be installed at Mazda's headquarters in first quarter 1991. The new system is the largest CRAY Y-MP2E supercomputer shipped to date with 32 megawords (million words) of memory. It will be used for automotive computer-aided engineering applications such as structural analysis and crash simulation. This system is Mazda's second Cray Research supercomputer; the company has a CRAY X-MP system, which it bought in April 1989.

"When the new system is installed, Mazda will be one of only three worldwide automotive manufacturers that own two Cray Research supercomputers," said John Rollwagen, Cray Research chairman and chief executive officer. "This second sale to Mazda signifies the company's continuing commitment to excellence in automotive design and manufacturing."

Mazda's system will use Cray Research's powerful UNICOS operating system, based on AT&T UNIX System V, an industry standard.

Cray Research has 258 systems installed worldwide; 20 systems are installed at automotive companies in seven countries around the world. Of the 20 automotive systems, eight are located in Japan.

Cray Research, Inc., designs, manufactures, markets, and supports large-scale, high performance computer systems for scientific and engineering applications.

UNIX is a registered trademark of AT&T.

RICHMOND, VA. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Reynolds Metals Company (NYSE: RLM), which started national consumer recycling of aluminum cans more than 20 years ago, is now putting its most famous product, Reynolds Wrap aluminum foil, to work in the drive to recycle more aluminum for a better environment.

The company has announced that new Reynolds Wrap aluminum foil programs will emphasize recycling of household aluminum foil and foil products such as foil ware, pie pans and TV-dinner trays, in addition to aluminum cans.

Pointing out that for the past 10 years the company has been recycling more aluminum cans than it produces annually, the company said it is broadening the program to ensure recycling of all its consumer and packaging products, and will be using recyclable Reynolds Wrap aluminum foil to help carry the message to millions of American consumers.

Reynolds said that it is launching pilot programs in five U.S. metropolitan areas to increase consumer awareness that foil and other used aluminum products besides beverage cans are recyclable and are being recycled. Cities included are the Baltimore/Washington, D.C., area; San Francisco, Calif.; Seattle, Wash.; Tampa, Fla.; and Richmond.

"Consumers today are increasingly concerned about the environmental impact of products they buy," said John M. Lowrie, vice president and general manager of the Reynolds Consumer Products Division. "Our Reynolds Wrap aluminum foil is recyclable because it can be recycled every day through our company's aluminum recycling centers."

Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company's staffed centers around the nation accept relatively clean aluminum foil, foil containers and all forms of miscellaneous aluminum scrap, in addition to beverage cans. Reynolds said it is working to encourage solid waste companies, municipal curbside operations and other recycling locations nationwide to do the same, stating that it will buy back the clean aluminum foil and other aluminum household scrap they collect.

ASHLAND, KY (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Ashland Oil Inc. (NYSE: ASH) today reported that it has entered into a settlement agreement with its former chairman and chief executive officer, Orin E. Akins, under which Ashland will receive an estimated value of $2.25 million, it was announced today.

Atkins appears today in federal court in New York for sentencing on charges of wire fraud and conspiracy. Atkins pleaded guilty on Sept. 14, 1989, to the charges in connection with the attempted sale by Atkins and others of confidential Ashland documents and information to agents of the National Iranian Oil Co. for use against Ashland in litigation.

Ashland had filed a request for restitution with the court to cover costs incurred by the company to investigate the conspiracy, as well as consulting and supplemental retirement benefits paid to Atkins during the course of the conspiracy. At the recommendation of the U.S. District Court in New York and of the U.S. Attorney, Ashland and Atkins entered into negotiations which led to the settlement.

In commenting on the settlement, Ashland's attorney John C. Elam said, "Based on all circumstances, including Mr. Atkins' financial condition, Ashland has entered into an agreement which is in its best interests and that will save its shareholders' money and the court's time."

The agreement provides for release by Atkins of all rights to any corporate benefits other than benefits protected from termination by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA). The release of these benefits will result in savings to Ashland of more than $2 million, based on actuarial assumptions. The settlement agreement further provides for payment by Atkins of $250,000 to Ashland.

ATLANTA (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Fisher Business Systems Inc. (NASDAQ: FBUS) dba Fisher Restaurant Systems, today announced that the board of directors has approved a stock repurchase program by the company.

The company may repurchase up to 100,000 shares of its common stock from time to time in the open market or through privately negotiated transactions. The purchased shares will be held as treasury stock and used for such corporate purposes as the board of directors may determine. Presently there are 5,015,857 shares outstanding.

Commenting on the company's recently announced third quarter results, Larry Fisher, president, stated: "We are pleased to report our third successive profitable quarter and our fourth in the last five. We have already exceeded our revenue total for all of last year. Installations of the Fisher System at Denny's continue at a strong pace, and we have begun to install our system in International House of Pancakes corporate and franchised stores.

"We expect our fourth quarter revenues to be significantly higher than in prior years. Installations by restaurants tend to slow down during the holiday season, but we entered the fourth quarter with a strong order backlog. Therefore we anticipate an improvement in results of operations as compared to the fourth quarter of last year."

Revenues for the quarter ended Oct. 31 were $2,360,101 as compared to $2,092,530 for the same period last year. The profit for the quarter was $26,131 or $.01 per share, as compared to $34,586 or $.01 per share for the third quarter of last year. Revenues for the nine months ended Oct. 31 were $7,642,895 as compared to $4,226,414 for the same period last year, and profits for the nine months were $180,276 or $.04 per share, as compared to a loss of $522,260 or $.13 per share for the same period last year.

The company produces and markets computer-based Point-of-Sale and Restaurant Accounting Systems which are based on the IBM Personal System/2 family of business computers. These fully integrated application solutions are sold by a direct sales force to restaurants, country clubs, and other non-fast food eating establishments.

MINNEAPOLIS (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - ULTIMAP CORPORATION announced today that the Houston-Galveston Area Council of Governments (H-GAC) has selectedi?Map(R) for their Geographic Information System (GIS). The initial contract is valued at $213,000.

"After an extensive review of GIS vendors, systems, and users, H-GAC selected UltiMap," said Max Samfield, manager of Data Services for HGAC. "The selection is based on UltiMap's fulfillment of H-GAC's evaluation criteria, which included functionality, ease of use, support services, and cost considerations. As a large planning agency, we are particularly encouraged by the fact that UltiMap was developed through a long-term, real-world, evolutionary process, in a demanding planning and engineering environment. At the same time, the system's developers have incorporated state-of-the-art data management and graphics handling techniques. The result is a system with the kind of speed, flexibility, and intuitive user interface that we have been looking for."

Samfield also added, "H-GAC recently created a Data Services Department in order to focus greater effort and resources on the growing information requirements of its planning region, which encompasses 13 counties. Serving a population of nearly 4 million people, H-GAC is very concerned with providing a powerful and efficient, yet cost- effective information resource to our 150-plus member governments and agencies, as well as our private sector associates. It is particularly important that we have the ability to produce a manageable synthesis of demographics, environmental, and transportation-related information from a large number of diverse sources. These sources include the State Highway Department, the Metropolitan Transit Authority, appraisal districts, city planning departments, research institutes and many others.

UltiMap is a unique software system that fully integrates Automated Mapping and Facilities Management (AM/FM), Geographic Information Systems (GIS), and Computer-Aided Design and Drafting (CADD). The UltiMap System was originally developed and proven by Hennepin County, Minn., and the City of Minneapolis, and is now exclusively marketed and supported worldwide by ULTIMAP CORPORATION a Minneapolis-based company specializing in providing geographical information management products and services.

ULTIMAP CORPORATION is a subsidiary of ULTIMAP INTERNATIONAL CORPORATION, whose stock is traded nationally over-the-counter under the NASDAQ symbol "UMAP."

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Isramco, Inc. (NASDAQ: ISRL) today issued the following statement:

"Pursuant to our release of Oct. 30, 1990, and on behalf of the participants in the Negev Venture 2, we wish to inform you that:

"1. On Nov. 27, 1990 H.E.I transferred $200,000 on account of its outstanding debt to the Negev Venture 2 and subsequent to this payment H.E.I. now owes $1.58 million to the venture.

"2. H.E.I. reiterated and clarified that the $1.58 million outstanding debt results from the fact that the subject of the government grant has not been settled yet and H.E.I. has requested that the other participants give it a further extension to sort out the matter. The non-H.E.I. participants decided to avail H.E.I. of the opportunity, until Dec. 24, 1990, to sort out its debt without losing its rights in the venture.

"3. All the participants (excluding H.E.I. and other non-Israeli participants, the latter of which hold between themselves 2.2457 percent of the venture) replied positively to the operator's request of Oct. 30, 1990, and paid according to their pro-rated share in the venture a total amount of $1.49 million, in accordance with the joint operating agreement.

Naturally any amount paid by H.E.I on account of its above debt to the Negev Venture 2 will be used to repay the participants according to their proportional share of the interim funding of H.E.I's debt."

NEWTON, MASS. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Health and Rehabilitation Properties Trust (NYSE: HRP) today announced that it has declared a dividend of 23 cents per share representing a pro-ration of the fourth quarter dividend.

The dividend of 23 cents per share will be paid to shareholders of record at the close of business on Dec. 12, 1990 and will be distributed on or about Feb. 21, 1991.

Mark J. Finkelstein, president and CEO, stated that the 23 cents per share dividend is a partial distribution with respect to the anticipated financial results for the quarter ended Dec. 30, 1990. The usual fourth quarter dividend is being split to compensate the current shareholders for the financial results through the approximate effective date of the previously announced public sale of stock in connection with HRP's investment in 21 nursing homes owned by American Medical Services, Inc. ("AMS"). The balance of the usual fourth quarter dividend will be declared in January for shareholders of record at that time, and also will be paid on or about Feb. 21, 1991.

On Nov. 9, 1990, HRP announced that it had entered an agreement to invest $62.5 million in 21 nursing homes to finance the acquisition of AMS. HRP's investment is being funded $38.5 million in cash and by issuance of 3 million common shares. Two million of these 3 million shares are being simultaneously offered for sale by AMS, as a selling shareholder, in a public offering managed by Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette Securities Corp.

MONTCLAIR, NJ (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Montclair Bancorp, Inc. (NASDAQ: MSBI), parent company of Montclair Savings Bank, reported net income for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1990 of $1,830,000, or $0.75 a share, compared with $4,161,000, or $1.68 a share, a year ago. The decrease in earnings was due primarily to a provision for loan losses in 1990 of $3,100,000 compared with $546,000 in 1989.

Core earnings, consisting of net operating income exclusive of the provision for loan losses and income taxes, increased $180,000 from the prior year to $7,285,000. Net interest income was $16,938,000 for the year, up $1,131,000 from $15,807,000 in 1989 and $4,222,000 for the quarter, up $429,000 from $3,793,000 for the same 1989 quarter. Approximately $1,100,000 of interest on non-accrual loans was excluded from income in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1990.

After a quarterly provision for loan losses of $1,600,000, compared with $600,000 last quarter and $150,000 for the comparable 1989 quarter, the Bancorp recorded a net loss for the three-months ended Oct. 31, 1990 of $292,000, or $0.12 a share, compared with net income of $857,000, or $0.35 a share, for the same 1989 period.

At Oct. 31, 1990, non-accrual loans and accruing loans 90 days or more delinquent were $16,928,000, compared with $12,312,000 at July 31, 1990, the end of the third fiscal quarter and $8,052,000 at Oct. 31, 1989. The allowance for loan losses, after charge-offs of $551,000, was $3,681,000 at Oct. 31, 1990, compared with $2,336,000 at July 31, 1990 and $1,132,000 at Oct. 31, 1989. Future additions to the allowance will continue to be based upon the Bank's review of its loan portfolio in light of conditions in the real estate market and the economy. At Oct. 31, 1990 and July 31, 1990 other real estate owned was $877,000 and $263,000, respectively. There was no other real estate owned at Oct. 31, 1989.

The Bancorp's Capital-to-assets ratio was 11.2 percent and 11.7 percent, respectively, at Oct. 31, 1990 and 1989. The Bancorp's total capital to risk-weighted assets ratio was 16 percent at Oct. 31, 1990, exceeding the regulatory requirement of 7.25 percent effective as of Dec. 31, 1990. Book value per share was $26.41 at Oct. 31, 1990 compared with $25.88 per share at

Total assets and total deposits at Oct. 31, 1990 were $590,348,000 and $518,586,000 respectively, increasing $33,858,000 and $36,917,000, respectively, from the previous fiscal year end. Total loans, excluding mortgage-backed securities of $14,871,000, were $463,660,000 at Oct. 31, 1990, increasing $27,471,000 from 1989.

Since the announcement of a stock repurchase program at the March 1990 Annual Stockholders' Meeting, the Bancorp has purchased 98,514 shares of its common stock. The Bancorp is authorized to purchase up to approximately 5 percent of its outstanding shares, or 123,600 shares. The total number of common shares outstanding at Oct. 31, 1990 was 2,374,303.

On Nov. 13, 1990, the board of directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of $0.15 a share, payable Jan. 1, 1991, to stockholders of record Dec. 1, 1990.

EVERETT, WASH. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - INTERMEC Corp. (NASDAQ: INTR) recently announced a reseller agreement with IDENTATRONICS, a manufacturer of identification badges and provider of identification systems and supplies.

The reseller agreement will allow INTERMEC to offer the IDENTATRONICS product line through its Pre-Print Department, which provides bar code label supplies including labels, tags and menus using all types of bar code symbologies, printing technologies and materials for most environmental applications.

According to Robert Bowman, vice president and general manager at INTERMEC's label products plant in Cincinnati, the new line of badges, which carry a five-year warranty, share the same high-quality standards as all INTERMEC label supplies. "The reseller agreement will further enhance our capability to provide automated data collection systems which solve real business problems by turning raw data into useful information."

The new product line includes bar badges with multi-color imprinting, custom die cut openings, bar code security patches, security treatments, embossing, magnetic stripe, and other options, as well as camera and laminating systems for on-site production of photo identification badges.

SAN FRANCISCO (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The Visa International ATM Network, already the world's largest international network, is now the first to top 60,000 automated teller machines around the globe.

Visa said that Lloyds Bank added a total 2500 cash dispensing locations in the United Kingdom to the Visa worldwide network, which now has 60,614 machines in operation, up 38 percent from a year ago.

A cardholder can withdraw cash from any Visa ATM Network machine by using a Visa card and a personal identification number. The transaction amount is drawn automatically from the cardholder's account.

In October, Visa cardholders used the network to obtain $176 million in cash, up more than 87 percent from the same month in 1989.

Visa, with more than 240 million cards in circulation, is the world's largest consumer payments system.

SOMERVILLE, NJ (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Hoechst AG and Hoechst-Roussel Pharmaceuticals Inc. have received a 6.8-year U.S. patent term protection extension for the manufacture, use and sale of the drug Trental(R) (pentoxifylline), used to treat peripheral arterial disease.

The extension is the result of a recent decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. Under the extension, the patent right is protected until March 1997. Patent protection means that no other company can produce, use or sell pentoxifylline in the United States.

The basis for patent term extensions, such as the one Hoechst-Roussel received is the Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act, enacted in 1984.

The decision and the patent term extension for Trental(R) pentoxifylline was in keeping with the remedial purpose of the law, explained Jerome Rosenstock, vice president, patents, for Hoechst Celanese, the parent company of Hoechst-Roussel.

The purpose was to compensate companies, such as Hoechst-Roussel, that had invested in the development of new pharmaceuticals, by restoring some of the patent term that had been lost during the regulatory review process.

Issued on June 5, 1973, the U.S. patent for Trental would ordinarily have expired in 17 years on June 5, 1990. However, patent term extensions for certain drugs became allowable in 1984 under the Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act. Hoechst applied for a patent term extension that year, but its application was denied by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office on the basis that it was not subject to a "regulatory review" as defined in the act. Since then, appeals of the Patent Office's decision were filed, with the eventual result of the favorable Appeals Court ruling.

Hoechst-Roussel Pharmaceuticals Inc. is part of the Life Sciences Group of Hoechst Celanese Corporation. Hoechst Celanese is a wholly owned subsidiary of Hoechst AG of Germany, with leading positions in chemicals, fibers, advanced materials and technologies, and life sciences. Its 1989 sales were $6 billion, placing Hoechst Celanese 77th on the Fortune 100 list.

WAYNE, N.J. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - American Cyanamid (NYSE: ACY) has announced an increase in the rotation interval for potatoes to 15 months on acres treated with ASSERT(R) herbicide.

"We have the best interest of potato growers in mind as we make this change," said Scott Fleetwood, American Cyanamid product manager.

"Due to the variability of environmental conditions, crop injury is always possible. In order to reduce the chance of injury to potatoes in 1991, we recommend that land treated with ASSERT in 1990 should not be rotated to potatoes prior to 1992," he said.

Growers using ASSERT herbicide are advised to plant an alternative crop next season on those acres.

ASSERT is an effective herbicide that controls wild oats and certain broadleaf weeds in wheat and barley.

NEW HAVEN, CT (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - A 29-year-old youth service officer for the state of Connecticut and a 32-year-old professional comedian who has opened for Joan Rivers have been selected to perform as stand-up comics on Continental Express flights between New Haven and Newark, Dec. 3-7.

The funnymen were selected from a field of 10 by Continental travel agents at a special audition Nov. 28 at Joker's Wild Comedy Club.

Performances by live stand-up comics are part of ''Express Yourself'' week, a five-day program sponsored by Continental Express.

Morning flights between New Haven and Newark from Dec. 3-7 will feature live informational speakers addressing issues of interest to business travelers.

Late afternoon and evening flights will spotlight the comedians who will be given 10-12 minutes to present their routines.

The Hartford-area comedians who will appear on Continental Express flights are:

-- Roy Charette, 29, who was raised by his Okinawan mother in the inner city of Hartford. He has served for seven years as a youth service officer at the Wilderness School in East Harford. The program is administered by the Connecticult Department of Children and Youth Service. Charette has been performing stand-up comedy for the past five years.

-- Kevin Livingston, 32, from New Haven. After serving a six-year stint in the army, Livingston broke into stand-up comedy. He has opened for Joan Rivers on several occasions.

Charette and Livingston join three other comedians who were chosen at Rascals Comedy Club in West Orange, N.J., to perform on the commuter flights. The comics will be required to obey safety rules and the seat belt sign, which means weather conditions may dictate whether the entertainers will be stand-up or sit-down comics. The Continental Express prop jets used on the New Haven/Newark route include the 30-passenger Embraer 120 Brasilia, and the 46-passenger aerospatiale/ Aeritalia ATR-42, both of which are an appropriate size for live, in-flight programming.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - LTV Missiles and Electronics Group announced today that its Sierra Research Division has received a $1.1 million contract to produce airborne stationkeeping equipment for the Japanese Air Self Defense Force.

The contract was awarded via Nozaki America, Inc., a Japanese trading company.

The AN/APN 169B stationkeeping equipment will be installed in C-1 jet transport aircraft operated by the Japanese Air Self Defense Force. Sierra has previously produced stationkeeping sets for two squadrons of Japanese C-1 aircraft.

Stationkeeping equipment, also known by the acronym SKE, enables transport aircraft to locate and identify each other and maintain relative positions in formation, regardless of visibility conditions.

The unique airborne electronic system developed and manufactured by Sierra also allows for communications of flight command information without voice transmission and provides precision guidance for airdrop operations.

Work on SKE systems will be done at Sierra's facility in suburban Cheektowaga and is expected to be completed in March 1992.

Sierra Research Division is a prime developer, integrator and producer of electronic systems and products for worldwide military and commercial use. It is one of three divisions of the LTV Missiles and Electronics Group which also produces missiles, rockets, space systems and military vehicles.

ARDMORE, OK (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Noble Affiliates, Inc. (NYSE: NBL) today announced that its indirect wholly owned subsidiary, Samedan of Tunisia, Inc., has acquired interests in certain concessions and a production sharing contract in Tunisia from various subsidiaries of the Royal Dutch/Shell Group of Companies.

Samedan of Tunisia, Inc. will become operator of the Metlaoui PSA and the Isis Birsa, Oudna, and Tazerka concessions, including the Tazerka oil field, and will increase its interest in the Zinnia concession.

The Tazerka field is located 35 miles offshore Tunisia in the Mediterranean Sea in approximately 400 feet of water. The field is produced using subsea wellheads tied into a moored tanker, containing production equipment, living quarters and oil storage facilities. During the first ten months of this year, the Tazerka field has produced approximately 2,750 barrels of oil per day from five wells.

Samedan is establishing an office in Tunis, which will be responsible for conducting the exploitation operations in Tazerka and the exploration and development in other Tunisian properties. The company has already agreed to employ the national staff of Shell Tunirex, the previous operator of the acquired concessions (Zinnia excepted).

"We are very enthused about acquiring the properties and offering employment to the Shell Tunirex staff in Tunisia," said Robert Kelley, Noble's president and chief executive officer.

"We have been involved in exploration within the country for many years and enjoy a good relationship with the Tunisian authorities. The properties have good exploration and development potential and we are looking forward to working with our industry partners, which include the Tunisian State Company, ETAP, to develop new oil reserves."

Samedan of Tunisia, Inc. has acquired interest in the properties ranging from 20 percent to 100 percent which are equally shared with an internal partner.

Noble Affiliates, Inc. is an independent energy company with exploration and production operations throughout major basins in the United States, including the Gulf of Mexico and offshore California, as well as foreign operations primarily in Canada, Tunisia, Indonesia, and Equatorial Guinea.

WALTHAM, MASS. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Hill and Knowlton USA today announced it is headquartering a second major practice group -- biotechnology -- in its New England office.

It also announced that Lorraine Ruff has been promoted to senior vice president and managing director of the group.

Ruff will report to Thomas G. Mattia, general manager Hill and Knowlton/New England. Mattia serves as a worldwide director for advanced technology, the other practice group headquartered in New England.

According to Mattia, Ruff will continue to direct the New England biotechnology unit that she was recruited to form two years ago.

She will expand her responsibilities to include the development of an international marketing plan for the group and oversight for major clients.

She will also work with the regional directors of biotechnology units in Washington, Santa Clara, Brussels, and London to identify business opportunities and implement the group's marketing plan. Since joining Hill and Knowlton, she has added 17 clients to the group's portfolio of more than 30 biotechnology and medical device companies.

"I believe that the most compelling issue biomedical companies will face in the next three-to-five years is the constraints posed by cost containment," Ruff said.

Hill and Knowlton/New England services include media relations, issues management, corporate communications, community relations, crisis management, marketing communications, and environmental and regulatory consulting. Its programs have local, regional, national, and global scope.

The New England office is part of the worldwide Hill and Knowlton network. Hill and Knowlton, Inc., headquartered in New York City, is the leading international public relations and public affairs counseling firm with 65 offices in 24 countries. Its parent company, WPP Group plc, is one of the world's largest advertising and marketing services companies.

SAN FRANCISCO (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Visa U.S.A. announced today that it has established a temporary moratorium on eligibility for membership in the Visa association by financial institutions owned by nonbanking companies.

Visa said the moratorium, which applies only to new applicants owned by nonbanks, was established as a prudent measure while the company continues its ongoing review of Visa membership eligibility in general.

Visa has been examining its general membership requirements in light of the significant changes that have taken place in the legal and regulatory environment governing the banking industry over the past few years. The company said the purpose of the review is to determine whether any changes of its regulations are needed to protect the value of the Visa system for its members and ensure that investments made by its current members in building that system are appropriately recognized.

Visa said that, in order to provide sufficient time to complete its review of membership eligibility, the moratorium on membership in Visa by financial institutions owned by nonbanks will be in effect through June 4, 1991. Visa noted that the moratorium also applies to the acquisition of an existing member by a nonbanking organization. With respect to ownership transfers, any institution which would not be eligible to join Visa directly would be precluded under the temporary moratorium from joining indirectly through an acquisition, unless the acquisition is approved by the Visa U.S.A. board of directors, the company said.

Visa is the world's largest consumer payment system with more than 240 million cards issued, including over 130 million in the U.S.

BROOKLYN, NY (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Supreme Equipment & Systems Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: SEQP), a manufacturer of filing cabinets and storage systems, "continues to slash costs, primarily in selling and manufacturing overhead, and therefore reduced first quarter operating loss by 80 percent and the net loss by almost half on a 17 percent decline in sales," Martin Frederick, president, reported today. "We are close to achieving our goal of breaking even on lower revenues, and in fact October was marginally profitable. The cost reduction program, however, will continue," he said.

Frederick pointed out that "cost of goods sold was reduced to 69.8 percent in the first quarter against 71.4 percent in the comparable period the year before, and selling and administrative expense declined to 31.4 percent from 33.7 percent, saving the company $590,000 in this critical category alone. Labor costs remained constant, but interest expense increased 12 percent to $222,000, due to a higher average interest rate," he said.

For the three months ended Oct. 31, 1990 net sales declined 17 percent to $6,389,000 from $7,703,000. A deficit of $314,000, equal to $.29 per share, was incurred, against a deficit of $589,000 or $.55 per share in the comparable quarter a year ago. The company's operating loss was reduced 80 percent to $75,000 from $394,000 in the same period the year before. The average number of shares of common stock outstanding in each period was 1,072,632.

LIVERPOOL, NY (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Fay's Incorporated (NYSE: FAY), today announced the election of Daniel J. O'Leary to the offices of president and chief operating officer of the company. He replaces Lawrence J. Rose, who resigned in late October.

O'Leary, 43-years old, had been serving as the company's executive vice president responsible for the company's corporate services area. He joined Fay's in 1987 as vice president - finance and chief financial officer. He has also been a member of the company's board of directors since 1987.

While executive vice president, the heads of the company's finance, real estate, training, store planning, loss prevention, and personnel departments reported to O'Leary.

Prior to joining Fay's, O'Leary was associated with the national accounting firm of Touche Ross & Co., where he served as the partner-in-charge of the firm's Columbus, Ohio office. Prior to heading the Columbus office, O'Leary held the position of director of audit operations in the firm's Rochester, N.Y. office. During his tenure in Rochester, O'Leary was the supervising partner on Fay's independent year-end audit.

Commenting on O'Leary's appointment, Henry A. Panasci, Jr., chairman of the board of Fay's, stated "Mr. O'Leary possesses the strong executive and financial experience necessary to assume the responsibilities of president and chief operating officer.

"O'Leary's background will complement the merchandising and marketing expertise of the heads of the company's three operating divisions. He will play a key leadership role in achieving our goals for increasing shareholder value and profitability in the 1990s."

Since the beginning of the fiscal year, Fay's has opened or acquired 18 drug stores, two Wheels Discount Auto Supply Stores and eight Paper Cutter Stores. During the year, one drug store was closed. FAIRFAX, Va. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Mobil Corporation (NYSE: MOB) announced today that Mobil Exploration Dominican Inc., an affiliate, has signed an agreement with the government of the Dominican Republic to explore for hydrocarbons in a 5.6 million-acre onshore and offshore concession area in the southern region of the Dominican Republic.

The signing of this agreement culminates negotiations which began in March 1989. The agreement commits Mobil to perform geological and geophyc?al field work and includes gathering, processing and interpreting 1,500 kilometers of seismic data during the initial two years. The focus of this exploration work will be to evaluate the hydrocarbon potential, both onshore and offshore, in the Azua and San Pedro basins.

During the initial two-year term of the contract, Mobil will spend about $3 million for the concession rights and geological and geophysical data. If the analysis of the data is encouraging, test wells and additional seismic survey work may be undertaken. Throughout each phase of the exploration program, Mobil will assume 100 percent of the investment risk.

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - National Brewing Holdings Limited announced today that it has refinanced its external debt, completing the final leg of the establishment and restructuring of the joint venture between Lion Nathan Ltd. and Bell Resources Ltd.

The funds from the new A$925 million seven-year facility were used to repay existing borrowings, arranged by Bond Corporation, which were domiciled primarily in U.S. dollars and deutsch marks. This severs the last remaining direct association between National Brewing Holdings and the previous owners, Bond Corporation. Also, the US$121.5 million Swan debentures have been repaid and 98.5 percent of the US$510 million BBH bonds have been purchased.

The syndicate of banks which provided the new facility of A$925 million is made up of the National Australia Bank Ltd., Toronto Dominion Australia Ltd., the Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Ltd., and State Bank of New South Wales. The National Australia Bank Ltd. will be the agent for the new syndicate.

CHICAGO (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of the Illinois International Port District today announced the early call of its outstanding Series 1955 port and terminal facilities revenue bonds due July 1, 1995 for purposes of redemption. The announcement was made today by Board Chairman John J. Serpico.

Payment of the bonds at full face value plus interest due will be made Dec. 31

4-1/2 years ahead of schedule. Presently, outstanding bonds total $10,180,000. Payment will be made to the Continental Bank, bond trustees, who will make distribution to the bondholders.

The bonds were issued July 1, 1955, following authorization by the Illinois General Assembly. The legislation provided for financing to $100 million, but the port district limited the offering to $24 million.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds were used for the construction of a deep-water turning basin and terminal facilities at Lake Calumet Harbor. These included three dock-side transit sheds, a backup warehouse, two 6,100,000-bushel grain elevators, an administration building and 6,000 feet of steel-faced docks.

CALGARY, ALBERTA (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Norcen Energy Resources Limited plans to resume production over the next two weeks from 18 oil wells in the Lubicon Lake area of northern Alberta which have been shut-in since Nov. 30, 1989. The Lubicon Indian Band and the federal and Alberta governments have been advised of Norcen's decision. The wells, operated by Norcen, were shut-in in response to the Lubicon Band's stated intention to dismantle operating wells on ''unceded Lubicon territory'' owned by Petro-Canada or in which Petro-Canada has an interest. The Band had said the action was taken in order to get a resumption of stalled land claim negotiations.

Barry D. Cochrane, Norcen's Executive Vice-President and Chief Operating Officer, said ''the decision was made because the shut-in wells are not helping anyone - the Band and both levels of government have said the shut-in wells, which are outside designated reservation lands, are having no impact on the negotiations which are stalled once more.''

Prior to being shut-in, production from the wells averaged 1,230 barrels of oil per day. Estimated foregone revenues since November 30, 1989 to date are $10.8 million, including $2.1 million in provincial royalties. Norcen's share of the shut-in daily production is 450 barrels and $3.2 million in foregone revenues.

RICHMOND, VA (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Ethyl Corporation (NYSE: EY) announced today that it completed the sale of its wholly owned subsidiary, Hardwicke Chemical Company, to MTM Plc of Cleveland, England, for approximately $112 million. The sale resulted in an after-tax gain of about $51 million, or 43 cents per share, which will be reported in Ethyl's fourth-quarter results.

Located in Elgin, S.C., Hardwicke Chemical produces synthetic pyrethroid agricultural intermediates and fine chemicals. Revenues for 1989 were approximately $50 million, and revenues for the eleven months through November 30, 1990, were about $44 million. Ethyl said it decided to sell the subsidiary in order to concentrate on other specialty chemicals.

Ethyl also announced that it will take an after-tax charge against fourth-quarter earnings of about $42 million, or 36 cents per share. About $32 million of the charge includes the write-off of goodwill, most of which results from the recent decision by Ethyl's Whitby Pharmaceutical subsidiary to concentrate and redirect its research and development efforts. The charge also reflects a provision to cover the cost of relocating and consolidating Whitby's research and administrative functions in Richmond. In addition, the charge covers provisions for environmental remediation projects at certain chemical facilities.

Ethyl is a Fortune-500 company based in Richmond, Va. The company makes and markets performance chemicals for the petroleum and plastics industries as well as high-technology chemicals and pharmaceuticals. Ethyl also owns First Colony Life Insuracne Company of Lynchburg, Va.

PITTSBURGH (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Integra Financial Corp. (NASDAQ: ITGR), citing a deterioration in its commercial real estate portfolio largely attributable to the weakening economy, today announced a $55 million provision for possible loan losses during the fourth quarter.

Of that amount, approximately $25 million will cover the immediate charge-off of certain non-performing loans and the remaining $30 million will be used to increase the reserve for possible loan losses.

As a result of the action, approved today by the company's board of directors, Integra expects to post a loss for the quarter in the approximate range of $.85 to $.90 per share. Based on reported year-to-date earnings as of Sept. 30 1990, of $2.13, the company is projecting 1990 year-end earnings in the range of $1.20 to $1.30 per share. (Reported 1989 earnings per share were $1.42, including a $.68 loss in the fourth quarter.)

In announcing the board's action, William F. Roemer, president and chief executive officer, cited two key factors guiding the board's decision. "First, our established, aggressive attitude of closely monitoring the quality of our assets. And second, our determination to comply fully with more stringent regulatory criteria regarding the classsification of non-performing real estate loans.

"Most of the problem loans originated with our largest commercial lender, Union National Bank. While their deterioration reached serious levels only recently, they were made prior to the formation of Integra," Roemer said. "The fact that none of these loans was recorded after mid-1988 indicates Integra's credit quality controls are operating well. By charging off these loans and increasing our reserves now, we continue to aggressively work through the credit quality problems besetting us and our industry," he concluded.

With today's action, it is estimated that the company's loan loss reserve to outstanding loans will move from 1.7 percent on Sept. 30 to approximately 2.4 percent on Dec. 31. In addition, the loan loss reserve coverage likely will increase from 91 percent of non-performing loans at Sept. 30 to 125 percent at Dec. 31. However, as a result of the fourth quarter net addition of $30 million in non-performing assets, the ratio of non-performing assets to outstanding loans is expected to increase from 2.2 percent at Sept. 30 to around 2.9 percent at year-end.

Integra remains a strong company with capital adequacy ratios in excess of industry averages. The company reported an equity-to-asset ratio of more than 7 percent at Sept. 30. After today's announced action, the ratio is expected to be 6.5 percent. It is anticipated that the year-end risk-based capital ratio will approximate 12 percent, substantially higher than the proposed required regulatory minimum of 8 percent.

Integra is the parent company of seven banks, operating 226 offices in 22 counties of western Pennsylvania, including First National Bank of Washington, First Seneca Bank, Gallatin National Bank, Keystone National Bank, Pennbank and Union National Bank.

WASHINGTON, (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) today placed Edison Federal Savings and Loan Association, New York, in receivership and chartered a new federal mutual institution to take its place.

The new institution, Edison Federal Savings Association, will assume certain assets and liabilities of the old thrift and will operate in conservatorship under the oversight of the Resolution Trust Corporation.

The takeover did not result in any interruption of Edison Federal's day-to-day operations. The institution and its three branches will remain open for business as usual. Holders of insured accounts are not affected by the action which was taken by OTS to protect insured depositors and the interests of the thrift insurance fund. Deposits remain insured to the $100,000 legal limit.

OTS initiated the action because Edison Federal was operating in an unsafe and unsound condition in that it had insufficient capital with no prospect of replenishment without federal assistance.

Edison Federal's condition is due primarily to poor management, inadequate loan underwriting and inattention to interest rate risk. The institution reported operating losses for seven consecutive quarters ending Sept. 30, 1990 chiefly as a result of high overhead costs and delinquent or non-performing home mortgage loans.

As of Sept. 30, 1990, 14.6 percent of Edison's total mortgage loan portfolio was delinquent, and losses on these loans will likely continue. Most of the loans were acquired through mortgage brokers and not originated by the thrift. The institution was ordered by regulators in August 1989 to stop buying brokered loans.

As of Sept. 30, 1990 Edison Federal reported assets of $140.1 million, liabilities of $139.6 million and tangible capital of $508,000 for a tangible capital-to-assets ratio of 0.36 percent.

BOSTON (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - The U.S. Court of Appeals for the 1st Circuit has ruled in favor of The Boston Globe in a case deciding the issue of post-trial access to a list of jurors in a criminal case.

In a precedent-setting opinion, the court ruled a federal judge cannot withhold a jury list from the public after a trial unless the judge determines the jurors are at special risk of personal harm. It is the first ruling by a federal appeals court on the issue of post-trial access.

The panel of three judges in a 27-page decision said that to withhold the names of jurors from the public and the news media contradicts the democratic principle of an open judicial process. Anonymity may be acceptable in exceptional cases, said the judges, but "the prospect of criminal justice being routinely meted out by unknown persons does not comport with democratic values of accountability and openness."

"In a democracy," they said, "a criminal trial should not, as a rule, be decided by anonymous persons."

The Globe had sued U.S. District Court Judge Edward F. Harrington who denied access to a jury list in a trial earlier this year of a prominent Boston defense attorney and several others accused of conspiracy to conceal illegal drug profits.

Harrington denied a reporter access to the list after the trial because the jurors asked that their names not be released and because interviews of jurors "for the sole purpose of exploiting the content of their deliberations" would "demean the administration of justice."

The attorney was acquitted by Harrington prior to jury deliberations in a trial that later found two others guilty of conspiracy to defraud the U.S. The Globe had hoped to question the jurors on their reaction to the judge's directed verdict of acquittal.

After the U.S. Attorney's office said it agreed with the Globe's motion, Harrington was represented by Harvard Law School Professor and former U.S. Solicitor General Charles Fried. Attorney E. Susan Garsh of Bingham Dana & Gould argued the case for the Globe.

The judges said jurors retain the right not to talk to the media or public when asked about their deliberations, but they stressed the jurors' duty to the process of criminal justice outweighs any desire they might have to maintain privacy.

MUNCIE, IN (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Ball Corporation (NYSE: BLL) today completed acquisition of the remaining 50 percent interest in its Ball-InCon Glass Packaging Corp. joint venture from Holland-American Investment Corporation.

Purchase price for the acquisition was approximately $65 million, of which $50 million was in the form of preferred stock, with the remainder in cash. Ball-InCon, which is headquartered in Muncie, will be operated as a subsidiary of Ball Corporation.

Ball-InCon was formed in May 1987 and acquired the commercial glass container manufacturing assets of Ball and InCon Packaging. It is the third largest domestic manufacturer of glass containers. Its commercial glass container and glass mould business serves the food, juice, liquor, wine and cosmetics industries. Sales in fiscal 1990 are expected to be approximately $562 million, with net income up substantially over the 1989 level. Ball-InCon employs approximately 5,000 people.

Manufacturing facilities are located in Asheville and Henderson, N.C.; Carteret, N.J.; Dolton and Lincoln, Ill.; El Monte and Madera, Calif.; Laurens S.C.; Okmulgee, Okla.; Port Allegany and Washington, Pa.; Ruston, La.; and Seattle, Wash.

Ball Corporation manufactured glass containers from 1882 until 1987, and while a 50 percent owner of the joint venture provided supporting staff services and participated in the management of the merged operations. "Glass container manufacturing and marketing is an important part of our company's culture," Ringoen said, "and we all welcome Ball-InCon and its excellent people to the Ball organization as a 100 percent-owned business. I believe this step demonstrates our increased commitment to being a broadly based packaging company."

Ringoen said that during the joint venture period, Ball did not consolidate sales of Ball-InCon, but used the equity method of accounting, recording its share of after tax results. In the future, the sales and earnings of Ball-InCon will be included with those of Ball Corporation.

Ball Corporation manufactures and markets packaging, industrial and consumer products, and provides aerospace systems and professional services to the federal sector. The company participates in the Canadian packaging market through a joint venture company, Ball Packaging Products Canada, Inc.

BOSTON (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - MCI Communications Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: MCIC) said today it will reduce by an overall average of 29 percent the rates its Massachusetts customers pay for in-state long distance calling effective Dec. 1.

The rate cut affects MCI's complete line of residential and business long distance products offered to Massachusetts customers.

"MCI remains committed to passing on to its customers reductions in costs from the local telephone company as well as savings from improvements in operating our network," explained Jonathan Crane, MCI's Eastern Division president. "Our customers in Massachusetts can continue to enjoy MCI's quality long distance services at rates lower than AT&T."

MCI intrastate rates vary by product, time of day and usage volume. The rate reduction does not affect prices for interstate long distance calling.

MCI's products affected by the price reduction include: -- MCI Dial 1 -- the direct dial long distance service for residential and small business users.

-- MCI Prism 1 -- a dedicated access service for mid-size businesses. -- MCI Prism Plus -- the direct dial long distance service with WATS savings for mid-size businesses.

-- MCI Vision -- the new feature-rich long distance service for businesses.

-- MCI Vnet -- a virtual private network service which provides advanced long distance capabilities for large businesses.

-- MCI 800 Service -- for inbound intrastate calls. MCI, the nation's second largest long distance company, reported 1989 revenue of nearly $6.5 billion. The company's long distance offerings allow customers to dial direct anywhere in the United States and to 171 foreign countries.

(NYSE: LVI) today announced that it has reached an agreement in principle with the representatives of an informal committee formed to represent the holders of its outstanding publicly held notes and debentures and with the company's principal institutional lender regarding a proposed restructuring of the company's outstanding debt.

Under the agreement in principle, the company's outstanding indebtedness would be reduced from approximately $100 million to approximately $25 million and cash interest payments on the restructured debt would only be payable out of the company's available cash flow for the first two years.

Immediately prior to consummation of the restructuring, two of the company's non-core businesses (Mobile Pulley and Machine Works and Riverside Manufacturing), together with $4 million face amount of investment securities and other miscellaneous assets owned by the company, would be sold or otherwise applied to extinguish outstanding institutional debt.

Upon consummation of the restructuring, participating debtholders would own approximately 90 percent of the company's outstanding equity securities. Upon consummation of the proposed restructuring, the company's pro forma net worth would be approximately $18 million.

The agreement in principle is, among other things, conditioned upon the company's outstanding preferred stock being reclassified into common stock. The company intends promptly to seek an agreement in principle for such a reclassification from representatives of an informal committee of holders of the preferred stock.

The company's agreements in principle do not constitute binding contractual arrangements, and their consummation is subject to substantial conditions and uncertainties, including the implementation of satisfactory overhead reductions and management arrangements and obtaining a favorable vote of the company's common and preferred stockholders.

The company intends promptly to prepare and file with the SEC an amended proxy statement to solicit the necessary security holder votes. The exchange offers will be conducted on a private placement basis.

No security holder votes will be solicited and no exchange offers will be made except pursuant to a definitive proxy statement and offering circular, respectively.

DETROIT (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Chrysler Corporation (NYSE: C) today said it will begin reporting vehicle sales on a monthly basis only, effective with the 1991 calendar year.

Monthly sales will be reported, as usual, on the third working day following the end of each month. For example, January sales will be reported on Feb. 4.

Previously, the company reported sales every 10 days and will continue this practice through December 1990.

The 10-day report is a relic of the 1940s War Control Board era that serves no major purpose that isn't covered by a monthly report. Many import companies report only monthly, forcing statisticians to resort to estimates for 10-day reports, which reduces the accuracy and value of the information.

More importantly, reporting monthly, instead of every 10 days, reduces by two-thirds a repetitious workload on Chrysler's staff, which now can devote the time and resources to more productive projects. This move also will reduce costs in line with Chrysler's $2.5 billion cost reduction program.

DALLAS (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Hallwood Realty Corporation, the general partner of Hallwood Realty Partners, L.P. (AMEX: HRY), announced today that it has adopted a rights plan designed to protect partnership unitholders in the event of takeover action that would deny them the full value of their investment.

Terms of the rights plan provide for a distribution of one right for each unit of Hallwood Realty Partners, L.P. to holders of record at the close of business on Dec. 10, 1990. The rights will become exercisable only in the event, with certain exceptions, an acquiring party accumulates 15 percent or more of the partnership's units, or if a party announces an offer to acquire 30 percent or more. The rights will expire on Nov. 30, 2000. Each right will entitle the holder to buy one additional unit at a price of $50. In addition, upon the occurrence of certain events, holders of the rights will be entitled to purchase either partnership units or shares in an "acquiring entity" at half of market value.

The partnership will generally be entitled to redeem the rights at 1 cent per right at any time until the tenth day following the acquisition of a 15 percent position in its units.

Commenting on the rights plan, William L. Guzzetti, president of Hallwood Realty Corporation, said that the general partner is not aware of any hostile effort to acquire control of the partnership.

The general partner believes that the rights plan represents a sound and reasonable means of safeguarding the interests of unitholders. Guzzetti said the rights plan is similar to those adopted by a number of other companies following recent favorable rulings by courts in various jurisdictions, including the Delaware Supreme Court.

Details of the new rights plan will be outlined in a letter to be mailed to unitholders following the Dec. 10, 1990 record date.

DALTON, GA. (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - CrownAmerica, Inc. (NASDAQ: CRNA), a major processor of filament yarn for domestic and international carpet manufacturers, has completed the sale of its Valdosta plant and certain equipment to Queen Carpet.

Lane Hamilton, president of CrownAmerica, said the sale would result in an after-tax gain of approximately $1,000,000 for fiscal 1991.

In a related announcement, CrownAmerica officials said construction to double the size and capacity of its Dalton, Georgia plant is on schedule with compeltion set for March 1991. The expansion will add 51,000 square feet, bringing total square footage to 110,000 square feet. Hamilton said the total capital expenditure for plant and equipment will amount to approximately $4,000,000.

"Our construction program at Dalton will, in effect, increase production capacity two-fold," Hamilton said. "This will give us more capacity than previously existed with both Georgia plants."

Hamilton reiterated the Company's position to consolidate its U.S. operations at a single location.

"This consolidation will provide us with both significant labor and freight savings, as well as improved economies of scale. The consolidation is in keeping with our commitment to maintain the highest quality standards of Texture-Tex," Hamilton noted. He added that the total work force at Dalton will be increased from 100 to 135 employees.

CrownAmerica, Inc. is engaged chiefly in the processing of heat-set filament yarn for the carpet industry through its Texture-Tex division. In addition to the Dalton plant, the Company has an overseas facility near Heerlen in The Netherlands.

NEW ORLEANS (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Vincent J. Liuzza Jr., chairman and president of Cucos Inc. (NASDAQ: CUCO) announced today that revenues and earnings increased for the company's first quarter ended Oct. 1.

Revenues advanced 15.6 percent to $4,586,182 from $3,965,561, and earnings increased 8.1 percent to $102,056 from $94,367 recorded during the comparable prior year quarter.

Sales of food and beverages during the current quarter increased to $4,174,808 up 14.9 percent, compared to $3,633,967 achieved for the comparable prior year period. This increase was due primarily to there being 11 company-owned restaurants open during the current quarter vs. nine during the similar prior year period. Concurrently, sales per comparable restaurant declined by 1.0 percent primarily due to a reduction in media spending.

An increase in comparable restaurant profit was offset by reduced franchise revenues and profits. While royalties increased moderately, license fee and development fee revenues declined due to no franchise openings during the first quarter of fiscal 1991 compared to one opening in the first quarter of last year. Several company-owned and franchised restaurants in certain markets outside Louisiana are being adversely affected by the combination of recession and/or their proximity to military bases where troops have been deployed to the Middle East. The company continues to emphasize delivering the best possible value to its guests as the primary strategy to offset the uncertain economic situations in these markets.

Cucos is a Sonoran-style Mexican restaurant chain consisting of 11 company-owned restaurants and 19 franchised restaurants located primarily in the southeastern United States.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Alan Rubin, president of the National Park Foundation, today welcomed the "creativity and generosity of Matsushita Electric Industrial Company and MCA, Inc., for developing a plan that will provide an important gift to America's National Park System."

Matsushita and MCA have made a commitment, Rubin said, to place Yosemite Park & Curry Company -- the principal concessioner in Yosemite National Park and a subsidiary of MCA -- in escrow while a new American owner is sought. In the interim, all profits from the Curry Company will be donated to the National Park Foundation to benefit Yosemite National Park and the entire National Park System.

"This gift," Rubin added, "will provide tangible benefits to the American public, assuring that important preservation and research work in the parks can be accomplished. It represents the best in corporate citizenship and ensures that treasured national resources will be preserved."

"The Curry Company contract is the largest single concession in the parks," Rubin said. The company provides a diversity of services and facilities for the park's visitors, including management of the Yosemite Valley transportation system and operation of hotels, restaurants, lodges, gift shops and more.

The National Park Foundation was chartered by Congress in 1967 to receive gifts and manage funds to support the preservation and enhancement of America's National Park System for future generations. HOUSTON (NOV. 30) PR NEWSWIRE - Noble Drilling Corp. (NASDAQ: NDCO) today announced that it has signed an asset purchase agreement with Transworld Drilling Co., a subsidiary of Kerr-McGee Corp., to acquire certain assets of Transworld, a Gulf of Mexico offshore drilling company, for $75 million. The principal assets being acquired are 12 mobile offshore drilling units, consisting of five jackup rigs and seven submersible rigs. The transaction is scheduled to close on or before Jan. 31, 1991.

Under the terms of the agreement, Noble Drilling will make a cash down payment at closing with the balance of the purchase price represented in a note to Transworld which will have a final maturity of Jan. 31, 1994. The agreement also provides Transworld limited rights to exchange certain amounts of outstanding principal under its note into shares of Noble Drilling common stock.

James C. Day, Noble Drilling's president and chief executive officer, said "The Transworld acquisition represents another significant step in our strategy of expanding offshore operations which would, after giving effect to the acquisition, account for approximately 80 percent of our total revenues. We believe this transaction is attractively priced and well structured, and the operating personnel and assets will combine well with our existing U.S. operations."

The assets to be acquired would add substantially to Noble Drilling's rig fleet which currently consists of 13 offshore and 62 land rigs.

MOSCOW (NOV 30) TASS - THE U.N. SECURITY COUNCIL'S RESOLUTION 678 ON THE GULF DOES NOT MEAN A DECLARATION OF WAR ON IRAQ AND THE REJECTION OF A SEARCH FOR PEACEFUL WAYS OUT OF THE CRISIS, SOVIET DEPUTY FOREIGN MINISTER VLADIMIR PETROVSKY TOLD A BRIEFING HERE TODAY.

PETROVSKY PARTICULARLY NOTED THAT MEMBERS OF THE U.N. SECURITY COUNCIL ACTIVELY SUPPORTED THE SOVIET UNION'S PROPOSAL THAT THE RESOLUTION GIVE BAGHDAD A "PAUSE OF PEACE" TO TAKE THE ONLY REASONABLE DECISION AND SETTLE THE CONFLICT BY PEACEFUL MEANS.

"THE SOVIET UNION SERIOUSLY BELIEVES THAT THE CALL WILL BE HEARD BY THE IRAQI LEADERSHIP. FORTY-FIVE DAYS IS A SUFFICIENT TERM FOR THIS," PETROVSKY SAID. HE SAID THE PAUSE GIVES SCOPE FOR "DIPLOMATIC EFFORTS" AIMED AT A POLITICAL SOLUTION OF THE CRISIS.

PETROVSKY RECALLED THAT HIS RECENT CONTACTS WITH THE LEADERS OF THE COUNTRIES IN THE REGION, AS THE SOVIET PRESIDENT'S SPECIAL ENVOY, SOUGHT TO LEARN THEIR POINTS OF VIEW AND ACTIVELY USE THE ARAB FACTOR TO SETTLE THE SITUATION.

THE INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY HAS TOLD BAGHDAD THAT IT WILL USE ALL MEASURES ENVISAGED BY THE U.N. CHARTER, INCLUDING MILITARY FORCE, TO CURB THE AGGRESSION AND RESTORE KUWAIT'S SOVEREIGNTY AND INDEPENDENCE, PETROVSKY SAID.

SPEAKING ABOUT THE PROBLEM OF SOVIET SPECIALISTS, STILL IN IRAQ AND WITH NO OPPORTUNITY TO LEAVE BECAUSE OF THE POSITION OF THE IRAQI AUTHORITIES, PETROVSKY WARNED THAT THE SOVIET UNION WILL DO EVERYTHING NECESSARY TO PROTECT ITS CITIZENS. HE SAID ONLY 26 OUT OF 3,300 SOVIET CITIZENS HAVE MANAGED TO LEAVE IRAQ SINCE NOVEMBER 26.

NOTING THE COMPLEXITY OF THE CURRENT SITUATION IN THE GULF, PETROVSKY SAID THAT "NOT TO CURB THE AGGRESSION WOULD MEAN TO INCUR EVEN GREATER BURDENS AND SUFFERINGS ON ALL STATES AND ON ALL PEOPLES".

AT THE SAME TIME, HE SAID HE WAS SURE THAT A POLITICAL SETTLEMENT OF THE CRISIS IN ACCORDANCE WITH U.N. SECURITY COUNCIL RESOLUTIONS ELIMINATING DOUBLE STANDARDS AND BASED ON THE INTERNATIONAL LAW, WOULD CREATE FAVOURABLE CONDITIONS FOR A COMBINED SOLUTION OF OTHER BURNING PROBLEMS IN THE REGION, INCLUDING THE ARAB-ISRAELI CONFLICT AND THE PALESTINIAN AND LEBANESE PROBLEMS.

ASKED ABOUT THE POSSIBILITY OF THE SOVIET UNION'S PARTICIPATION IN ARMED ACTION IN THE GULF, PETROVSKY NOTED THAT THE QUESTION IS NOT REASONABLE "IN THE GIVEN CONDITIONS". IF SUCH AN ISSUE WERE RAISED, THIS WOULD CERTAINLY DEMAND CORRESPONDING CONSULTATIONS AND A SANCTION BY THE SOVIET PARLIAMENT.

IF IRAQ CONTINUES TO OBSTRUCT SOVIET SPECIALISTS' EXIT FROM IRAQ OR A SINGLE SOVIET CITIZEN SUFFERS THERE, THIS COULD LEAD TO "MOST SERIOUS" CONSEQUENCES, PETROVSKY SAID.

MINSK (NOV. 30) TASS - THE NUMBER OF SMALL ENTERPRISES IN BYELORUSSIA IS CONSTANTLY GROWING.

THE BYELORUSSIAN FUND TO PROMOTE ACTIVITIES BY INVENTORS AND OTHER INNOVATORS HAS FOUNDED 31 SUCH FIRMS. THE BYELORUSSIAN GOVERNMENT HELPS DEVELOP SMALL BUSINESSES. ON THE INITIATIVE OF THE REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE FOR ECONOMY AND PLANNING, THE SMALL ENTERPRISES UNION, COMPRISING DOZENS OF NEW FIRMS, HAS BEEN CREATED HERE.

"WE ARE PLANNING TO BECOME A COMMERCIAL COUNTERBALANCE TO THE SCIENTIFIC AND PRODUCTION ASSOCIATION UNITING MAJOR INDUSTRIAL AND BANK MONOPOLIES," UNION EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR ALEXANDER RUPEKA TOLD TASS. "OUR STRONG POINT IS THAT SMALL FIRMS ARE MORE FLEXIBLE AND EFFICIENT."

"WHEN THE POPULATION NEEDED PERSONAL DOSIMETERS AFTER THE CHERNOBYL DISASTER, AN AMALGAMATION IN MINSK REQUIRED TWO YEARS TO DEVELOP AND BEGIN PRODUCING THEM. A SPECIALLY ORGANISED TEMPORARY WORK COLLECTIVE MANAGED TO DESIGN OVER 30 KINDS OF SUCH INSTRUMENTS IN THREE MONTHS," HE SAID.

"FIRST OF ALL, WE HELP SMALL ENTERPRISES SPRING UP. WE PREPARE RULES AND OTHER DOCUMENTS FOR THEM. PEOPLE COME TO OUR UNION, HOPING TO OVERCOME BUREAUCRATIC BARRIERS. LOCAL AUTHORITIES HAVE THE RIGHT TO REGISTER NEW FIRMS, AND THEY DO NOT ALWAYS THINK ABOUT STATE BENEFIT," HE SAID.

SMALL FIRMS ARE BEING CREATED BY OFFICIAL STATE ORGANISATIONS AND BY INDIVIDUALS. STUDENTS, TEENAGERS AND PENSIONERS WORK ON A CONTRACTUAL BASIS. SMALL FIRMS SOMETIMES SIGN TEMPORARY AGREEMENTS WITH EMPLOYED SPECIALISTS. THE INTERVAL FIRM IN MINSK HAS SIGNED CONTRACTS WITH EXPERIENCED SPECIALISTS TO DEVELOP ORIGINAL MEASURING INSTRUMENTS.

THERE ARE CURRENTLY HUNDREDS OF SMALL FIRMS IN THE REPUBLIC, AND THEIR NUMBER IS EXPECTED TO EQUAL THE NUMBER OF COOPERATIVES, REACHING 5,800.

(NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush Thursday called the U-N vote authorizing military force against Iraq ''very good news.'' Bush says he hopes the tough measure will actually foster a peaceful resolution to the Gulf crisis. The U-N resolution permits the use of force if Saddam Hussein refuses to order his troops out of Kuwait by January 15th.

Earlier in the day, Bush told the Association of Bank Holding Companies that he hopes the resolution would send- quote- ''perhaps the clearest signal of all to Saddam Hussein that the world is deadly serious.'' Bush said Iraq has virtually dismantled Kuwait and triggered, through rising oil prices, economic hard times for scores of nations worldwide.

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze says the Soviet Union has NO intention of sending troops to the Persian Gulf, even though it voted for the U-N resolution authorizing force against Iraq. But Shevardnadze sternly warned Baghdad NOT to harm Soviet citizens trapped in Iraq.

The seven-man crew of the space shuttle Columbia arrived in Florida late Thursday to prepare for a fifth launch attempt Sunday on an astronomy mission. Argentina's interior minister says rumors of a plot to kill President Bush during his visit to Argentina next week are NOT true. The minister told reporters Thursday that the rumors were leaked by what he called- quote- ''some state organism'' and published as a result of ''inexact information.''

Police Commissary Julian Blanco told U-P-I early Thursday that a non-Argentine man was arrested in a suspected plot to kill Bush. The newspaper Diario Popular said about 30 Argentine and Chilean left-wing terrorists planned to ambush the president while he visited the Palermo race track.

(NOV. 30) UPI - Nevada-Las Vegas won't open its season until the weekend, but Thursday the Runnin' Rebels posted perhaps their biggest victory of the 1990-91 season.

UNLV, banned from defending its national championship in 1991 by the NCAA, ending a 13-year battle with coach Jerry Tarkanian, Thursday agreed to sanctions that will permit them to play in this year's tournament.

The NCAA announed that UNLV can play in this year's tournament but in exchange will have to forfeit its television appearances next year and will not be allowed to play in the 1992 tournament. It is the first time the NCAA has ever amended itself after banning a school.

University President Robert Maxson said the NCAA made two proposals to the school. The first involved Tarkanian sitting out the 1991 tournament and banning the team from the 1992 tournament.

''The second has no live television for the team in 1991-92 and the team also not playing in the postseason that year,'' said Maxson. ''The university has decided to accept the second alternative.''

The NCAA proposal came after school officials presented four options when they met in Chicago Oct. 28 with the Infractions Committee.

The Runnin' Rebels won the national championship last April with a 103-73 demolition of Duke, and with four starters returning from that team, are favored to make a return trip to the Final Four.

''I never had any doubts that we would get back in,'' said All- America forward Larry Johnson, who along with teammate Stacey Augmon decided to stay for their senior years at UNLV despite the lure of the NBA.

Not since 1973 - when John Wooden's UCLA Bruins won their seventh consecutive title - has a team repeated as national champion.

Maxson said the university's greatest concern was not of future penalties but to find a way to give the top-rated Rebels a rare chance to repeat.

''We thought both (options) were fair, but the optimum word - the key thing - is there will be no penalties against the national champions this year,'' the UNLV president said. ''We do regret that next year's team will not be eligible for the postseason. But it was very important to us that the national champions have the right to defend.''

UNLV may not be finished with the NCAA this year, however. The school could also face further sanctions in an investigation of possible violations in the recruiting of Lloyd Daniels, who never played for the school.

''We really feel there will not be a recruiting violation found with LLoyd Daniels,'' Tarkanian said from Vancouver, British Columbia. ''No one took greater steps than we did to make sure there would be no problems.''

In Thursday night action involving UPI's Top 25, No. 13 Connecticut survived Yale 49-48, and No. 24 New Mexico St. met Texas El Paso in a late game.

At New Haven, Conn., the Huskies John Gwynn made a layup with 1:29 left and No. 13 Connecticut held on when Yale's Ed Petersen shot an air ball as time expired. Following Gwynn's basket, the Elis got the ball back with 14 seconds to go on Dean Campbell's steal but Petersen's shot was off the mark. Gwynn scored 12 of his 14 points in the second half and Chris Smith had 15 for the Huskies, 3-0.

Elsewhwere, Mik Kilgore scored 21 points and Mark Macon added 17 to give Temple a 70-57 victory over Villanova. Donald Hodge added 15 points, including seven in a decisive 14-1 Owls' spurt in the second half. ... Tony Freeman scored 27 points to lead Illinois-Chicago to a 71-60 upset of Illinois. It marked the first time the Illini have lost a home opener since Dec. 4, 1979 and ended Illinois' 12-game non- conference home winning streak. ... Jean Prioleau drilled a three- pointer at the buzzer to give Fordham a 69-68 victory over Seton Hall. . .. Stevin Smith scored 25 points to power Arizona State to a 118-77 rout of Northern Illinois. ... Chuck Murphy scored 21 and Stephen Howard 16 to lead DePaul over Florida International 117-65.

(NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush plans to meet with congressional leaders at the White House Friday to discuss whether to order a special session of Congress to debate the Persian Gulf crisis. The president said Thursday that he had ''NO plans'' to summon lawmakers for a special session. When questioned on the issue by reporters, Bush walked away, calling a U-N resolution authorizing the use of military force against Iraq ''Very good news.''

Administration sources say President Bush will name a new anti-drug czar Friday. The sources say Bush has selected outgoing Florida Governor Bob Martinez as director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy. Martinez, a Republican, was defeated in his bid for re-election earlier this month. He will replace William Bennett, who resigned. The sources say Martinez left Tallahassee for Washington Thursday and intends to join the president at the White House for the mid-afternoon announcement.

American motorists are bracing for another jolt at the gas pump. Beginning Saturday, the federal tax on gas increases an additional five cents a gallon. The gas tax increases from nine cents to 14 cents a gallon on unleaded fuel and 15 cents to 20 cents on diesel... and will affect virtually every segment of the nation's air, rail and ground transportation system. The increase was engineered by the Bush administration and Congress last month as part of the 1991 budget deal.

With the countdown clock ticking toward blastoff, the shuttle Columbia's seven-man crew flew to Florida late Thursday to make final preparations for launch. The shuttle will make a fifth attempt Sunday to blast off on a 10-day astronomy mission delayed six months by crippling fuel leaks. The crew will be carrying a costly four- telescope observatory to study X-rays and ultraviolet light from the most violent stars and galaxies in the universe.

Soviet President Gorbachev plans to go the troubled southwestern republic of Moldavia Friday in a bid to calm ethnic tensions. A spokesman says Gorbachev will meet with ''representatives of various parties'' in the disputes that have split the republic and led to violent clashes. Russians and Ukrainians in eastern Moldavia and Turkic-speaking residents in the south have declared separate autonomous regions because of fears that minority rights will be trampled under Moldavian nationalism.

(NOV. 30) UPI - It took a regular-season game for the Boston Bruins to halt their losing streak to the Edmonton Oilers at Boston Garden.

Don Sweeney scored the game-winner and Randy Burridge scored twice Thursday night, lifting the Bruins to a 4-2 victory over the Oilers in a rematch of last season's Stanley Cup final.

The Oilers went 3-0 at Boston Garden last season to wrap up the Cup in five games. The Oilers are 4-0 in Boston in two Cup finals.

But Boston dominates Edmonton during the regular season, in which the Bruins improved to 14-2-2 against the Oilers after Thursday's triumph.

The Oilers had won five of seven games entering the contest following a club-record seven-game losing skid.

''It's nice to beat them when they're going well,'' Boston Coach Mike Milbury said. ''They've turned things around since their bad start and they've been successful.''

''We wanted to get on them from the start and make them cough the puck up - and we did,'' Burridge said. ''If you work hard, you'll keep getting opportunities.''

Boston, playing its first game without high-scoring winger Cam Neely who is serving the first of a five-game, league-imposed suspension, needed scoring from unexpected sources and strong goaltending to post the victory.

''We made some mistakes and it cost us,'' Edmonton Coach John Muckler said. ''(Andy) Moog played well for them. You have to give the Bruins credit.''

Boston, which had led 1-0 before the Oilers moved in front on goals by Joe Murphy and Glenn Anderson, tied the score 2-2 on Chris Nilan's score with 2:29 left in the second period.

Sweeney moved Boston ahead 3-2 on a spectacular individual rush. The Boston defenseman collected a loose puck just outside the Oilers' blue line, raced around defenseman Geoff Smith and wheeled in front before slipping a forehand shot by a diving Ranford.

''I think the Oilers were already going in the other direction,'' said Sweeney. ''(Ken) Hodge just left the puck for me and I raced in.''

In other games, St. Louis and Los Angeles skated to a 4-4 tie, Detroit defeated Chicago 5-1, Hartford beat Pittsburgh, and Vancouver nipped Toronto 2-1.

-- AROUND THE NHL --

Blues 4, Kings 4, OT

At St. Louis, Wayne Gretzky scored a power-play goal with 3:27 remaining, helping Los Angeles overcome a four-goal deficit. A standing- room-only crowd of 17,982 saw the slumping Blues score four goals in the second period only to allow the Kings back in the game.

Red Wings 5, Blackhawks 1

At Chicago, Joe Kocur scored on a penalty shot and Glen Hanlon stopped 33 shots in his first start, powering Detroit to its fourth straight triumph. Detroit, which entered the contest 1-7-3 away from Joe Louis Arena, has won two straight road games for the first time since February 1989.

Whalers 6, Penguins 4

Canucks 2, Maple Leafs 1

At Vancouver, British Columbia, Trevor Linden's power-play goal with 4:03 remaining in the third period gave the Canucks the win. After Maple Leaf defenseman Rob Ramage was sent off for holding, Linden tallied his 12th goal of the season when he took a pass from Dan Quinn and put the puck past Toronto goalie Allan Bester.

(NOV. 30) UPI - The countdown has begun for Saddam Hussein to withdraw his troops from Kuwait or face a U.N.-authorized attack but the Iraqi leader has shown no sign of bowing to the pressure.

In its strongest action yet in the crisis, the United Nations Security Council voted Thursday to allow the use of force against Iraq if it does not pull its troops out of Kuwait by Jan. 15.

The Security Council voted 12-2 with China abstaining and Cuba and Yemen voting against the resolution. It was the first time since July 1950, when it authorized a unified command against North Korean aggression in South Korea, that the body had endorsed the use of military power.

The resolution said Iraq has refused to comply with U.N. resolutions for it to quit Kuwait ''in flagrant contempt of the council'' and gave Iraq ''one final opportunity, as a pause of goodwill,'' to withdraw its 400,000 troops that have occupied Kuwait since Aug. 2.

Secretary of State James Baker joined foreign ministers Eduard Shevardnadze of the Soviet Union, Douglas Hurd of Britain and Roland Dumas of France in calling for renewed diplomacy to persuade Saddam to withdraw.

The four ministers, using similar language, said the Security Council would not take any further action against Iraq until Jan. 15, ''assuming no adverse change in circumstances.''

''We do so while retaining our rights to protect our foreign nationals in Iraq and mindful of the terms of the Fourth Geneva convention and the Geneva Protocol of 1925, should Saddam Hussein use chemical or biological weapons,'' Baker said.

President Bush called the resolution ''a very powerful statement and everybody ought to understand how strong it is and how important it is. Everybody wants a peaceful resolution. I think this would drive home the point to him that he's got to get out of Kuwait,'' he said.

Bush remained reluctant to call for a special session of Congress, calling such a move premature and unnecessary, but some leading lawmakers disputed his contention.

''I think reluctant is a pretty good word,'' said White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater.

The White House has termed a special session of Congress, which is not due to reconvene until Jan. 3, premature and unnecessary, but some leading lawmakers want a say in the United States' increasingly strident gulf policy.

Shevardnadze said the Soviet Union was unlikely to send troops to the Middle East and, displaying a frankness unimaginable a year ago, added, ''The memories of Afghanistan and Czechoslovakia are still fresh in the minds of our citizens.''

But Shevardnadze said, ''If even one Soviet citizen (in Iraq) is harmed, I cannot say what the consequences would be, but it will be very serious.''

He added that President Mikhail Gorbachev has the right under Soviet law to send troops to protect Soviet citizens and ''may everyone know that.''

The Soviet Union has about 1,000 citizens stuck in Iraq.

The Pentagon wasted little time reacting to the U.N. resolution, planning to build up its forces for possible offensive action after Jan. 15 by sending another 300 warplanes to the Gulf. That will increase the Air Force's fleet of planes in the area to 1,200 planes, the Los Angeles Times reported Friday.

Citing unnamed defense sources, the newspaper said the new wave of planes will include a second squadron of F-117 stealth fighters, F-15E ground-attack jets, F-16 fighters, A-10 tank-killers, refueling tankers and RF-4C photo-reconnaisance planes, the sources said.

A total of 27 more Air Force units with about 10,000 personnel will be deployed in the region, beginning as early as this week. Some will be redeployed from Europe and others will come from U.S.-based reserve and Air National Guard units, the newspaper said.

In a speech condemning the U.N. resolution and saying Iraq would fight ''ferociously'' in the event of attack, Saddam said Iraq had the ability to detect stealth fighters, which are designed to be invisible to radar.

''They (the Americans) are talking about the plane which they call the ghost and nobody can see,'' Saddam said. ''But if God wishes war to erupt, they will see that this ghost will be seen even by the shepherds in the desert with the Iraqi technology.''

Iraq promised former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali to release 14 American hostages, and told British member of Parliament Tony Penn that 15 British nationals would go free, Cairo radio reported.

Iraq also has ordered the release of 56 Swedes, Swedish officials said.

Former Navy Secretary James Webb told the Senate Armed Services Committee, holding hearings on the gulf buildup, that if Bush is serious about going on the offensive against Iraq he should seek a resumption of the draft and a declaration of war from Congress.

A poll released in Paris showed that more than half of the French people do not want France to participate in a gulf war and only 52 percent favored Bush's strong stand against Iraq, down 14 percentage points from August.

''Although our compatriots think that war has become inevitable to resolve the gulf crisis, they prefer that it be waged alone by our allies,'' said the Le Figaro newspaper, which sponsored the survey.

DHAKA, Bangladesh (NOV. 30) UPI - About 400 journalists staged a downtown rally Friday, protesting the imposition of censorship and vowing not to publish newspapers until the restriction is withdrawn.

The demonstration came during a seven-hour break in the curfew that was clamped on the city Tuesday after President Hussein Muhammad Ershad declared a national state of emergency, suspended all political activities, imposed press censorship and ordered the nation's three universities closed for a month.

''We will not accept any imposition of censorship on the press,'' Reaz Uddin Ahmad, president of the Bangladesh Federal Union of Journalists, told a gathering of about 400 reporters in front of the press club in downtown Dhaka.

''So long as it remains, no newspaper will come out. We ask the government to withdraw the emergency immediately and allow the process of democracy,'' Ahmad said.

The group later tried to stage a march, but were stopped by about 600 police officers who had been watching the demonstration. The crowd dispersed peacefully.

Numerous other rallies were held in Dhaka Friday, most of which were attended by not more than 300 people each and which were watched carefully by police. There were no reports of violence.

One women's rights organization, known as the Women's Federation, held a rally where speakers denounced the Ershad government.

''The people have rejected this government,'' said Farida Rahman, one of the group's leaders. ''We will not allow the continuance of this regime in power.''

Malika Begum, general secretary of the group, said that the women of Bangladesh ''will resist all kinds of repression on the people.''

''We are united in our vows,'' Begum said.

Ershad, while announcing emergency rule in Bangladesh last Tuesday, said the step was necessary ''to preserve national security and save the country from rampant violence.''

He accused oppostion parties of endangering internal security and the economic life of the country.

The government crackdown came in the wake of frequent anti-government strikes over the past month by opposition parties that disrupted normal life and often resulted in clashes between rival groups.

An eight-party alliance of the Awami League and a seven-party coalition led by the Bangladesh Nationalist Party organized the anti- government rallies and strikes since October.

The strikes were called to demand the resignation of Ershad and to insist on a general election under a neutral interim government.

Ershad seized power from an elected government in a bloodless coup in 1982 and obtained a five-year presidential term in the 1986 elections, boycotted by the major opposition parties.

Opposition leaders say there cannot be free and fair elections under an Ershad government.

President Bush says the U-N Security Council resolution authorizing military force in the Persian Gulf crisis ''will drive home the point'' that Iraq must withdraw its troops from Kuwait. Bush made the remark yesterday after the 15-nation U-N Security Council voted 12-2 with one abstention to authorize force.

President Bush will nominate Florida Governor Bob Martinez today to head the nation's anti-drug office. Administration sources say Bush plans to announce his nomination at the White House with Martinez at his side. The sources say Martinez, a Republican, left Tallahassee yesterday for Washington.

The shuttle Columbia's seven-man crew is in Florida for final preparations for Sunday's blastoff. The crew flew in from Houston late yesterday. Upon arrival at Cape Canaveral, crew member Samuel Durrance said- ''We're sure looking forward to flying this time.'' Columbia's 10- day astronomy flight is six months behind schedule because of crippling fuel leaks.

American motorists can expect across-the-board increases at the gas pump starting tomorrow. A new federal tax on gasoline goes into effect, adding five cents a gallon to the price. The tax will rise from nine cents to 14 cents a gallon on unleaded fuel and 15 cents to 20 cents on diesel.

President Bush yesterday signed a landmark immigration bill he called ''good for America.'' The Immigration Act of 1990 seeks to increase the flow of highly skilled workers into the United States... as well as unite immigrant families. It also eases or eliminates decades-old prohibitions on foreigners because of political beliefs, as well as exclusions for homosexuals.

A human rights group is protesting the first official visit to the United States by China's foreign minister since the crushing of the pro- democracy movement. In a letter to Secretary of State Baker, Asia Watch charged repression in China seems to be on the rise. The Chinese foreign minister is to meet with Baker today.

Missouri Attorney General William Webster has filed a lawsuit to shut down an adoption agency for alleged violations of the state's consumer fraud laws. The suit alleges that Missions of Mercy Incorporated charged couples large fees while misleading them about the availability of adoptable children.

The Environmental Protection Agency is investigating charges that the chemical company Monsanto manipulated scientific studies to minimize the possible health threat of dioxin. The charges were made by the environmental group Greenpeace. Dioxin is a by-product in the making of certain pesticides and herbicides... most notably Agent Orange.

PHOENIX (NOV. 30) UPI - Tom Chambers scored 22 points and rookie Negele Knight came off the bench to add 21 Thursday night, pacing the Phoenix Suns to a 128-110 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics.

Five other Suns scored in double figures. Kevin Johnson had 19 points, Dan Majerle 17, Jeff Hornacek 12 and Eddie Johnson and Mark West 11 apiece.

Derrick McKey led Seattle with 26 points and Shawn Kemp had 24 points and 11 rebounds for the SuperSonics, who lost for the seventh time in their last eight games.

Phoenix took command with a 10-2 run in the last 3:25 of the first quarter to take a 29-21 lead.

The Suns led 65-47 at halftime and 96-77 at the end of three quarters. Their largest lead was 120-93 with four minutes remaining.

Chambers played 29 minutes, the most of any Phoenix player as coach Cotton Fitzsimmons cleared his bench. Chambers made 6 of 14 field goals was good on all 10 of his foul shots.

Knight, a 6-foot-1 guard out of Dayton and second-round pick in the 1990 draft hit 7 of 10 field goal attempts, had four assists and two steals in 23 minutes.

Phoenix, hitting 56 percent from the floor, scored only two more field goals than the Sonics, but made 38 of 45 free throws while Seattle went to the free throw line 30 times and made 24.

The Suns totaled 25 assists, led by Kevin Johnson with six and Knight, Andrew Lang and Jeff Hornacek with four each.

NUGGETS 136, KINGS 128

DENVER (UPI) - Orlando Woolridge scored 32 points and hauled in 15 rebounds and Michael Adams added 29 Thursday night to help Denver to its third win of the season, 136-128, over Sacramento.

The Nuggets, winners of two straight, improved to 3-11. The Kings have lost five straight and are 1-12 this season.

Wayman Tisdale led four Kings who scored at least 20 points with 33. Rookies Lionel Simmons and Travis Mays added 22 apiece and Antoine Carr had 20. Tisdale and Simmons each added 11 rebounds.

The Kings led 34-33 in the second period before the Nuggets took the lead for good with 10:59 left before halftime. The Nuggets led by only two in the fourth quarter, before using a 8-0 run with 9:20 remaining to take control.

BLAZERS 107, TIMBERWOLVES 92

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - Clyde Drexler scored 21 points and Terry Porter added 20 to lead the Portland Trail Blazers to their 12th victory of the season, 107-92 over the Minnesota Timberwolves.

The Trail Blazers have won 12 of their first 13 games and lead the NBA's Western Division by 3 1-2 games.

Minnesota has dropped three of its last four and dropped to 5-9.

Minnesota's Tyrone Corbin led all scorers with 26 points, and Randy Bruer added 13.

The Trail Blazers raced to an early 29-15 lead in the first quarter and built a 20-point lead at 58-38 at the half and never looked back.

RANGOON, Burma (NOV. 30) UPI - The military government has promulgated a new private industrial law that gives the private sector the right to borrow government funds and hire foreign employees for the first time in 28 years.

Intended to foster the growth and expansion of private sector industries, the new law marks a turn away from socialist policies imposed since the 1962 military coup.

The current government is also a military government, but is hoping to use private enterprise to help the country reverse 28 years of decline under military-dominated socialism.

The law extends a series of benefits to all enterprises using more than three horsepower or employing more than ten workmen, according to a copy of the law published Friday.

The owners of such enterprises will have the right under the law to apply for government loans to finance fixed or working capital, for tax relief and exemption, and for assistance in acquiring needed infrastructure such as land, water-supply, power and transport, it said.

They will also be able to seek government assistance to procure, both at home and from abroad, raw materials and equipment, and also technology to boost production and raise the quality of their products.

They will also be able to employ foreign technicians and experts with the approval of the government.

The new law is part of a new open-door, market-oriented economic policy that emphasizes the role of the private sector in national economic development after years of government control left Burma one of the poorest countries in the world.

The government has signed a number of agreements with foreign businesses, but has moved slowly in loosening controls on the domestic economy.

It still reserves such lucrative areas of the economy as oil, precious stones, banking, forestry, and utilities for the government.

Burma, now officially called the Union of Myanmar, has a total of about 40,000 privately-owned workshops, but only about 2,000 of them employ more than 10 workmen to come within the ambit of the new law.

More than 50 percent of all these enterprises are in the food- processing and textile weaving industries.

BANGKOK, Thailand (NOV. 30) UPI - Forty-four young Vietnamese boat people left Thailand Friday under a voluntary repatriation program organized and supported by the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, a press statement said.

A UNHCR statement said 44 young male Vietnamese boat people left Bangkok for Ho Chi Minh City under the UNHCR Voluntary Repatriation Program.

It said 177 more Vietnamese boat people have already completed final interviews and are expected to leave for Vietnam shortly.

''Each returnee will receive $30 monthly from UNHCR for a period of 12 months '' it said.

The statement said the Vietnamese government has promised there will be no punishment of the returnees.

''UNHCR has full access to all returnees so as to monitor their well- being and progress towards reintegration,'' it said.

It said this repatriation has raised the total of Vietnamese boat people voluntarily returning from Thailand to 173 since last August.

Overall more than 6,000 Vietnamese boat people, mostly from Hong Kong have already returned to Vietnam under the UNHCR program, it said.

More than 13,000 Vietnamese refugees remain in refugee camps in Thailand, and most are unlikely to be accepted for resettlement in the West.

(NOV. 30) UPI - Indian summer was definitely over in the South and Middle Atlantic states with temperatures near freezing while more rain soaked the Northwest and strange lights were sighted in the skies over St. Louis.

After days of warm, sunny weather, things returned to normal for late November in the South, with a freeze warning in effect for Shreveport, La., and small craft advisories posted along Florida's northern east coast with seas reaching 9 feet.

A gale warning was in effect for the waters off New Orleans in the Gulf of Mexico and a small craft advisory was in effect along the coast east of the mouth of the Mississippi River, the National Weather Service said.

Nothing changed for Washington, where flood warnings were in effect for the Cedar and White rivers and snow or ice pellets were reported in the western interior region of the state.

Most rivers were still falling despite the rain Friday, but the Cedar River at Renton and the White River below Mud Mountain Dam were above flood stage and were expected to fall slowly late in the day.

Snow squalls dumped a quick inch of snow on the ground in western New York state, but eased toward daybreak and in New York City, it was clearing, windy and cold with a low in the 30s.

Clear skies covered the Midwest, but winds gusting to 55 mph whipped through Wyoming. Mostly clear skies and lows in the 50s were reported in Southern California with winds up to 12 mph.

The NWS in St. Louis issued a statement Friday in reponse to reports of strange lights in the night sky, blaming the sightings on a milky white cloud located very low on the horizon. The cloud, the NWS said, probably looked strange due to the full moon and clean atmosphere.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - A federal judge said he will order the city to pay $150 to each prisoner held for more than a day in holding cells that are not properly equipped for use, The New York Times said Friday.

Judge Morris Lasker, of Federal District Court in Manhattan, made the dicision to fine the city due to frustration at the administration's chronic violation of court-imposed limits on overcrowding its jails, The Times said.

Under Lasker's order, inmates would receive $100 for each additional 12 hours that they had to be confined to areas that are not properly equipped as a living space.

As many as 400 are held in holding cells for more than 24 hours often being forced to sleep on floors, with no place to urinate except in shared bottles or on the floor, the paper said.

In the first two weeks of October, a total of 250 inmates would have qualified for the $150 payment, officials told The Times.

Many states have compensated inmates for violations of their constitutional rights, but this is the first time that a judge has ordered New York City to pay prisoners for the city's infractions, The Times said.

Lasker is also expected to take the unusual step of fining the city's Correction Commissioner Allyn Sielaff in contempt of court for the Correction Department's failure to adhere to a 1989 order that the city could not force inmates to stay in receiving rooms for more than 24 hours.

Lasker said he would issue the contempt order either Friday or Monday.

The order would not, however, cover past violations, but would serve as a warning, the paper said.

''It may seem extraordinary,'' said Theodore Katz, a Legal Aid lawyer who is representing inmates. ''But the city over a long stretch of time has been subjecting thousands of people to shocking conditions.''

City officials admitted that the order has been violated but cited several problems, including a surge in jail population and the delay in opening the 850-bed unit on Rikers Island as helping prevent improvements.

The decision on paying inmates is the latest development in a long struggle between the judge and the city over conditions in the jail system.

The judge, acting on complaints from advocates of inmates' rights, has had a strong impact on the jail system, making rulings on a wide range of issues, ranging from cell size to sleeping arraignments.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - A surgeon who spend 25 months in jail rather than reveal the whereabouts of her 8-year-old daughter has been given custody of the girl by a judge in New Zealand, a television station reported.

The report Thursday night by Washington televsion station WUSA, said a family court judge in Christchurch gave Dr. Elizabeth Morgan custody of her daughter, Hilary Foretich.

The ruling, which was issued last week, could not be confirmed in New Zealand, which has strict laws banning the publication of any family court matters.

Under terms of the award, Hilary must stay in Christchurch, located on the east coast of New Zealand's southern island, report to court every six months and refrain from any further publicity.

Morgan hid Hilary after claiming the girl's father, Eric Foretich, an oral surgeon from Falls Church, Va., sexually abused her.

The judge who issued the custody ruling did not say whether Foretich abused the girl, but quoted from a court-appointed psychologist.

''Hilary believes she has been sexually abused by her father and her paternal grandparents,'' the judge quoted the psychologist as saying. ''It is no longer possible to distinguish fact from belief. It would be impossible for her not to identify with the convictions of her mother and her maternal grandparents.''

Foretich dropped his custody bid in March to spare Hilary from the trauma the fight would have caused.

Under the judge's ruling, he will not be allowed to visit Hilary, but can send her cards and gifts.

''There is strong argument for saying the child must remain in her mother's care, where her physical, educational, spiritual and emotional needes are being met,'' the judge wrote.

The judge said he had serious reservations about the negative attitude Morgan fostered in her daughter about Foretich, who Morgan divorced before Hilary was born.

Hilary has lived in Christchurch with her maternal grandparents since July 1988 and Morgan only spoke with the girl twice while she was in hiding before their their reunion in March.

Morgan was jailed in August 1987 on contempt of court charges for refusing to reveal Hilary's whereabouts, and was released in September 1989 only after President Bush signed a bill limiting such contempt of court jailings in the District of Columbia.

MANILA, Philippines (NOV. 30) UPI - Some 1,500 leftwing Filipinos rallied outside the U.S. Embassy Friday to demand the dismantling of American military bases in the country after a treaty covering their stay expires next year.

The protesters said they would stage similar mass actions during the third round of talks on the future of the giant Clark Air Base, Subic Bay Naval station and four smaller facilities scheduled to begin next week in Manila.

Rally speakers took turns in accusing President Corazon Aquino's government of having already forged a deal with the Americans to extend the bases beyond Sept. 16, 1991, ''at the expense of Filipino sovereignty.''

Some 200 riot police, backed by firetrucks and elite SWAT teams, guarded the embassy during the peaceful, two-hour rally timed on the 127th anniversary of the birth of Andres Bonifacio, leader of the Philippine revolution against Spain.

Next week's talks are expected to clear differences between the two allies and pave the way for the signing of a new treaty by January to replace the 1947 military bases pact, officials said.

The protesters urged the government to take over the facilities immediately, saying the bases were being used by the Americans to interfere in Philippine domestic affairs and were an affront to the nation's sovereignty.

''Even if they will sign a treaty to extend the bases beyond 1991, we will still continue the struggle to oust the bases,'' said Robert Castro, vice president of the leftist League of Filipino Students.

The demonstrators also protested harsh economic measures they said were imposed by the International Monetary Fund for the approval of new loans to the debt-strapped nation, including new hikes in oil prices and additional taxes.

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (NOV. 30) UPI - Two people were killed and six wounded in police gunfire in the troubled squatter camp of Phola Park early Friday after an armored personnel carrier loaded with police became snared in a ditch, residents and police said.

Police also reported three other people killed in politically inspired violence overnight, including a policeman gunned down in the Cape peninsula, the second to die there in a week.

Police spokesman Capt. Johan Barnard said the vehicle had been ambushed in the camp bordering the black township of Thokoza east of Johannesburg, lodging in a camouflaged trench. Unidentified gunmen then fired, prompting police to fire back, he said.

''According to our information there were bloodstains on the scene and at least two of the attackers were wounded but they could not be traced. We don't know about any deaths,'' Barnard said.

Phola Park, one of three squatter camps straddling Thokoza township, was a flashpoint in the urban black violence that erupted in the Johannesburg area in August between supporters of the African National Congress and the rival exclusively Zulu movement Inkatha.

Relations between residents and police have deteriorated ever since amid frequent allegations the lawmen had supported Inkatha in the conflict and participated in a number of fatal attacks on the squatter camp.

Phola Park Residents Committee Chairman Prince Mhlambi said two people had been killed, a man and a woman, and six others wounded in the incident. He disputed the police version, however, saying the vehicle became stuck and the police inside panicked and opened fire on homes nearby.

Police also reported the discovery Friday of the body of a man who had been shot to death in nearby Zonkizizwe squatter camp, where the bodies of nine others were found on Thursday hacked, stabbed and shot to death, apparent victims of the ANC-Inkatha faction fighting.

Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok Thursday placed Zonkizizwe under a 9 p.m.-to-4 a.m. curfew in a bid to curb the violence, noting ''69 residents have already lost their lives at the hands of criminal elements in this area in recent times.''

The latest outbreak of violence in Zonkizizwe is said to have been provoked by a rent boycott endorsed by local ANC supporters but opposed by Inkatha members.

In the Cape, police reported a second member of the police dog unit was shot and killed in the mixed-race area of Landsdowne after he and his partner had stopped a motorist for questioning.

Last week, in the black township of Kayelitsha, another member of the unit was gunned down.

NEW BALTIMORE, MI (NOV. 30) UPI - A soldier's letters to his hometown newspaper about life on the front lines of Operation Desert Shield so outraged his commanding officer that the Air Force is threatening to censor any future letters.

Excerpts of the letters from Sgt. Dick Runels of the 927th Tactical Airlift Group stationed in the Persian Gulf were published in the Oct. 24 and Nov. 1 issues of The Bay Voice, a weekly newspaper.

In the letters, Runels, 42, wrote about such things as fear and frustration, heat and fleas, and postal clerks who deliberately lose soldiers' mail if they're crossed.

He also criticized the U.S. mission in the Middle East. ''There is no threat to the U.S. except that we might pay $2 a gallon for gas,'' he wrote in his second letter.

Runels was chewed out after his commander apparently obtained a copy of the letters, said Tom Stanton, editor of The Bay Voice and a friend of the soldier.

''The base commander called him in and really ripped into him,'' Stanton said. ''He told him that his columns didn't reflect what was going on at the base, that his opinions were wrong and that he didn't have any constitutional rights as a soldier. And he told him he'd have to go through censors from now on.''

Stanton said the commander probably learned of the letters either through military public affairs at nearby Selfridge Air National Guard Base in Mount Clemens or through other unit members with family in the area.

Officials at the Air Force Reserve headquarters in Georgia said military public affairs officers must review anything soldiers write for publication to guard against security violations.

But Stanton, who said Runels gave him permission to publish the letters, said the letters are no different from those written to family members and then published in newspapers.

''This has nothing to do with security,'' Stanton said. ''This is one officer wanting to control a soldier's opinion.''

Stanton said he received another letter from Runels earlier this week, but has decided not to publish it and is consulting his lawyers over whether to print others.

In the latest letter, Runels writes: ''I am terribly frustrated because I don't know exactly what to write. This may be ready by anybody ... or nobody.''

(NOV. 30) UPI - Administration sources say President Bush will announce his new director of the war against drugs today- Governor Bob Martinez of Florida.

Martinez was defeated for re-election. The sources say Martinez will join Bush at the White House today for the announcement. The current anti-drug leader, William Bennett, has his last day on the job today. He is expected to become chairman of the Republican National Committee in January.

President Bush has signed into law an anti-crime bill which Congress weakened. The administration proposed the bill in May 1989 and included provisions for expanding the federal death penalty. Congress did NOT agree and also left out provisions for limiting appeals by condemned prisoners and toughening penalties for criminal use of a firearm. Bush says he is disappointed about many of the changes. The bill does increase money for the F-B-I and local law enforcement and increases penalties for child abuse.

General Motors has announced another cut in production that means its output for the fourth quarter will fall 292-thousand cars and trucks from its original plans. Analysts say this announcement means G-M expects a severe drop in demand for cars because of the slowing economy. G-M Chairman Robert Stempel said the automakers earnings will fall sharply.

U-S health officials say the number of AIDS cases in Europe jumped 62 percent between March 1989 and March 1990. The increase was particularly dramatic in eastern Europe. The Centers for Disease Control says many of the AIDS cases in Eastern Europe are spread through transfusion of contaminated blood and use of UNsterilized needles in hospitals.

Bulgarian Prime Minister Andrei Lukanov resigned yesterday, in a victory for hundreds of thousands of workers who have conducted a four-day-old general strike. Workers surrounding the Parliament building wildly cheered his announcement. They have been protesting shortages of basic food and gasoline. Lukanov's supporters overthrew the hardline communist government a year ago. He won office in parliamentary voting in June.

Stocks drifted lower yesterday. The Dow Jones industrial average fell more than 16 points. The Dow fell 25 points at one point on a false rumor that shots were fired in the Persian Gulf. Traders then decided to take their profits before the U-N Security Council vote on authorizing force in the gulf. The council voted after the market closed to allow military force to get Iraq out of Kuwait.

The New York Daily News has filed a 150-Million-dollar racketeering suit against 23 striking drivers, a union and a group representing all strikers. It charges them with conducting a ''campaign of terror'' against replacement workers and newsstand owners. The suit includes allegations of attempted murder, arson, extortion and robbery. About 25- hundred News workers have been on strike since October 25th.

CENTRAL FALLS, RI (NOV. 30) UPI - A tavern owner who authorities allege ran a cocaine empire in the Northeast for more than 10 years enjoyed a markedly different reputation in his hometown - one of a generous benefactor.

Police Chief Robert Sasso said Hector Garcia, 50, paid the college tuitions of children in his small city, gave frequently to charities and covered the costs of weddings even if the couples were not related to him.

''If you met him and didn't know his background, you'd think he was a prince '' Sasso said in Friday's Providence Journal-Bulletin.

On Thursday, Garcia made a brief appearance in U.S. District Court, Providence to answer charges he was the ''high priest'' of the Northeast cocaine trade through the 1980s.

He was ordered held without bail pending a detention hearing. During the court proceedings, about a dozen of Garcia's supporters from Central Falls stood behind him. Some wept openly.

Garcia moved from Colombia to Central Falls in 1979 and three years later opened the Sportsman's Tap on Sheridan Street. He was elected director of the now-defunct Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, helped organize a popular adult soccer league, made his bar a gathering spot for hundreds of Colombian immigrants, and became known in the community as ''La Cura,'' a nickname meaning ''The Priest'' or ''The Godfather,'' Sasso said.

Law enforcement officials allege, however, that Garcia came to Rhode Island to establish a decidedly different kind of business.

''When the original drug cartels were formed, they sent out emissaries all over the world to set up business,'' said Raymond Moffett, a member of the state Attorney General's narcotics squad. ''(Garcia) was one of the original settlers, one of the original entrepreneurs.''

Garcia lived a modest lifestyle despite the wealth he allegedly accumulated from the cocaine trade. He drove a 1986 Pontiac and lived on the first floor of a triple-decker attached to his tavern.

The residence, however, was furnished with plush carpets and televisions in every room. Also, he owned a 500-acre ranch in Colombia, to which he returned briefly in 1985, Sasso said.

Narcotics investigators had suspicions about Garcia dating to the early 1980s but were never able to get anything on him because he was well insulated from any drug transactions, officials said.

That changed late last spring when Newport police detective Michael Brennan convinced a friend of Garcia's to become an informant. The friend, whose identity is being kept secret, became a cocaine dealer in Newport and wore a recording device during meetings at the Sportsman's Tap, a federal affidavit said.

He set up or made drug buys 13 times from May to October of this year, each time dealing with underlings of Garcia, according to the affidavit.

Federal and state narcotics agents raided the bar Wednesday night and arrested Garcia and four others. The Drug Enforcement Administration has seized the Sportsman's Tap as well as the building Garcia lived in and owned.

BONN, GERMANY (NOV. 30) UPI - The first convoy in a massive German effort to send food to the Soviet Union left Bonn Friday, and relief officials huddled to discuss how to distribute the shipment once it reaches the hungry nation.

The German Foreign Ministry set up a special team called ''Soviet Union-Aid'' to coordinate emergency assistance by the government and humanitarian organizations that is expected to total hundreds of millions of dollars.

The Soviet Union is suffering a food crisis. Dozens of initiatives have been set up to collect funds and food parcels to help its citizens get through the normally harsh Russian winter.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl said Germany will put food stocks worth about $338 million at the disposal of the Soviet Union. The food was stored in West Berlin as a strategic reserve held for the eventuality of a renewed blockade of the city like the one imposed by the Soviet Union in 1948-49 at the start of the Cold War.

A senior government aide, Horst Teltschik, said that at a meeting in Moscow earlier this week, Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev told him his country needs a total of 1.9 million tons of food.

A truck convoy of the German Red Cross carrying food parcels left Bonn for the Soviet Union Friday, the first of several planned.

Soviet officials and Western diplomats in Moscow said earlier that the food crisis was caused by transportation and distribution problems rather than by overall food shortages.

Relief officials expressed confidence the food would reach those it is destined for, and they were meeting in Bonn Friday to coordinate emergency measures and discuss the logistics of distributing the food.

MOSCOW (NOV. 30) UPI - Mikhail Gorbachev canceled a planned trip Friday to the troubled southwestern Soviet republic of Moldavia, where he was hoping to ease ethnic tension and dissuade separatists, the official Tass news agency said.

The one-day trip to Kishinev, announced Thursday, would have been Gorbachev's first visit to a Soviet republic outside the Russian Federation where the capital is located since a politically uncomfortable stop in Lithuania in January.

Gorbachev has been criticized at home for traveling around the world and concentrating on foreign affairs while the Soviet Union was facing economic crisis, separatist movements and ethnic disputes in many of its 15 republics.

During his visit to Moldavia Gorbachev had planned to address the Parliament in Kishinev and was to meet with representatives of the breakaway Russian-speaking Dniester and Turkic-speaking Gagauzi regions of the republic.

''A new date for the trip will be announced later,'' Tass said. No reason was given for the change of plans.

But Moldavian Prime Minister Mircha Snegur blamed the change in plans on the minority groups that have set up their own separate parliaments, saying they had refused to travel to Kishinev and resume participation in the republic's legislature to meet with Gorbachev.

The Moldavian Popular Front, which now controls the republic's parliament and ultimately seeks to break from the Soviet Union and unite with neighboring Romania, had called for mass demonstrations during Gorbachev's visit.

On the Soviet president's last trip to a rebellious republic, Gorbachev was confronted by Lithuanians in January who angrily demanded independence for their Baltic republic that was annexed by the Soviet Union in 1940 under the infamous Molotov-Ribbentrop pact with Nazi Germany.

While Moldavia has declared sovereignty and is seeking to take more control over the republic from the central government, it has not declared full independence from the Soviet Union.

Besides an effort to calm ethnic tensions in Moldavia that have led to violent clashes and at least three deaths, Gorbachev had been expected to push for acceptance of his new ''union treaty'' to continue to bind the Soviet republics into one country.

Russians and Ukrainians in the Dniester region of eastern Moldavia and the Turkic-speaking Gagauzis in the south declared separate autonomous republics earlier this year because of fears the republic would split from the Soviet Union and minority rights would be trampled under Moldovian nationalism.

Both regions held elections to separate Parliaments, defying efforts by Moscow to prevent them and declarations by the Moldavian parliament that they were held illegally and the results were not valid.

The new Dniester parliament, which convened Thursday after last weekend's elections, is dominated by Russian and Ukrainian communists who are demanding the resignation of the Moldavian government, repeal of a law making a Romanian dialect the official language and a commitment by the republic to remain inside the Soviet Union.

A republic of 4.4 million people, Moldavia was formed by joining a former Moldavian autonomous area of the Ukraine with large parts of Romania that Josef Stalin seized in 1940 as part of the secret pact with Adolf Hitler.

Moldavians, who are ethnic Romanians, make up 64 percent of the republic's population, Ukrainians 14.2 percent, Russians 12.8 percent and Gagauzis 3.5 percent.

HARRISBURG, PA (NOV. 30) UPI - Pennsylvania has become the 21st state to abandon the electric chair in favor of injection as the method for executing murderers.

Gov. Robert P. Casey Thursday signed a bill retiring the chair, which has not been used since 1962.

The lethal injection passed the state Senate last April but House members only approved the measure by a 170-21 margin two weeks ago. The law takes effect immediately.

Supporters of the bill say lethal injection is a quicker, more humane and less painful way to put prisoners to death. Officials said a prisoner would be dead within three minutes of injection.

But the American Civic Liberities Union of Pennsylvania and the Pennsylvania Catholic Conference opposed the bill, saying the only way to make capital punishment more humane is to abolish it.

Some legal experts said the change could lead to more appeals for the 118 inmates on death row in the state.

''I think it's very likely that anyone sentenced to die in the electric chair will argue that you can't change the penalty,'' said Dickinson law professor Arthur Murphy. ''And the courts will have to deal with that.''

ATLANTA (NOV. 30) UPI - Former President Jimmy Carter urged world leaders to wait as long as a year to see if economic sanctions force Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait before mounting a military campaign.

Carter ended two days of private meetings in Atlanta on Lebanon and economic development in the Middle East Thursday, saying he hopes an invasion does not follow the U.N. Security Council's resolution authorizing military action to liberate Kuwait.

''I am not in favor of a military invasion of Iraq,'' he said at a news conference at the Carter Presidential Center. ''I would be willing to wait 12 months'' for economic sanctions to work.

''Patience is much better than a precipitous launching of a military attack,'' Carter added.

The former president also labeled ''excessive'' the number of U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf region, estimated to be more than 400,000 by January.

''We're already past the point of not being able to rotate the Marines,'' he said. ''It's hard to put troops in a region like the Saudi desert and not let them rotate at all and keep them there 12 months.''

AUSTIN, TX (NOV. 30) UPI - A state appeals court has indefinitely delayed the Monday execution of Henry Lee Lucas, a one-eyed drifter who horrified the nation with claims of a cross-country murder spree.

Lucas, 54, was to die by injection early Monday for the 1979 rape- murder near Georgetown of an unidentified female hitchhiker nicknamed ''Orange Socks'' for the only item of clothing found on her body.

But the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals granted a stay Thursday to give the court time to review issues raised by Lucas' attorneys.

Notified by telephone of the reprieve from his first execution date, Lucas ''sounded kind of numb, probably because of the tension he was under,'' said

Al Foster, an investigator with the law firm representing Lucas.

The court said it wanted more time to review Lucas's case in light of a 1989 Supreme Court decision involving jury consideration of ''mitigating circumstances'' that might sway them to sentence a convicted killer to life in prison rather than death. In Lucas' case, such a circumstance might be evidence he was abused by his mother.

''The Court of Criminal Appeals has just stayed these things right and left,'' said Assistant Attorney General Bob Walt. ''There are close to 20 cases backed up on this very issue.''

Lucas - one of the first people to be dubbed a serial killer - claims he confessed to 4,000 crimes after being arrested in Texas in 1982. But Texas Rangers officially attributed to him more than 250 crimes in 26 states.

Texas Rangers escorted Lucas across the nation for interviews with police agencies hoping to clear unsolved murders off their books. He claimed most of the killings were carried out during cross-country travels with Ottis Toole, who is serving life prison terms for two Florida murders.

Evidence later began to surface that Lucas could not have committed some of the crimes to which he confessed, and Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox publicly expressed serious doubts about Lucas' guilt in the ''Orange Socks'' case.

Lucas since has recanted all of his confessions, saying he only murdered one person, his mother. He spent 15 years in a Michigan prison for her 1960 slaying.

Lucas once said he confessed because of the lure of fame and the good treatment he received from the Texas Rangers. He now claims he was drugged, threatened and forced to confess.

In a death row interview earlier this week, Lucas said he did not fear execution because he would go to heaven. He said his only crime was embarrassing police who accepted his bogus confessions to more than 250 murders.

''I have done nothing to cause the death of my life except those false confessions, and I've asked forgiveness for those, which I feel God hasforgiven me for,'' Lucas said.

''According to His promise, I'll have heaven waiting for me,'' he said.

TOKYO (NOV. 30) UPI - The Finance Ministry plans to auction about $1.69 billion of two-year government notes early next week, financial sources said Friday.

The sources said the coupon rate will likely be set at 6.8 percent to 6.9 percent.

They said the ministry also is considering auctioning treasury bills only once in December instead of twice as it has done previously, because the amount of such bills due in December is relatively small at $9.2 billion.

ATHENS, GREECE (NOV. 30) UPI - The Soviet Union is not presently considering sending a force to the Persian Gulf, but its legislature will decide on the issue if necessary, Tehran radio Friday quoted an emissary of Mikhail Gorbachev as saying.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Petrovsky arrived in Tehran Tuesday as Gorbachev's special emissary to hear Iranian views on the gulf crisis. He left Thursday, as the U.N. Security Council passed a resolution authorizing a military force to drive Iraq out of Kuwait if it doesn't leave by Jan. 15.

Petrovsky said Moscow was not at present considering sending its own force to the gulf. He said if Moscow thought it necessary, the Supreme Soviet legislature would decide whether the Soviet Union should send a force to the gulf.

The Soviet Union, as a permanent U.N. Security Council member, voted for the new resolution. The nation, however, has not contributed any troops to the U.S.-led multinational force now deployed in the gulf region.

The Voice of the Islamic Republic radio, monitored in Athens, quoted Petrovsky as saying Soviet leaders used strong language when discussing the gulf crisis with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz during his recent visit to Moscow.

In the talks with Aziz, the Kremlin asked Iraq to respect the Security Council resolutions demanding that it pull out of Kuwait, Petrovsky said.

Time was running out for a peaceful solution to the crisis and Iraq would bring irrevocable danger to the region if it continued to show no respect for the Security Council resolutions, the Soviet emissary said.

Petrovsky, who brought a special verbal message from Gorbachev for Iranian President Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani, said Iranian views on the crisis were of special interest to Moscow.

At Friday prayer ceremonies in Tehran, Rafsanjani repeated his call for Iraq to pull its forces out of Kuwait.

''From the first moments of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, we opened two files '' separating the Kuwaiti crisis from Tehran's own quarrel with Baghdad arising out of the Iran-Iraq war of 1980-88, he said.

''In Baghdad, we even told the president: You must quit Kuwaiti soil, '' Rafsanjani said. He was apparently referring to a recent visit to Baghdad by Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati, who delivered a verbal message to President Saddam Hussein.

But he said Iran also told Saddam that whatever happened in Kuwait, ''anyway, we shall honor the decisions of the Security Council contained in Resolution 598,'' which was instrumental in ending the Iran-Iraq war.

Iran has made it clear repeatedly that it does not wish to be drawn militarily into the Iraq-Kuwait conflict.

NEW WAVERLY, TX (NOV. 30) UPI - Two high school coaches have been suspended from their jobs for allegedly holding a starter's pistol to a student's head and threatening to hang him.

Head football coach Larry Spacek and assistant coach Steve Ramsey were relieved of their duties with pay Wednesday, New Waverly school board President Alton Adams said Thursday.

Walker County deputies are investigating the incident, which allegedly was done in jest to chide the 14-year-old student into improving his grades so he could play football next year.

The school board will consider the men's continued employment at a Dec. 18 meeting, Superintendent Alvin Davis said.

Spacek and Ramsey each have hired attorneys in the case, and both declined comment.

Adams said he was told Spacek, 34, and Ramsey, 37, were trying to impress upon Josh Clark the importance of bringing up his grades.

''That's an odd way to try to impress someone,'' Adams said. ''No, it's worse than that.''

The boy's mother, Thea Clark, said her son, a New Waverly Middle School student, was in the high school gym earlier this week when the coaches asked to see Josh in their office.

''Coach Spacek got to talking with me about my grades and then Coach Ramsey said he was tired of me,'' the boy said.

He said Spacek took an extension cord from his desk and told the youth to put his hands behind his back because he was going to tie him up.

''Then he told me to look up at the ceiling, that he was going to hang me from there,'' the boy said.

When he refused to hold still so his hands could be tied, the boy said, Ramsey told Spacek to wait because he had something ''better'' for the student.

Ramsey retrieved the starter's pistol from his truck, grabbed Josh in a hammerlock and held the gun to his temple, the boy said.

''I was hollering,'' said Josh, who said he did not know the gun was a starter's pistol. ''I thought he was going to shoot me but Coach Spacek told him not to.''

Investigators have recovered the gun and the extension cord, said Walker County Chief Deputy Billy Linville. Information in the case will be presented to the district attorney's office for review and probably will be taken to a grand jury, he said.

The starter's pistol was not loaded and is ''just a noisemaker,'' Linville said.

''I don't care if it was just a starter gun,'' said Thea Clark, who has filed complaints about the incident with the sheriff and justice of the peace. ''You don't play with a kid that way.

''There's a whole lot of mothers and fathers in this town, that if that had happened to their kid, Spacek and Ramsey wouldn't be walking around.''

Clark said her son has had nightmares about the incident and has refused to go to school out of fear other teachers will side with the coaches.

Spacek is in his second year as head coach in New Waverly, about 70 miles north of Houston, while Ramsey is in his first year.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - Law enforcement officials have warned five prominent New Yorkers that their names were found on a list kept by the man accused of killing radical Zionist Meir Kahane, Newsday reported Friday.

The newspaper said Rep. Gary Ackerman, D.-N.Y., two federal judges, a former assistant U.S. attorney and a columnist for the weekly Jewish Press were on the list.

Some of those on the list found in Nosair's Cliffside Park, N.J., home, were involved in the extradition from Venezuela through Brooklyn of terrorist suspect Abdul Atta, a Moslem clerk linked to a terrorist group, the paper said.

Neither police nor the FBI would comment on the report.

FBI officials have said they believe Nosair acted alone when he gunned down Kahane during a Nov. 5 conference in New York City and were still trying to determine if he was back by a terrorist group.

New York police Capt. Steve Davis said police are conducting a homicide investigation into Kahane's death and not concentrating terrorist links.

Newsday quoted law enforcement officials as saying the list strengthens the theory that the killing of the militant, right-wing politician and founder of the militant Jewish Defense League, might be part of a conspiracy against Jewish Americans.

The paper said investigators found names of Ackerman, U.S. District Court judges Jack B. Weinstein and Edward Korman, former Assistant U.S. Attorney Jacques Simmelman, and Howard Adelman, a columnist in the Jewish Press, scrawled on a bank calendar.

Law enforcement officials told Newsday that Nosair has not explained the list of names, but warned those named to take precautions.

''The words 'hit list' weren't written on the calendar or anything like that '' a law enforcement source told Newsday. ''But what purpose would he have them for? He had no legitimate business with these people, no social contacts. So we've warned them to be careful.''

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - The Index of Leading Economic Indicators, a barometer of economic activity over the next six to nine months, fell 1. 2 percent in October for the fourth straight monthly decline, the government said Friday.

''It's weak. It's weak,'' said Robert Dederick, chief economist at Northern Trust in Chicago. ''The leading indicators are telling us what we already have known, that we're in a decline and there's more to the come.

''The leading indicators aren't saying this thing is about to blow itself out quickly,'' Dederick added.

The index fell 0.8 percent in September, dropped 1.2 percent in August and declined 0.1 percent in July, according to revised data released by the Commerce Department and its Bureau of Economic Analysis.

Of the 11 economic indicators that make up the index, eight declined during October while three advanced.

The following indicators decreased: index of consumer expectations, average weekly initial claims for state unemployment insurance, average workweek, building permits, money supply in 1982 dollars, stock prices, change in sensitive materials prices, and vendor performance.

Manufacturers orders for consumer goods and materials, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, and change in manufacturers unfilled orders all scored increases during last month.

Over the last 12 months, the index has tumbled 1.9 percent, a government spokesman said. Over the last six months, it has plunged 2.5 percent, the spokesman added.

The composite index of coincident indicators - a monthly approximation of aggregate economic activity - dropped 1 percent in October after falling 0.8 percent in September and 0.2 percent in August.

The composite index of lagging indicators fell 0.3 percent last month after dropping 0.1 percent in September and 0.4 percent in August, the Commerce Department also reported.

BONN, GERMANY (NOV. 30) UPI - Political parties wound up their campaigns Friday for the first free, all-German elections in 58 years - voting that will seal the nation's reunification, 13 months after the fall of the Berlin Wall.

A total of 59.9 million Germans are eligible to choose Sunday from 40 parties and 3,696 candidates to fill the 656 seats of the Bundestag, the German parliament.

Berliners will also vote in city elections, the first since 1946 in the whole of Berlin.

Helmut Kohl is heavily favored in surveys to win election as chancellor of the reunified nation. His main challenger, Social Democrat Oskar Lafontaine, focused on the economic troubles of eastern Germany, challenging Kohl's assertion the government will not need to raise taxes to meet costs linked to the reunification.

Political parties held their last rallies Friday at the end of a campaign that centered on the Oct. 3 reunification of Germany and its economic implications.

The Kohl-Lafontaine tax debate has provided the only excitement in an otherwise drab electoral campaign.

Kohl said two weeks ago it might be necessary to impose new duties in certain areas, stressed they were not linked to unification and admitted that it makes little difference to voters wether they pay new duties or higher taxes.

Opinion polls show that Kohl's conservative-led government coalition will remain in power.

The latest surveys show that Kohl's Christian Democratic Party, together with its Bavarian ally, the Christian Social Union, would get 45 percent of the vote.

The liberal Free Democratic Party, the junior partner's in the coalition, would get 9.5 percent and the opposition Social Democratic Party 35 percent.

Sunday's voting will cap the dramatic changes in Germany's political landscape that started with the crumbling of communism in the East. The elections come 13 months after the Berlin Wall - Berlin's 28-year-old symbol of division - tumbled Nov. 9, 1989.

The last free, all-German elections were in November 1932. Adolf Hitler was named chancellor two months later.

OTTAWA (NOV. 30) UPI - Statistics Canada, the federal government's information gathering agency, confirmed Friday that the country is in an economic recession - something consumers and businesses have known for several months.

Gross domestic product fell 0.3 percent in the third quarter of 1990, the second consecutive quarter of negative growth this year. Output slumped 0.7 percent in the second quarter, as domestic demand slumped in response to unusually high interest rates and the proposed 7 percent Goods and Services Tax, scheduled to take effect on Jan. 1.

''We've had two quarters of negative growth. According to some people's definition, we are in a recession,'' said Statistics Canada spokesman Stewart Taylor.

Most economists have predicted the recession will last until early spring or late summer, mainly because interest rates are not expected to fall from their current level of 14.25 percent for loans to most favored customers.

Indeed, the country's central bank, the Bank of Canada, on Thursday raised its bank rate - which sets the trend for other Canadian interest rates - to 12.26 percent from 12.25 percent, after having allowed it to fall for four straight weeks.

The decline in economic activity has hit hardest at business investment.

Corporate profits have been dropping for six straight quarters, interest rates remain relatively high and businesses have had difficulty finding financing.

Consequently, the statistics agency said, plant and equipment spending plunged 4.9 percent over the past two quarters.

A strong Canadian dollar, coupled with rising wage settlements, made exports less competitive.

Consumers have become more cautious about spending and have deferred major purchases such as houses and automobiles.

However, Statistics Canada said wages and salaries grew just 0.9 percent during the third quarter - the smallest quarterly increase since 1983.

In other economic news, there was a slight improvement in the country's current account deficit, which amounted to $3.4 billion in the third quarter, the lowest deficit in the last 18 months. The decline was attributed to a drop in dividend payments from the high level in the second quarter.

Canada had a merchandise trade surplus of $3.2 billion and a deficit of $6.6 billion on non-merchandise transactions. Merchandise exports fell 2.7 percent to $36.5 billion in the third quarter, with significant decreases recorded for machinery and equipment, agricultural and forest products.

At the same time, third-quarter imports also fell 2.7 percent to $33.3 billion.

BEIJING (NOV. 30) UPI - Senior Communist Party official Yan Mingfu, long rumored to be in trouble for openly sympathizing with last year's democracy protests, has been removed from his last remaining post, state television said Friday.

Word of Yan Mingfu's ouster was announced in a one-sentence report read over the nightly news broadcast.

''The Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party decided recently that Ding Guan'gen will take the position of head of the United Front Work Department, and that Yan Mingfu has been removed from his post,'' the report said.

The United Front is a Communist Party organization designed to promote contacts between overseas Chinese and the mainland.

Yan, an associate of deposed Communist Party head Zhao Ziyang, had already been removed last June from his key post as member of the party Central Committee's secretariat.

Yan and Zhao were ousted from the leadership's ranks at a crucial party meeting held following the hard-line government's violent June 4, 1989, crackdown on the Tiananmen Spring democracy movement.

Unlike Zhao, who was openly blamed for supporting the protests and stripped of all his official posts, Yan was allowed to retain a position in the party leadership as head of the United Front but his political fortune was clearly on the wane.

Throughout last spring's protests, Yan tried repeatedly to establish a dialogue between irate senior leaders and student demonstrators demanding greater freedom.

At one point Yan publicly broke down in tears in Tiananmen Square, the center of the protests, over the inability of the two sides to come to an agreement.

Yan, a 59-year-old native of northeast Liaoning province, has been purged from power in the past. He was persecuted and jailed for several years during the chaotic 1966-76 Cultural Revolution.

Yan was elected to the party's ruling Central Committee in 1987.

His successor, Ding Guan'gen, had formerly headed the Taiwan Affairs Office under the State Council, China's Cabinet. Ding was replaced recently by reformist Wang Zhaoguo, the former governor of southeast Fujian province.

(NOV. 30) UPI - The Commerce Department reports that a predictor of the U-S economy fell in October for the fourth straight month. The Index of Leading Economic Indicators lost one-point-two percent. Over the past 12 months it has lost nearly two percent and in six months it has fallen two and one-half percent. The index tracks 11 different economic indicators in an attempt to predict where the economy will be in six to nine months.

American drivers have been paying higher gasoline prices because of the embargo of petroleum from Iraq and Kuwait. When they fill up tomorrow and notice another increase, Saddam Hussein can NOT be blamed. Prices are going up five cents a gallon because of a higher federal tax. This is part of the October budget deal. Economists believe the tax added to a 60 percent price runup could slow gas consumption.

DEERFIELD, Ill. (NOV. 30) UPI - NutraSweet Co. executives said they are shocked by a European Commission decision to impose a duty that could boost the cost of its low-calorie sweetner aspartame by 70 percent overseas, it was reported Friday.

''This is the highest duty ever imposed by the commission on a food product,'' company president Jan Bergman told the Chicago Tribune. ''We're shocked. We do not understand the basis for the commission's determination.''

Bergman said company executives will meet with commission members to clarify the issue and register concern.

The commission imposed the so-called ''anti-dumping'' duties on manufacturers of aspartame in the U.S. and Japan to protect Holland Sweetner Co., the only European producer of the product.

NutraSweet, a subsidiary of St. Louis-based Monsanto Corp., is the only producer in the United States until 1992, when its patent expires.

Holland complained to the commission that NutraSweet was unfairly marketing its product at much lower prices in Europe than in the U.S.

Spokesman Rich Nelson of NutraSweet said the company sells its product in Europe at 50 percent of the American price because its patents overseas have run out and the company must compete with others.

The tax amounts to $17 per pound on NutraSweet imports and $19 per pound on Japanese imports of their version of the product.

The commission said Holland's losses have been so severe ''they directly threaten the viability of the industry concerned.''

MAPUTO, MOZAMBIQUE (NOV. 30) UPI - A new constitution ending 15 years of Marxist rule and laying the groundwork for Mozambique's first multi- party polls took effect Friday, hours after President Joaquim Chissano urged right-wing guerrillas to join the political mainstream.

The constitution, hammered out over nearly a year of often-rancorous debate publicly and within the ruling Frelimo party, abolishes the one- party system established by Frelimo when it assumed power at the end of Portuguese rule.

It abandons all references to the ''leading role'' of Frelimo, specifies future elections will be held between competing parties with universal suffrage and secret ballots, and ends the requirement making the leader of Frelimo automatically the head of state.

The constitution also grants workers the right to strike, protects freedom of the press, guarantees the independence of the judiciary, and changes the name of the country.

Chissano, 50, appealed to the Renamo leadership Thursday to put down their weapons and challenge Frelimo's rule at the ballot box in national elections expected to be held in July or August.

''I call on Renamo to accept the democratic order and to participate, actively and in peace, in the building of the new Mozambique,'' Chissano told reporters. ''Renamo should do something very simple. It should participate in the democratic life of the country.''

With the exception of the country losing ''People's'' from its name the Republic of Mozambique, little was different in the capital Friday and few observers expect any substantial changes until Renamo agrees to end its crippling war against Frelimo.

Despite having led his formerly Marxist-oriented party to accepting a pluralist constitution and shifting from a state economy to a liberally mixed one, Chissano defended socialism as ''a necessity, above all for a country such as ours.''

Chissano's government has been holding direct negotiations with Renamo in Rome in a bid to end the grinding war in which hundreds of thousands of civilians have been killed, and millions in the impoverished country uprooted or unable to feed themselves without international aid.

He said he hoped talks under way would lead to a cease-fire in the conflict, which began as a child of Rhodesian intelligence to destabilize Mozambique in its early years of independence. Support for Renamo shifted to Pretoria on Zimbabwean independence, but the South African government says its backing for the guerrillas has now ended.

Following a cease-fire, Chissano said, ''We will start a process by which we may eventually merge the forces that today are fighting, so that there is mutual trust and cooperation in a peaceful running of the elections.''

He noted Renamo must stop fighting to participate in the elections.

''No party will be allowed to run for election while practicing acts of violence,'' Chissano said.

PHILADELPHIA (NOV. 30) UPI - The rating on some $715 million of Philadelphia Water & Sewer System's revenue bonds Friday was placed on a credit watch by a leading debt rating service.

Standard & Poor's Corp. said it placed the notes now rated triple-B - or medium grade - on its CreditWatch with "negative implications," reflecting "the water department's need for a rate increase and the resulting impact on the water fund's cash position."

The department has proposed a $43.5 million rate increase that has been bogged down by political and legal restraints. "A delay in the rate action beyond Jan. 1 with increased borrowing for cash flow purposes ... would lead to a non-investment grade rating," S&P's said. Philadelphia's water department ran a deficit in fiscal 1990, which has continued into the current year.

The system's cash balances have been drawn down as a result of the operating deficits, S&P's said. The department this week will transfer $12.8 million from its renewal and replacement fund to cover the last fiscal year's operating deficit, and is exploring transfering the remaining balance of $25 million in the 1991 fiscal year.

"If adequate rate action is set in place by Jan. 1, the system should have sufficient revenues to maintain and restore adequate financial margins," S&P's said.

The rating service cautioned that "if the rate action is delayed much beyond Jan. 1, the department's cash flow borrowing needs could increase leading to the possible tapping of the debt service reserve."

S&P's said the water department's fiscal pressures have been aggravated by the city's inability to fund it cash flow needs. But the system's bond rating is dependent on adequate rate relief "regardless of the city's ability to hand it's own cash flow problems." Philadelphia is nearly broke and has been unable to borrow money.

(NOV. 30) UPI - The government's barometer of future economic activity over six to nine months fell one-point-two percent in October... the fourth consecutive monthly decline. Economist Robert Dederick at Northern Trust in Chicago says the index of leading indicators is saying that the economy is in a decline and- as he put it- ''there's more to come.'' Revised date show that the index fell eight-tenths of one percent in September... one-point-two percent in August, and one-tenth of one percent in July.

Former President Carter says he would be willing to wait one year to see if economic sanctions force Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait before mounting any military actions. Carter says he is NOT in favor of a military invasion at this time. As Carter put it- ''Patience is much better than a precipitous launching of a military attack.''

Officials in Argentina are calling for a full investigation into the source of rumors of a plot to kill President Bush during a visit to the country next week. Argentina's interior minister says only one part of the story is true, that a resident of Bolivia has been arrested for possessing what is called ''false documentation.'' Bush is scheduled to be in Argentina on December 5th in the third stop of a five-nation tour of South America.

German officials are now working out how to distribute what could become 338-Million dollars of food stocks placed at the disposal of the Soviet Union. The first convoy of trucks carrying the food left Bonn for the Soviet Union today and more will follow. Oddly enough, the food had been stored in West Berlin as a strategic reserve in case the Soviet Union tried for a replay of its 1948 blockade of the city at the start of the Cold War.

Federal health officials are warning of severe side effects from illegal use of the drug G-H-B. At least 57 people have been poisoned while using the drug since August, some of them badly enough to require intensive hospital care. They were using the G-H-B for everything from body-building to weight control or as a sleep aid. But the F-D-A warns that UNauthorized use of G-H-B is illegal and should be stopped immediately.

A late Indian summer ended in the South and Middle Atlantic states, where temperatures plunged down to about the freezing level this morning. In the Northwest, more rain fell over water-logged Washington state, where flood warnings are in effect on the Cedar and White rivers. Small craft advisories were posted over the northern east coast of Florida, where seas reached nine feet, and gale warnings are up off New Orleans for waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

CAPE CANAVERAL, FL (NOV. 30) UPI - The shuttle Columbia's countdown Friday ticked smoothly toward a blazing predawn launch Sunday with the ship's crew eager to finally blast off on an astronomy mission after four frustrating delays in six months.

Columbia's electrical generators were fueled Friday and NASA test director Albert Sofge said other than ''nickel and dime problems'' at pad 39B, all systems were ''go'' for launch Sunday at 1:28 a.m. EST to kick off a 10-day flight grounded since May by crippling fuel leaks.

''The team feels good,'' he said at a news briefing. ''We had a (fueling) test several weeks ago and the ship is tight. We'e all anxious to get (Columbia) out of town.''

With the shuttle ready for takeoff, NASA managers closely monitored the weather, concerned about high winds Friday and the prospect of low clouds at launch time Sunday. But Air Force forecasters called for a 65 percent chance of acceptable weather for the planned launching.

The shuttle's seven-man crew - a post-Challenger record - flew to the Kennedy Space Center from Houston late Thursday to make final preparations for takeoff a now-familiar routine after four previous delays dating back to May 30.

''We're sure looking forward to flying this time,'' said civilian astronomer Samuel Durrance. ''The vehicle as far as we know is in really good shape and I know we're all ready to go. We're going to go do it this time.''

The goal of the 38th shuttle mission, the second in less than three weeks, is to turn Columbia into an orbital observatory with a $150 million battery of four high-tech telescopes in the ship's cargo bay to study X-rays and ultraviolet light from the most energetic stars and galaxies in the universe.

To gather as much data as possible, the astronauts will work around the clock in two 12-hour shifts.

Astronauts Jeffrey Hoffman, 46, John ''Mike'' Lounge, 44, and Durrance, 47, will make up the day shift, with co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42, Robert Parker, 53, and civilian astronomer Ronald Parise, 39, making up the night shift. Skipper Vance Brand, 59, is not assigned to a specific shift.

NASA will only have two chances to get Columbia off the ground before Tuesday, when the launch team would have to stand down for about a week to replenish fuel for the shuttle's electrical generators and to service one of Columbia's on-board telescopes.

NASA normally does not face such tight constraints for shuttle launches, but because of the electrical demands of Columbia's telescope payload over a planned 10-day mission, the fuel supply for the ship's generators is more critical than usual.

If all goes well, Brand and Gardner will guide Columbia to a nighttime landing Dec. 11 at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., to close out the year's sixth and final mission, ending a long summer of setbacks and delays with the return to service of NASA's original space shuttle.

''We're ready and we're wanting to get on with it, we're really ready to fly '' Brand told reporters late Thursday. ''I really appreciate everybody's hanging in with us and all the hard work people have gone to in getting Columbia ready to fly. It's been along, tough fall for a lot of people.''

Liftoff will mark the second shuttle launch in just 17 days - the third in 57 days - tying a record set in 1985 for rapid-fire launchings.

Columbia's launch originally was scheduled for May 30, but the orbiter was grounded the night before by a potentially dangerous hydrogen fuel leak in the ship's engine room and around a massive fitting where propellant lines from the external tank enter the belly of the shuttle.

The ''17-inch disconnect'' fitting was replaced, but a separate leak grounded the ship twice more in September after yet another delay because of problems with the Broad Band X-ray telescope.

NASA then ordered a major investigation to pin down the source of the leakage once and for all. After replacing three fuel pumps, two damaged valve seals and tightening virtually every fitting and connector in the engine room, Columbia finally passed a fueling test last month.

The goal of the flight is to study X-rays and ultraviolet light from deep space that cannot penetrate Earth's atmosphere. Such high-energy radiation provides important insights into the chemical and physical processes that govern the structure and evolution of the universe.

Unlike the Hubble Space Telescope, the telescopes making up Columbia's ''Astro-1'' payload will remain in the shuttle's payload bay throughout the flight, operated by the astronauts from the orbiter's crew cabin much like a regular observatory.

TOKYO (NOV. 30) UPI - The cost of living in Tokyo, already the highest in the world, posted the sharpest year-on-year rise in eight years in October while the jobless rate remained stable, the government said in a preliminary report released Friday.

The government, in a separate report, said Japan's farming population has fallen more than 10 percent in five years since 1985, confirming a restructuring is taking place in the agriculture industry as popularity of farming is declining among young people.

The Management and Coordination Agency said consumer prices in the Tokyo area, the bellwether of the nationwide price trend, gained 3.9 percent in October over a year ago, equaling a similar rise in August 1982.

The October rise was the second highest after a record 4.3 percent surge in December 1981.

''It is true that the rise is fairly sharp but it is seen to be a temporary phenomenon and the basic price trend remains stable,'' said an official of the Economic Planning Agency.

The official noted the October rise was in reaction to a substantial fall in prices of fresh vegetables and fruits a year ago because of favorable weather.

He said the figure also reflected higher prices of oil products, including fuel for home use, ''but we are not seriously worried about the November data because, generally speaking, prices of most consumer goods, including oil products, showed signs of stabilizing in early November.''

The Management and Coordination Agency attributed the substantial price rise in October mainly to rising prices of fresh foods, clothes, automobile-related products and transportation costs.

The agency said prices of fresh vegetables and seaweed jumped 24.4 percent, with the rise of vegetables prices alone posting 35.6 percent.

The Economic Planning Agency official said food and clothing prices have peaked and showed signs of leveling off.

Consumer prices nationwide in October climbed 3.5 percent over a year ago, the highest since a 4.3 percent increase in December 1981, the agency said.

The agency said the consumer price index for the Tokyo area stood at 110.1 against the 1985 base of 100. The rise followed a 3.1 percent climb in September.

The Management and Coordination Agency, meanwhile, said Japan's unemployment rate in October remained unchanged at 2.2 percent from September, showing that the nation's employment situation remained stable.

The agency said 1.392 million workers were out of jobs in October, an increase of 20,000 - or 1.5 percent - over a year ago.

The Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries reported Japan's farming population has fallen 10.4 percent in five years since 1985, indicating a restructuring is taking place in the agriculture industry.

Citing its latest national census on agriculture and forestry, the ministry said the farming population stood at 17.3 million as of Feb. 1, down 10.4 percent from 1985.

#90334u0921 11/30/1990 ~United Press International

(NOV 30) UPI - Illinois State Police Trooper Walter Zeschke has received all kind of strange calls in the last week, the most common being a rumor that all the rivers and lakes in Southern Illinois are bubbling.

''We checked everywhere and couldn't find any bubbles,'' said Zeschke, who works out of an office near the Kentucky and Missouri borders. ''I imagine if you looked closely on top, you might find some bubbles.''

Wacky rumors like the bubbles show how a seven-state area of the Midwest has reacted to one man's prediction of a 50 percent chance of a major earthquake along the New Madrid Fault sometime between Saturday and Wednesday, with the most likely date being Monday.

The prognosticator is New Mexico climatologist and inventor Iben Browning. Browning based his projection on lunar and tidal forces and has stuck by it, even though his daughter said recently she thinks Asia faces a better chance of a major earthquake than the central United States.

Top earthquake experts say Browning's prediction has no scientific basis, but the climatologist claims credit for predicting the devastating temor that shook the San Francisco Bay area last October.

Northwestern University geology professor Emil Okal said Browning has ignored ''a large amount of (scientific) literature'' in making his prediction.

''And in the field of statistics, he starts with a bias data set,'' Okal said. ''If you include a full data set and run a statistical test, you find that his method of prediction is no better than throwing darts at a calender.

''When he takes credit for San Francisco, you have to remember that he never mentioned - I repeat - never mentioned North America for an earthquake for that day, let alone California, let alone San Francisco . .. So saying that there will be an earthquake in a window of three days is tantamount to saying, 'It's going to rain somewhere.'''

Adding more fuel to the quake frenzy was the recent television mini- series, ''The Big One,'' about an earthquake in California. In that movie, methane gas bubbles are seen in the river and warm water gushes from newly dug wells.

Most of the intense media attention about the prediction has focused on the southern Missouri town of New Madrid. In 1811 and 1812, three earthquakes on the New Madrid Fault shook the central United States with a force that measured between 8.3 and 8.6 on the Richter scale. One of the quakes temporarily altered the course of the Mississippi River and created Reelfoot Lake in northern Tennessee, which still exists.

The fault stretches from Illinois to Mississippi, including portions of Tennessee, Arkansas, Kentucky, Indiana and Missouri. In the tiny town of New Madrid, the 3,300 residents are taking the prediction seriously, especially since reputable scientists said there is a strong possibility of a major quake on the fault in the next decade.

Several minor shakers in the last few months in Southern Illinois and southeastern Missouri have also put some people on edge.

''We just don't make light of it,'' said Angie Holtzhouser, office manager for the chamber of commerce.

The New Madrid County's civil defense unit has set up emergency shelters and brought in additional medical supplies. However, sheriff's Deputy Terry Stevens said the biggest problem so far has been finding additional parking for the roughly 100 electronic trucks and other vehicles from news media outlets.

''We've had to move the media a couple of times from the main business district,'' he said. ''They have been obstructing business parking. It has been hectic.''

In New Madrid and all over the Midwest, businesses and schools have held earthquake drills. People have stocked up on supplies, prepared their homes structurally and bought millions of dollars worth of earthquake insurance.

(NOV. 30) UPI - Oil prices plunged early Friday as the market focused on a peaceful settlement of the Persian Gulf crisis after President Bush said he would send Secretary of State James Baker to Iraq if invited.

West Texas Intermediate for January delivery, the benchmark U.S. crude, at midday had plummeted $1.91 from Thursday's close to $31 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

WTI was trading slightly above $32 a barrel when Bush disclosed in his 11:00 a.m. EST address and news confernce that he will ask Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to meet in Baghdad with Baker. It then fell as low as $30.75 a barrel before stabilizing.

The president also invited Iraq's foreign minister, Tariq Aziz, to Washington to talk with him. Bush said he has had no signal that the invitation will be accepted.

Armed with Thursday's U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force to free Kuwait of Iraqi troops, Bush said he does not intend to offer any deal with Saddam, but instead tell him point blank that he must withdraw without conditions.

But oil traders chose the see the peace potential of the move.

''The Bush statement in combination with the move down through the $32 a-barrel resistance level is what did it,'' said Tom Bentz, director of trading at United Energy Inc. in New York.

''Bush is taking a step in the right direction trying to negotiate a peace,'' Bentz said.

Prior to the president's White House statement and news conference, the WTI crude had already fallen 80 cents a barrel as the market interpreted the late-Thursday U.N. vote as increasing the chances of peace rather than war in the Middle East.

The U.N. resolution authorizes the use of force if Saddam has not evacuated Kuwait by Jan. 15.

''Traders are focusing on the six weeks left to negotiate a peace rather than the imminence of war,'' said Bob Jonke, an analyst with Cargill Investor Services in New York.

On Nov. 8, Bush said the U.S. embassy in Kuwait, which has been surrounded by Iraqi troops, had only enough food and supplies to last another ''few weeks, something of that nature.''

Asked about the embassy in his Friday news conference, the president said: ''There is a very interesting report that we got in this morning saying that some Iraqis showed up at the Kuwaiti embassy and delivered fruit, vegetables and a case of Iraqi cigarettes to Embassy Kuwait and apparently there's going to be another delivery tomorrow, including soda pop.''

On the Merc, home heating oil for December delivery was trading midday at 93.15 cents a gallon, down 0.37 cent from Thursday, and unleaded gasoline December contracts had lost 0.67 cent to 82.70 cents a gallon.

On the European spot market, where crude itself is bought and sold for cash, Britain's widely traded North Sea Brent had given up 55 cents by midday to $33.75 a barrel.

The United Arab Emirates' Dubai Light - the key OPEC crude from the Middle East shipped mainly to the Far East - fell back 20 cents to $27. 80 a barrel.

DETROIT (NOV. 30) UPI - Ford Motor Co. said Friday it will temporarily idle another three U.S. light truck plants next week because of a shortage of dealer orders, affecting about 5,150 workers.

Ford will halt production at truck plants in Wayne, Mich., and Louisville, Ky. and at its St. Louis, Mo., van plant. The one-week stoppages mean a combined loss of 8,300 pickups, vans and sport-utility trucks.

The temporary closings come in anticipation of weakening light truck sales, blamed on low consumer confidence and an economy some analysts say is already mired in a recession. Higher fuel prices reflecting the lingering Persian Gulf standoff have also dampened sales.

Several other Ford car and truck plants will enter their second week of downtime Monday, as previously announced by the No. 2 automaker. Among them are light truck factories in Edison, N.J., and Norfolk, Va., as well as a plant in St. Paul, Minn.

Ford's Michigan car plants in Dearborn and Wayne will also enter their second week of downtime on Monday, again stemming from a shortage of dealer orders.

The Dearborn plant produces the Mustang, while the Wayne plant makes the subcompact Escort.

In all, about 15,850 Ford workers will be idled. Most are eligible for up to 95 percent of their take-home pay under supplemental unemployment benefit pay under the company's contract with the United Auto Workers.

All those plants currently are scheduled to resume operation Dec. 10, a company spokesman said, adding there will most probably be further shutdowns around the holiday week in late December to further trim output.

Ford also said last week that its Thunderbird/Cougar car and Econoline van plant in Lorain, Ohio, will be on an alternating single- shift operation for the rest of the year.

On Thursday, Chrysler Corp. said it would close its St. Louis No. 1 plant in Fenton, Mo., for one week starting Monday, affecting 1,600 workers. The plant, which makes Chrysler LeBaron and Dodge Daytona cars, will permanently close next May, when production of those models are shifted to other plants.

Also on Thursday, industry leader General Motors Corp. announced drastic cuts in fourth-quarter production schedules because of both the Mideast crisis and a drop in consumer confidence, paving the way for a possible quarterly loss.

GM is now planning to reduce North American production schedules for the current quarter by 292,000 units, to a total 1,071,000 vehicles - putting it below levels in both the third quarter of 1990 and the fourth quarter of 1989.

GM spokesman Terrence Sullivan would not immediately say which plants will be affected, although cutbacks and the possibility of extended holiday shutdowns are sure to be widespread.

''They are implying that car sales are just going to go in the tubes, '' said industry analyst Edward Sullivan, of WEFA Group in Bala Cynwyd, Pa.

HOUSTON (NOV. 30) UPI - Albert Moore had been robbed by gun-wielding bandits but couldn't get help because the handcuffs the robbers put on him scared people away.

Moore, a cigarette salesman, wandered Houston streets for about an hour Thursday, vainly trying to convince motorists and passers-by to come to his aid.

Moore had been robbed and left handcuffed by thieves who were after his cigarette-filled van. Passers-by apparently feared Moore, who was wearing a suit, might have been an escaped prisoner.

One woman Moore asked for help simply ran away, police said.

Police and Harris County deputies received several telephone reports of the handcuffed man and flooded police radios with calls about whether any officers had been overcome by an escaped prisoner.

Moore finally was freed of his handcuffs by deputies.

(NOV 30) UPI -A defiant Iraq on Friday dismissed a U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force in the gulf, but President Bush said the measure will ''drive home the point'' that Baghdad must withdraw its troops from Kuwait by Jan. 15.

Iraq's ruling Revolution Command Council issued a statement criticizing Thursday's decision by the U.N. Security Council, which voted to permit the U.S.-led multinational force to use ''any means necessary'' to oust Iraqi troops from the occupied emirate if they are not withdrawn by Jan. 15.

''Yesterday's decision of the Security Council is null and illegal .. . it is an American decision and the countries that had supported it were under American pressure,'' the official Iraqi news agency INA quoted the statement as saying.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein said in a speech a day earlier Iraq would not panic over the U.N. vote and would fight fiercely if war erupts in the gulf.

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, meanwhile, said his country, which voted for the resolution, had no intention of sending forces into the gulf. But he sternly warned Iraq against harming the hundreds of Soviet citizens trapped in Iraq and occupied Kuwait.

Iraq had promised to release all of the estimated 3,000 foreigners in batches beginning Christmas Day over a three-month period ending March 25. Observers said the offer was a ploy to delay military action until the warmer months, when a Western attack would be more difficult.

INA reported 49 Swedish nationals left Baghdad Friday for home aboard a chartered Iraqi airliner.

The news agency reported Thursday that Saddam had promised former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali in Baghdad that he would release 14 American hostages, and promised British member of Parliament Tony Penn that 15 British nationals would go free.

Egypt's semi-official Middle East News Agency said Iraq had also agreed to release 42 Belgians. It said four Iraqi chartered planes were expected to airlift 500 Filipinos directly to Manila.

Bush, who has led the hard-line response to Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of its tiny oil-rich neighbor, said in an interview that he hoped the Security Council resolution would convince Saddam that he must withdraw his troops from the emirate.

''I think this will drive home the point to him (Saddam) that he's got to get out of Kuwait,'' Bush said after the 15-member Security Council voted in favor of the resolution. Cuba and Yemen voted against the measure while China abstained.

In other developments in the gulf crisis Friday, U.S. military authorities were reportedly planning to censor letters home from a disgruntled soldier in Saudi Arabia, and an Iranian delegation visited Baghdad to discuss the repatriation of prisoners of war.

U.S. Sgt. Dick Runels wrote in letters published in his hometown newspaper in Maryland that soldiers in Saudi Arabia were plagued by heat, frustration and flies and criticized the U.S. mission in the Middle East. ''There is no threat to the U.S. except that we might pay $2 a gallon for gas,'' he wrote.

Bay Voice editor Tom Stanton said military authorities found out about the letters and that Runels was reprimanded by his base commander, who said Runel's letters would be censored in the future.

The Iraqi news agency IRNA said a delegation of Iranians had visited Baghdad with a list of hundreds of Iranian prisoners of war still detained in the country. Baghdad has been releasing the prisoners, captured in the 1980-1988 Iran-Iraq war, in an effort to make peace with its neighbor so it can concentrate its resources on on the looming battle with the U.S.-led multinational force.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (NOV. 30) UPI - A union leader said Friday that the government's recent decision to put banks back in private hands will hurt most of the population and concentrate wealth among a few Salvadorans.

Humberto Centeno, director of the National Workers Union, said labor will appeal the decision to the nation's Supreme Court next week on constitutional grounds.

''We have also requested to meet with President Alfredo Cristiani, but we still haven't heard a response,'' he said.

After months of debate, the National Assembly approved legislation Thursday that will permit the privatization of the country's financial system.

Salvadoran banks were nationalized in 1980 by then-president Jose Napoleon Duarte in an effort to curb abuse by certain business groups.

Freeing up the financial system is part of Cristiani's plan to strengthen an economy that has been battered by 10 years of civil war.

Rebels of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front have destroyed at least eight branches of banks throughout the country in the past 10 days and have declared all banks and savings and loan institutions military targets.

Armando Calderon, leader of the ruling National Republican Alliance party, defended privatization on Salvadoran television Friday, saying it would benefit every sector of the country's economy.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - As accusations of influence-peddling focused further on one of the so-called Keating Five senators, a bank regulator said Friday the lawmakers were ''hostile'' and ''dressed down'' regulators investigating an S&L kingpin who was a major political contributor.

In the ninth day of hearings before the Senate ethics committee, the heat intensified on Sen. Dennis DeConcini, who again was described as the only one of the five senators who used a 1987 meeting to exert improper pressure on federal regulators to benefit indicted former savings and loan operator Charles Keating Jr.

The committee is seeking to determine whether Sens. Alan Cranston, D- Calif., DeConcini, D-Ariz., John Glenn, D-Ohio, John McCain, R-Ariz., and Donald Riegle, D-Mich., acted unethically in dealings with federal regulators on behalf of Keating and his California-based Lincoln Savings and Loan. Keating had contributed $1.3 million to the lawmakers' political campaigns and other causes.

Michael Patriarca, head of the San Francisco regional office of the Office of Thrift Supervision and former regional official of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, was one of four bank regulators who met with all five senators on April 9, 1987, in a nearly 2 1/2-hour session in DeConcini's office.

But Patriarca cited only DeConcini for improper actions during the meeting, saying Cranston, Glenn, McCain and Riegle all acted properly.

Describing the meeting, which came one week after the chairman of the bank board had met privately with four of the lawmakers about the board's investigation of Lincoln, Patriarca said, ''It was hostile. I felt we were being dressed down by the senators for inappropriate conduct during the Lincoln examination.''

Under questioning from Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., the panel's vice chairman, Patriarca singled out DeConcini for wrongdoing.

''It's only where the senators attempted to influence, to change the outcome of the examination and regulatory treatment for this specific institution that impropriety was breached. I think - it's my personal view - Senator DeConcini did that. It's not clear to me that any of the others did.''

On Thursday, Patriarca said DeConcini had ''negotiated'' for Keating and Lincoln during the meeting, offering a deal in which Lincoln singularly would have been excluded from a federal regulation limiting risky direct investments by S&Ls in exchange for making more home loans and pressing the regulators to conduct business that would have greatly delayed the completion of the investigation.

As a result of the investigation, the regulators recommended that the Justice Department take criminal action against Lincoln and its owners for a series of violations, and recommended the government take over the thrift to protect the depositors. The recommendations were rejected and Lincoln failed in 1989, becoming the biggest collapse in the nation's S& L debacle, costing the taxpayers $2 billion to bail it out.

Patriarca did fault all five senators for going to bat for Lincoln, an institution waging a bitter war on the bank board and its chairman, Edwin Gray.

''If, in fact, we were out of line or we were wrong or made an arbitrary decision or somehow threatened their property without due process, that's what the courts were there to resolve,'' he said.

''It's not like my grandmother or someone else's grandmother who couldn't afford lawyers,'' Patriarca added. ''Those folks had lawyers. They had ample resources to pursue in any court anywhere a redress for improper action on the part of a regulator. I don't think it's necessary for legislators to intervene to protect institutions like that.''

BOCA RATON, Fla. (NOV. 30) UPI - The reform of the nation's deposit insurance program for banks should be considered only as part of a larger overhaul of federal banking laws, Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady said Friday.

''Reform of deposit inusrance will be an important step toward assuring that banks operate safely and soundly,'' Brady told members of the Securities Industry Association at the group's annual meeting.

''But the administration also believes that to be safe and sound the banking system must be profitable. For that reason, deposit insurance reform should only be considered as part of a package that also addresses the underlying structural probelms of our system,'' Brady said.

The Treasury Department is expected to unveil a comprehensive proposal for the reform of the nation's financial services industry in January.

Concern over the health of the nation's commercial banks and the viability of the bank inusrance fund have been driving forces behind the call for the reform of depression-era banking laws. Those laws limit the financial services banks may offer and restrict investment in the industry by non-banking companies.

Brady said the deposit insurance fund is expected to shrink to $10 billion or less by year's end.

''There may be a need to shore up that fund,'' Brady said.

''The Treasury is evaluating a range of contingency plans that would shore up the bank insurance fund. Any such plan would draw only on banking industry resources to assure the soundness of the fund without imposing a burden on the taxpayer.''

In his 20-minute speech to securities brokers, Brady also cautioned bank regulators not to overreact to current problems in the industry. Industry officials have blamed over regulation for current tight credit conditions.

''Be mindful of the effect your behavior can have on the willingness of banks to take even the reasonable risk of lending to good credits,'' Brady told regulators. ''We need a banking system that is a taker, not a shedder of risks.''

Brady also said any reform of the nation's banking laws should limit rather than expand exposure of taxpayers, to avoid a repeat of the savings and loan debacle.

But he said a repeat of the thrift bailout is unlikely.

''Overall, the commercial banking system is healthy despite some pockets of difficulty,'' Brady said. ''The banks of 1990 are not the S& L's of the 1980s. As I've said before, they are as different as chalk and cheese. By a wide margin, the banks have more capital, are more profitable and better managed, and have less risky kinds of assets than the S&L industry.''

Current problems in the industry in part reflect the problems of the economy as a whole, Brady said. But antiquated banking laws have exacerbated those problems, he said.

Brady described the present structure of U.S. banking laws as ''outmoded, burdensome and inefficient.''

''We need fundamental structural reform and the Treasury Department is committed to this goal,'' Brady said.

In an earlier address to brokers Friday, Securities and Exchange Commission Chairman Richard C. Breeden also called for reform of the nation's banking laws.

Breeden later told reporters that the prospects for congressional passage of such reforms depend on the strength of the Bush administration's backing for such changes and the soundness of its proposals.

''There is no reason why legislation couldn't be adopted next year,'' Breeden said. ''It is time to overhaul those laws if we want to remain competitive.''

Breeden also called for the reform of so-called ''blue sky'' laws, which require those who want to issue securities to submit their registration statements to state regulators for review. Breeden said such procedures raised the cost of capital for companies.

''We need to move to a system in which there can be one-stop filing of registration statements and clearance to distribute in a national capital market,'' he said in his speech.

Breeden later told reporters, ''I really think the process would work better if we can focus the activities of the state (regulators) on enforcement.''

About 625 investment bankers, security brokers, analysts and others are attending this year's convention, down from an attendance of 775 last year.

The decline in attendance is believed to reflect the current slump on Wall Street.

LONDON (NOV. 30) UPI - Stock prices rallied Friday in nervous trading on the London International Stock Exchange, spurred by news there may be a diplomatic breakthrough that could resolve the tense situation in the oil-rich Persian Gulf.

On the Frankfurt Stock Exchange, prices closed modestly higher in calm trading.

London's blue-chip Financial Times 100-stock index, which fell 8.7 points Thursday, gained 13.8 points to 2,149.4. The narrower top 30 industrial average added 8.0 points to 1,682.8.

Volume amounted to about 331 million shares, down from the 415 million thatchanged hands Thursday.

Analysts said stocks moved sharply higher shortly before the close of trading, after President Bush offered to send Secretary of State James Baker to Baghdad to meet with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. Bush also offered to meet with Iraq's foreign minister at the White House.

Market watchers also noted the London market was supported by continued hopes Britain will be able to lower its base interest rates soon, even though prospects for an immediate cut seemed to be fading.

John Reynolds, an equity market analyst with County NatWest, said ''the market is caught between the feeling that interest rates will come down and the idea that any conflict in the Gulf will spoil the party in the short term.''

In addition, market watchers said enthusiasm was boosted slightly by lower spot oil prices.

Among widely traded stocks, British Aerospace closed unchanged at $9. 99 despite announcing plans to close two military manufacturing plants by early 1993, resulting in the loss of around 5,000 jobs.

Property developer Trafalgar House gained 18 cents to $3.32 on hopes that the company's recent sale of its stake in Costain would enable it to maintain its dividend.

Grand Metropolitan slipped 8 cents to $11.34 amid worries over a ''burger war'' tied to speculation of McDonald's would opt to cut prices.

Troubled leisure group Brent Walker rallied 42 cents to $1.78 ahead of theannnouncement of results from its bond issue.

In Frankfurt, the exchange's closely watched German Stock Index, which slipped 1.70 points Thursday, rebounded 22.31 points to 1,441.23.

Analysts said investors were squaring positions ahead of Sunday's national elections in Germany, which are expected to keep Chancellor Helmut Kohl'sgovernment in power.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, cast doubt Friday on administration suggestions that Iraq is close to building a nuclear device and experts offered mixed views on the subject.

Suggesting that government intelligence experts were less certain that the administration has suggested they are about the prospects of a near-term Iraqi bomb, Glenn noted at hearings on the Gulf crisis that the panel had conducted a ''lively meeting'' with the intelligence experts at a closed session earlier in the week.

''If anyone has any doubt about ... what the impressiomn of our intelligence experts are on this ... I would just ask any senator to go read the transcript read the questions, read the answers,'' said Glenn.

''I come down to one final bottom line. ... Let's say the worst occurs and he gets one bomb. What's he going to do with a nuclear device? ... Even the administration says ... it would be of such size he'd probably have to cart it around by truck.''

''Iraq is quite a ways from having nuclear weapons. ... I think this has been overblown,'' said Glenn.

''We should not automatically assume Iraq has nuclear weapons,'' added Sen. Al Gore, D-Tenn.

President Bush, while visiting troops in Saudi Arabia over Thanksgiving, said Iraq is rushing to develop a nuclear device, adding urgency to the U.S. mission in the region.

At a morning press conference, Bush added, ''I disagree with the senator and if he wants to gamble with the future about the construction of atomic weapons by Saddam Hussein, I don't.

''I know what the intelligence says, every bit of it. I can't share it obviously. But I am concerned ... about it. If Senator Gore has a difference of opinion and is not concerned about it, we just have an honest difference there.''

Nuclear experts recommended that the International Atomic Energy Agency conduct more frequent inspections of the nuclear materials that Iraq owns. Its experts just returned from an inspection and declared that none of the material had been diverted to weapons use.

Experts testifying to the committee were unable to rule out with certainty the possibility that Iraq could put a crude device together in a period of weeks or months with a crash program, but some were skeptical. All agreed that in the long run Iraq might be able to develop a weapon.

Gary Milhollin, head of the Wisconsin Project on Nuclear Arms Control, said the amount of nuclear material available to Iraq would require a very sophisticated design.

''I have not seen anyone say that Saddam Hussein's designers have reached the point of sophistication that is required for that to be a success,'' said Milhollin.

William Graham, former science adviser to Presidents Reagan and Bush, suggested it might be possible for Baghdad to put together a crude device in six months or less. He said most of a weapon could be put together without the nuclear material and he noted that it took the United States just three months to get fission material for the Manhattan project 45 years ago.

Leonard Spector, a senior associate at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, said the threat that Iraq can develop a weapon within six months should be taken seriously.

''Today, U.S. intelligence agencies appear to be confident that Iraq has not completed the preliminary steps that would be necessary for constructing a nuclear device. At the same time, however, they apparently fear that such steps might be taken over the next six months, '' Spector said.

Earlier in the day, retired Lt. Gen. William Odum, who once headed the super-secret National Security Agency, recommended that the United States complete its buildup, get a logistics system in place, build up its stockpiles of sophisticated weapons and then reduce the deployment to more sustainable levels. He said should officials decide on war, troops could be ferried back in by airplane quite quickly.

GUELPH, ONTARIO (NOV. 30) UPI - Police are hunting for three young women who sexually assaulted a man at gunpoint.

The three women told the 27-year-old man they ''wanted their way with him,'' Guelph police spokesman Staff Sgt. Paul Deaves said.

The man, whose name and background weren't released, was offered a ride by three ''very attractive'' women as he walked along the street at about 8 p.m. Tuesday, Deaves said.

The three took him to a secluded area of town in a white luxury-size car where the driver produced a handgun and said they planned to detain him, Deaves said.

''They made certain sexual demands of this individual and sexually assaulted him,'' Deaves said.

Deaves said ''sexual intercourse was never achieved'' or attempted. The police spokesman refused to release further details.

Sexual assault covers a broad range of actions from touching someone in a sexual way to intercourse.

The man was let go and walked about 5 miles back to the city center.

The victim said the women didn't look hardened or tough and could have been office workers. Two were blondes and the other brunette and all were in their mid-20s.

Guelph is about 50 miles west of Toronto.

Deaves said police have received ''hundreds of millions'' of phone calls from the press about the incident.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - Spicer & Oppenheim, the nation's 12th-largest accounting firm, said Friday it will cease operations immediately, largely as a result of a slowdown in the securities industry.

The company has negotiated deals with other major accounting firms to take on many Spicer & Oppenheim employees and the clients they serve. A company spokesman who declined to be identified said 83 percent of Spicer's 700 employees have found work with other accounting firms.

"The firm has decided to break up and merge portions of its offices and practice areas with other accounting firms," the spokesman said. He said the company's business declined nationwide over the past year, but was particularly hard-hit in New York by the securities industry slump. The firm was noted for its securities industry expertise and derived about half of its $63 million revenue from its New York operations.

"With the downfall of the securities industry and the higher degree of competition from larger accounting firms picking off our clients, it created a shaky financial position which created a great deal of instability," the spokesman said. "The firm would have been able to continue but only on a month-to-month business," he added.

He said the firm had negotiated that a percentage of fees paid by former Spicer clients to the other accounting firms involved in the deal would be paid into an "operating pool" to pay creditors.

He declined to state the size of the firm's debt but said it consisted of bank debt and lease arrangements and was expected to be paid off within five years. "This is not a bankruptcy," he added. The percentage paid to the other firms is the same in every case, he said.

The firm is the U.S. branch of Spicer & Oppenheim International, based in London. None of the company's 250 offices outside the United States would be affected by the U.S. operation's moves, the spokesman said.

In New York, about 200 employees, including 25 partners and executive directors, will be moved to the offices of Grant Thornton, roughly doubling the size of the Grant Thornton operation, the Spicer spokesman said. In addition, a "splinter" group of six partners and executive directors will be joining Goldstein, Golub and Kessler, a New York accounting firm.

Employees in the San Francisco and Houston offices will be combining with the firm of Los Angeles-based Pannell Kerr Forster in those cities. Partners in Spicer's Miami office will begin operating under the name Wainberg, Zipper, Strauss & Co., after the names of the partners in that office.

Los Angeles employees will be joining with Deloitte Touche, while Denver staff will move to BDO Seidman. In Chicago, Dallas and Houston, several individuals involved in the non-New York bankruptcy practice will be joining Arthur Andersen while the remainder of the staff in those offices will move to other accounting firms in their markets, the Spicer spokesman said.

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA (NOV. 30) UPI - Argentina and the United States signed an agreement Friday to exchange safety information on experimental and commercial nuclear reactors.

The agreement allows Argentina, the only Latin American country besides Brazil believed to have the capability to build a nuclear weapon, and the United States to share information on the operations of reactors, according to a statement released by the Argentine Foreign Ministry and confirmed by the U.S. Embassy.

It also offers exchange programs for training technicians and exchanges of information on planning for emergencies, the statement said.

The accord, signed by Argentine Manuel Mondino, president of the National Atomic Energy Commission, and Kenneth Carr, head of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, comes just two days after Argentine President Carlos Menem indicated he would take steps fo ratify his country's membership in the Tlatelolco regional Nuclear Non- proliferation Treaty.

Despite constant pressure from the U.S. government, Argentina for over two decades resisted ratifying the Tlatelolco agreement because it would require international inspections of all nuclear facilities, something Argentina does not now allow.

In a bilateral agreement signed by the presidents of Brazil and Argentina on Wednesday near Iguacu falls on the border between the countries, the two governments agreed to set up a reciprocal system of safeguards and inspections and proposed taking steps to join the regional treaty.

Brazil and Argentina are believed by most diplomats to be the only two countries in Latin America that possess the technology to build an atomic bomb if they wanted one.

According to Foreign Minister Domingo Cavallo, the government of Fidel Castro in Cuba was also considering joining the Tlatelolco Treaty, which establishes regular inspections of nuclear reactors in member countries to ensure the peaceful use of atomic energy.

SPRINGFIELD, IL (NOV. 30) UPI - The Illinois Supreme Court Friday threw out a reform plan for Chicago's oft-maligned public schools, saying it gives too much power to parents at the expense of other members of the community.

The plan was approved by the Legislature in 1988 and implemented last year.

The court, in its ruling, acknowledged the sorry state of the city's schools and offered to delay the effect of the decision. School officials called an emergency meeting to consider taking the court up on its offer.

Chicago schools, described by former Education Secretary William Bennett as the nation's worst, have been struggling for years under a burden of a growing poor and minority population. Test scores have slid and administration has been hamstrung by a rapid succession of superintendents.

The controversial reform plan, watched closely by educators around the country essentially handed over most decision-making, including the power to hire and fire principals, to new local councils elected by teachers, parents and other community members.

The court said that system gives too much power to parents.

''The trial court erred in finding that the local school councils did not exercise general governmental powers,'' the high court ruled in overturning an

Cook County court decision upholding the act.

''It is clear that citizens falling into a number of categories are either denied a vote or are denied an equal vote in local school council elections,'' Justice Daniel Ward wrote for the majority.

He said the fact parents have a disproportionate interest in schools' operation does not constitutionally permit them a greater voice in electing the members of the council.

The opinion did uphold the stripping of tenure protection for principals - the original reason the suit was first filed - and recognized the troubled nature of the state's largest school district.

''The inadequacies of the city's educational system run deep, but lasting remedies will require the equal participation of all qualified voters,'' Ward wrote.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (NOV. 30) UPI - Tom Watson has resigned his membership at the Kansas City Country Club because H&R Block Chairman Henry Bloch, who is Jewish, was not admitted as a member, the Kansas City Star said Friday.

Kansas City Country Club board president L. Chandler Smith said Bloch's application to the club, considered one of the city's most prestigious, was withdrawn by the person who proposed it and never reached the board of directors.

Watson, 41, learned to play golf at the Kansas City Country Club and has been a longtime member of the club. He has played the PGA Tour since 1971, and has won five British Opens, two Masters and one U.S. Open.

''As a matter of conscience, I resigned from the club,'' Watson told the newspaper. ''They put a prominent Jewish person up for membership and his application was withdrawn. It's something that I personally can't live with because my family is Jewish. It's not something that's very appealing to me: the possibility that I'm not welcome - that my family's not welcome - because of (their) religion.''

Watson's wife, Linda, and their two children are Jewish. He is not.

Smith said Bloch's religion was not a factor. He said the club has no discriminatory policies, although there are no Jewish members, to his knowledge, and no black members.

''The decisions that are made do not relate to religion,'' Smith said.

''You're assuming that every bit of this relates to religion. You're not putting any weight on the person.''

Bloch declined to comment.

Hallmark Cards Inc. Chairman Donald Hall proposed Bloch's membership, according to sources who also sponsored Bloch. Two co-sponsors on his application were Richard C. Green Jr., chairman of UtiliCorp United Inc. , and James M. Kemper Jr., chairman of Commerce Bancshares Inc.

The three could not be reached for comment.

Bloch's application never got out of the club's membership committee, which makes recommendations to the board of directors, sources told the Star. The makeup of the membership committee is known only to the president and secretary.

Smith said the application procedure for Bloch was the same followed by all new prospective members. It is not unusual for an application to be withdrawn, he said.

Watson said he believes in the right of private clubs to determine their membership.

''But when they choose to discriminate against your beliefs, you don't have to choose to be a member,'' he said.

Stan Thirsk, head pro at the club and Watson's mentor, said he could not comment because ''it pains me too much. Tom is like a son to me.''

LONDON (NOV. 30) UPI - French and British construction workers were to shake hands 100 feet beneath the English Channel Saturday, and for the first time since the Ice Age it will be possible to walk from England to the continent.

The last yard of chalky soil blocking the first of three tunnels running for 31 miles under the channel was scheduled to be cleared by midday Saturday, Eurotunnel spokeswoman Karen Martin said Friday.

Two of the workers on one of the world's most extraordinary engineering projects will greet each other with a handshake, she said.

A specially selected group from Calais, France, will go through the emergency service tunnel to Folkestone, England, and become the first people to make the crossing by land in 8,000 years. That was when the rising sea level caused by the melting ice of the receding glacier from the Ice Age submerged the land bridge across the Strait of Dover.

It will be another 2 1/2 years before passengers will be able to make the trip on a high-speed train. Thirty million passengers are expected to make the trip in the first year alone.

The underground handshake is a culmination of three years of work during which 3 million tons of rock have been dug from beneath the seabed.

Eurotunnel worker Colin Kirkland said, ''I can hardly believe it, that after all this time we actually have come to the point where we can walk through from England to France. It is a great excitement for me, it is a great feeling of achievement, not so much personal achievement but for the people who have done it and for the part I have been lucky to play.''

A month ago a guiding probe broke through the approaching halves of the service tunnel and a huge boring machine that no longer is needed veered off and was buried.

The next landmark is slated for January when the service tunnel will be completed. The tunnel runs between two much bigger train tunnels, which are now being bored.

A formal ceremony is planned to mark the event - French President Francois Mitterrand was to meet Margaret Thatcher in the tunnel, but she lost her position as prime minister last week and new British Prime Minister John Major was expected to go instead.

The Eurotunnel project has inched ahead below ground as controversy raged above.

Financial and delays problems have dogged it and the cost of completion has soared to $15 billion.

Trade unions have been aggrieved by the number of accidents - seven workers have died on the British side and two on the French.

David Eves, of the Health and Safety Executive, said, however, the project has been generally safe.

''Some of the accidents that have occurred have been absolutely preventable ''he said. ''At the same time, this is an extraordinarily complex construction project ... so one has to be balanced about this.''

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - The third annual World AIDS Day will draw attention to the upsurge in AIDS among women and the often neglected impact of their struggle on families and communities around the globe, organizers said Friday.

About 3 million women are already infected with the deadly AIDS virus, and that number may double by the end of the 1990s as heterosexual sex becomes the main way the virus is spread in most regions, the World Health Organization said.

''We must realize that women will bear an increasingly heavier burden as this pandemic progresses into the next century,'' said Dr. Hiroshi Nakajima, WHO's director general.

As of 1990, about 60 percent of people infected with the AIDS-causing human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, worldwide got the virus through heterosexual intercourse. By the year 2000, WHO projects about 75 percent to 80 percent of all HIV infections will stem from heterosexual sex - meaning that there will be dramatic increases in HIV infection among women.

Already, one in 40 women in sub-Saharan Africa and one in 700 women in North America are infected with the lethal virus.

HIV is spread by sexual or blood-to-blood contact, like drug users sharing needles. It can also be transmitted from an infected mother to her baby.

Next week, AIDS activists plan to converge on the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta to demand a widening of the government's official definition of AIDS.

The activists claim the current definition, last revised in January 1987, fails to take into account indicators of AIDS that are unique to women, such as vaginal yeast infections and severe pelvic inflammatory disease. That means many HIV-infected women die without ever being diagnosed with AIDS, they said.

''Because so many services have adopted the CDC definition as their criteria (of AIDS), women often do not receive the treatments, benefits and other social services that they require and deserve,'' said the AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power or ACT UP.

Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan, who was shouted down by protesters at the 1990 International AIDS Conference in San Francisco, issued a statement Friday calling on Americans ''to recognize that this is not a disease which affects other people. It is a disease which has struck at the family of man, our family.

''I would today and every day ask Americans to hold out a helping hand to people living with AIDS.''

Sullivan also repeated past calls for people to change high-risk behavior like intravenous drug use and be tested if they think they may be HIV-infected.

In New York, children from day care centers all over the city will gather Saturday for a memorial service culminating with the unveiling of a quilt the youngsters made as symbol of comfort to children and mothers afflicted with AIDS.

And at 6 p.m., many skyscrapers in the Manhattan skyline will dim their lights until 8 p.m. in memory of people who have died from AIDS. The Empire State Building, the World Trade Center, the Chrysler Building and the Trump Tower are among the many which plan to go dark.

In addition to Worlds AIDS Day, Saturday will also mark the second ''Day Without Art,'' in which the arts community removes or covers paintings and sculptures and silences performances to focus attention on AIDS issues.

National Endowment for the Arts Chairman John Frohnmayer issued a letter encouraging all the endowment's grantees ''to demonstrate your concern about this global disease.''

The Institute of Contemporary Art at the University of Pennsylvania Friday shrouded in black drapery one of the most prominent sculptures on campus, Claes Oldenberg's Split Button. The sculpture will remain draped Saturday.

Art students at Muhlenberg College in Allentown, Pa., will cover the school's Center for the Arts building in black plastic. All of the white exterior surfaces of the building will be draped except for the entrance and exit and glass roof.

And Saturday visitors to the Philadelphia Museum of Art will be asked to contribute $1 each toward AIDS education programs and services.

BAIKONUR COSMODROME, U.S.S.R. (NOV. 30) UPI - A Soyuz rocket plastered with Japanese advertising was rolled into position Friday to carry a Japanese broadcaster into space Sunday after a truce was reached on money squabbles.

The Tokyo Broadcasting System, which is paying $10 million for the launch in a contract with the Glavkosmos space agency, complained that the Soviets were demanding wild extra money for everything from spacesuits to $10,000 an hour for Soviet cosmonauts to hold a video camera during the eight-day mission.

''It is not settled yet, but because the launch is so important to us and to the Soviets we have stopped the negotiations and will return to them later after the launch,'' said Ichiro Sasasi, a TBS executive.

By tradition all Soviet rockets leave for the launch pad at 7 a.m. because that is when Yuri Gagarin's Vostok rocket rolled out to make him the first man in space on Apr. 12, 1961.

And precisely at 7 a.m. Friday, the Soyuz rocket that will make Toyohiro Akiyamo the first journalist in space left its assembly plant on a rail line leading right to Gagarin's launch pad No. 1.

Truck-mounted projector lights sliced through the morning darkness and lighted up the Soyuz as some of the 150 Japanese journalists scrambled to the rail bed to snap pictures of the booster emblazoned with advertisements for Sony, Ohtsuka Chemicals, and Unicharm, makers of women's hygiene products.

Two hours later, Soviet space technicians wearing orange hard hats and black cold-weather gear against the 19-degree temperatures jerked the Soyuz upright with hydraulic lifts. Gantries pinioned the rocket into the firing position for the launch Sunday at 11:45 a.m.

Akiyamo, 48, a former TBS bureau chief in Washington who kicked a four-pack a day cigarette habit to make the flight, will be accompanied to the Mir space station by two seasoned Soviet cosmonauts - Musa Manarov, a joint holder of the record of 366 days in space, and Viktor Afanasiev, who has tested out on every Soviet aircraft.

Akiyamo's backup, Rioko Kikuchi, 26, the TBS network's first woman camera operator, suffered appendicitis Monday and was operated on in Baikonur, increasing the pressure on Akiyamo to stay healthy.

''There is no contract clause for cancellations and we are not even thinking about it, but if it happens we can restart negotiations,'' said Sasasi, the TBS executive who fathered the mission known as ''Cosmoreporter.''

He said Kikuchi, a Chinese-language expert who learned Russian as part of her cosmonaut training, was feeling fine after her operation and may be able to come to the launch Sunday.

A blaze of 20 TBS cameras will cover the liftoff, including one in the control room when the launch button is pushed and one under the launch pad that will promptly melt during the blastoff.

Akiyamo's TM-11 space capsule will dock with the Mir and its two current occupants, Gennady Strekalov and Gennady Manakov, on Tuesday. The Japanese journalist will return to Earth with Strekalov and Manakov Dec. 10, leaving Manarov and Afanasiev to man the space station.

Aboard the Mir Akiyamo will make a daily 10-minute television broadcast and two 20-minute radio broadcasts that will be relayed to Moscow and then on to Tokyo.

When TBS sought an extra hour for transmissions, the Soviets asked for an equivalent of $50,000 for every 10 minutes, or a total of $300, 000 - one of the ''little problems'' Sasasi mentioned.

In his six days aboard the Mir, Akiyamo will also carry out experiments for Japanese scientists: how frogs react to weightlessness, how a person's breathing varies in zero gravity conditions and how a person maintains his balance in space.

Baikonur, 1,260 miles southeast of Moscow, covers 600 square miles with six major launch pads on the barren steppe of the Kazakhstan republic. The existence of the giant space complex, now 35 years old, was not even acknowledged in the 1960s and only with the advent of glasnost have reporters been allowed to watch liftoffs.

DETROIT (NOV. 30) UPI - American industry is losing the race to open global markets for U.S. products, and hundreds of thousands of jobs could be lost forever unless globalization efforts are stepped up, according to a survey released Friday.

The international accounting, consulting and tax firm Coopers & Lybrand, questioning top executives from 150 U.S.-based manufacturing companies for the third of its annual "Made in America" surveys, concluded many American companies are falling behind their counterparts from other nations in "going global" and may not be able to survive growing international competition.

A significant number of companies intend to close additional manufacturing sites in the United States or to move operations offshore, the survey found. "Countering this, further moves to globalization causing U.S. and foreign companies to expand here have the capability of adding many new jobs, but it is too early to tell which forces will end up as dominant," said Barry Holmes, who heads the manufacturing consulting practice in Coopers & Lybrand's Detroit office.

The survey "did find that over the past three years, many more U.S. companies are globalizing to reach new markets, gain a competitive edge and become industry leaders, rather than seeking parity with their rivals," said Holmes.

"But," he cautioned, "others hoping to survive in an increasingly competitive environment must get on track before their market share erodes and globalization becomes too costly to accomplish."

He said a similar survey done in 1987 showed a tendency among too many U.S. corporate executives to consider only U.S. competition, leading them to think and plan only in domestic terms.

"The majority now seem to realize that past hesitation in going global is leading to a loss of business to competition capable of operating worldwide," Holmes said.

Holmes said offshore competitors have been far more aggressive than American companies in developing global markets and cited Japan's commitment to U.S., European and South American facilities. He also noted that the 1992 consolidation of European markets is causing European manufacturers to establish more solid footholds in the United States.

"More rapid advance by U.S. manufacturing companies into globalization should be a matter of concern for all our government and business leaders," Holmes said. "If more companies do not take action, our entire economy will suffer."

Noting that a quarter of all U.S. workers rely on factories for their livelihood, Holmes cited recent government reports showing that 580,000 U.S. factory jobs - some three percent - have been lost since January 1989.

"We also must recognize that foreign investment in the United States is growing greater than our investment abroad," Holmes said. "Profits going offshore will leave less cash in the United States to fund needed research and development and technological breakthroughs."

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - Presidential economic adviser Michael J. Boskin said Friday he looked for unemployment to rise into the low six percent range early next year but insisted it is still too early to say if a recession is in progress.

"I think it's too early to tell," Boskin told journalists, referring to the recession forecast by other economists. He spoke on U. S.-Japanese economic relations at the Japan Society in New York,

Boskin, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said, "It's likely the fourth quarter (gross national product rate of change) will be negative, but it's too early to say we're in a recession."

Boskin conceded "unemployment is likely to rise into the low sixes (the low six percent range) by early next year." But he said that despite the effects of the Iraq oil shock he didn't see anything as severe as in previous oil shocks. He was optimistic about oil prices.

"This oil shock will get resolved," Boskin said, while acknowledging great uncertainties surrounding the Persian Gulf military and diplomatic situation. "Our economies will see lower oil prices by the middle of next year," he told his Japanese and American audience.

Asked whether lower oil prices would spark an economic recovery, Boskin said it would at least "offset the downward drag" of increased oil prices seen since the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

CHICAGO (NOV. 30) UPI - Grain futures were mostly higher Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade, supported by comments from President Bush on export credits, while soybean prices were mixed.

The President told reporters he asked for recommendations by next week on action he could take to help alleviate the food shortage in the Soviet Union. He said that would include the possibility of export credits to the Soviets.

Grain prices were at or near session highs at the final bell, although profit-taking in corn limited the gains in the nearbys.

There were rumors the Soviets or other Eastern Bloc countries may have bought from 600,000 tons to 2 million tons of corn this week. However, exporters reported no indications of such a purchase.

Deliveries of December corn were lighter than expected, which contributed to the strength in corn prices.

Wheat had additional support from the sale of 100,000 tons of wheat to Jordan and 34,000 tons of wheat flour to the USSR and African nations.

At the close, corn was up 2 3/4 to off 1/4, soybeans down 5 1/4 to up 2 1/2, wheat up 6 to down 1/2 and oats up 1 to 4 3/4.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - An emotional President Bush, facing the possibility of American deaths in a Persian Gulf war, said Friday it's a heavy burden he carries, but vowed anyone sent into battle ''will have the best chance to come home alive.''

''People say to me, 'How many lives? How many lives can you expend?''' Bush told a midday news conference following a televised address to the nation. ''Each one's precious. ... It's a tough question but a president has to make the right decision.''

Stepping back from an often spirited and pointed defense of U.S. policy in the showdown with Iraq's Saddam Hussein, Bush combined the remarks with a new offer of high-level dialogue - but no compromise.

And when responding to a question of how he would feel to lose one of his own children in conflict, Bush openly paused at the question of American casualties, appearing at one point to be even close to tears.

''I know what it's like to have fallen comrades and see young kids die in battle,'' said the president, himself a World War II combat pilot.

''I want peace. I want peace, not war,'' he declared.

Warning Saddam that ''time is running out,'' Bush again outlined the sins of the Iraqi leader as decried by the United Nations in an unprecedented series of punitive resolutions, including Thursday's move to sanction the use of force if Iraq does not comply by Jan. 15.

And he mixed the message of compassion with the forcefully stated promise that any American called to combat will receive the full backing of U.S. military might.

''If there must be war, we will not permit our troops to have their hands tied behind their backs,'' he said. ''If one American soldier has to go into battle that soldier will have enough force behind to win and then get out as soon as possible.''

As the 4-month-old standoff in the gulf has drawn on with Saddam's refusal to withdraw from Kuwait, the question of impending conflict took on greater significance with this week's near-unanimous U.N. approval of the use of force and the costs already accrued by many of the world's economies in sustaining an economic embargo against Iraq.

Bush's emotional response and concern also seemed prompted in part by the mail

he said he has received, which he described as mostly supportive but all with the message, ''Please bring my kid home; please bring my husband home.''

''I will do my level best to bring those kids home without one single shot fired in anger,'' he pledged to the national television audience.

''And if a shot is fired in anger, I want to guarantee each person that their kid whose life is in harms way will have the maximum support, will have the best chance to come home alive, and will be backed up to the hilt. ... This will not be a Vietnam.''

He was explicit in promising that the United States would not again engage in a military standoff that is protracted or not backed fully, like the war in Southeast Asia that lasted for more than a decade and cost more than 58,000 American lives.

And asked if he was confident American troops would prevail against Saddam if called upon, Bush pointed to the substantial buildup he already has ordered and said, ''Oh, absolutely.''

But when asked at what price in American lives, he said he could not say. ''I can't give you that.''

#90334u1255 11/30/1990 ~United Press International

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - Unlike last year when a record December freeze sent heating oil prices spiraling to all-time highs, an industry meteorologist Friday forecast this December's weather and demand for heating oil would be normal.

Jon Davis, meteorologist for Lehman Brothers Inc. in Chicago, said: "The same kind of weather features we had last year are not present now - the high pressure ridge over the Atlantic, known as the Greenland Block and the accompanying low pressure trough over the eastern portion of the country."

The low-pressure trough allowed the west-to-east jet stream, which determines much of the nation's weather, to move southward over the East bringing cold Arctic air behind it.

Temperatures hit record lows in the Northeast, where much of U.S. heating oil is consumed, and supplies were reduced when the freeze damaged some of the nation's largest U.S. refineries located on the normally warm Gulf Coast and not insulated for cold weather.

"I think the Northeast will have some periods of cold weather in December but not the kind of extended frigid cold that the area experienced last year," Davis said.

The meteorologist, who correctly forecast the December 1989 freeze and the January thaw that followed, said a cold mass of air is expected to move into the Northeast the middle of next week for three or four days. It will send temperatures to below-normal levels - raising the question of whether this pattern will exist for weeks or months?

"At this stage of the season, my answer to this is 'no' at least not during December," said Davis, who forecasts weather patterns for his company's worldwide traders in grain, oil, and other commodities.

Last year, the Greenland Block and the accompanying formation of low pressure area at high altitudes over Hudson Bay - known technically as a Hudson Bay Vortex - "acted like a pump to bring Arctic air from the frozen North down into the Northeast," the weatherman said.

This year, "I find no Greenland Block and there is not yet the fomation of the Hudson Bay Vortex. Without thse two features, it is basically impossible to have a December like last year and unlikely that temperatures will be below normal for a two or three week period during the month," he said.

The National Weather Service in Washington Wednesday, in its annual 90-day forecast, said temperatures will be colder this winter east of the Mississipi River but slightly warmer than average in the Plains States.

Davis said, "I don't look at weather in 90-day cycles, that's difficult to do ... I don't touch 90-day stuff." The meteorologist said he will make another 45 day weather outlook at the end of the year.

Crude oil and home heating oil prices have been running higher than a year ago as a result of Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait and the markets' fear of a war in the Middle East unless Iraq evacuates the Persian Gulf emirate.

The Energy Department said Wednesday that Americans can expect to pay 46 cents more a gallon than last year if the the winter is severe and crude oil continues to trade at $35 a barrel.

Crude slipped to below $30 a barrel Friday as the market focused on the possibility of a negotiated peace after President Bush offered to send Secretary of State James Baker to Baghdad to talk with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - The tuna labeling bill just signed by President Bush will save thousands of dolphins, but conservationists say it may be even more important in showing new consumer demand for environmentally safe products.

The new law, signed by Bush Wednesday, sets strict guidelines and enforcements to assure consumers the tuna they buy in cans marked "dolphin safe" has been caught using methods that are not harmful to the sea mammals that once died by the thousands in tuna nets.

"The signing of the legislation is a major victory," said John Fitzgerald, counsel for the conservation group Defenders of Wildlife. "... It says we will not have to play dolphin roulette with tunafish sandwiches."

Under pressure from conservationists, the nation's three biggest tuna firms - Starkist Seafood Co., Bumble Bee Seafoods Inc., and Van Kamp Seafood Co.'s Chicken of the Sea brand - voluntarily pledged last spring to guarantee their tuna is caught using only methods that protect dolphins.

Accordingly, cans of tuna bearing the "dolphin safe" label began appearing on grocery shelves around the country, but conservationists continued to push for the labeling legislation to ensure the veracity of the companies' claims.

Many environmentalists are predicting the victory will keep the pressure on other industries to protect the environment in making and packaging their products and could lead to more "eco-labeling" laws to define and guarantee such ecological claims as "biodegradable."

"I think one of the basic tenets of this country is that consumers be given enough information to make intelligent choices about their purchases," said Chris Croft, legislative director for Friends of Animals, "... and one of the things they want to know is how a product affects the environment."

Croft called the tuna labeling measure "a first, very big step" toward greater eco-labeling. "I also expect to see other things," Croft said. "I expect to see industries falling in line with consumer demand ... and producing products that are more in harmony with nature."

"People are realizing the power of the consumer to do something for the environment and I'm really excited by it," said Robert Irvin, counsel for the National Wildlife Federation.

"The past year has really shown that American business has recognized the power of marketing products that at least purport to be environmentally responsible," said Irvin. As examples he noted "brown" coffee filters made without potentially hazardous chemicals to bleach the paper and new products that elimate the excessive packaging that's clogging the nation's landfills. "The challenge now is to make sure the claims meet reality," Irvin said.

Fear of setting a precedent that would open the door to further eco-labeling measures nearly torpedoed the tuna labeling measure, sponsored by Rep. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., in Congress.

"This has been part of the controversy regarding the bill from the beginning, at least from Representative (John) Dingell," D-Mich., said marine mammologist Nina Young of the Center for Marine Conservation.

Concerned about the precedent, Dingell, who heads the House Energy and Commerce Committee, insisted on removal of a provision in Boxer's original bill that would have also required "negative" labeling of tuna failing the dolphin-safe test.

Young said as approved the dolphin-safe tuna bill may not set a blueprint for other eco-labeling, but added, "It shows that the consumer does have power. ... The precedent has been set that if the consumer does feel strongly enough he can make a difference."

CAIRO, EGYPT (NOV. 30) UPI - Egypt's violence-marred parliamentary elections were so closely contested that runoff elections will be held in 40 to 80 percent of the districts, reports said Friday.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak's ruling National Democratic Party had been expected to sweep the polls, boycotted by most major opposition parties to protest changes in the election laws.

Early results showed the NDP was well ahead of the independent candidates and contestannts from smaller parties who campaigned for the 444 seats in the National Assembly, Egypt's parliament.

But Egyptian newspapers said in early Saturday editions that in many districts no candidate managed to win at least 50 percent of the vote. As a result, runoff elections will be held in those districts late next week.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency predicted, based on the early results, that the NDP would ultimately capture 70 percent of Parliament.

Official results were expected Saturday afternoon.

Four people were killed in violent clashes between rival political factions and newspapers reported thugs had stolen ballots and rigged polling stations in isolated incidents throughout Egypt. But officials declared the elections were fair.

(NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush moved today to give Iraq the opportunity it says it wants... the discuss the Persian Gulf crisis. Bush says he is inviting the Iraqi foreign minister to Washington, D-C, to meet with him some time in the week of December 10th. Bush also is asking Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to receive Secretary of State Baker in Baghdad some time between December 15th and January 15th.

The January 15th, 1991, date is significant because it is the deadline set in a U-N Security Council resolution for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait. The Security Council approved the resolution on a 12-2 vote yesterday, with China abstaining. The resolution authorizes the use of force to get Iraq out of Kuwait. Armed with that sentiment, Bush told reporters at the White House that he is determined to go ''the extra mile'' for a peaceful solution to the crisis.

Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein rejected the Security Council resolution. And the official Iraq News Agency reports today that the ruling body in Iraq blasted the resolution as ''null and illegal.'' The report says the Revolution Command Council in Iraq charged that the United States bribed countries to vote for the resolution.

Soviet leader Mihkail Gorbachev has canceled what would have been a one-day visit to the troubled southwestern republic of Moldavia. NO reason is given, although the trip is supposed to be rescheduled for a later day. Moldavia is the latest Soviet republic hit by separatist movements and ethnic disorders.

Weather conditions are back to seasonal norms around the country after many areas enjoyed unusual warmth earlier in the week. A freeze warning is posted for Shreveport, Louisiana, and gale warnings fly for the Gulf of Mexico off New Orleans. Parts of western New York state were dusted by snow after the passage of a squall while flood warnings remain up in Washington state.

Cigarette advertisements will NO longer be carried on the two television stations serving residents of Hong Kong. The move is the latest in a series to control the growth of smoking throughout Asia. It comes nearly 30 years after studies linked cigarettes to lung cancer.

A surprise bounty has been found in the lining of an old coat donated to a NON-profit human services center in Pontiac, Michigan. A volunteer worker sifting through a bag of used clothing this week found five- thousand dollars in small-denomination bills stashed in the coat's lining. The center is required to wait six weeks to see if anyone rightly claims the money.

U-S military authorities reportedly are planning to censor letters home from a disgruntled soldier in Saudi Arabia. Sergeant Dick Runels wrote in letters published by the Bay Voice paper in New Baltimore, Michigan, that troops in the desert are plagued by heat, frustration and flies. And he says the only threat to the United States is that- quoting now- ''we might pay two dollars a gallon for gas.'' Editor Tom Stanton says Runels was reprimanded by his base commander, who said future letters would be censored.

UNITED NATIONS (NOV. 30) UPI - Israeli U.N. Ambassador Yoram Aridor rejected

Friday recent proposals for a greater United Nations role in resolving the conflict in the Israeli-occupied territories.

''Those who did nothing to assist us in times of peril,'' Aridor said, ''have no moral claim on us. They have no right to issue demands or dictate appeasement.''

Aridor made his comments to the General Assembly's debate on the ''Question of Palestine'' in an attempt to forestall an Arab initiative that parallels efforts in the Security Council.

It was the first statement by the Israeli ambassador since a group of non-aligned countries proposed a Security Council resolution aimed at protecting Palestinian civilians in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The resolution, supported by the Palestine Liberation Organization, would station a U.N. observer in the occupied territories to monitor the situation.

The four non-aligned countries that drafted the resolution - Colombia, Cuba, Yemen and Malaysia - have pushed for a vote by the Security Council in the past three weeks. But U.S. Ambassador Thomas R. Pickering, whose presidency of the council ended Friday, has refused to allow one.

The debate on the Palestinian question has moved to the General Assembly, where Arab diplomats and others, including the European Community, continued to push for an international peace conference.

The annual debate on the Palestinian issue has had new energy this year as some Arab diplomats have attempted to link the conflict in the occupied territories with a resolution of the Persian Gulf crisis.

In response, Israel renewed charges of anti-Zionist bias by the United Nations dating back to the country's birth in 1948.

Since Oct. 8 - when Israeli security forces fired on rock-throwing demonstrators on Temple Mount, killing at least 19 Palestinians - the 15-member Security Council has condemned Israel twice for excessive violence and its refusal to receive a U.N. investigating team.

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, who is planning a visit to Israel, also has called for a meeting of the 164 nations that signed the 4th Geneva Convention of 1949, which protects civilians in a war zone.

''I call upon all civilized nations to disassociate themselves from this discriminatory practice,'' Aridor said.

Aridor said Israel supports ''direct negotiations'' to end the Arab- Israeli conflict. But he gave no indication that Israel is willing to change its longheld opposition to direct negotiations with the PLO.

And Aridor rejected the possibility of creating a Palestinian state in the occupied territories, proposing instead administrative elections.

''Allowing a PLO-ruled state in the heart of Israel is tantamount to allowing Sadam Hussein's missiles on the other side of Pennsylvania Avenue,'' he said. ''Israel, like any other sovereign state, is not in the business of collective suicide.''

LEXINGTON, MA (NOV. 30) UPI - Half of all Americans are so worried about the economy they feel a repeat of the Great Depression is at least somewhat likely according to the results of a national poll released Friday.

That's a substantial increase from the 43 percent who were similarly pessimistic in November 1987, just after the stock market crash that year, said Decision Research Corp., which conducted the survey last month.

Moreover, when counted together, general economic issues were singled out by 40 percent of those polled as their chief worry, said Robert S. Duboff, senior vice president and top executive at Decision Research.

Economic issues were by far the most frequently mentioned concerns, Duboff said. These issues included the federal budget deficit and the savings and loans crisis as well as vague economic concerns, he said.

Meanwhile, the second most commonly cited issue was the environment, mentioned by 35 percent of respondents, Duboff said. Fear of war in the Arabian Peninsula was next, mentioned by 31 percent, he said.

Growing gloom about the economy cut across sex and most age categories and was "the worst we've seen" in the half-dozen similar polls Decision Research has conducted over the past 13 years, Duboff said. The results of the poll in 1987 had been the most pessimistic to that date, he added.

Women were more negative about the economy overall, but slightly more men than women expressed great fears about the outlook for their own households. Also, Americans were generally more worried about the U.S. economy than about that of the world at large, Decision Research said.

On a scale of one to ten, where one means "not concerned" and ten means "extremely worried," Americans' feelings on the economy averaged 7.4, up from 6.2 in 1987. Respondents rated their concerns about their own households at an averge 6.7 percent on the same scale, compared with 5.8 percent in 1987. And 27 percent of those responding listed their anxiety levels on their own households at the full ten.

The results were based on polling of 300 people between ages 18 and 64 and had a margin of error of six percent, the company said.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (NOV. 30) UPI - A small Rhode Island bank whose owner is missing - as is $13 million in assets - will reopen next week so the process of liquidating the institution can begin, Gov. Edward D. DiPrete said Friday.

The Heritage Loan & Investment Co. will reopen Tuesday morning, ten banking days after DiPrete ordered it closed to stop a run on deposits and get a grasp on how much money was missing. Fred Franklin, director of the state Department of Business Regulation, said the bank would probably remain open through Dec. 18.

To make withdrawals orderly, only depositors whose last names begin with "A" or "B" will be able to withdraw their money the first day Heritage reopens. Withdrawals will continue to be made in alphabetical order on each succeeding day, and the last three days of the reopening - Dec. 14, 17, and 18 - will be reserved for depositors who missed their earlier chance to withdraw.

Franklin said there are $8.5 million in deposits at Heritage and roughly 1,000 depositors. Its private insurer, the Rhode Island Share and Indemnity Corp., has sufficient funds to cover all withdrawals, and depositors whose names come at the end of the alphabet need not worry about losing their money, Franklin said.

Heritage balance sheets show about $23 million in outstanding loans, though bank figures have been notoriously inaccurate and the loan amount could change he said.

Heritage's president and chief stockholder, Joseph Mollicone Jr., has been missing since Nov. 8. An arrest warrant charging him with embezzlement was issued last Tuesday, and his whereabouts remain uncertain. Investigators believe the estimated $13 million in missing assets were taken through fraudulent loans.

Some of the loans list Mollicone's relatives, business associates, friends and even Mayor-elect Vincent A. Cianci Jr. as borrowers. But the purported borrowers say they never took out the loans or received the money.

In addition to the main Atwells Avenue office, Heritage has a branch on Pocasset Avenue in Providence. Franklin was unsure how long it would take to collect on all outstanding loans and sell off assets of the bank.

SAN FRANCISCO (NOV. 30) UPI - A non-profit environmental trust said Friday it is seeking to take over MCA Inc.'s concession operations at Yosemite National Park, which were not included in the film company's sale to Matsushita of Japan earlier this week.

The Yosemite Restoration Trust, formed earlier this year by a group of conservationists and business people, said Friday it would present a bid to MCA to buy the Curry Co., which operates the Yosemite concessions, for an undisclosed sum.

During a meeting Thursday, trust officials asked MCA executives if they would consider donating the Curry Co. to the non-profit group, said Richard Goldman, a San Francisco insurance executive and philanthropist who sits on the trust's board.

Goldman, who was not at the meeting, said MCA was noncommittal about both the bid and the donation. "So far they haven't shown much interest in doing business with us," he said.

An MCA spokeswoman said company officials simply "sat and listened" to the trust members and referred them to tender offer documents expected to be filed late Friday. The spokeswoman said she had no comment on the future of the Curry Co.

Analysts estimate the Curry Co.'s operations in Yosemite, which include the famous Ahwahnee Hotel and virtually all of the park's businesses, are worth about $200 million.

U.S. park service officials pressured MCA not to include the businesses in its $6.6 billion sale to Matsushita because of concerns about foreign ownership of such symbolic assets in one of the "crown jewels of the national park system."

Matsushita has said it would sell the Curry Co. to a U.S. buyer within a year and place the company in escrow during that time, with all profits going to the park. Matsushita has agreed to give the National Park Service the chance to approve any buyer, park service spokesman Duncan Morrow said. Yosemite Park's concession operations have been a source of controversy among environmentalists for some time.

The Yosemite Restoration Trust was formed earlier this year to compete with the Curry Co. for the park concession contract when it expires in 1993. The group said it wanted to channel profits back into the park and implement the 1980 general management plan for Yosemite, which called for cutting back on hotel space and limiting the number of cars in the park.

Environmentalists argue that the Curry Co. does not put enough money back into the park and encourages development and congestion in the picturesque Yosemite Valley.

Critics contend that MCA reaped a profit of as much as $17 million last year in Yosemite while paying a franchise fee of only $635,772, or less than one percent of revenues.

James Ridenour, director of the park service, has said the fee is far too low and should be closer to 22 percent. MCA is not required to disclose its park profits under the concession contract.

Regardless of who buys the Curry Co., the National Park Service will not allow the buyer to pick up the Curry Co.'s current concession contract through 1993 without agreeing to new conditions, Morrow said.

The buyer will have to agree to new terms, which would likely include a higher franchise fee and greater commitment to the 1980 general management plan, Morrow said.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - Industries earned slightly less than five cents profit on the dollar in 1989, down ten percent from the previous year - and with no outlook for improvement in the near future, Standard & Poor Corp. said Friday.

Companies making up the S&P Industrials saw profits fall from an average of 5.46 cents on the dollar in 1988 to 4.91 cents in 1989, and that average continues to slide. Profits for the four quarters ending in June fell to 4.38 cents for each sales dollar earned.

David M. Blitzer, vice president and chief economist of Standard & Poor, said the outlook for future profits is no brighter. "Given the present economic weakness and the strong likelihood of a recession in coming months, I see further declines ahead," said Blitzer.

"If the anticipated recession is similar to previous downturns, profits and returns on sales should deteriorate sharply," he said. "Earnings on the sales dollar could drop to 3.5 cents or less. The squeeze on profits is likely to be accompanied by a squeeze on investment and capital spending."

The S&P Industrials entered the 1980s at almost the same profit level that it ended the decade with. In 1980, profit on the sales dollar was 4.92 cents, just 0.2 percent higher than the 1989 figure of 4.91 cents.

During the 1980s, the Industrials' profits dropped to its lowest point in 30 years, 3.75 cents in 1986. In the next two years, profits turned upward, rising to 4.71 cents in 1987 and reaching the decade high point of 5.46 cents in 1988. The highest profit percentage figure in the 30-year span of the survey was reached in 1965, when the Industrials rose to 6.82.

Blitzer said that recent performance of earnings per dollar of sales is a sign of wider economic weakness ahead. "Profits usually are seen as a leading indicator of economic activity, and earnings per share tend to decline before the overall economy," he said.

The S&P Industrials is made up of 75 industry groups, and of these, 35 generated profits on the dollar above the 4.91 cents level, and 40 groups netted less than the Industrials' average.

The homebuilding industry led the list of profit gainers in 1989, with an increase of 109 percent, as profits on the sales dollar rose from 1.75 cents in 1988 to 3.65 cents. The 30-year record high for the industry was 7.66 cents set in 1967.

Other groups registering large percentage gains in sales profit in 1989 were toys, up 61 percent; food wholesalers, up 22 percent; communications and equipment manufacturers, up 42 percent; computer software and services, up 28 percent, and office equipment, up 26 percent.

Publishing had the greatest loss in 1989, dropping 93 percent, from 6.79 cents profit on the sales dollar in 1988 to a 30-year record low of 0.45 cents in 1989. In 1986, publishing attained its 30-year high margin of 9.71 cents. The previous record low was 0.58 cents, set in 1963.

Industry groups also suffering large losses in 1989 were building materials, down 72 percent; computer systems, down 52 percent; gold mining, down 47 percent; broadcast media, down 48 percent, and hardware and tools, down 33 percent.

Twelve industry groups set record highs for profits on the sales dollar in 1989. They were: beverages-soft, 8.59 cents; electronics-defense, 7.44 cents; engineering and construction, 1.89 cents; computer software and services, 11.67 cents; food wholesalers, 1.37 cents, and health care-composite, 11.87 cents.

Also, health care-drugs, 17.64 cents; restaurants, 9.67 cents; retail-department stores, 3.83 cents; retail-specialty, 5.16 cents; retail-specialty-apparel, 6.09 cents and telecommunications-long distance, 5.58 cents.

NEW CANAAN, Conn. (NOV. 30) UPI - A private relief group made final preparations Friday for the first in a series of airlifts to the Soviet Union that will deliver up to 1 million pounds of food and medicines.

AmeriCares, which has shipped more than $365 million of donated supplies around the world, said its first flight would leave Connecticut Saturday for Moscow to ease critical shortages before Christmas.

Several other flights will be made to the Soviet Union, including an airlift leaving Dec. 26 from JFK International Airport in New York with 250,000 pounds of medicines and foods.

AmeriCares responds quickly to emergencies in foreign countries with supplies and funds donated by U.S. companies and individuals that are sent outside the normal channels of government.

The group has shipped supplies to many other countries following earthquakes and political upheavals, including Romania, the Philippines, Iran, Soviet Armenia, Mexico and El Salvador.

The first flight to the Soviet Union was scheduled to leave Saturday at 10 a.m. EST from Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks, Conn., with 80,000 pounds of supplies and arrive in Moscow on Sunday morning, Soviet time.

Several doctors and other medical personnel were scheduled to be aboard, along with antibiotics, analgesics, nutritional supplements and medical supplies requested by Moscow's Republican Children's Hospital.

AmeriCares said it was directing its relief effort at children, the ill and the elderly, who will suffer most from severe shortages of food and medicine as the harsh Russian winter arrives.

Medical experts and AmeriCares coordinators will stay in the Soviet Union to direct the delivery of the supplies and makes sure it reaches those most in need, the group said.

BOCA RATON, FL (NOV. 30) UPI - Investment bankers and stockbrokers need to take steps to win back the trust of corporate clients and small investors who have lost faith in Wall Street in recent years, the incoming chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said Friday.

"I find leaders of the corporate world are more disappointed and downright angry with this industry then I have ever seen them," William H. Donaldson told members of the Securities Industry Association at its annual meeting.

"They see conflict of interest, they see excessive fees and, sometimes, judgment compromised by self interest," Donaldson said. As for the individual investor, "if there isn't the same anger or frustration, there is at least a strong measure of dismay," he continued. Donaldson is scheduled to take the helm of the NYSE Jan. 1.

Individual investors have been spooked in part by a belief that the market has become too volatile. "The question is not whether markets are more volatile - in my personal view they are - but rather what can be done to modify today's practices and thereby reverse the attitudes that have scared so many individual investors from the marketplace. In my view, too many in the industry have given up on this," Donaldson said.

"Individual participation has been the cornerstone of our unique and liquid market system, and we lose it, in my view, at everyone's peril," Donaldson told the group.

In a separate speech, Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., also warned industry members about the need for restoring public confidence in the financial services industry after referring to the recent sentencing of Michael Milken, the former junk-bond king at Drexel Burnham Lambert.

"As we enter an economic downturn, it is absolutely essential that investors have confidence in our markets and confidence in the industry itself," Dodd said. "Investors simply are not going to be willing to part with their savings if they believe they are going to enter the market with the deck stacked against them, if they believe market professionals are not playing by the same rules."

Donaldson later told reporters the industry can take three specific steps to win back individual investors. "I think No. 1, we attack this volatility problem. No. 2, we do everything we can to create a level playing field," Donaldson said. "I think No. 3, we have to tell about the long-term benefits of stock ownership." Donaldson said he intends to take an active role in promoting stock ownership after taking office.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - Unusual alignments of the sun, moon and Earth may increase the danger of coastal flooding and boating hazards in December and early January, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration warned Friday.

High tides will be slightly higher than normal and low tides will be slightly lower than normal because of the unusual series of events Dec. 1-4 and Dec. 30 to Jan. 2. They are:

-syzygy, which is a full moon, and perigee, which is the moon being closer to Earth than any other time during its monthly cycle, are expected to occur on Dec. 2 and again Dec. 31.

-tropic tides, which are caused by the moon being at its maximum northern point above the celestial equator, are expected Dec. 3 and Dec. 30.

-the winter solstice, which is the sun reaching its maximum southern point below the celestial equator during the year, will occur Dec. 22.

-perihelio, which is the Earth being closer to the sun than at any other time in its yearly orbit around the sun, is scheduled to occur Jan. 2.

No major coastal storms are expected the Dec. 1-4 period of extreme high tides but forecasters will be watching two weather ''hot spots.''

A storm is expected to develop along the Northeast coast Dec. 4-5 with strong winds occurring from Cape Hatteras to Nova Scotia. A major Pacific storm is expected to move into the Gulf of Alaska Dec. 4 with strong onshore winds from about Juneau to northwest Washington state.

''If these extreme high tides do occur during periods of heavy rain or onshore winds, localized flooding may occur,'' NOAA said.

''Extreme low tides may expose mariners to unexpected obstructions to navigation and other low water hazards, but may help to lessen slightly the threat of coastal flooding during a storm,'' it said.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - Daiwa Securities America, subsidiary of a Tokyo-based brokerage firm, said Friday it laid off 16 employees, or about four percent of staff, in various areas of the firm.

The cuts are not concentrated in any particular area, said Phillip Zachary, chief administrative officer. "We have reduced staff in areas where activity has diminished," he said. Three of the 16 people were engaged in corporate bond activities, an area, Zachary said, that had been "further de-emphasized."

Despite the cuts, Zachary said the firm has added staff in some areas including assets-backed securities, debt derivatives, real estate and equity arbitrage. The net result, he said, is that the staff level of 400, after the current reductions, will be the same as it was at the end of last September.

"We will continue a selective expansion of staff. Mr Koji Yoneyama, the chairman, stated this morning that we need to selectively expand staff "Zachary said, noting the firm expects to add 30 people in the first quarter of 1991.

He said there are no plans for further sizable layoffs, but minor adjustments might be necessary: "Like any prudent management, we reserve the right to adjust our staff as needed. We plan on generally increasing the size of staff." Daiwa Securities America is the U.S. arm of Daiwa Securities Co.

(NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush say he will ask Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz to the White House for talks on the Persian Gulf crisis. And he says he is asking Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to meet with Secretary of State Baker in Baghdad some time between December 15th and January 15th.

Under the Bush idea, the Iraqi foreign minister would be in Washington, D-C, some time during the week of December 10th. But Bush also told reporters that he plans NO deal with Iraq but wants to deliver the message face-to-face that Iraq must withdraw from Kuwait, as called for in a series of U-N Security Council resolutions.

Iraq is rejecting the latest Security Council resolution, which gives the nation until January 15th to get out of Kuwait. The ruling Revolution Command Council in Baghdad says the resolution is ''null and illegal'' and was obtained by the United States bribing other countries.

The government's index of leading indicators fell for a fourth consecutive month in October... down one-point-two percent in a hint that the economy will be sinking for another six to nine months. The report is seen as further evidence that the nation is in a recession.

The Canadian government's information-gathering agency says the nation is in a recession, as indicated by two consecutive quarters of decline in Canada's gross domestic product. Statistics Canada says the nation's gross domestic product fell three-tenths of one percent in the third quarter of 1990, after a decline of seven-tenths of one percent in the second quarter.

The Japanese government in Tokyo says the cost of living in the capital city- already the highest in the world- posted its sharpest year-on-year rise in eight years in October... soaring three-point-nine percent. At the same time, the Japanese jobless rate remained stable at two-point-two percent.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush nominated outgoing Florida Gov. Bob Martinez Friday to replace William Bennett as national anti-drug director, and selected Bennett as the new GOP national chairman.

In a double-barrel White House announcement, Bush hailed Martinez, 55, and Bennett, 47, as proven leaders certain to make their marks on the war on drugs and Republican politics.

Some members of Congress, however, promptly criticized the selection of Martinez, calling the governor a ''political reject'' with inadequate drug-fighting experience.

Martinez, a Republican, was defeated in his Nov. 6 bid for re- election by Democrat Lawton Chiles. Bush's son, Jeb Bush, served as his campaign manager.

Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., of the Senate Judiciary Committee said Martinez ''lacks the background and record to suggest that he is well- suited for this task.'' Biden's panel will hold the confirmation hearings.

Bush called Martinez ''superbly qualified,'' saying he served as point man in Florida's war on narcotics as well as in the National Governors' Association's anti-drug efforts.

Bennett resigned on Nov. 8 as the first director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy. He served as education secretary in the Reagan administration.

The Republican National Commmittee is virtually certain in January to approve Bush's selection of Bennett as its new chairman. He would replaced Lee Atwater who has battled a brain tumor the past year.

Atwater, who would move to the new post of general chairman, said in a statement, ''I look forward to working with Bill Bennett as we build our party organization for the 1992 election,'' when Bush will be up for re-election.

The often outspoken and combative Bennett made no comment during his joint appearance with Bush and Martinez. The governor, in brief remarks, said, ''Filling Bill Bennett's shoes will be tough.''

Martinez praised Bennett for conducting an effective war on drugs, but said he would have to review the status of efforts before deciding whether there should be any changes in strategy.

Bennett has drawn fire for placing the emphasis on law enforcement over treatment and education.

Bush noted that Martinez was the first governor to name a state drug czar, brought in the National Guard to help combat narcotic trafficking in Florida and implemented so-called boot camps for drug offenders.

The president added, ''As a governor who signed more than 130 death warrants (for convicted felons) he understands tough choices and the need for penalities as tough as the criminals we face.''

Administration sources first disclosed on Nov. 18 that Martinez was being considered as Bennett's successor. The day before, they disclosed Bush's plans to pick Bennett as Republican national chairman.

Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, said, ''I'm a little disappointed that the president selected a political reject.''

Rangel said he expects Martinez to be confirmed for the job, but added, ''I just hope he gets more support from the president than Bennett did.''

Rangel has criticized Bush for refusing to make the anti-drug job a Cabinet post.

Bennett, in announcing his resignation earlier this month, called Rangel ''a gas bag'' who is more interested in generating publicity than solutions.

Rangel said Thursday, ''I hope Martinez becomes a friend of Congress, not an enemy. Bennett ran around insulting members of Congress and mayors. He didn't accomplish anything.''

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush's offer to seek a peaceful settlement of the Persian Gulf crisis with Iraq before exercising a U.N. mandate to resort to force sent the dollar mostly lower in thin, pre-weekend New York trading.

Currency traders said Bush's pledge to "go the extra mile for peace" and send Secretary of State James Baker to Baghdad for discussions with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein gave the market a reason to unload dollars.

Foreign-exchange players scrambled into the U.S. unit Thursday after the United Nations Security Council passed a resolution authorizing military force to drive Iraqi forces out of occupied Kuwait if they do not leave by Jan. 15.

But Bush's remarks lowered the warlike tone of the U.N. vote that had led investors to seek haven in dollars. Speculators took profits by selling them.

"The talk about sending Baker to Iraq for a final negotiation with Saddam did trigger a little unwinding of the long dollar positions," said John Lyman, chief New York customer dealer for the Bank of Tokyo.

In late New York trading, the dollar stood at 1.4965 German marks, down from 1.5030 marks Thursday, and 132.50 Japanese yen, down from 133.15. The British pound eased to $1.9430 from $1.9440.

Other New York dollar rates: 1.2770 Swiss francs, down from 1.28; 5.0550 French francs, down from 5.0765; and 1,124 Italian lire, down from 1,130.

Harris Bank currency investment officer Lori Poyner said the dollar's selloff

"was definitely on Bush's more conciliatory tone."

Players focusing intently on the Persian Gulf mostly shrugged off the fourth straight monthly decline in the U.S. leading economic indicators reported by the goverment earlier Friday, she said. The barometer fell 1.2 percent in October.

In Europe, the dollar closed higher against the major currencies, surging as investors sought safety amid renewed Mideast war fears.

"I don't expect the actual outbreak of hostilities to affect the dollar positively. But in the short term, it is traditional that speculators seek refuge in the dollar when there's talk of war," said Avinesh Persaud, a currency economist at London broker UBS Phillips and Drew.

The dollar rose in both Frankfurt, to 1.5045 German marks vs. 1.4865 Thursday, and in Zurich, to 1.2790 Swiss francs from 1.2680.

In London, the pound declined to $1.9415 from $1.9575, not because of the dollar's surge but because foreign-exchange markets were taking into account an expected cut of half a percentage point cut in British base interest rates.

The dollar also strengthened in Paris, Brussels and Milan, to, respectively: 5.0795 French francs vs. 5.0260; 31.02 Belgian francs vs. 30.71; and 1,129.70 Italian lire vs. 1,117.95.

Earlier in Tokyo, the dollar soared against the yen in hectic trading following passage of the U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force against Iraq, closing at 132.75 yen, up a hefty 2.60 yen from Thursday's close of 130.15. That was the highest closing rate seen in Tokyo in nine weeks.

Gold closed lower in Zurich, at $384.50 an ounce vs. $386, and in London, at $384.75 an ounce vs. $386.50.

Silver closed lower in Zurich, at $4.10 per ounce vs. $4.15, but was unchanged in London from Thursday's $4.13 an ounce.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold at $382.25 an ounce, downsharply from $388 Thursday. The New York Commodity Exchange settled December gold at $383.30 an ounce, down from $388.90.

Republic closed cash silver at $4.145 an ounce, up from $4.11. Comex silver ended trading at $4.122 an ounce, up from $4.085.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - The Republican National Committee narrowed the field for the site of the 1992 national convention Friday to Houston, New Orleans and San Diego, the site selection committee announced.

After meeting in Washington to review the competing cities and what they can offer thousands of politicians, reporters and visitors, party officials knocked Cleveland and St. Petersburg, Fla., out of the running.

''This was a difficult decision because each city was competitive throughout the process and gave outstanding presentations to the committee,'' said Jeanie Austin, RNC co-chairman and chairman of the site selection committee. ''We were right at home in all of the cities.''

Members of the selection committee determined that the three finalists met the ''overall package of facility requirements.''

Houston is President Bush's adopted home town and New Orleans was the site of the 1988 Republican convention where Bush was nominated. San Diego is the power base of California's new GOP governor, Pete Wilson.

The site selection committee authorized negotiations with the three cities after which a final decision will be made.

The committee will make its final recommendation of one city at the RNC's winter meeting in Washington Jan. 24-26. The 165 members of the RNC will vote on the recommendation.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - The Daily News took its battle to survive a crippling 37-day strike into the courtroom Friday for a second time, trying to get the paper on sale at subway and commuter train stations.

Thursday, the paper filed a $150 million racketeering suit accusing unions of running a ''campaign of terror.''

Attorneys for the News appered in U.S. District Court in Manhattan Friday, asking for a temporary restraining order against a Metropolitan Transportaion Authority ban on news hawkers.

The paper accused the authority of reneging on an agreement that the News could place three news hawkers at each of 200 subway and commuter railway stations to sell the newspaper. It claimed the MTA's action infringed on the News' First Amendment rights.

Most newsstand vendors refuse to sell the News, citing incidents of violence and intimidation that make them fearful of handling the paper. Hawkers, many of them recruited at homeless shelters, generally sell the News for 25 cents, 10 cents less than its listed price.

John Sloan, a spokesman for the News, said the MTA backed out of the deal because of ''immense pressure from the Teamsters' Union'' after the newspaper had paid $50 each to the authority for hawker permits at subway, Metro-North and Long Island Rail Road stations.

As the bitter strike that has been punctuated by dozens of incidents of violence and vandalism ground on, Federal mediator Kenneth Kowalsky said another meeting had been arranged for Monday between management officials and representatives of the drivers' union.

The drivers are considered the most powerful of the nine striking unions that initiated the strike involving 2,500 News employees Oct. 25.

Thursday, the News and its owner, the Tribune Co. of Chicago, filed a 113-page racketeering suit in the same court, charging strikers with conducting a ''well orchestrated and centrally coordinated campaign of violence'' against newsstand owners and replacement workers.

It specificaly named the Allied Newspaper and Mail Delivers Union and 23 members, including three union officials, and the Allied Printing Trades Council, an umbrella organization for striking unions. Among the charges in the suit were attempted murder, arson, extortion and robbery.

Union adviser Theodore Kheel, a key target of the suit assigned to Judge Charles Haight, called it ''a crock of nonsense'' that represented ''the last act of desperation by a newspaper that has lost virtually all of its advertising and most of its circulation.''

Kheel, who has a national reputation as a labor expert, threatened to countersue the News, saying the charges of ''orchestrated and organized violence are false, defamatory and malicious'' and that ''the unions would be suing publisher James Hoge and his associates for libel.''

News management, which asked that the $50 million in damages sought be trebled under racketeering statutes to $150 million, accused Kheel specifically with ''operating behind a facade of respectability to embark a plan and scheme to personally benefit from such campaign of violence.''

It said the campaign of violence was aimed at forcing the Tribune Co. to sell the paper.

Kheel has been trying to organize a union-led buyout of the Daily News despite management statements that the paper is not for sale.

Two incidents in Brooklyn late Thursday and early Friday brought the number of strike-related reports made to the police since the strike began to more than 200, police said.

A private newscarrier reported that an unidentified man seized a bundle of the News from him at the intersection of Haring and Ave. X in Brooklyn, threw them into the street and fled about 7 p.m. Thursday.

Another Brooklyn man said he was loading copies of the News into a private vehicle at 461 Dean St. at 1 a.m. Friday when he was assaulted by four men in dark clothing. He was treated at Methodist Hospital for minor injuries to the face and head.

LOS ANGELES (NOV. 30) UPI - Investor Randall Hubbard formally launched a proxy fight Friday for control of Hollywood Park race track, charging that current mangement has allowed the facility to deteriorate in recent years.

The announcement, disclosed in a Securities and Exchange Commission filing and a letter to shareholders, was not a surprise. Hubbard, owner of race tracks in Kansas and New Mexico and holder of 9.9 percent of Hollywood Park Operating Co., has previously called on management to step down.

The current management, headed by Marjorie Everett, proposed earlier this week that the track and its 347 acres be sold. Analysts say the property, in Inglewood adjacent to the Great Western Forum and near Los Angeles International Airport, could fetch $250 million.

Hubbard, chairman and chief executive officer of Texas glassmaker AFG Industries, said in the letter, "Through a combination of what I believe to be mismanagement and bad judgment, Mrs. Everett has permitted Hollywood Park to decline into the second tier of racetracks from its former position of greatness."

The Hollywood Park companies - Operating and Realty - lost more than $25 million between 1987 and 1989, due to declining attendance and debt payments from their 1984 purchase of the Los Alamitos race track in Cypress, Calif. The track sold Los Alamitos late last year.

The proposal to sell the track was officially made by Hollywood Park Operating Co. to Realty, which owns the track. Realty is scheduled to address the issue at its meeting Dec. 5. Everett has high-powered allies on the Operating Co. board, including financier Merv Griffin, producer Aaron Spelling, and actor John Forsythe.

Everett has pointed out that the companies' nine-month earnings for this year are $4.6 million, boosted through revenues from off-track betting through simulcasting of races. Spokesman Charles Perkins said Friday, "We regret that Mr. Hubbard does not support our efforts to seek sale of the track and get the greatest shareholder value."

Hubbard said that Everett's leadership "led Hollywood Park to the very brink of financial ruin." In addition to the Los Alamitos deal, which caused a book loss of $4.7 million, he cited:

- The construction of a $40 million Pavilion of the Stars, which he said is "so poorly designed and located that, according to a media report, 'people couldn't see the races and no one wanted to go there."'

- Average daily on-track attendance in 1989 was 18,200, down nearly 43 percent from the 31,900 in 1980.

- Average daily on-track betting handle, or the total amount wagered at the track, has dropped to $4.66 million in 1989 from $5.27 million in 1980.

- Everett has been unable to retain track management because of a style described by one writer as being "so overbearing, so critical, so unwilling to delegate authority" that there has been frequent turnover.

- Hollywood Park has operated its concessions for the past three years at an average net profit of 12 percent of sales, while rival Santa Anita in Arcadia achieved a 23 percent average net profit during the same period on similar revenues.

But analyst Kenneth Campbell of Audit Investments in Montvale, N.J., said that it may be difficult to sell the track given the battered real estate market. "Still, there's a case to be made that given the track's size and proximity to the airport, there's a lot of value," Campbell said.

Campbell also said that Everett's credibility as a manager has suffered because of her "less than deft" handling of the Los Alamitos deal. "My perception is that the management are good racing people, but when it comes to the big leagues of real estate development, they have a long long way to go,"

he said.

Shares of the companies, which are traded on a paired basis and have gained about $4 this week, were unchanged Friday at $37 a share in over the counter trading.

(NOV 30) UPI - A cold front carrying freezing temperatures brought an end to Indian summer in the South and Middle Atlantic states Friday, while more rain soaked flood-ravaged Washington state.

After days of warm, sunny weather, things returned to normal for late November in the East and South. Morning lows were in the 20s and 30s across much of the nation east of the Rockies with freezing temperatures reported as far south as Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Small craft advisories posted along Florida's northern east coast and the coast east of the mouth of the Mississippi River,with seas reaching 9 feet, the National Weather Service said.

Gale warnings were in effect for the waters off New Orleans in the Gulf of Mexico and in the Atlantic coastline in North Carolina.

Flood warnings were posted in rain-soaked Washington state for the Cedar and White rivers and snow or ice pellets were reported in the western interior region of the state.

Most rivers were still falling despite the rain Friday, but the Cedar River at Renton and the White River below Mud Mountain Dam were above flood stage and were expected to fall slowly late in the day.

A snow advisory remained in effect for the Cascade and Olympic mountains of Washington.

Snow squalls dumped a quick inch of snow on the ground in western New York state, but eased toward daybreak and in New York City, it was clearing, windy and cold with a low in the 30s.

Clear skies covered the Midwest, but winds gusting to 55 mph whipped through Wyoming. Mostly clear skies and lows in the 50s were reported in Southern California with winds up to 12 mph.

Drought conditions continued in Southern California. Just 0.21 inches of rain has fallen in Los Angeles since the first of July, less than 10 percent of the normal rainfall for that period of time.

Much of a subdivision in Highland, Ind., about 30 miles outside Chicago, still was underwater Friday after a levee along the Little Calumet River broke earlier this week. About 100 familes were forced to evacuate their homes when the levee broke Wednesday.

''We are telling most of the people we don't expect them to be able to return even under the best of circumstances until at least sometime next week,'' Highland Police dispatcher Donna Hardacker said.

The NWS in St. Louis issued a statement Friday in reponse to reports of strange lights in the night sky, blaming the sightings on a milky white cloud located very low on the horizon. The cloud, the NWS said, probably looked strange due to the full moon and clean atmosphere.

(NOV 30) UPI - The latest salvo in Arturo Torres' legal battle against Pizza Hut Inc. was to be fired Friday in federal court in Wichita, Kan., as Torres fought to hold on to his domestic Pizza Hut franchises.

Torres' attorneys were expected Friday to file a motion opposing Pizza Hut's request for a summary judgment that would allow it to immediately disenfranchise Torres. The motion was expected to be filed by 6:30 p.m. EST.

Pizza Hut, of Wichita, Kan., claims that Torres' Pizza Management Inc., of San Antonio, Texas, violated franchise agreements by allegedly paying some fees late and transferring some closely held stock without authorization.

The fight between Torres and Pizza Hut began in 1986, when Torres sought to take his closely held Pizza Management Inc. public, a right he claimed under a 1976 agreement with Pizza Hut's original owners.

But Pizza Hut, purchased by PepsiCo Inc. in 1977, said an amended 1981 agreement with PMI allowed a public offering of only 26 franchises, about two thirds of the franchises owned by PMI.

Torres filed suit against Pizza Hut and PepsiCo in U.S. District Court in Wichita. He lost on several issues in a 1989 summary judgment that found in favor of Pizza Hut.

Now he is seeking review of the case in a federal appeals court in Denver.

The papers scheduled to be filed Friday in Wichita were in response to a counterclaim by Pizza Hut, seeking to remove PMI's franchises.

PMI claims a franchise fee payment in January 1988 was late by three days. Payment was delayed, it says, because of a dispute over monetary incentives from Pizza Hut to PMI for expanding its delivery operation. PMI also contends the stock transfer was authorized by senior officers of Pepsico and ''existing agreements between PMI and Pepsico.''

If the franchises were removed, Torres would not be able to sell products under the Pizza Hut name.

Torres, whose company owns 218 Pizza Huts in the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, said he is ''fighting for his life. ''

He began his career washing dishes in a Pizza Hut in 1965. By 1989, his company had sales of $135 million and was ranked the sixth-largest Hispanic-owned business in the United States by Hispanic Business magazine.

''The only thing we seem to have done wrong is to disagree with them and to try to use our right to sell,'' Torres said in a telephone interview. ''Our right to take the company public is valid.''

Pizza Hut spokesman Roger Rydell said from Wichita the company wants its franchise operators to retain a 51 percent interest in their businesses.

''If they wanted to issue stock in their company, they could do so, but they need to retain a controlling interest in it,'' he said. ''We wonder how attentive and how committed a franchisee would be to our business if they do not have a controlling financial interest.''

Rydell said Pizza Hut would not let its franchisees ''become absentee franchisees'' because it wants to maintain quality and consistency and encourage innovation.

Pizza Hut, with projected 1990 sales of $4 billion, holds a 25 percent market share.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (NOV. 30) UPI - Colorado Coach Bill McCartney, who turned a trick that no coach since Missouri legend Don Fauort managed nearly 50 years ago, was voted the United Press International Big Eight Conference Coach of the Year, it was announced Friday.

Not since Faurot's teams in 1940 and '41 won consecutive league titles has a team other than Oklahoma or Nebraska won back-to-back outright Big Eight Conference titles. McCartney's Buffaloes went 7-0 in the league in both 1989 and '90.

It is the second consecutive Coach of the Year honor for McCartney and third overall for the 50-year-old coach. Only five-time winner Barry Switzer, who was honored after strong Oklahoma seasons in 1973, '74, '85, '87 and'88, has been named coach of the year more often.

McCartney won in close balloting as Kansas State Coach Bill Snyder was the runnerup. Kansas Coach Glen Mason also received mention among the ballots received from a panel of 36 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the Big Eight region.

The Colorado coach took over a program in 1982 that was among the worse in college football. The Buffaloes went 2-8-1, 4-7 and 1-10 in McCartney's first three seasons before posting a break-through 7-5 mark in 1985. Still, it was not until the Nebraska game in 1989 that McCartney was able to even his coaching record and the success of last season and '90 have pushed his career mark to 55-46-2. He is 48-21-1 over the past five seasons.

McCartney took the team through some tramatic changes in his tenure. At one time the Buffaloes were a pure passing attack, but the coach scrapped that for a wishbone attack. This year Colorado became much more balanced, with Eric Bieniemy finishing 14 yards short of the national rushing title while Darian Hagan passed for 1,538 yards.

Colorado also owns a staunch defensive unit, anchored by linebackers Alfred Williams and Kanavis McGhee. The defense allowed just 2.9 yards a rush.

McCartney was nearly lured away to Southern Methodist two years ago, but has apparently decided to make Colorado his only head coaching job. Last summer he signed a 15-year contract with the Buffaloes.

Snyder helped Kansas State post its best record since 1982 by guiding the Wildcats to a 5-6 mark. It was a four-game improvement over 1989, Snyder's first year as a head coach, and marked one of the greatest gains in records in the nation this season.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (NOV. 30) UPI - South African Foreign Minister R. F. ''Pik'' Botha flew to Kenya Friday and met President Daniel arap Moi in the highest-level contact between the two nations in more than 27 years, and the two sides agreed to establish air links starting next week.

In South Africa, South African Airways said ''approval has now been given by the Kenyan government to introduce a weekly service to Nairobi'' starting on Dec. 8, with a special ''approving'' flight on Dec. 2.

The announcement ended weeks of confusion over whether SAA had been granted approval by the Kenyan government to fly to Nairobi and was the first indication that Botha's mission had been a success.

A brief statement released by Kenya's State House said Moi ''conferred with the South African foreign minister, Mr. Pik Botha, who paid him a courtesy call.''

''Mr Botha also presented President Moi with a special message from President F.W. de Klerk,'' the statement said.

In one of the most outspoken welcomes for changes in South Africa from any African leader, Moi forecast a coming era of cooperation.

Addressing a group of industrialists in Nairobi later Friday, Moi told them: ''Soon South Africa will be part of Africa.''

He warned Kenya faced stiff economic competition. ''But we will cooperate with them, work with them,'' he said.

Accompanied by deputy director general of foreign affairs Rusty Evans, the veteran South African foreign minister flew into Nairobi to a low-key welcome from which red carpets were noticeably absent.

He was greeted by the Kenyan chairman of the Lonrho Group - millionaire businessman Tiny Rowlands' multinational, which has major investments in both Kenya and South Africa.

The chairman, Mark arap Too, asked international press to leave the V.I.P. terminal and said: ''It's a private visit - refueling.''

State-run radio in South Africa, however, announcing the surprise trip, said it was regarded as ''very important in government and diplomatic circles,'' the latest in a series of diplomatic breakthroughs South Africa has enjoyed since de Klerk unveiled a racial reform program in February.

On its independence from Britain in 1963, Kenya severed all commercial, cultural and political ties with South Africa. The decision to renew air links was shortly followed by a visit to Nairobi by a South African trade official investigating new economic relations.

Although it severed ties, Kenya has continued to allow European airlines to stop in Nairobi en route to South Africa.

SAN FRANCISCO (NOV. 30) UPI - A federal indictment Friday charged that the owners of I-Chem Research, the major supplier of sample containers for soil and water pollution testing nationwide, may have provided contaminated beakers.

The indictment raises questions about the validity of Environmental Protection Agency enforcement actions under the federal Superfund law between 1983 and 1986.

The nine-count indictment charges that the Hayward, Calif.-based company and owners Anita and Marvin Rudd, failed to perform quality control testing between 1983 and 1986 to insure the containers were contaminant-free.

The containers were used to collect site samples that formed the basis of enforcement actions by the EPA to clean up hazardous waste sites under the Superfund law.

H. Brooks Griffin, EPA inspector general for investigations in San Francisco said, ''We know of instances where customers (of I-Chem) notified the company of contamination problems over the years.''

Assistant U.S. Attorney Ross Nadel refused to comment on the potential effects contaminated containers may have had on specific EPA investigations.

EPA enforcement experts in Washington were unavailable for comment.

Griffin said I-Chem was the sole supplier of the sample containers for a number of years and remains one of the major suppliers across the country.

He said a former I-Chem employee tipped the EPA about the allegedly lax quality-control standards.

Under federal contracts, I-Chem was the EPA's sole supplier of sample containers from June, 1983 to Dec. 1987, according to Nadel.

The contract required not only clean containers but also testing to insure the purity of the sample holders.

The Rudds are charged with one count of conspiracy to defraud the United States and seven counts of filing false claims to the EPA, allegedly for $500,000 of testing work that was not done.

Marvin Rudd is also charged with one count of using false documents.

Griffin said not only the EPA used the containers but also state agencies and corporations and individuals accused of polluting, used them to test water and soil for pollutants.

Anita Rudd faces a potential 45 years in prison and $2.7 million fine if convicted, Nadel said. Marvin Rudd faces a potential 50 years in prison and a $3 million fine.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - In the first official visit to the United States by China's foreign minister since the crushing of the pro-democracy movement in June 1989, President Bush glossed over the issue of human rights Friday and focused on common opposition to Iraqi aggression.

''I'm always inclined to emphasize the positive - and there are many positive and very important aspects of this relationship, very important. And not the least of which is that China and the United States have made common ground in terms of standing up against aggression,'' said Bush.

The Bush meeting with Qian Qichen followed a session between the foreigndiplomat and Secretary of State James Baker where the two agreed that ''no stone should be left unturned'' in efforts to solve the gulf crisis peacefully.

According to a State Department statement, Qian said China agreed with Bush's decision to send Baker to Baghdad to talk with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

Qian's visit followed by one day the passage of a U.N. Security Council resolution authorizing the use of force against Iraq, if that option is deemed necessary. China abstained from voting on the resolution.

China had voted with the United States on 11 earlier resolutions condemning the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

The visit by Qian drew strong protest from Asia Watch, a organization concerned with human rights issues.

In a letter to Baker, Asia Watch said: ''The invitation, which in effect ends the U.S. ban on high-level contacts with China, comes at a time when repression in the People's Republic of China is not lessening but, in fact, seems to be intensifying.''

At the White House, Bush said he thought ''the Chinese government knows that we have some differences on this whole broad question of human rights but we have many things in common.''

Bush added that the Chinese probably also had some problems with U.S. actions, but he added, ''We've worked very closely in the broad concept of stopping aggression and, of course, that is something that we have in common with this very important country.''

The State Department stressed that Baker had met Qian four times since the Tienamen Square crackdown and announced that two senior U.S. officials, Richard Schifter and Reginald Bartholomew, will make separate trips to China ''in the near future'' to discuss human rights and concerns about the spread of nuclear technology.

The administration has also invited a Chinese deputy trade minister to Washington in December to discuss bilateral economic issues. The State Department defended that invitation since U.S.-China bilateral trade currently amounts to $20 billion a year and is important to U.S. exporters.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush's move Friday to relaunch the quest for a diplomatic solution to the Persian Gulf standoff helped U.S. Treasury bonds regain some of their losses incurred on heightened war fears the day before.

Treasuries also were helped by news the nation's leading economic indicators fell 1.2 percent in October, the fourth-straight monthly decline. The latestfigure, a bellwether of economic performance in the period ahead, provided confirmation the U.S. economy is in a pronounced slowdown.

The government's benchmark 30-year bond, the 8 3/4 Treasury maturing Aug. 15, 2020, finished trading Friday at 103 26/32 to yield 8.40 percent, compared with 103 9/32 and 8.44 percent the week before.

Bond prices declined sharply Thursday, when the U.N. Security Council passed a resolution authorizing the use of military force to bring Iraq's occupation of Kuwait, now four months old, to an end by Jan. 15.

Investors saw war looming, and with it higher oil prices and another spike in inflation like the one seen in early autumn. Expectations of inflation, which erodes the return on bonds, drives down their prices.

So President Bush's offer to ''go the extra mile for peace'' by sending Secretary of State James Baker to Baghdad to see Iraqi President Saddam Hussein calmed bond markets leery of warfare in the oilfields.

''Signs of renewed diplomatic efforts on the part of the United States emerged late Friday morning and a stunning decline in oil prices of nearly $4 (a barrel) helped support the Treasury market's best rally attempt of the week,'' said Smith Barney analyst Peter Greenbaum.

Economists said they expected the Federal Reserve to lower interest rates further, if cautiously, to cushion the downturn.

While Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan this week spoke of a ''meaningful downturn'' rather than a recession, DKB Securities Corp. chief economist Philip Braverman argued distress in the nation's financial sector, tight credit conditions and other recessionary symptoms ''mandate aggressive Fed easing.''

But Merrill Lynch Capital Markets senior strategist Thomas Sowanick said bond market participants were ''disappointed that the chairman did not use more aggressive language'' in his testimony on easing.

''As a result,'' Sowanick said, ''the market will very likely require weaker-than-expected economic data before it can return to the pre- invasion levels of early August.''

Non-inflationary Fed easing tends to boost Treasury bond prices, because when interest rates in general decline in response to such Fed moves, the fixed returns of government securities look more attractive. Investors also move to bonds in recessions as stock portfolios stagnate or lose value.

Analysts also noted that year-end financing demands for ''window- dressing'' of balance sheets are putting upward pressure on money-market rates, which could become a bearish influence if they continue into early next year.

Ten-year Treasury notes ended Friday at 101 21/32 to yield 8.25 percent, vs. 101 14/32 and 8.28 percent a week before. Five-year notes ended at 99 25/32 to yield 7.92 percent vs. 99 20/32 and 7.95 percent - the price and yield when auctioned by the Treasury Wednesday.

Three-year Treasury notes closed at 100 7/32 to yield 7.66 vs. 100 10/32 and 7.62 percent. Two-year notes were at 99 23/32 to yield 7.53 percent vs. 99 24/32 and 7.49 percent at auction Tuesday.

Six-month Treasury bills were discounted at a rate of 7.00 percent to yield 7.35 percent, vs. 6.96 percent and 7.31 percent a week earlier. Three-month Treasury bills were discounted at 7.03 percent to yield 7.25 percent, vs. a discount of 7.02 percent and yield of 7.24 percent a week before.

Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc.'s long-term Treasury bond index closed Friday at 1,306.97, a gain of 5.61 points, or 0.43 percent.

The Fed funds rate, set on short-term lending of reserve funds between banks, ended slightly over the perceived target rate of 7.5 percent.

WASHINGTON (NOV. 30) UPI - A Louisiana center for people suffering from leprosy will also be used as a low-security prison for inmates needing long-term medical care, officials announced Friday.

The Gillis W. Long Hansen's Disease Center in Carville, La., will provide ''residential and clinical services to low-security federal prisoners in need of long-term medical care,'' said Health and Human Services Assistant Secretary for Health Dr. James O. Mason.

About half the center will be used by the Department of Justice to house about 200 prisoners, Mason said.

''This agreement will enable the center to maintain high-quality, cost-effective, long-term care for its declining patient population,'' Mason said. ''We will be able to support our commitment to Hansen's disease patients and to serve as an important health care need of another federal agency.''

The number of patients with Hansen's disease, which is the new name for leprosy, has dropped from 300 to 180 over the past five years, he said. They will continue to live on the 300-acre facility, he said.

''Advances in the diagnosis and treatment of Hansen's disease have resulted in a decrease in the center's patient load,'' Mason said. ''More than half of the facility's capacity would be unused if we were unable to share it with the Bureau of Prisons.''

In contrast, the number of low-security prisoners in need of chronic medical, psychiatric and nursing home care has increased significantly in recent years and is expected to grow even faster in the next five years, officials said.

''The Carville facility will provide much needed additional health care beds and services for the growing federal inmate population,'' said Dr. Kenneth Moritsugu, medical director for the federal prison system.

''This additional capacity will permit us to continue to meet our goal of providing quality health care consistent with community standards for the inmate population,'' he said.

The center, ''a world leader in Hansen's disease research,'' will continue its activities in this field but most of the research, rehabilitation and some clinical and training activities will be moved to a site in Baton Rouge, Mason said.

Leprosy is a bacterial infection that has been known since Biblical times and can cause severe disfiguration.

HARTFORD, Conn. (NOV. 30) UPI - More than 100 shouting, chanting protesters picketed three of America's largest insurance companies Friday, demanding medical coverage and better benefits for AIDS victims and those at risk.

Carrying signs and blowing whistles, the demonstrators accused the insurance industry of discriminating against homosexuals and others because of their jobs or lifestyles.

Organized by the new Hartford chapter of ACT UP, the AIDS Coalition To Unleash Power, the protesters marched to the headquarters of Aetna Life & Casualty Co. ITT Hartford Insurance Group and The Travelers Corp.

Chanting, ''Pay, pay pay,'' the group claimed insurance companies are refusing to pay for AIDS treatments and denying policies to ''suspect'' applicants, including hairdressers, dancers, artists, waiters and medical personnel.

''A person with AIDS, who may have paid insurance premiums regularly for years or even decades, suddenly finds herself or himself denied coverage for many treatments - even on matters of life or death,'' the group said in a statement.

The march was part of nationwide events planned over the weekend to observe World AIDS Day on Saturday and ACT UP said the protest hoped to focus attention on insurance practices.

Hartford is known as The Insurance City and along with its suburbs also is home to CIGNA Corp., Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co., Connecticut Mutual, and other insurance giants.

The protest began with a rally outside Aetna, which organizers praised for donating money to support AIDS projects in several cities.

The twilight march from the city's Asylum Hill section to downtown Hartford continued with stops outside the ITT Hartford complex and The Travelers before ending at City Hall to protest the government's handling of the AIDS crisis.

The demonstrators demanded uniform company standards and insurance payments for all prescribed AIDS treatments, including controversial and experimental drugs and methods.

Most of the protesters' anger, however, was directed at so-called redlining, which they claim results in denial of insurance and care to both homosexuals and heterosexuals, whose lifestyles are suspect to insurance companies.

Those groups also include health care professionals and volunteers who work with AIDS victims, ACT UP said.

(NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush says he wants to discuss the Persian Gulf crisis with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz some time during the week of December 10th in Washington, D-C. Bush also proposed that Secretary of State Baker meet with Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein some time between December 15th and January 15th.

There was NO immediate response to the Bush proposal from Iraq, but the president reported later that he got telephone calls praising the idea from Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Turkey and from the exiled emir of Kuwait.

Reaction to the Bush announced was swift and striking at the New York Mercantile Exchange, where oil prices plunge more than three dollars a barrel. At the same time, prices soared on the New York Stock Exchange.

Treasury Secretary Brady says reform of the nation's deposit insurance program for banks should be considered only as part of a larger overhaul of federal banking laws. He says reform must address what he termed ''the underlying structural problems of our system.''

A national poll released today in Lexington, Massachusetts, reports that one-half of all Americans are so worried about the economy that they believe a replay of the Great Depression is at least somewhat likely. The survey questioned 300 people across the nation between the ages of 18 and 64.

In Washington, the government reported that its index of leading indicators slipped one-point-two percent in October... the fourth consecutive monthly decline in the closely watched indicator of future economic activity.

ROANOKE, Va. (NOV. 30) UPI - Gov. L. Douglas Wilder refused Friday to appoint special counsel to represent Virginia Military Institute, apparently leaving the state's reluctant attorney general to defend the school's all-male admissions policy from a federal assault.

U.S. District Judge Jackson Kiser said Friday morning Attorney General Mary Sue Terry could withdraw from the sex discrimination case and let attorneys representing the VMI Foundation Inc. and the VMI Alumni Association Inc. take over - as long as Wilder appointed them as special counsel.

A few hours later, Wilder refused, calling the appointment of replacement counsel an ''unwarranted, additional state expense'' and turning back Terry's suggestion that she could not represent the school because Wilder considered the policy discriminatory.

Wilder also reminded Terry he had retained his own independent counsel in March and therefore no conflict existed.

Terry could not be reached for comment, but political analysts suggested Wilder's move was a political embarrassment for the attorney general, who hopes to succeed Wilder in 1993.

Terry had decided to withdraw from representing the school after Wilder announced his belief last week that VMI's 151-year-old admissions policy is discriminatory and should be abandoned.

Because of his public statements, Terry said Tuesday she had a conflict in carrying on with the lawsuit because Wilder is the chief operating officer of the state and represents the state's position.

Last January, the Justice Department responded to a complaint filed by a female Northern Virginia high school student by notifing the state it felt VMI was violating the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the U.S. Constitution. It ordered the school to admit women or face a lawsuit.

Terry and the VMI Foundation, a private fund-raising arm that controls a $100 million endowment, responded by filing suit in February asking the court to declare the school's admissions policy legal.

The Justice Department filed its promised lawsuit in March.

Terry had contended for months that VMI's all-male admissions policy was defensible as an important part of Virginia's educational diversity. She later dropped her suit, saying it simply duplicated the issues in the federal lawsuit.

Wilder remained mute on the issue until earlier this month when Kiser ruled the governor had to stay on as a defendant in the federal lawsuit. Wilder then broke his silence, saying he opposed the admissions policy, and even threatening to cut funding if VMI did not settle with the Justice Department.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - Stocks picked up ground this week, entirely reflecting gains chalked up in a full-blown Friday rally prompted by President Bush's statements on the Persian Gulf crisis.

The Dow Jones industrial average surged 40.84 Friday to end at 2559. 65, rising by 32.42, or 1.28 percent, on the week.

Among broader market indexes, Standard & Poor's 500-stock index and the New York Stock Exchange composite index both gained strongly, rising by 7.12 to 322.22 and by 3.67 to 176.06, respectively, on the week. Secondary markets scored similar impressive increases.

Advances led declines 1,251-651 among the 2,176 NYSE issues traded this week. Weekly Big Board volume totaled 757,693,840 shares, compared with 506,187,611 a week earlier and 802,871,600 shares a year ago.

The Dow industrials rose slightly Monday and Tuesday but fell a bit Wednesday and Thursday, leaving the market little changed. But Friday, which threatened to be another lackluster day, turned into a full-scale, broad-based rally after President Bush held out hope for a diplomatic solution to the Mideast crisis.

Bush, addressing the nation at about midday in the wake of Thursday's passage of a United Nations Security Council resolution authorizing the use of force to get Iraq out of Kuwait if Baghdad does not pull out by Jan. 15, proposed a high-level, face-to-face dialogue with Iraq in an effort to settle the Persian Gulf crisis without war.

Bush said he would ask Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to meet in Baghdad with Secretary of State James Baker and invited Iraq's foreign minister, Tariq Aziz to Washington to talk with him. But the president said he has had no signal the Iraqis would accept his offer.

The proposal, seen as a signal the U.S. still wants to seek a peaceful solution to the crisis, sent oil prices plunging more than $4 a barrel to less than $29, igniting the rally in stocks.

''All of a sudden, it was like everything was coming up roses,'' said Alfred Goldman, market strategist with A.G. Edwards & Sons Inc. in St. Louis. ''But I think that after correcting (going down) for two weeks the market was ready to go up.

''The excuse was the president's comments,'' he said, noting that the market's breadth - the ratio of advancing issues vs. declines ones - was positive and that ''top-quality motherhood stocks did very well and volume was up.''

Goldman said Friday's, and thus the week's, gains were fueled by money managers who stepped in and put their available cash to work.

''Institutions were nervous,'' said Goldman. ''And those who are still holding cash on the sidelines are not going to have an enjoyable weekend. They'll be in there buying Monday.''

Alan Ackerman, senior vice president at Gruntal & Co., saw Bush's comments as more than just an excuse in the market's rally.

''The prospects of war loomed high as the week began, but the chances for peace talks sparked the market higher as the week ended,'' he said. ''And the sharp drop in energy prices fueled the market. That was the real catalyst as the week ended.''

Ackerman said the sharply lower oil prices may prompt the Fed to lean toward lower interest rates when its policy-making arm meets in a few weeks - provided rates stay down.

''But if either Bush or Hussein refuse to blink, and if we see a confrontation oil prices will shoot back up,'' he warned.

On the trading floor this week, Philip Morris was the most active issue, up 1/2 to 48 5/8.

MCA followed, up 5/8 to 66 in a week that saw the entertainment giant reach agreement to be bought by Japan's Matsushita Electric for more than $6 billion. Texas Utilities was third, up 3/4 to 37 1/2.

Among the blue chips, IBM rose 1 to 113 5/8, American Express was ahead 3/4 to 20 1/2 and General Electric gained 1 1/8 to 54 3/4, but General Motors fell 3/4 to 36 1/2. AT&T was unchanged at 32 1/8.

GM said Thursday it will further slash fourth-quarter production schedules because of both the lingering Mideast crisis and a drop in consumer confidence paving the way for a possible quarterly loss. Auto industry analysts said the latest cuts mean the No. 1 U.S. automaker is bracing for a severe drop in U.S. vehicle sales in the near term.

Elsewhere, Motorola plunged 2 1/2 to 50 1/2 after a big loss Friday. Analysts were said to cut 1991 earnings estimates after a meeting with the Illinois-based company's management Thursday.

On the American Stock Exchange, the Amex Market Value index rose 5.79 to close Friday at 301.79. Advances led declines 457-342 among the 1,007 issues traded.

Amex volume totaled 60,448,405 shares, compared with 37,218,035 traded a week earlier and 61,833,995 traded in the same week a year ago.

Energy Service led the Amex actives, unchanged at 2 3/8.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index added 9.98 to end the week at 359.02.

DETROIT (NOV. 30) UPI - The Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association said Friday it has petitioned the government's safety agency to amend the proposed federal standard for side impact protection.

In announcing the petition for reconsideration of the proposed amendments to the federal motor vehicle safety standard, Thomas H. Hanna, the trade group's president, said ''our member companies agree with the purpose, intent and substance'' of the proposed standards.

But the association urged the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to amend its rules to include several testing procedures and the use of credits for those automakers who exceed the phase-in schedules of the side impact rules.

Last month, the agency proposed final standards to phase in side impact crash standards for passenger cars over a four-year period beginning Sept. 1, 1993, the kickoff of the 1994-model year. Side impact standards for light trucks are still under review, NHTSA spokesman Tim Hurd said.

The association's petition is ''under review,'' Hurd said, adding NHTSA gives itself 120 days to consider all petitions.

The association is seeking assurances that should a vehicle flunk the crash test, there will be enough information available to make sure the test was conducted properly. The group proposes the crash vehicle and barrier be kept for a period of time for post-crash review.

The association also said variations in test dummy position can significantly affect test dummy responses in all forms of crashes, including side impacts, and urged NHTSA to specify a more precise location for the dummy and tighten the allowable range of calibrations for the test dummy to minimize test-to-test variability.

The association also is urging a provision be included to allow ''carry-forward'' credits for carmakers who comply in advance of the phase-in period. This would allow manufacturers to adjust their production based on market demand and encourage earlier public availability of complying vehicles.

Nearly 32 percent of passenger car deaths result from side impact collisions, the trade association said.

''These fatalities are a major concern to the automobile manufacturers,'' Hanna said.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (NOV. 30) UPI - Butler Manufacturing Co. said Friday it has made an additional $6 million prepayment on $118.3 million in debt incurred in August 1989 to finance the payment of a $20-a-share special dividend.

The latest optional payment brings total payments to $59.8 million, said Butler Chairman Robert H. West.

Long-term debt as a percent of total capitalization is at 60 percent, down from 78 percent when the special dividend was issued about 18 months ago, the company said.

''We are especially pleased to have paid down over half of this borrowing and improved our balance sheet so materially at a time when we are entering a recessionary economic environment for nonresidential construction,'' West said.

Butler is a supplier of building systems, specialty components, and construction services for the nonresidential construction market.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - Law enforcement officials warned five prominent New Yorkers their names were found on a list kept by the man accused of killing radical Zionist Meir Kahane, one of the people on the list said Friday.

Rep. Gary Ackerman, D-N.Y., two federal judges, a former assistant U. S.

attorney, a columnist for the weekly Jewish Press, and a sixth unidentified person were on the list.

Ackerman, whose picture and name were found among the personal belongings of El Sayyd Nosair, said Friday four of the people named were involved in the extradition from Venezuela through Brooklyn of terrorist suspect Abdul Atta, a Moslem clerk linked to a terrorist group.

Ackerman said the name of a sixth person who was not identified but had been involved in the extradition also was on the list.

Neither police nor the FBI would comment on the list.

The list was found during a search of Nosair's home in Cliffside Park, N.J.

Ackerman said he was notified about the list in the days following Kahane's assassination. ''The FBI wanted to know of any connections I might have to Kahane or Nosair,'' the congressman said.

''I certainly wasn't a fan or supporter of Kahane, but I had been outspoken about the hateful and less than helpful things he had to say,'' Ackerman said, adding that he had no contacts ever with Nosair.

FBI officials have said they believe Nosair acted alone when he allegedly gunned down Kahane during a Nov. 5 conference in New York City and were still trying to determine if he was backed by a terrorist group.

New York police Capt. Steve Davis said police are conducting a homicide investigation into Kahane's death and not concentrating on terrorist links.

Ackerman said his picture had been cut from an article in New York Newsday last year concerning the extradition of another Israeli terrorist accused of torturing and killing a kidnapped Marine that was found in Nosair's home.

''The FBI said they hate to use the term 'hit list,' so we don't use it,'' Ackerman said. ''I'm sure the guy kept neither a Christmas nor a Hanukkah list but he had the list for a purpose, I would think.''

New York Newsday Friday quoted law enforcement officials as saying the list strengthens the theory that the killing of the militant, right- wing politician and founder of the militant Jewish Defense League, might be part of a conspiracy against Jewish Americans.

Investigators found the names of Ackerman, U.S. District Court judges Jack B. Weinstein and Edward Korman, former Assistant U.S. Attorney Jacques Simmelman, and Howard Adelman, a columnist in the Jewish Press, scrawled on a bank calendar.

Korman said he had no comment on the report, but the other three were unavailable for comment Friday.

Ackerman said federal law enforcement agencies urged the six people on the list to take added security measures.

NEW YORK (NOV. 30) UPI - Moody's Investors Service said Friday it lowered the senior debt ratings of Fleet/Norstar Financial Group Inc. to ''Baa2'' from ''Baa1'' and the bank holding company's commercial paper rating to ''Prime-3'' from ''Prime-2.''

The downgrades covered about $4.4 billion of debt, according to Moody's.

The short- and long-term ratings of the company's lead bank, Fleet National Bank in Rhode Island, for desposit obligations was also lowered, to ''A3'' from ''A2'' and to ''Prime-2'' from ''Prime-1,'' respectively.

The credit-rating agency noted Fleet/Norstar's ''increasing trend in non-performing assets, albeit at a more moderate rate than its New England peers.''

This trend is likely to lead to ''sustained earnings pressure,'' Moody's said.

Moody's said that it expects additional write-downs to reflect the continued lack of liquidity in the real estate markets and that the effects of a recession in the northeastern region of the country are expected to place stress on the company's Norstar banking subsidiaries in New York.

However, the rating agency also noted several positive factors, such as Fleet/Norstar's ''solid'' capital base and the company's strong non- banking subsidiaries, such as its mortgage banking and consumer finance operations.

(NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush says he wants to make sure that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein understands that he is completely serious about Iraq getting out of Kuwait. And to that end, Bush is inviting the Iraqi foreign minister to Washington for talks on the crisis. And he called on Saddam to meet with Secretary of State Baker in Baghdad some time between December 15th and January 15th.

There was a swift and favorable reaction to the Bush announcement, even from staunch critics of U-S policy in the Persian Gulf. The only Arab state to openly side with Iraq, Yemen, said through its U-N ambassador that the Bush invitation to face-to-face talks was ''the best news we have had in a long time.'' Long-time U-S foe Libya even had warm words for the idea.

The reaction to the Bush announcement was striking on Wall Street and at the New York Mercantile Exchange, where oil prices plunged more than three dollars a barrel in the moments after the White House meeting with reporters. On Wall Street, stock prices soared, with the blue-chip Dow Jones industrials average jumping 40 points.

As expected today, President Bush made a double-barrelled announcement at the White House. He named outgoing Florida Governor Bob Martinez to replace William Bennett as director of the nation's anti- drug fight. And Bush picked Bennett to head the Republican National Committee. The Martinez appointment drew almost immediate fire from some members of Congress. A Republican, Martinez lost his bid for re-election last month to Democrat Lawton Chiles. Bennett will replace Lee Atwater as G-O-P chief. Atwater- battling a brain tumor for the past year- is moving to the newly created post of general chairman.

A top British civil servant says the unaccompanied suitcase that contained the bomb that destroyed Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland, would have been spotted if British security rules had been observed. ANCHORAGE, Alaska (NOV. 30) UPI - An oil company executive was appointed Friday as Alaska Commissioner of Natural Resources, responsible for development in the country's largest oil-producing state.

Gov.-elect Walter Hickel appointed Harold Heinze, who said he was still severing his ties with Atlantic Richfield Co., to take charge of resource development in Alaska, where Arco is the largest employer and a major oil producer. ARCO and British Petroleum operate Prudhoe Bay, North America's biggest oil field.

Heinze, a resident of Los Angeles, where ARCO is headquarted, was a vice president of the company and served as president of ARCO Alaska Inc. from 1983 to 1987 and ARCO Transportation Co. from 1987 until last summer when he left the company under uncertain circumstances.

During his ARCO tenure in Alaska, Heinze was a strong pro-development voice who also campaigned for lower oil taxes.

''There's a possibility that the fox will be in charge of the henhouse,'' said Cliff Eames of the Alaska Center for the Environment. ''He brings a general bias in favor of development rather than protection.''

To that, Heinze said, ''I want to be judged by what I do.''

Although resource development - oil, natural gas, minerals, timber - is the most visible part of the Department Natural Resources, the agency also includes a parks division and has a mix of responsibilities, like the federal Interior Department.

But at a news conference, Heinze spoke only of resource development as being important for the state's economic well-being.

Alaska produces 2 million barrels of crude oil daily, more than one- fourth of nation's domestic supply. Alaska also possesses the last great expanses of wilderness in the country.

Hickel, elected on the Alaskan Independence Party ticket, takes office Monday. Last month he defeated the Democratic and Republican candidates for governor, thanks to pro-development and conservative support. ARCO and BP supported Hickel's Republican opponent, who finished third.

Heinze, 48, who has attacked environmentalists in the past and toyed with the notion of wild projects, such as an ice road over the North Pole to Europe, said he would emphasize the wise use of state lands and that lands should be used for the highest public benefit.

Eames called the appointment ''a disappointment'' and said, ''He doesn't care as much about the stewardship of Alaska lands as making them available for exploitation.''

But Heinze left as president of ARCO Transportation in July under a management shakeup that had some political observers wondering whether he might be less than friendly to his old employer.

Heinze referred to his departure as ''a separation'' that was still unfolding while he divested himself of stock and options that came with the job.

ARCO spokesman Al Greenstein said from Los Angeles that Heinze took early retirement ''to pursue other interests.''

''That's a very personal question,'' Heinze said in response to reporters seeking to learn the circumstances surrounding his departure from ARCO. Heinze revealed only that company officials told him he was not in competition for a promotion to head the company and ''they offered me the opportunity, while I was 48, to move on to something else.''

Heinze, like other company officers, was being groomed and tested for possible promotion, but when the company informed him that he was out of the running, Heinze said he left.

(NOV. 30) UPI - Stock prices soared, oil price plunged and favorable reaction flowed in from around the world to the proposal by President Bush for face-to-face talks with Iraq. Bush says he is inviting Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz to the White House some time in the week of December 10th. And he says he is asking Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to meet with Secretary of State Baker in Baghdad some time between December 15th and January 15th.

Bush also revealed at his White House briefing for reporters that Iraqis had delivered some supplies to the American Embassy in Kuwait, which has been cut off since shortly after the Iraqi invasion and occupation. Bush also told reporters today that there will be NO deals with Iraq in the face-to-face talks... that the Iraqis still must abide by U-N Security Council resolutions. Bush says the American objectives remain the same... an unconditional Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait... restoration of the Kuwaiti government, and release of all foreign hostages in Kuwait and Iraq.

The Chinese foreign minister made his first official visit to Washington, D-C, today since the crushing of the pro-democracy movement last year. And President Bush glossed over the human rights issue in his meeting with Foreign Minister Qian Qichen, concentrating instead on the common opposition to Iraqi aggression in Kuwait.

A new constitution took effect in Mozambique today, ending 15 years of Marxist rule. The new constitution also lays the groundwork for the first multi-party elections. As the new constitution went into effect, the nation's officials called on right-wing guerrillas to join the political mainstream.

France says its troops in the eastern regional capital of Chad stayed out of fighting in the city, which has been seized by Libyan-backed rebels. Government forces reportedly were driven 60 miles out of the city on the road toward the capital city. A French government spokesman says the French troops are NOT to get involved in the Chadian civil war.

What if you gave a party and everybody attended twice? Jim Stimpfle of Nome, Alaska, is looking for people who want to do exactly that this New Year's Eve... thanks to a pair of Soviet and U-S cities that are 230 miles apart but nearly a full day apart on the clock. Provideniya is on the east coast of the Soviet Union and is the first place on Earth to celebrate New Year's Eve. Nome is the latest place on Earth to celebrate New Year's Eve. Stimpfle says you could fly from Nome on December 30th, arrive in Provideniya the morning of December 31st to celebrate. The next morning, New Year's Day in Provideniya, fly back to Nome, arriving early on New Year's Eve to celebrate all over again.

Police in Canada say they are hunting for a trio of young women who allegedly sexually assaulted a man at gunpoint. Sergeant Paul Deaves says the suspects reportedly offered the 27-year-old victim a ride in the town of Guelph, 50 miles west of Toronto. The man says the women drove him to a secluded area... produced a handgun and ''made certain sexual demands.'' In Canada, the charge of sexual assault covers a broad range of actions from touching someone in a sexual way to intercourse. Police say ''sexual intercourse was never achieved'' or attempted in this case.

(NOV. 30) UPI - President Bush says he'll ask Saddam Hussein to agree to high level meetings in Baghdad and Washington in an effort to resolve the Persian Gulf crisis peacefully. Earlier today, the Iraqi president rejected the U-N resolution that permits the U-S-led multi- national force to use ''any means'' to oust Iraqi troops from Kuwait if they have NOT withdrawn by January 15th.

American motorists have been shelling out more cash at the gasoline pumps, but there may be some comfort in the price of heating your home. BRASILIA (DEC. 1) - U.S. President George Bush arrives here for a 24-hour visit Monday that Brazil hopes will help break a stalemate in negotiations on rescheduling its huge foreign debt and lower U.S. limits on technology transfers.

Both issues have caused tension between the two countries, despite greatly improved relations since free-market advocate Fernando Collor de Mello became president in March and imposed wide-ranging economic reforms.

Brazil is the first stop of a five-nation South American tour that will also take Bush to Uruguay, Argentina, Chile and Venezuela for talks expected to focus on foreign debt and U.S. investment in the region.

Brazilian Foreign Minister Franciso Rezek set the stage for Bush's visit by saying Thursday that he hoped "the U.S. Government will show some understanding towards our effort" at meeting obligations on Brazil's 119-billion-dollar foreign debt.

But Bush on Friday dampened those hopes somewhat in telling a group of Latin American journalists that a settlement to Brazil's foreign debt should be consistent with current international debt strategy.

Brazil stopped paying interest on its foreign debt in mid-1989 and private banks -- many of them American -- are demanding that at least a third of the 8.5-billion-dollar arrears owed to them be paid prior to any restructuring of the 51-billion-dollar private segment of the foreign debt.

Brazil says that paying more than 900 million dollars this year would jeopardize its economic reform program and has requested that outstanding interest be included in debt renegotiations, linking repayment schemes to budget surpluses here.

By settling its foreign debt problems with the United States, Brazil hopes to reactivate its request for a two-billion-dollar loan from the International Monetary Fund.

Officials said Collor de Mello would also urge Bush's to ease U.S. restrictions on high technology exports to Brazil.

He will boslter his case by pointing to the treaty signed this week with Argentina banning development of nuclear arms as proof that Washington is wrong to fear that high-tech imports might be used to build such weapons.

Finally, both leaders are likely to exchange strategies for the upcoming, final meeting in Brussels of the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, where both hope to press the Europeans to slash farm subsisides.

WARSAW (DEC. 1) - Stanislaw Tyminski, the emigre millionaire running against Lech Walesa for the Polish presidency, revealed Saturday that he had received backing from former senior officers in the political police.

Tyminski, 42, made the admission at a joint news conference with Walesa shown on television.

When Polish journalists named several colonels in the disbanded police force as sitting on his electoral committees, Tyminski said: "Tens of thousands of people support me, I'm not interested in their past."

In last Sunday's first round of presidential elections, Tyminski received an unexpectedly high 23 per cent of the vote, to Prime Minister's Tadeusz Mazowiecki's 18 percent. Walesa, head of the Solidarity trade union, came in first with 40 percent.

The two face a run-off on Dec. 9.

JOHANNESBURG (DEC. 1) - Nelson Mandela's African National Congress (ANC) is in possession of a video which shows police actively collaborating with Zulus in attacking black civilians, the Johannesburg Sunday Times said.

The newspaper reproduced stills from the video, shot last Monday, which showed a man with a red bandana leaping from a police armoured vehicle and joining a group of heavily armed men.

The war party then went toward the Zonkezizwe squatter camp, east of Johannesburg, where fighting has claimed 71 lives in the past three weeks.

The ANC has used the video, shot by an unnamed cameraman, to support its claims that elements of the police have actively assisted members of Zulu leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi's Inkatha Freedom Party in violence which has swept black townships here since August.

Over 800 people have died in the violence, which pits Inkatha members, identified by red headbands, against ANC supporters.

The ANC has repeatedly claimed police fuel the violence. Mandela has warned the issue is jeopardising talks aimed at removing obstacles to constitutional negotiations.

A spokesman for Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok confirmed that Mandela contacted Vlok on Monday to tell him of the video. He was, however, not immediately able to give a police version of the incident.

Calling on the ANC to hand over the video so the matter could be investigated, Brig. Mellett added: "We maintain that it is official police policy not to choose sides in any unrest or violent situation."

Inkatha did not immediately comment.

The video begins by showing a group of about 250 armed men and women, most of them wearing red headbands, fashioning crude but deadly weapons out of pieces of iron, the report said.

While working they are singing Zulu songs like: "Mandela, get off the road! Usuthu Buthelezi is coming", and "Gatsha Buthelezi is ours! The country is ours!"

The police vehicle comes into view and stops near the group. The rear hatch opens and three men emerge.

One, with a distinctive red headband and a long sharp stick, dances toward the impi (war party). Soon afterwards he is seen leading the impi in the direction of the squatter camp. He is still carrying his stick and is closely followed by the group brandishing their weapons, axes and hammers.

On Thursday, Vlok imposed a 9 p.m. to 4 a.m. curfew on Zonkezizwe, which has a population of more than 80,000. Vlok said the measure was aimed at hooligans and criminals who preyed on law-abiding citizens.

ROME (DEC. 1) - Mozambican government representatives and RENAMO rebels negotiating here reached agreement here Saturday about the "presence and role of Zimbabwean military forces" in their country, both sides said.

Details of the accord about the Zimbabwean troops were not immediately forthcoming, but the two sides said in a statement that it concerned their status "during the period leading up to a ceasefire proclamation".

Zimbabwean troops are stationed in Mozambique, notably along key rail routes from the coast, to back the Mozambican military against attack by the rebels of the Mozambique National Resistance (RENAMO).

Saturday's agreement was the first to be announced in the course of talks taking place here, on and off, in the presence of Italian government representatives since July.

The talks have been sponsored by the Sant'Egidio Roman Catholic community.

LUSAKA (DEC. 1) - Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda charged Saturday that the opposition Movement for Multi-party Democracy (MMD) had asked Angolan rebel leader Jonas Savimbi to attack Zambia from the west if the ruling United National Independence Party (UNIP) wins next year's elections.

The opposition grouping was also trying to foment a coup d'etat by Zambia's military, he added.

Kaunda, speaking at a UNIP rally in the Copperbelt town of Kitwe, said he had asked Angolan President Eduardo dos Santos for permission to meet Savimbi in a bid to dissuade him from giving the MMD the requested help.

"I hope my brother president Santos will see sense and permit me to meet Savimbi so that I stop him from succumbing to this evil plan," he said.

The MMD has approached him to attack us from the western part of the country."

The president said the opposition movement had bribed several army officers to organize a coup and kill him if the movement failed to win next year's multi-party elections.

He said former army lieutenant Mwamba Luchembe, who seized a radio station in June and announced that the army had taken power, "has been sent to the barracks to organise another coup," adding that "money from the MMD is pouring into the army, bribing and corrupting our soldiers to conduct another coup."

"They have even said they will kill me, but I am not afraid even if they did because those who rise by the sword die by the sword," he said, alluding to the death of president Samuel Doe in Liberia's civil war.

The MMD, formed last July, is the main opposition group planning to challenge Kaunda's UNIP in the elections.

Reacting to heavy pressure and popularity of the MMD, Kaunda called in September for a change in the constitution to allow the re-introduction of plural politics abandoned 17 years ago.

BERLIN (DEC. 1) - Berlin voters on Sunday will choose their city's first single council in 44 years, in what promises to be the most exciting race on Germany's election day.

The prize: control over the country's showcase and the prestige of running its unified capital, if not yet its seat of government.

But whoever takes over the reins in this city of four million may find they have grasped a bouquet of thorns instead.

After the scenes of joy that accompanied the Oct. 3 unification of Germany, Berlin has been prey to a railway strike, rising social tension and a pitched battle between police and leftwing squatters.

The violence proved to be the final straw for the city's governing coalition, as the Greens quit in protest at what they considered the use of excessive force by the Social Democrats.

Voters will be called to vote for a single council and also select members to the Bundestag, the federal parliament.

The welding of East and West Berlin will also end the city's neutered status in the power structure. It will constitute a single Land, or regional state, that will have equal powers with the 16 other Laender in the federal structure.

In many respects, the problems of Berlin are a microcosm of the problems and tensions facing Germany after it finally overcame its postwar division.

It has extremes of poverty and wealth and hopes and frustrations within a few square kilometers (miles). East Berliners are facing massive unemployment, which could soar from 40,000 to 300,000 in the next six months, as well as rising rents and energy bills.

West Berliners, meanwhile, are showing increasing signs of irritation at the inconvenient aspects of life after the opening of the Wall: rising crime, traffic jams and the bill for supporting the East.

Many fret about tax increases, as the government is to start slimming the fat subsidies that allowed West Berlin to survive in a hostile sea of Communism.

Opinion polls say Sunday's race could go to anyone. Neither the Social Democratic Party (SPD) nor the Christian Democratic Union (CDU) will get an absolute majority, they say.

That means the battle will be decided by any of the three minor groups: the Free Democratic Party (FDP), which is already in coalition with the CDU in Bonn, the Greens, or the far-right Republican Party, which triggered shockwaves in the city's last election, in June 1989, by picking up 7.5 percent of the vote.

But another factor could be the once-ruling Communist Party of East Germany, which considers East Berlin its stronghold. Reformed and rebaptised the Party of Democratic Socialism (PDS), the party picked up 30 percent in the May municipal elections in the eastern sector.

The election campaign has been fought with a bitterness rarely seen elsewhere in Germany.

The SPD, which controls the police and justice ministry, has made repeated attacks on the Communists, accusing them of carrying out sham reforms of their party that have masked widespread financial scandals.

The CDU, meanwhile, has slammed the former city government as being responsible for "Red-Green chaos" that threatens the public safety.

But such is the animosity between the SPD and the Greens and the Communists that a grand alliance of Christian Democrats and Social Democrats is not to be ruled out, observers say.

LONDON (DEC. 1) - After a political crisis that lasted over two weeks and saw the downfall of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, the people of Britain are impatient to see real changes under her successor, John Major.

Major enjoys only a narrow margin of maneuver in his double mission of reuniting his divided party and pulling his country out of recession before general elections that must be held by July 1992.

The new prime minister, at 47 the youngest that Britain has had this century, is well aware that the main battleground will be the economy and his management of social problems.

To repair the political damage wrought by the introduction last year of an unpopular new local tax, the poll tax, he appointed his main adversary in the election for the Conservative Party leadership, Michael Heseltine, as environment secretary in charge of determining whether the tax should be scrapped.

Heseltine had openly criticized the tax.

Major's government is expected to carry out an in-depth revision of the hated tax, which is levied on persons instead of property, without abolishing it altogether. But the government has not yet made its intentions known.

The new prime minister has also promised reforms in the fields of health and education, at a time when one million people are awaiting operations in hospitals and there is a serious shortage of teachers in the schools.

But his main challenge will be the anti-inflation fight he had already started to tackle as chancellor of the exchequer. Major is attempting to bring the current 10.9 percent rate down under the European average of 6.3 percent.

This is seen as the key to a Conservative election victory, with millions of Britons who bought their council houses in the 1980s now struggling to pay off 14.5 percent mortgages.

Major's aim is to pare inflation to 5.5 percent by the end of next year but, as he remarked in front of his 10 Downing Street residence and office: "I can't promise you that this will be quick or easy."

While Major also attempted to reassure Britain's allies in the European Economic Community of his country's desire to play a leading role rather than criticizing from the sidelines, he made clear once again his opposition to a federal Europe and a single EEC currency.

One thing seems clear: Major was no longer prepared to go along with the autocratic style of Thatcher, as he set himself up as a man of dialogue who would consult his cabinet fully before making decisions.

Thatcher paid dearly for having appeared to impose her views against those of her ministers. In a resignation speech, the deputy prime minister, Sir Geoffrey Howe opened the way for Heseltine's challenge and Thatcher's subsequent resignation under pressure when she failed to win enough votes to retain her leadership in the first round of voting.

The opposition Labour Party, which had seen Thatcher's growing unpopularity as one of its major trumps, has become disillusioned with the election of Major to take over from her.

Labour's new slogan, "Major is Thatcherism without Thatcher", has not convinced an electorate which, according to opinion polls, is planning on handing the Tories another victory in the next elections.

LENINGRAD, SOVIET UNION (DEC. 1) - For the first time since 1947, this former Czarist capital returns to ration coupons Saturday in an attempt fairly to distribute ever-scarcer foods.

The measure, coming at a time of growing shortages around the country, has been popular here: residents expect it will provide them with a minimum of food, something they have often been unable to secure.

"I hope I won't have to spend so long shopping," said a mother of two waiting one recent morning in front of a butcher shop. "I just hope there will be enough food to cover the coupons."

The ration books are good, added another shopper. "For the last few months, it's been impossible to buy anything without standing in endless queues."

Since last Wednesday, documented Leningrad residents have received a booklet with coupons for the seven essential goods a person is entitled to each month: 1.5 kilogram (three and a half pounds) of fresh meat, one kilogram (2.2 pounds) of processed meat, a pound of butter, and small amounts of oil, wheat, pasta and cereal. ' For a woman named Masha, the coupons brought back memories of the siege of this city by German forces between 1941 and 1943, in which a million people had starved to death by the time she turned 15.

"This is a far cry from the German blockade," she said. "The people can take a lot more."

A man named Stanislaw disagreed. "People are scared because they remember the blockade," he said. "Even the young people are scared, because they've heard a lot about it."

The ration books are particularly popular with those on low, fixed incomes who have found the state stores increasingly bare as perestroika -- reconstruction -- has led to the breakup of traditional distribution channels.

(DEC. 1) UPI - A spokesman at the Iraqi Embassy in Washington says officials in Baghdad are considering President Bush's offer to hold face-to-face talks on the crisis in the Persian Gulf. The spokesman says Iraqi officials may have an answer for Bush by Saturday. Bush Friday proposed talks as a final way to avoid war.

(DEC. 1) UPI - The Philadelphia Flyers, who missed the NHL playoffs last season for the first time in 18 years, apparently did not enjoy the experience.

Philadelphia extended its unbeaten streak to six games Friday night with a 5-1 victory over the New York Rangers and posted their 17th victory of the season, tied with Chicago for most in the league.

The triumph improved the Flyers' record in November to 11-4-2, the best in the league, and moved them within one point (37-36) of the first-place Rangers in the Patrick Division.

''I don't know if we (sent them a message),'' Philadelphia Coach Paul Holmgren said. ''They're still a good team. The goals just went in for us tonight.''

Rich Tocchet scored twice, giving him 20 for the season, and goaltender Pete Peeters stopped 34 shots as the Flyers improved to 5-0-1 in their last six outings.

Philadelphia got off to a quick start against the Rangers, outshooting them

18-8 in the first period and taking a 1-0 lead on a goal by Murray Craven.

Tocchet gave the Flyers a 2-0 lead in the second period but Troy Mallette brought the Rangers within 2-1 with 40 seconds left in the second period.

Philadelphia did not let that goal disrupt its momentum and scored three times in the final period for the victory, even though New York had a 19-8 advantage in shots.

''Peeters was really outstanding and he broke our backs,'' New York Coach Roger Neilson said. ''Our best period was the third and we lost it 3-0.''

Tocchet, who is second in the league in goals scored, said the victory was a convincing one.

''I think we outplayed them, no question,'' he said. ''We outskated them, we outscored them and we had better goaltending. If not for (Rangers goalie John) Vanbiesbrouck, we would have had more goals.''

Vanbiesbrouck made a number of difficult saves but finally succumbed to the Flyers' onslaught.

''They've always had a tough work ethic,'' Vanbiesbrouck said. ''It's always tough to win in the Spectrum. Every team in the league knows it. What can you say? You come in and try to work hard and you get outworked. It's as simple as that.''

In other games Friday night, New Jersey tied the New York Islanders 5-5, Montreal defeated Washington 4-3 and Minnesota topped Winnipeg 4-2.

Devils 5, Islanders 5

At East Rutherford, N.J., Doug Brown scored a short-handed goal with just 2:50 remaining in the third period to give New Jersey a tie. The Devils came back from a pair of two-goal deficits to move into third place, one point ahead of Washington, in the Patrick Division.

Canadiens 4, Capitals 3

At Landover, Md., rookie Andrew Cassels scored with 5:33 left to break a 3-3 for Montreal. Cassel's goal spoiled the return of Washington goalie Don Beaupre, who missed 12 games with a groin injury. The Canadiens moved within three points of first-place Boston in the Adams Division.

North Stars 4, Jets 2

At Winnipeg, defenseman Mark Tinordi set up second-period goals by Doug Smail and Ilkka Sinisalo, the 200th of his career, to lead Minnesota. Smail was playing his first game in Winnipeg since being traded to Minnesota for Don Barber on Nov. 7.

ST. PETERSBURG, FL (DEC. 1) UPI - The knockout power of Andre Agassi and the counter-punching of Michael Chang combined Friday night to leave a battered Australian Davis Cup team looking to 1939 for inspiration.

The United States grabbed a 2-0 lead over Australia in the best-of- five Davis Cup final, moving the United States within one victory of its first title since 1982.

After Agassi rallied to beat Davis Cup rookie Richard Fromberg in five exhilirating sets, Chang methodically downed serve-and-volley specialist Darren Cahill 6-2, 7-6 (7-4), 6-0.

Agassi, weakened by a flu bug that sapped his strength and appetite, broke Fromberg's huge serve three times in the fifth set to barely avoid a major upset with a 4-6, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 triumph. The United States can clinch Saturday if the doubles team of Jim Pugh and Rick Leach beats Australia's Pat Cash and John Fitzgerald.

The competition concludes Sunday with a pair of reverse singles matches as Chang meets Fromberg and Agassi faces Cahill. Those matches may be shortened to best-of-three sets if the American doubles team wins its best-of-five competition.

''It would be nice to close this out in three, otherwise I'm gonna lose another night's sleep,'' said Chang, whose 79 percent first-serve rate helped keep Cahill off the net. ''It's gonna be a tough match for us tomorrow against Cash and Fitzgerald.''

The last successful comeback from an 0-2 deficit in a Davis Cup final was staged by the 1939 Australian team against the United States.

Chang, whose rally from an 0-2 deficit against Austria's Horst Skoff two months ago lifted the Americans into the finals, frustrated Cahill with a dazzling array of passing shots. Cahill was successful on just 31 of 65 approaches to the net while Chang came in 22 times and won 12 points at the net.

After breezing through the opening set, Chang trailed 5-6 and faced set point before forcing a tie-breaker. Two backhand passing shots down the line past a flat-footed Cahill put Chang up two sets before a crowd of 17,994 at the new Florida Suncoast Dome.

Cahill appeared dispirited in the third set as Chang became the aggressor and even took the net away instead of patrolling from his usual spot along the baseline. Chang ended the match with a crosscourt, two-handed backhand winner.

In the opening match, an undernourished Agassi stayed hungry to atone for a dismal career record in five-setters.

''I knew there was something wrong with my system and maybe I should have told (U.S. coach) Tom Gorman to use someone else,'' Agassi said. ''To pull out a match like that, in such an intense environment, is something I'm pretty proud of. I don't think there's enough time to say how important the Davis Cup is and getting the championship back here.''

The first Davis Cup final between the United States and Australia since 1973 nearly opened on a discouraging note for the Americans as Fromberg, ranked 32nd in the ATP computer, made his Cup debut by winning two of the first three sets against the No. 4 player in the world. Agassi, who went three days without solid food earlier this week, then relied on some of the most powerful groundstrokes in tennis and capitalized on Fromberg's erratic first serve.

''I thought Andre played the best he could play and I was quite pleased with the way I played,'' Fromberg said. ''I think he started to play more aggressively in the final two sets, going after my second serve.''

The United States leads all nations with 28 Davis Cup titles while Australia is second with 26. The Americans have won 23 of 41 previous matchups against the Aussies, who can win their third world title in eight years.

''I thought the opener was a fantastic match,'' said Australia captain Neale Fraser. ''Frommy did us proud. We've got a job in front of us now. We'll just worry about the doubles and take it from there.''

In the opener, a subdued crowd watched two baseliners slug it out on a slow red clay surface that prompted vigorous protests last month from the Australian contingent. Fraser argued the red clay violated Davis Cup regulations that stipulate a surface ''in general use'' in the host country.

Displaying few of the court antics that endeared him to fans while annoying tennis traditionalists, Agassi broke Fromberg in the first, fifth and seventh games to go up 5-2 in the decisive set. Fromberg rattled off eight consecutive points to pull within 5-4, but Agassi clinched the 3-hour, 36-minute match with a forehand winner down the line.

Agassi, 2-5 in five-set matches for his career, forced a fifth set by breaking his 6-foot-3 opponent in the first and seventh games of the fourth set. After going ahead 4-2, Agassi hit a running forehand and a two-fisted backhander for winners to break Fromberg before serving out the set.

Fromberg registered 15 aces to two for Agassi, but his first-serve success was just 49 percent overall and he lost nine of 13 points on his second serve in the final set.

PANMUNJOM, KOREA (DEC. 1) UPI - South and North Korean officials held another meeting Saturday but failed to prepare a draft accord to be adopted at the coming round of inter-Korea prime ministers talks scheduled for next month.

Three officials from each side met at the truce village of Panmunjom 35 miles north of Seoul but could not narrow their differences.

The meeting was the latest in a series of contacts designed to draft an agreement to be signed by the two prime ministers - Kang Young-hoon for the South and Yon Hyong-muk for the North - when they meet in Seoul Dec. 11-14.

The South renewed its proposal that the two sides adopt a basic agreement for improvement of relations, Once it is signed, two separate committees may be formed to discuss exchanges and a non-aggression declaration, the South said.

The North did not agree and persisted in its demand that a nonaggression declaration be signed first, though there may be parallel discussions on exchanges and cooperation.

Following the contact, chief Seoul delegate Lee Byung-ryong told reporters that basic differences prevented a constructive result.

''They raised irrelevant issues for political propaganda, which made us doubt their sincerity,'' Lee said.

Paek Nam-jun, the North Korean delegation chief, said at a news conference the basic agreement as proposed by the South was not even an agenda item of the prime minister talks. He said the stalemate could affect the next meeting between Kang and Yon.

The unprecedented inter-Korea prime ministers talks opened in Seoul in September. A second round was held in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang in October.

(DEC. 1) UPI - Detroit coach Chuck Daly has seen his Pistons win two NBA titles, but he says the team continues to provide him with surprises.

The Pistons stunned the eighth-year Detroit coach Friday night by stretching their winning streak to 10 games with a come-from-behind 96- 94 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

''They still surprise me,'' Daly said after Detroit rallied from an 18-point deficit. ''To have a streak like this and still be competitive.

''Tonight, all we could do was hope. Obviously, we were very fortunate to win.''

Detroit, 13-2, has not lost since Nov. 9 against Portland and is off to its best start in club history.

Center Bill Laimbeer, who earlier in the day was fined $2,000 by the NBA for an altercation Tuesday with Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins, sank one of two free throws with 22 seconds remaining to give Detroit the triumph. Vinnie Johnson added a free throw with a second left to seal the win.

Philadelphia, 10-6, played the decisive fourth quarter without Charles Barkley who was ejected for elbowing Dennis Rodman in the face. Barkley had helped the 76ers build an 18-point lead as late as the third quarter.

''It seemed like the air was sort of let out when Charles was tossed out,'' said Hersey Hawkins, who had 20 points. ''But we still had a chance to win the game. It was just a case of us missing the shots.''

Joe Dumars helped the Pistons by scoring 12 of his 24 points in the fourth quarter. James Edwards also added 18 points for Detroit.

The teams traded baskets at the beginning of the fourth quarter before Detroit tied the game, 77-77, on a goaltending call against Hawkins with 7:48 to go.

On the 76ers ensuing possession, Barkley was ejected with 7:32 left when he elbowed Rodman, who followed with two free throws.

''He did a good job of creating the call,'' Barkley said. ''Go look at the tape and get a laugh.''

Philadelphia and Detroit traded the lead 10 times before Laimbeer made the free throw. Following Hawkins' miss with 2 seconds remaining, Detroit's Vinnie Johnson added a free throw with 1 second to play to seal the win.

''Barkley should not have been thrown out of the game,'' said Philadelphia guard Rickey Green. ''If Charles had been in the game, it would have been a different story.''

Elsewhere: Boston blasted Washington 123-95, Cleveland downed Atlanta 101-93, Chicago tripped Indiana 124-95, Golden State clipped Orlando 119-113, Milwaukee bested New York 103-97, and Utah ripped Minnesota 96- 79.

Boston 123, Washington 95

At Boston, Larry Bird tallied 21 points to become the fifth player in NBA history to reach the 20,000-point plateau and help the Celtics win their eighth straight. Bird also became the fifth player in league history to have 20,000 points and 5,000 assists. Bird, who also grabbed 14 rebounds, joins Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, John Havlicek, Oscar Robertson, and Jerry West as the only players to achieve the milestones.

Cleveland 101, Atlanta 93

At Atlanta, Brad Daughtery poured in 30 points and Larry Nance contributed 22 to power the Cavaliers. The setback was the ninth straight for the Hawks, who were led by Dominique Wilkins with 25 points.

Chicago 124, Indiana 95

At Chicago, Michael Jordan scored 20 of his 37 points in the first quarter as the Bulls breezed to a romp over Indiana. Jordan connected on 10 of 11 field goals in the first quarter as the Bulls took a commanding 41-24 lead. Vern Fleming had 14 points for the Pacers, who dropped their fourth consecutive game.

Golden State 119, Orlando 113

At Orlando, Chris Mullin scored 28 points and Mitch Richmond had six points in the final two minutes to power the Warriors over the Magic, who dropped their sixth in a row. Golden State, 10-6, is off to its best start since the 1975-76 season.

Milwaukee 103, New York 97

At Milwaukee, Alvin Robertson recorded his second triple double of the season with 17 points, 10 rebounds and 15 assists for the Bucks. Jay Humphries added 20 points and five assists. Milwaukee has won five of six while the Knicks dropped their fifth straight. Charles Oakley led the Knicks with 19 points and 15 rebounds.

Utah 96, Minnesota 79

Jeff Malone scored 19 points, including 14 in the third quarter, to lead the Jazz to their fifth straight victory. The Jazz led by just one, 41-40, at the half before going on a 34-18 spurt in the third quarter to tkae control. Karl Malone added 16 points and 13 rebounds for the Jazz and Thurl Bailey added 13 points and seven rebounds.

(DEC. 1) UPI - Joe Rhett and Barry Manning scored 15 points apiece Friday night to help South Carolina rally for a 76-74 upset of No. 4 North Carolina in the first round of the Tournament of Champions in Charlotte, N.C.

The Gamecocks, 3-1, trailed by 14 points in the second half but came back to take their first lead on Jeff Raulston's layup with eight seconds remaining.

The Tar Heels, 2-1, called timeout and set up a play for forward George Lynch. Lynch, however, lost control of the ball on the baseline and it rolled off his leg and out of bounds. South Carolina moved the ball downcourt and Rhett was fouled, but missed both free throws.

North Carolina then sent a long pass to the foul line where freshman Clifford Rozier's turnaround jumper at the buzzer was short. The Tarheels argued the shot had been goaltended to no avail.

South Carolina will play Houston for the tournament title Saturday night and North Carolina plays Iowa State in the consolation game. The Cougars defeated the Cyclones 87-72 in Friday's first game.

Guard Jo Jo English scored 13 points and had nine assists, and Jamie Watson added 10 for South Carolina. The Tar Heels were led by sophomore forward Lynch with 16 points and senior forward Rick Fox with 15.

North Carolina led as many as 14 points, 40-26, in the first half and took a 40-28 lead at intermission, behind eight points from Lynch.

-- AROUND THE NCAA --

At Birmingham, AL., Darrin Chancellor scored 25 points and Clarence Weatherspoon made a jumper with 34 seconds left, lifting 19th- rated Southern Mississippi to an 84-82 victory over No. 8 Alabama.

Weatherspoon, who scored 15 points and hauled in 15 rebounds, hit the deciding basket after James Robinson scored with 1:01 to go that brought the Crimson Tide within 82-81.

Robinson then hit one foul fhot and missed the second attempt intentionally. Robinson grabbed the rebound, but time expired before he got a shot off.

Russell and Johnson added 12 points for Southern Mississippi, 1-0. Melvin Cheatum paced Alabama, 2-1, with 21 points and Robinson added 20.

At Charlottesville, VA., Tank Collins came off the bench to score 16 points and New Orleans held No. 18 Virginia to 32 percent shooting for a 60-55 upset over the Cavaliers.

Freshman forward Melvin Simon added 11 points and Dwight Myvett contributed 10 points for the Privateers, 1-2, who outrebounded the Cavaliers 44-22 and never trailed in the second half.

Virginia, 2-2, was led by senior point guard John Crotty with 25 points. Junior Bryant Stith chipped in 17 points and 8 rebounds for the Cavaliers, who were just 17 of 53 from the field.

New Orleans missed its first 13 shots of the game yet found itself down only 8-2 as Virginia also had trouble putting the ball in the basket.

6-11 sophomore center Ervin Johnson grabbed a game-high 12 rebounds for the Privateers, who blocked eight shots.

At Niagara falls, NY., Jason Buchanan scored 18 points and Malik Sealy added

14 to lead No. 22 St. John's to a 66-49 victory over Niagara.

St. John's, 3-0, led the entire way and took adantage of poor shooting by the Purple Eagles to take a 34-14 lead at the half. Niagara, which shot just 28 percent for the game (16-58), was a dismal 5 of 28 in the first half while the Redmen were good on 15 of their 26 attempts from the field.

Niagara, 1-2, closed to within 37-23 with 8:24 remaining on a layup by Darren Brown but could get no closer as the Redmen continued their hot shooting.

St. John's took its biggest lead at 60-37 on freshman Shawnelle Scott's basket with 5:25 left.

At Baton rouge, LA., Shaquille O'Neal scored 26 points and grabbed 17 of his 18 rebounds in the first half to lead 23rd-ranked Louisiana State to a 101-87 victory over co-No. 19 Texas.

O'Neal got in foul trouble early in the second and sat out almost 10 minutes before returning with 7:25 remaining in the game.

LSU had opened up an 18-point lead at 54-36 on O'Neal's dunk to begin the second half, before the Longhorns began to come back behind Joey Wright's 10 points.

With LSU leading 58-46, O'Neal was benched with four fouls, but the Tigers continued to up their lead with several spurts over the next 9:43 to stretch their lead to 79-63 when O'Neal returned.

At Charlotte, NC., Center Alvaro Teheran scored 32 points and 25th-ranked rallied in the second half to post an 87-72 win over Iowa State in the opening round of the Tournament of Champions.

Guard Byron Smith had 16 for the Cougars, 3-0, and guard Derrick Daniels added 13 points in the come-from-behind win. The Cyclones, 1-3, were led by Victor Alexander with 23 points and Doug Collins, who added 16.

The Cougars trailed 42-36 at the half but rallied in the second half and tied the score at 59-59 with 10:09 left on a three-pointer by Smith.

Houston took its first lead, 61-59, with 9:39 remaining on a jumper by Teheran who had 19 points in the second half.

Guard Mark Chappell scored 13 for the Cyclones and center Phil Kunz chipped in with 10 points and eight rebounds.

The State Department says China agrees with President Bush's decision to send Secretary of State Baker to Iraq for talks with Saddam Hussein . China's foreign minister traveled to Washington Friday, holding talks with Baker and Bush that largely focused on the conflict in the Persian Gulf.

Also in Washington, a spokesman for the Iraqi Embassy says Iraq may have have an answer to the White House proposal Saturday. Iraq has long called for high-level talks with the United States, but up until Friday the Bush administration has refused the suggestion.

Boston may have to choose between protecting the environment or jobs. Gillette says it may close down its biggest plant if the city passes an ordinance banning ozone-depleting chemicals. 31-hundred people are employed at the 85-year-old South Boston blade and razor plant which uses chloro-fluoro-carbons.

Half of the Americans questioned in a nationwide poll say they're worried that a repeat of the Great Depression is at least somewhat likely. Decision Research Corporation of Lexington, Massachusetts, also says 40 percent of those questioned listed general economic issues as their chief worry.

The National Institute of Health says new research offers hope to Millions of Americans with recurrent depressive illness. Researchers at the University of Pittsburgh say people who suffer from a common form of depression apparently can prevent relapses by taking their medication even when they feel well.

BANGKOK (DEC. 1) UPI - The leaders of Laos celebrate 15 years in power Sunday amid efforts to preserve their communist rule by shifting to a semi-capitalist economy.

The same determined revolutionaries who led the struggle against series of U.S.-backed governments dating back to the 1960s are still in power, but they are old and concerned by the worldwide problems of communism.

A small bomb explosion in the capital this week was a reminder that the Lao people remain divided by old ideological antagonisms and many of the most able are in exile.

Despite a regime supposedly devoted to the workers and peasants, the 4 million Lao people are among the poorest and least-educated in Asia.

Prime Minister and Communist Party General Secretary Kaysone Phomvihan, 70, is reported to be ailing, while the ''Red Prince'' of Laos, President Souphanouvong, 81, has been unable to speak clearly since a stroke.

As they entertain the shrinking contingent of fellow communist leaders at parades and cultural ceremonies this week, Kaysone and Souphanouvong may wonder whether their successors will also be communists.

The regime arrested two former Cabinet members in October on charges of trying to set up an alternative political party to challenge the Communist Party.

Lao students in Eastern Europe, many of them the sons and daughters of the communist elite, have staged repeated demonstrations calling for a multiparty system, free elections, freedom of speech and an end to the Vietnamese military presence.

In exile, in refugee camps and in carefully hidden jungle camps opponents of the regime gather arms and try to muster support for a resumption of the fight against communism. But the long-suffering Lao people do not seem to be responding with any enthusiasm, no matter how much they dislike the system.

Perhaps more dangerous to communist orthodoxy is the fast-growing economic influence of nearby capitalist, democratic Thailand.

Desperate to revive the moribund socialist economy, Kaysone has thrown open the doors to foreign investment and encouraged private enterprise.

Thai entrepreneurs lured by the rich natural resources and similar culture in Laos have moved quickly to develop fast-growing economic links.

With the expected loss of most aid from the Soviet Union and Vietnam next year Lao leaders know they have little choice but to turn to capitalism for development.

The first constitution under the communists, is due to be promulgated after the anniversary. It calls for a market-oriented economic system and guarantees certain property rights.

But it also enshrines the political monopoly of the communist party for its great service in liberating Laos from U.S. imperialism.

The war in Laos was a shadowy sideshow to the Vietnam War that involved devastating B-52 bombing raids, a secret CIA hilltribe army, Thai ''volunteers'' and hundreds of thousands of North Vietnamese troops.

It staggered to a partial conclusion in 1973 with the formation of a three-part coalition government.

The communists, bolstered by the victories of their allies in Vietnam and Cambodia, seized sole power, declaring the Lao People's Democratic Republic on Dec. 2, 1975.

The communists declared an end to the 600-year-old monarchy and hauled King Savang Vatthana off to internal exile and death under circumstances that still have not been revealed.

The fates of the more than 500 American servicemen missing in Laos have also remained obscure.

Laos has cooperated with U.S. search teams in recent years to excavate warplane crash sites, but it has never explained publicly what happened to an estimated 70 of the men who were captured by communist forces.

Despite the questions, Laos is the only country in Indochina with a U.S. embassy. Ties have improved amid growing cooperation on investment and narcotics suppression.

VILNIUS, LITHUANIA, U.S.S.R. (DEC. 1) UPI - The parliaments of the Soviet Union's three mutinous Baltic republics met Saturday at a historic joint session to plot a common course against Moscow.

Several hundred demonstrators greeted the arriving deputies with national hymns, hoisting Lithuania's yellow, green and red flag and posters including one that proclaimed to Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev and Defense Minister Dmitri Yazov, ''The Baltic republics have said no to slavery.''

The Lithuanian banner hung alongside Estonia's blue, black and white flag and Latvia's burgundy and white emblem over the entrance to the modern glass-and-granite Lithuanian Parliament building on the Neris River.

More than 250 deputies from Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia gathered in the Lithuanian capital for the unprecedented show of pan-Baltic solidarity.

The session was boycotted by mainly Russian deputies opposed to the Baltic republics' struggle to end a half-century of Soviet rule.

The pro-independence lawmakers stood and sang the three republics national anthems at the start of the session. Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis the goateed former music professor who has led his republics independence drive, then officially opened the gathering.

Estonian President Arnold Ruutel and Latvian Anatolijs Gorbunovs flanked Landsbergis at the front of the hall, the three Baltic flags unfurled behind them against the backdrop of a floor-to-ceiling Lithuanian banner.

''The continued occupation of the Baltic states is the last result of the Second World War that has not been resolved,'' Ruutel said in his opening address. ''Tens of countries around the world have never recognized the Soviet Union's forceful annexation of the Baltic nations. ''

The three presidents were to ask the deputies to approve resolutions appealing to the parliaments of the world and to the U.S.S.R. Congress of Peoples Deputies that is scheduled to open its session in Moscow on Dec. 17.

The Baltic lawmakers were also expected to take a joint stand on the presence of several hundred thousand Soviet soldiers on their territories, a source of growing tension in their relations with the central government.

The deputies represented about 60 percent of the three legislatures' total membership, roughly equal to the pro-independence blocs' combined strength.

More than half the lawmakers in each legislature were present, so any measure approved at the joint session would have the force of law in each republic, Lithuanian government spokeswoman Rita Dapkus said.

Landsbergis huddled with Ruutel, drafting the proposed resolutions late into the night before the gathering opened. Gorbunovs arrived in Vilnius early Saturday.

The three Baltic states passed separate declarations of independence earlier this year after nationalist forces took control of their parliaments in stunning election triumphs.

Lithuania led the way Mar. 11 with the first such independence proclamation in Soviet history, followed by neighboring Latvia and Estonia.

Gorbachev, angered by anti-army protests in the northern Baltic region, has recently appeared to back away from earlier promises of eventual independence for the three defiant republics.

Gorbachev wants all 15 Soviet republics to sign a treaty of voluntary allegiance to a renamed Union of Sovereign Soviet Republics, replacing the accord by which the country formally came into existence in 1922.

But the Baltic republics, annexed by Josef Stalin in 1940, have said they will not sign any pact subordinating them to Moscow.

MANILA (DEC. 1) UPI - Unidentified gunmen ambushed a city vice mayor while he was driving his jeep, fatally wounding the official and seriously injuring four other people, police said Saturday.

Eduardo Joson III, vice mayor of Cabanatuan, 60 miles north of Manila, was seriously wounded in the attack Friday night and died early Saturday from multiple gunshot wounds, police said.

Police said Joson was driving his jeep outside Cabanatuan when he overtook another jeep without plate numbers. The occupants of the vehicle opened fire on him and his four aides, who were wounded seriously in the attack.

Joson's brother, Nueva Ecija Vice Governor Tomas Joson, blamed their political rivals in the province for the killing.

The vice governor said his family has been accused of involvement in the ambush slaying of city secretary Andres Kibuyen two weeks ago. Also, the vice governor has been charged in connection with the killing of three people last April.

MANILA, PHILIPPINES (DEC. 1) UPI - The outlawed Communist Party of the Philippines Saturday dismissed as a ''big lie'' claims it had forged an alliance with military dissidents seeking the ouster of President Corazon Aquino.

The denial was issued two days after armed forces chief Gen. Renato de Villa said leftist and rightist dissidents were sharing explosives and planned to mount a major uprising against Aquino.

In a statement released to news agencies, the CPP said the reported link between its armed partisan New People's Army and the military dissident group,

Reform the Armed Forces Movement, or Ram, was ''a big lie''

''The CPP and national democratic movement have rightly earned their place as a legitimate and major political force through more than two decades of life-and-death struggle,'' it said.

It said the CPP cannot be a possible RAM ally ''as long as RAM does not clearly reject pro-imperialism and fascism and does not adopt a patriotic and democratic political program.''

However, the statement said the CPP has allies within the Armed Forces of the Philippines. It said they are ''patriotic and pro-people officers and men now secretly organizing NDF cells within the reactionary military and police forces.''

The NDF, or National Democratic Front, is the umbrella group for a dozen leftist organizations, including the CPP and the NPA.

Meanwhile, the military said Saturday about 300 NPA guerrillas attacked Sulat town in the central island of Samar Friday, leaving six guerrillas, two troopers, a militiaman and three civilians dead.

Army regional commander Brig. Gen. Vicente Garcia said the guerrillas who arrived aboard four buses remained in Sulat for four hours until reinforcements came.

De Villa claimed Thursday that an alliance had been formed between the Alex Boncayao Brigade, the urban hit squad of the NPA, and a military dissident faction headed by cashiered army Maj. Abraham Purugganan.

De Villa said the alliance was on an operational level and it was possible it had not reached the top echelons of the CPP and Ram.

The CPP and the 17,000-strong NPA have been waging a bloody campaign to set up a Marxist state in the Philippines for 21 years.

Rebel soldiers have tried seven times to oust Aquino and have threatened to launch another coup attempt before her term expires in 1992.

De Villa said the more than 50 bombings in the capital over the past three months were carried out by both communist and military dissidents. But he said neither of the two groups have the capability to oust Aquino.

MANILA, PHILIPPINES (DEC. 1) UPI - U.S. officials imposed travel restrictions Saturday on 20,000 troops and dependents at the U.S. Clark Air Base, fearing the possibility of communist rebel attacks as talks begin next week on the future of the region's American military bases.

Philippine sources said the third round of talks to decide the fate of Clark, Subic Bay Naval Station and four smaller facilities will start Tuesday at the heavily guarded Central Bank building in the capital.

The lease on the bases expires on Sept. 16, 1991.

Philipine and U.S. negotiators have expressed hopes of reaching an agreement by January to allow continued American presence in the former U.S. colony.

Clark spokesman Lt. Col. Ron Rand appeared on U.S. military television to announce the 9 p.m. to 5:30 a.m curfew for the 9,209 troops, 10,478 dependents and 620 civilian employees manning the base, 50 miles north of Manila.

Offbase movement also was limited to essential travel from 5:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. and travel outside the local area was restricted to the Manila airport and Camp John Hay recreation center in the mountain resort city of Baguio.

''We're making these changes now because there is an increased threat due to the bases talks which are scheduled for next week,'' Rand said.

Subic spokesman Lt. Cmdr. Kevin Mukri said no restrictions were placed on the 6,290 troops, 8,747 dependents and 728 civilian employees of the sprawling facility that serves as a repair and logistics center for the U.S. 7th Fleet.

The travel restrictions were a precaution after communist guerrillas in previous talks attacked Americans to dramatize opposition to the bases.

Most of the previous attacks occurred in the vicinity of Clark, where two servicemen were killed in May on the eve of exploratory talks.

Since October 1987, at least 10 Americans have been killed in slayings blamed on the 17,000-member communist New People's Army, which has been fighting the Manila government for the past 21 years.

In previous meetings, the United States indicated it wanted a phase down of U.S. forces in the Philippines over 10 to 12 years and establish a limited presence after that.

Philippine negotiators said they favored a five- to seven-year phasedown of the facilities.

Any new agreement requires approval by the Philippine Senate, where anti-bases sentiment is strong among members who say continued U.S. presence is a symbol of colonial rule and an infringement on national sovereignty.

CALAIS, FRANCE (DEC. 1) UPI - Two construction workers shook hands and embraced beneath the English Channel Saturday after breaking through in the 31-mile tunnel that makes it possible for the first time since the Ice Age to walk from England to the continent.

Philippe Cozette of France and Robert Fagg of Britain shook hands through an 11-inch hole at 12:13 p.m. and exchanged their national flags to mark the breakthrough in one of the world's most extraordinary engineering projects.

The underground handshake was a culmination of three years of work during which 3 million tons of rock has been dug from beneath the seabed.

It will be another 2 1/2 years before passengers will be able to make the trip on a high-speed train. Thirty million passengers are expected to make the trip in the first year alone.

The next landmark is slated for January, when the service tunnel will be completed. The tunnel runs between two much bigger train tunnels, which are now being bored.

A formal ceremony is planned to mark the event - French President Francois Mitterrand was to meet Margaret Thatcher in the tunnel, but she lost her position as prime minister last month and new British Prime Minister John Major was expected to go instead.

The Eurotunnel project has inched ahead below ground as controversy raged above.

Financial and delays problems have dogged it and the cost of completion has soared to $15 billion.

Trade unions have been aggrieved by the number of accidents - seven workers have died on the British side and two on the French.

David Eves, of the Health and Safety Executive, said, however, the project has been generally safe.

''Some of the accidents that have occurred have been absolutely preventable ''he said. ''At the same time, this is an extraordinarily complex construction project ... so one has to be balanced about this.''

CHTAURA, LEBANON (DEC. 1) UPI - Israeli warplanes blasted Palestinian positions Saturday for the second time this week in the Syrian-policed Bakaa Valley, wounding at least two people, security sources said.

Israeli jets raided the military headquarters of the Libyan-backed Popular Struggle Front headed by Samir Ghosheh in the village of Taalbaya near the market town of Chtaura, 22 miles east of Beirut, the sources said.

Palestinian sources said the headquarters was totally destroyed and a number of nearby houses and military and civilian cars were damaged. The sources said at least two people were wounded and were taken to a nearby hospital.

In Jerusalem, an Army spokesman said the Israeli planes returned safely to base after the noon raid. He said ''the terrorist headquarters'' which were attacked served as bases to launch attacks against Israeli targets.

A group from the organization was involved in a clash with Israeli forces inside Israel's self-declared ''security zone'' approximately two weeks ago, the spokesman said.

The Israeli air strike was the 18th into Lebanon this year and the second against Palestinian positions this week.

On Tuesday, Israeli aircraft raided a military base and three other positions of Abu Nidal's Fatah Revolutionary Council in the Sharhabil area, east of the port city of Sidon, 24 miles south of Beirut.

In another attack, the Israeli jets raided positions of the Syrian- backed Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command of Ahmed Jibril in the village of Baisour, east of Sidon.

Five people were killed and five others were wounded in the two raids.

In southern Lebanon, Israeli troops opened fire early Saturday from their positions at the edge of the border zone, killing a 10-year-old boy and wounding three others.

Security sources said Israeli soldiers fired volleys from their positions near the village of Zibkin, east of the port city of Tyre, 46 miles south of Beirut.

A bullet hit Luai Assad Basie, 10, killing him instantly, the sources said. They added that three other people were also wounded and were taken to hospital for treatment.

CAIRO, EGYPT (DEC. 1) UPI - Syria's defense minister said in a newspaper interview published Saturday that his country was ready to send 500,000 more troops to defend Persian Gulf Arab states against further Iraqi aggression.

However, Lt. Gen. Mustafa Tlass expressed hope Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's troops would leave Kuwait and avoid war.

''Syria is ready to send half a million troops to the gulf and face any treacherous action by Saddam Hussein,'' the Syrian defense minister told the United Arab Emirates, Abu Dhabi-based Al Ittihad newspaper.

Syria, along with Egypt and Morocco, has sent troops to the Persian Gulf to serve with the U.S.-led multinational force deployed in the region after Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait during an oil and border dispute.

But Tlass said he hoped Saddam would pull his troops out of the emirate before any state resorted to force.

''We hope he will be courageous and admit his mistake,'' Tlass was quoted as saying. ''It will not be a defeat for him because he is pulling from out from an Arab country, not a foreign one.''

The U.N. Security Council on Thursday passed a resolution authorizing the use of force against Iraq if Saddam failed to withdraw his troops by Jan. 15.

In a surprise development, President Bush on Friday invited Iraq's Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz to visit Washington for talks and also suggested Secretary of State James Baker could visit Baghdad to meet with Saddam in a last bid to avoid a military showdown.

Iraq on Saturday accepted Bush's offer for direct talks, but said it would broaden any dialogue to include the Arab-Israeli conflict and the Palestinian issue.

Syrian Defense Minister Tlass warned that any military confrontation could lead to the destruction of Iraqi armed forces.

''There is no need to fight the Americans,'' Tlass said. ''We and all other Arabs don't want the Iraqi troops to be destroyed, as they are needed to fight Israel and regain Jerusalem.''

Tlass scoffed at Saddam's threats to attack Israel with advanced chemical weapons, saying, ''Iraq would never hit Israel.''

He accused the Iraqi president of giving a pretext to the Jewish state to seek more U.S. and Western aid by accusing Iraq of possessing advanced chemical weapons.

''The truth is that Saddam is burning Arabs and Kurds and will never head for Israel,'' Tlass said.

The Syrian also accused Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat of encouraging the invasion of Kuwait.

''Arafat has not served the Palestinian cause with this behavior. I hope the Palestinian leaders will revise his position,'' Tlass added.

MOSCOW (DEC. 1) UPI - The number of people leaving the Soviet Union is growing and will continue to rise, but fears of a quick exodus of millions of Soviets after passage of a proposed emigration bill are exaggerated, Soviet and Western diplomats said.

Nikolai Smirnov, deputy chief of the Soviet Foreign Ministry department that deals with emigration, told the official Tass news agency Saturday that the number of emigres after rules are relaxed would be nowhere near what some neighboring countries are bracing for.

A senior Western diplomat concurred with that assessment Friday, saying the number of Soviet emigres would be limited by the number of people the United States and other countries would be willing to accept.

''I honestly think the concern about countries being overrun by hoards from the Soviet Union are misplaced,'' said the diplomat, who spoke with the condition he not be identified. ''I don't think emigration will take that much of a jump.

''The flow will be controlled by the number of entry visas countries are willing to give. If the emigration law is passed, it may be easier to get out of the Soviet Union, but it won't be easy to get in somewhere else.''

A bill to remove many of the Soviet restrictions on free travel for the country's citizens has been proposed and pending in the Soviet Parliament since early this year, but the measure is not yet scheduled for a vote.

The United States had made passage of the emigration bill a condition for improved trade conditions and economic aid for the Soviet Union, but recent reports from Washington have indicated officials may be softening that stand.

Smirnov told Tass a total of 336,000 people had emigrated from the Soviet Union in the first 10 months this year, with at total of 400,000 expected by year-end - nearly double the number of emigres in 1989.

''A growing number of Soviet citizens emigrate and this should be taken into account,'' Smirnov acknowledged. ''But when we speak about emigration, we should also consider the willingness of the receiving side.''

He said as of October, 200,000 Jewish emigres had left for Israel and 105,000 mostly ethnic Germans went to Germany. The United States and other countries also accept substantial numbers of Soviets within restrictions set by each nation.

Many European countries, particularly the Soviet Union's neighbors in Eastern Europe and Scandinavia, have expressed concern about increasing numbers of Soviet refugees and some tightened visa and border controls to prepare for an expected exodus.

A Finnish official said in October his country had been told privately that Soviet authorities expected as many as 20 million people to leave the country under relaxed emigration laws.

Smirnov said the number of emigres would initially continue to rise under relaxed regulations, but he predicted in several years the number of people leaving the Soviet Union would stabilize.

He also disputed widely held Soviet fears that the new emigration law would lead to a severe ''brain-drain,'' with the most highly skilled Soviets leaving for the West.

''Forecasts that our best brains will flee abroad are emotional and have an element of sensationalism,'' Smirnov said. ''There will also be an opposite process - Soviet citizens who have failed to settle abroad will return.

''Eventually, the number of those leaving the Soviet Union will stabilize.''

WASHINGTON (DEC. 1) UPI - President Bush, conferring with top military advisers at Camp David Saturday, reacted cautiously to Iraq's reported acceptance of his surprise offer to hold face-to-face U.S.-Iraqi talks on the crisis in the Persian Gulf.

Informed of word from Baghdad that Saddam Hussein had quickly accepted Bush's offer to talk, but with the condition that the Arab- Israeli conflict be included, a White House spokeswoman said the president was aware of the report but had yet to be contacted on any official level.

''We're not aware of any official communication,'' the spokeswoman said, while noting at the same time that ''the president has said he would like the meetings to take place.''

The quick answer from Iraq, which has long called for high-level talks with the United States, was being analyzed by top administration officials early Saturday as Bush met at the Camp David presidential retreat with his top military advisers, including the Joint Chiefs of Staff, aides said.

The administration had previously refused to talk with Saddam, describing him as a ruthless dictator.

But on Friday, Bush, armed with a U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force to drive Iraqi troops from Kuwait, recommended talks as a possible final way to avoid war.

In a nationally televised address, Bush proposed that Saddam meet in Baghdad with Secretary of State James Baker between Dec. 15 and the U.N. deadline for Iraq to pull out of Kuwait, Jan. 15.

The president also invited Iraq's foreign minister, Tariq Aziz, to Washington to talk with him the week of Dec. 10.

''Within the mandate of the United Nations resolutions'' that condemn Iraq for its Aug. 2 takeover of Kuwait, Bush said he ''will be prepared ... to discuss all aspects of the gulf crisis.''

''However,'' he added, ''I am not suggesting discussions that will result in anything less than Iraq's complete withdrawal from Kuwait, restoration of Kuwait's legitimate government and freedom for all Western hostages.''

The president stressed he would make no deals, and conceded at a news conference afterward, ''I'm not hopeful it will get any big results.''

Bush also warned that if war became necessary, the United States would score a swift and emphatic victory.

''This will not be another Vietnam,'' Bush said. ''This will not be a protracted, drawn-out conflict.''

''If we've got one kid that's apt to be in harm's way, I want him backed up to the hilt by American firepower,'' the president said.

Reaction to Bush's call for talks was generally positive on Capitol Hill.

House Democratic leader Richard Gephardt of Missouri praised Bush for mixing ''the threat of force and economic sanctions with new moves toward resolving the Persian Gulf crisis through dialogue.''

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., too, was pleased by ''the president's peace initiative,'' but he said he was troubled that Bush has yet to ask Congress for permission to conduct war.

''In fact, the president has a constitutional responsibility to come to Congress for approval in advance, before he goes to war,'' Kennedy told a news conference.

Kennedy also called for more time to allow economic sanctions to work.

During a 90-minute White House meeting with congressional leaders late Friday, Bush again opposed calling a special session of Congress to debate the crisis and asked lawmakers to support his stand in the gulf.

Many Democrat leaders also opposed a special session, saying the matter should be left to the new Congress, which convenes Jan. 3. Senate Republicans leaders favor a special session.

The U.N. resolution, adopted Thursday 12-2 with China abstaining, authorized the U.S.-led multinational troops massed in the gulf to use force to free Kuwait unless Saddam withdraws by Jan. 15.

Answering critics, including members of Congress and some former U.S. military leaders, who suggest he give economic sanctions more time to work, Bush said:

''The United States and the entire world has been patient. I will continue to be patient. But yesterday's U.N. resolution ... properly says to Saddam Hussein: 'Time is running out. You must leave Kuwait.'''

WASHINGTON (DEC. 1) UPI - Maintenance men removing old paint from a window outside President Bush's study Saturday caused a tiny fire at the White House that was quickly extinguished, a White House spokeswoman said.

Bush and his wife, Barbara, were not on the premises, spending the weekend at the Camp David presidential retreat outside Washington.

Although several fire trucks were summoned, the spokeswoman said, ''It was a very minor incident'' that was quickly brought under control. She said no water was needed.

The small fire occurred when some maintenance workers were doing some routine repair work on the exterior of a window of the president's private study in the West Wing near the Oval Office.

The spokeswoman said one of the workers used a heat gun to remove old paint and it was believed that the heat caused a small piece of rotten wood to smolder.

There was smoke and some charring of the window frame but no flames were visible, the spokeswoman reported. Firefighters were summoned to check the premises but were never called upon to use their hoses.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 1) UPI - Attorney General Dick Thornburgh will make ground-breaking visits this week to Hungary and Bulgaria to lobby for democratic reforms and post-Cold War cooperation in law enforcement.

The weeklong trip also includes a three-day stay in Rome where Thornburgh said he will discuss with European law enforcement officials ''continued cooperation in terrorism investigations, border security issues and technology exchanges.''

A Justice Department official, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said a likely topic of discussion at the Rome meetings will be the progress of the investigation into the bombing of Pan Am Flight 103.

Despite the largest criminal investigation in history, there have been no arrests nearly two years after the terrorist bombing of the jetliner over

Lockerbie, Scotland, that killed 270 people.

FBI Director William Sessions and Drug Enforcement Administrator Robert Bonner also will be in Rome for the meetings, although the Justice Department official said no breakthroughs in the case are expected.

Thornburgh's trip was scheduled to run from Saturday until Friday. The Justice Department declined to provide an estimate on how much the trip will cost, but the official conceded: ''The attorney general and his party don't get moved around cheaply.''

While in Budapest, Hungary, on Monday, Thornburgh will meet with Prime Minister Jozsef Antall, in what the department official described as ''an opportunity for an assessment of how that government is moving toward a law-based society.''

In addition, the Justice Department has been authorized by the State Department to begin negotiations with the Hungarian government on a mutual legal assistance treaty - a first for the United States and a Soviet bloc country. Thornburgh later will meet with Justice Minister Istvan Balsai, and attend a court session and a meeting of parliament.

Thornburgh is scheduled to travel Tuesday to Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria. Those plans were in doubt, however, because there has been recent striking by transportation and industrial workers in the nation over dissatisfaction with its Socialist government.

If that leg of the trip goes off as planned, Thornburgh has scheduled a meeting with President Zhelyu Zhelev. However, Justice Department officials said they did not expect much of substance to be accomplished at the talks because of Bulgaria's political instability.

''The opportunities for the kind of exchange on law enforcement issues ... are not going to be available in Bulgaria given the political situation there,'' the Justice Department official said.

The purpose of the Bulgaria trip is to help fulfill a State Department mission to lend support to political forces attempting to bring democratic reforms to the country.

The swing through Eastern Europe will be more of a fact-finding trip than a mission to hammer out concrete agreements, officials say.

''In general, we are in the business of promoting democracy and human rights '' the Justice Department official said. ''And secondly, these countries represent opportunities for criminal organizations to spring up. ... We want to learn about what is precisely going on with these police organizations and to look for opportunities, when the right people come into power, to take advantage of them.''

The focus of the trip will change Wednesday when Thornburgh travels to Rome for a meeting with European officials, where one of the subjects to be discussed is ''precursor chemicals'' used to produce cocaine and other illegal drugs.

U.S. officials are concerned that a Drug Enforcement Administration program to curb the export of such chemicals from the United States has resulted in an explosion of exports from Germany.

''The issue was raised with the German government, and they promised to act on it,'' the Justice Department official said. ''We want to know what their position is with regard to those chemicals now.''

While in Rome, Thornburgh also will meet with the French interior minister, who Justice Department officials say has recently expressed interest in joining an effort by the United States, Italy and Spain to provide law enforcement assistance to Andean countries grappling with violent cocaine cartels.

There also will be a bilateral meeting with representatives of Luxembourg, which is taking over the chairmanship of a European Community steering group next spring. The goal is to ensure that the United States will have an advisory role in the process of European economic unification in 1992.

''A great deal of emphasis is placed by their law enforcement organizations on how they're going to police themselves once their borders are down as they are expected to be in 1992,'' the Justice Department official said.

''These borders have served as effective trip wires for criminal activity,'' the official said. ''In their concentration on that, we don't want them to loose sight of the fact that the criminal activities are not just going to be confined to the European Community. We have a strong interest in working with them against terrorism, against drug trafficking, and other types of organized crime.''

Meetings with representatives of the Italian government will focus on recent criminal code reforms in that country. According to the Justice Department official, the new provisions ''have proved to be unworkable in some respects '' particularly in the area of extradition.

#90335u0366 12/01/1990 ~United Press International

WASHINGTON (DEC. 1) UPI - If war breaks out, the first Iraqis to know it will be hunched over radar screens in the middle of the night around airfields, surface-to-air missile sites and missiles that could be used to deliver chemical weapons, experts say.

And if the ''Stealth'' fighter is as good as billed, those radar watchers may not see the attack coming until the last few seconds - too late to mount an effective defense.

War-fighting experts generally agree that an initial softening up with air power will be the first stage of any war with Iraq, with Iraqi military-related industrial sites next on the targeting list along with dug-in infantry and artillery sites that must be pounded to weaken their resistance before any ground battle is launched.

In interviews and in testimony before Congress this past week, experts laid out their scenarios for how a war would unfold. The only real question is whether Iraqi ground forces in Kuwait would fold immediately, surrender after a brief period or put up a significant fight. Many believe U.S. forces will surround Kuwait from the West to isolate the Iraqi troops in Kuwait.

All agree the war will start in the dead of night to make best use of American technology, and quite likely will occur during a period of high tides to ease the way for any amphibious operations. Calendar watchers will note that in the coming months, periods of no moon and high tides come Dec. 19-22, Jan. 17-20, Feb. 16-18 and March 17-19.

Retired Rear Adm. Gene La Rocque, director of the Center for Defense Information, thinks the first bombs are going to be tossed at air bases and missile sites, dug-in ground forces, highways, command posts and chemical and nuclear sites along with weapons assembly plants.

Then, he said, ''U.S. armored and mechanized divisions would drive into Iraq to the west of Kuwait. U.S. Marine amphibious forces would tie down Iraqi troops on the coasts of Kuwait and southern Iraq. U.S. Navy and Air Force planes would maintain control of the air over Iraq. Iraqi forces in Kuwait would be cut off from Baghdad. Arab and European forces would block Iraqi counter attacks.''

In as little as a week, he forecast, U.S. forces would be more than halfway to Baghdad and in three months Baghdad would be captured.

U.S. tank forces are in positions that would allow them easy access to the broad, hard-packed plain that lies at the confluence of the western Kuwait border with Iraq and Saudi Arabia, an area once plied by the trade caravans of old that is so desolate there is nothing natural to break the horizon.

La Rocque forecasts as many as 45,000 casualties in such a campaign, including about 10,000 deaths. Other estimates run lower, depending on whether much ground combat is necessary.

Former Defense Secretary James Schlesinger, who also ran the CIA and the Energy Department, noted that there is no question among U.S. military planners that allied forces will win.

If an all-out assault against Iraqi ground forces is not needed, he said, and air power advantages are used, casualties can be held down and ''in between four and eight weeks it should be all over - safe for starving out or mopping up the remaining Iraqi forces in Kuwait.''

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, who had a career as a Marine fighter pilot and astronaut before coming to the Senate, said ground forces may be needed and the air action is largely a supporting role used to so stun and weaken an opponent on the ground that he is unable to mount a credible defense.

''It's the most ideal air warfare situation I've ever run into,'' he said. ''I think the first thing we should do is not go after all these industrial and military plant targets we have talked about but the surface-to-air missile sites and anti-air sites, knock down everything you can shoot at in the air you can possibly find, establish air superiority, then pick and choose and hit every tank emplacement, every gun,'' he said.

That way, he said, ''when we do have to go in there on the ground, if anybody does have to, it's far far easier than it would have been with a Greek phalanx approach with the Army going off from square one without any kind of preparation being done ahead of time.'' It would be ''idiotic,'' he said, to try frontal assaults like World War I-style trench warfare.

''You establish air superiority. ... Then you really emaciate that place before anyone moves in on the ground if you have to do it,'' said Glenn.

John Wheeler, a 1966 West Point graduate who was involved in creation of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, said, ''The way an assault would begin would be to use air power, standoff weapons like cruise missiles, take out their air force as quickly as possible, then defang the Iraqi military by eliminating as much of their war goods ability as possible. All that starts immediately.''

''Don't forget,'' he said, ''Iraq is not covered by foliage. We've got crystal-clear look down from satellites and we've been registering cruise missiles on military targets.''

Then, Wheeler said, he would wait eight or nine months in a blocking position while air strikes and the embargo destroyed the ability of Iraqi ground forces to resist. The only forces that can be considered reliable, said Wheeler, are the Iraqi Republican Guards who have been pulled back toward Iraq.

(DEC. 1) UPI - Nations usually opposing U-S foreign policy are backing President Bush's offer to hold face-to-face talks with Iraq. Libya's ambassador to the United Nations, Ali Treikki, called it ''a good step forward for a peaceful solution.'' Yemen's ambassador called it ''very promising.'' Iraq has NOT officially responded. A spokesman at the embassy in Washington said a reaction may come from Baghdad today.

An executive of an oil company has been named as Alaska's commissioner of natural resources. Governor-elect Walter Hickel announced the appointment of Harold Heinze, a former president of ARCO Transportation, a division of Atlantic Richfield oil company. An environmentalist, Cliff Eames, called the appointment ''a disappointment.'' He said- ''There's a possibility the fox will be in charge of the henhouse.''

A national poll shows half of all Americans are worried another great depression is possible. Decision Research says Americans are now more worried about the economy than they were just after the stock market crash of 1987. Then only 43 percent were pessimistic about a depression. The poll found that 40 percent of all Americans consider the economy their chief worry.

Government experts say an unusual lineup of the sun, moon and Earth may cause coastal flooding and boating hazards early in December and again late in the month and early January. High tides will be higher than normal and low tides lower. The first period of extreme tides will be from now through Tuesday. The second is December 30th to January 2nd. The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration predicts some flooding if high tides occur during heavy rain.

The Illinois Supreme Court has ruled against a plan for reforming Chicago's public schools. The plan established local councils elected by teachers, parents and other community members to help run schools. They had the power to hire and fire principals. The court said the system gives too much power to parents. Chicago Mayor Richard Daley said the effort to change Chicago's schools will continue.

The vice mayor of a Philippines city has been shot and killed while driving his jeep. Police say Eduardo Joson passed another jeep whose occupants fired on him and four aides. The four others were seriously wounded. Joson was vice mayor of Cabanatuan, 60 miles north of Manila. His brother says the family has been linked to the slaying of a city official. The brother, also a government official, is charged in connection with the killings of three people.

CAPE CANAVERAL, FL (DEC. 1) UPI - The shuttle Columbia was cleared Saturday for a fiery predawn Sunday launch, the crew's fifth attempt in six months to take off on a 10-day astronomy mission grounded since May by crippling fuel leaks.

''The long summer of hydrogen leaks is totally behind us,'' said NASA Launch Director Robert Sieck. ''The team is really up for this one.''

Carrying a crew of seven and a $150 million cargo of telescopes, Columbia was scheduled for blastoff at 1:28 a.m. EST Sunday from pad 39B at the Kennedy Space Center, a record-tying 17 days after the shuttle Atlantis's launch Nov. 15 launch on a military flight.

Early Saturday, a large rotating gantry was pulled away from the $2 billion orbiter, exposing the black-and-white ship to view and setting the stage for engineers to pump a half-million gallons of liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen fuel into Columbia's external tank later in the day.

The Air Force said there was a 40 percent chance that clouds, rain showers and high winds could delay the launch, but the odds the weather would be a problem dropped to 20 percent later in the 2 1/2-hour launch window.

NASA managers were confident the repaired shuttle, which passed a fueling test last month, would prove to be leak-free.

''We believe this one is going to be the one with the charm,'' said Lennard Fisk, NASA's associate administrator for space science at a pre- launch news conference.

Commander Vance Brand, 59, co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42, John ''Mike'' Lounge, 44, Robert Parker, 53, Jeffrey Hoffman, 46, and civilian astronomers Ronald Parise 39, and Samuel Durrance, 47, planned to strap in shortly after 10:30 p.m. to await liftoff.

The first item on the agenda for the astronauts after reaching orbit Sunday was to begin activating Columbia's ''Astro-1'' payload, a complex task expected to take up most of the crew's first day in orbit. Science observations are scheduled to begin early Monday.

In Soviet Central Asia, meanwhile, engineers readied a Soyuz booster for launch later Sunday to carry a crew of three, including a Japanese television journalist, to the Mir space station where two cosmonauts have been on duty since Aug. 1.

If all goes well with both launches, a record 12 humans will end up in orbit at the same time.

The goal of the 38th shuttle mission, the sixth this year, is to study the most energetic stars and galaxies in the universe by analyzing high-energy X-rays and ultraviolet light that cannot penetrate Earth's atmosphere.

''Astro has a revolutionary sensitivity that we have never had before in space. So we are expecting a number of important discoveries,'' Fisk said.

To collect as much data as possible, the astronauts will work around the clock in two 12-hour shifts, with Hoffman, Lounge and Durrance making up the ''day'' crew and Parker, Gardner and Parise staffing Columbia for the overnight shift. Brand is not assigned a specific shift.

Unlike the $1.5 billion Hubble Space Telescope, the four telescopes making up the Astro-1 payload will remain inside Columbia's cargo bay throughout the mission, operated by the astronauts from the crew cabin much like a normal observatory.

By extending humanity's vision beyond the blue end of the electromagnetic spectrum, Columbia's crew may find evidence for the existence of as-yet-unseen black holes, gain insights into the nature of enigmatic quasars, exploding suns and galaxies with ''active'' centers that send out torrents of energy.

The astronauts also plan to teach an astronomy lesson from space that will be beamed into classrooms on Earth and to chat with ''ham'' radio operators around the world as time permits, including the Soviet cosmonauts aboard the Mir space station.

Columbia is scheduled to land at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., to close out a nine-day, 21-hour and 57-minute mission.

The shuttle originally was scheduled for blastoff May 30 but the flight was grounded the night before when sensors detected explosive hydrogen gas spewing into the ship's engine room.

NASA managers initially suspected the sole cause of the leakage was damaged seals inside a massive 17-inch-wide fuel line fitting that subsequently was replaced with one borrowed from the new shuttle Endeavour.

After a second launch delay because of electrical problems with the X-ray telescope, another leak was discovered the night before a Sept. 6 launch try.

Three suspect fuel pumps were replaced before engineers discovered a partially crushed seal in a valve leading to main engine No. 3. The $250 seal was replaced, but Columbia's fourth launch attempt ended in failure when still more leaking hydrogen blocked a Sept. 18 liftoff.

Finally, after replacing yet another damaged valve seal and tightening virtually every fuel line fitting in the shuttle's engine room, Columbia passed a leak test last month to set the stage for launch.

HIGHWOOD, IL (DEC. 1) UPI - Army enlistments have not met expectations since troops began heading to Saudi Arabia and a $2,000 sign-up bonus is helping military officials at Fort Sheridan lure new recruits.

Lt. Col. Alex Angelle, spokesman for the Army Recruiting Command Headquarters at Fort Sheridan north of Chicago, told the Chicago Tribune Saturday the bait seems to be working.

''Early indications are that people are biting for this bonus,'' Angelle said.

The Army is offering the cash to recruits who sign up for combat jobs before the end of February.

In the past three months, which have seen a massive buildup of U.S. military troops in the Persian Gulf because of Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, Army recruiters fell more than 5,000 new enlistees short of their goal of 25,000, Army officials said.

In October the Army offered a $1,000 bonus to new recruits but when enlistments were almost 2,000 short of goal for that month, officials decided to up the ante.

Angelle said so far 600 recruits have been paid the $2,000 bonus to sign up for the combat areas of infantry, artillery and tanks. Battle statistics indicate these areas would suffer 85 percent of the casualties in a war.

The Navy has reported an 11 percent decline in enlistments in the past three months but is offering no bonus package. The Air Force and Marines are reportedly meeting their enlistment goals.

Fort Sheridan establishes monthly goals for recruiting and distributes them to hundreds of individual recruiting stations nationwide, including 20 in Chicago.

SAN DIEGO (UPI) - After a final round of hugs, kisses and tears from loved ones, a Marine brigade and 6,000 sailors set sail from two Southern California ports Saturday for the uncertain waters of the Middle East.

The largest Marine amphibious task force formed since 1965 steamed out of San Diego Bay and Long Beach aboard 13 ships for a voyage that will likely bring them to the troubled region shortly before a Jan. 15 United Nations deadline for an Iraqi withdrawl from Kuwait.

''Nobody got much sleep, we were up all night talking, having a few drinks, talking some more,'' said Becky Godoy, who traveled to the 32nd Street Naval Station in San Diego from Stockton to see her brother, Marine Staff Sgt. John Gonzales, sail off aboard the amphibious assault ship Tarawa.

''The kids don't really know what's going on,'' said Godoy. ''They just know their dad is going away.''

Gonzales and his fellow Marines were part of the 5th Marine Expeditionary Brigade, an amphibious force that includes 90 aircraft and a number of reserve units recently called to active duty at Camp Pendleton.

Their exact mission once they arrive in the Middle East is not known, but it is expected they would join the numerous other Pendleton leathernecks already dug into the Saudi Arabian desert.

''Our first mission is getting their safely, so we'll concentrate on that for now,'' said Adm. Stephen S. Clarey, the commander of the task force.

An air of uncertainty prevailed on the pier where the Tarawa, Clarey's flagship, was docked.

Most of the family members did not fear the worst, but were nervously aware their men were not off on an ordinary patrol.

''He's prepared to go, but its the unknown that makes you worry,'' said Cheryl Walker, whose son, Petty Officer Michael Walker, left on his second cruise. ''Last year's (deployment) was just a lot of different ports to visit.''

Walker said her son-in-law would sail for the Middle East from San Diego Dec. 8 aboard a cruiser.

As the 10 San Diego ships slipped out of 32nd Street one-by-one, the gloom around the Tarawa began to give way to a more electric atmosphere.

Hands were shaken, prayers said and there was a final round of hugs.

Gunnery Sgt. Oscar Paz, a brawny veteran with graying hair, posed for a family portrait, wiped a tear away and strode purposefully to the ship.

A Marine on the main deck of the Tarawa waved a Mexican flag and others applauded at some of the more passionate embraces on the pier.

At the end of the pier, a kilted bagpiper serenaded each ship as it passed by while retired Navy man Dave Graham used a pair of signal flags to send the message, ''Permission granted to kick Hussein's ass out of Kuwait and return home. Merry Christmas.''

An unseen crewman aboard the USS Barbour County winked back with a signal light, ''Thanks for the enq naa ..

PARIS (DEC. 1) UPI - Chad's President Hissein Habre and most government officials fled the African nation's capital in the face of a rebel advance, French officials said Saturday, adding the country's legislative leader was trying to negotiate with Libyan-backed rebels.

France meanwhile prepared Saturday to evacuate its citizens and increase its military presence in its former colony in central Africa, the Defense Ministry said. Government sources said President Francois Mitterrand planned to meet with military advisers soon to discuss the situation.

Sporadic gunfire was heard in the capital Ndjamena Friday night, but French officials and the Chadian Embassy in Paris said the situation was calmer Saturday afternoon. Reports from Ndjamena said Chadian troops were nowhere to be seen and sporadic looting of some houses in the European quarter had begun.

Habre vanished from Ndjamena after government troops suffered another defeat at the hands of Libyan-armed rebel forces led by his former chief-of-staff, Idriss Deby, diplomatic sources said Saturday.

Diplomatic sources in Ndjamena said many Chadian leaders fled the capital overnight with their families, apparently heading for neighboring Cameroon.

National Assembly President Jean Alingue was the only figure of authority left in the capital. The French Foreign Ministry said Alingue ''has demonstrated publicly his will to seek with Idriss Deby 'a solution acceptable to everyone.' He also appealed to France to contribute to the return to social peace.''

French government spokesman Hubert Vedrine said Paris had made contact with Alingue in the absense of Habre. Vedrine confirmed Habre left Ndjamena sometime Friday night or Saturday morning, but did not say where he went.

Some Paris diplomatic sources said Habre may have fled to Cameroon, but other sources said he may have taken personal command of all available troops in the city to launch a last-ditch counter-offensive against rebels

Deby has inflicted a series of defeats on Habre's French-trained forces in a two-week campaign that began near the Sudanese frontier.

Habre last week left the capital and went to the battlefront to direct personally a counter-offensive against the rebels. But his presence failed to stop defeats suffered by government troops who took heavy casualties.

The rebels were reported to be at the towns of Ati and Mongo, some 240 miles from the capital after capturing the regional eastern capital of Abeche and defeating government troops again at Oum Hadjer.

France said Friday its troops based at Abeche did not get involved during the rebel capture of the city, and a government statement said, ''The mission of the French forces is not to intervene in the clashes between Chadians.''

More than 1,000 French troops have been based present in Chad under treaties with the former French colony, including French Foreign Legionnaires at Abeche and Ndjamena.

The French government said Saturday it would pull a company of Foreign Leagionaires from Abeche and send it to the Chadian capital, as well as sending two additional companies of Foreign Legionnaires to Ndjamena from Corsica and the Central African Republic.

The Chadian Embassy in Paris has advised foreigners to leave Chad and French Foreign Legion troops based at Ndjamena have taken up positions around the French Embassy.

In Paris, government spokesman Vedrine said France has taken ''all measures necessary to assure the grouping and protection of French and foreign citizens in Chad, given the evolution of the situation in the country.''

A French aircraft left Paris Saturday to collect French citizens from Chad and two others were scheduled to leave Saturday night and Sunday morning.

French-backed Chadian forces defeated Libyan-backed rebels in 1987 after an offensive was launched from southern Libya in February 1986.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 2) UPI - President Bush conferred with his top military advisers at Camp David Saturday, reacting cautiously to a conditional Iraqi acceptance of his offer to talk over the Persian Gulf crisis.

Informed of word from Baghdad that Saddam Hussein had quickly accepted Bush's offer to talk, but with the condition that the Arab- Israeli conflict be included, White House officials stressed they had received no official response from Saddam. ''We are aware of the public comments but are still awaiting the official communication,'' a spokeswoman said.

The response came to Bush's surprise offer Friday to meet in Washington with the Iraqi foreign minister and to dispatch Secretary of State James Baker to Baghdad to meet with the Iraqi president.

But the answer from Iraq, which has long called for high-level talks with the United States, was analyzed at length by top administration officials at the Camp David presidential retreat, where Bush conferred for more than two hours with Baker, Vice President Dan Quayle, Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney, the Joint chiefs of Staff and others, aides said.

Additionally, shortly before the high-level session in the Cactoctin Mountains outside Washington, Quayle came out firmly against the Iraqi demand that the PLO question be included in the talks but said, ''The meetings will hopefully take place.''

Speaking on CNN's ''Evans and Novak'' program, Quayle said, ''Make no mistake about it, we are there to talk about the U.N. resolutions. It is not a negotiation.

''... Palestine is not an issue on the table,'' Quayle said. ''We are not going to link Palestine up to the situation in Kuwait.''

The U.S. stand is not a new one, however, and it remained unclear to administration officials whether Saddam's insistence on the matter would derail any chance the high-level, face-to-face talks would take place.

Throughout the 4-month-old standoff in the gulf, the administration has refused to link Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait with the debate over the future status of the Israeli-occupied territories in the West Bank and Gaza strip. Saddam has been trying to establish a quid pro quo between Kuwait and an Israeli withdrawal from Arab land.

Otherwise, the Camp David conference was the first meeting of top military officials since Bush won authorization from the United Nations this week for the use of force to oust Saddam if he has not relinguished Kuwait by Jan. 15.

The president's deputy national security adviser, Robert Gates, however, told another CNN program Saturday that the meeting was routine and ''not some sort of council of war.''

But Gates acknowledged that the question of U.S. military preparations would be discussed in light of the new Jan. 15 deadline. And asked if the United States would be ready to take action at that point, he said, ''That's what we've told told, yes.''

Speaking on the same CNN program, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Bush made the offer to win the votes of U.N. Security Council who backed the force resolution. ''They were saying to him part of the price for us to vote for this is some kind of meeting with Saddam Hussein, face to face between American officials and him before we actually exercise the war option,'' Aspin chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, told CNN.

The session also enabled Bush, who departs Sunday evening for a weeklong trip to South America, to weigh the generally positive fallout from his dramatic offer Friday to confer for the first time with the Iraqis as a possible final way to avoid war.

In a nationally televised address, greeted mostly with enthusiasm even from critics on Capitol Hill, Bush proposed that Saddam meet in Baghdad with Baker between Dec. 15 and the U.N. deadline for Iraq to pullout of Kuwait.

The president also invited Iraq's foreign minister, Tariq Aziz, to Washington to talk with him the week of Dec. 10.

''Within the mandate of the United Nations resolutions,'' Bush said he ''will be prepared ... to discuss all aspects of the gulf crisis.''

''However,'' he added, ''I am not suggesting discussions that will result in anything less than Iraq's complete withdrawal from Kuwait, restoration of Kuwait's legitimate government and freedom for all (Western) hostages.''

The president's aides continued to stress Saturday that Bush would make no deals and that the meetings were meant only to ensure that Saddam realizes the extent of the U.S. resolve, and that no major diplomatic breakthroughs were really expected.

VATICAN CITY (DEC. 1) UPI - Cardinal Agostino Casaroli, main architect of the Holy See's successful East European policy for almost 30 years, retired as the Vatican's Secretary of State Saturday and handed over the key post to the man he trained for it.

Casaroli, 76, had tendered his resignation to Pope John Paul II a year ago, when he turned 75, the age at which Roman Catholic prelates are required to resign. But the pope waited a year before accepting the resignation of the top aide he called ''so wise and expert.''

In the intervening year, the Holy See has restored diplomatic relations with Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Romania - the pope's native Poland restored relations in July 1989 - and established ''permanent contacts'' with the Soviet Union at ambassador level.

The pope also has met twice in the Vatican with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev - the first historic meeting on Dec. 1, 1989 and the second encounter last Nov. 18.

Major credit for all these events was given to Cardinal Casaroli, who masterminded Vatican relations with the former Communist states since the early 1960s. He had been Secretary of State, the pope's No. 2 man, since John Paul appointed him to the post July 1, 1979.

As Casaroli's successor, the pope appointed Italian Archbishop Angelo Sodano, 63, a veteran Vatican career diplomat with wide experience in Latin America and Eastern Europe, who has been Secretary of the Council for the Public Affairs of the Church - in effect the Vatican's foreign minister - since June 1988.

In that and other Vatican posts, Sodano has worked closely with Casaroli for years. Because he is not yet a cardinal, Archbishop Sodano will have the title of ''Pro-Secretary of State.''

In place of Sodano as ''foreign minister'' the pope appointed Monsignor Jean-Louis Tauran, 47, born in Bordeaux, France, who served as a member of the Council for Public Affairs from 1983 to 1988.

The handover of the key posts took place in a formal ceremony attended by about 160 officials of the State Secretariat in the Vatican's Consistory Hall, with the pope in white robes presiding.

In reference to Casaroli, John Paul expressed his sentiments of ''emotion'' for ''the person whom Divine Providence, Christ the Good Shepherd, placed in my path.''

The retirement of the cordial, bespectacled Casaroli marked the end of an era in the Vatican which spanned almost the whole reign of John Paul II, who was elected head of the Roman Catholic Church in October, 1978.

But Casaroli had served as a ''traveler'' for three popes - John XXIII, Paul VI and John Paul II - and became almost a legendary figure in international diplomacy.

The last major diplomatic function at which Casaroli headed the Vatican delegation was the recent Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe in Paris, which drew up a charter for the new Europe of the post-Cold War era.

During that conference, Casaroli recalled he was the only person present who also signed the original Helsinki declaration in 1975.

Casaroli became the first Vatican representative to visit Moscow in 1971, when he signed the nuclear non-proliferation treaty for the Vatican. In June 1988, he returned to Moscow for celebrations marking the 1,000th anniversary of Christianity in Russia and met Gorbachev in the Kremlin.

MONTREAL (DEC. 2) UPI - Three gunmen wielding machine guns stole a $13 million shipment of gold and other valuables from a twin-engine plane that had just landed early Saturday, police said.

The trio did not fire the machine guns they carried and no one was hurt in the robbery, which Montreal police spokesman Constable Robert Quezel said was the largest he had seen in 23 years with the force.

Quezel said the robbery occurred shortly after a Jet All twin-engine plane landed at Dorval International Airport at 3:50 a.m., carrying a shipment of gold and silver ingots, jewelry and securities worth $13 million.

The spokesman said the bandits used a garbage truck to smash through a fence and make their way onto the tarmac. They blocked the taxiing plane and ordered the three people aboard - two pilots and a security guard - to stand still and not radio for help.

The trio then unloaded the gold bars and other items before speeding off in two vehicles.

Two construction workers- one English, the other French- shook hands and embraced today beneath the English Channel. The two broke through the 31-mile tunnel that links England to the continent for the first time since the Ice Age. The workers first shook hands through an 11-inch hole that marked the joining of the English and French workers who each began digging on their own sides of the channel.

Children from New York City day-care centers are gathering today for a memorial service that will culminate in the unveiling of a quilt that the youngster made as a symbol of comfort for AIDS-infected children and mothers. Organizers of the third annual World AIDS Day say the various ceremonies planned will try to call attention to the upsurge in AIDS among women. The World Health Organization says about three-Million women are infected with the virus and that number may double by the end of this decade.

A bank regulator compared the so-called ''Keating Five'' senators to vampires yesterday in testimony before the Senate ethics committee. Michael Patriarca told the senators that a key 1987 meeting involving all five senators featured a sort of ''dressing down'' of regulators. But he said that when the senators were told that criminal charges would be sought against an S-and-L kingpin who was a major political contributor, it was like- quoting now- ''throwing holy water on a vampire.''

A Los Angeles Superior Court judge is to rule later on a civil suit involving pop singer Madonna and her neighbor in the Hollywood Hills. The singer failed to appear as ordered in a courtroom yesterday, possibly because of death threats against her. A court spokeswoman said that sheriff's deputies told her that Madonna's attorneys told authorities of the threats. The neighbor claims Madonna's trees and shrubs are blocking his view of the city. Madonna counter-sued, and her testimony was given by deposition yesterday.

(DEC. 1) UPI - President Bush is meeting with top military advisers at the Camp David retreat in the Maryland mountains, and a spokeswoman says there has NO official communication with Iraq. The president, however, is aware of the Iraq News Agency report in which the ruling Revolutionary Command Council accepted his invitation to face-to-face talks on the Persian Gulf crisis. The Iraqis reportedly are again linking the Arab- Israeli dispute to the talks.

Bush proposed the direct meetings yesterday. The Iraq News Agency carried a statement from the ruling body, saying the conditional acceptance matched an Iraqi desire for what it termed ''serious and deep dialogue.'' At the same time, tens of thousands of Iraqis took to the streets of cities across the nation in government-organized anti- American demonstrations.

Representatives of the parliaments of the three mutinous Soviet Baltic republics are meeting in the Lithuanian capital city in an unprecedented move to plot a common course to independence. About 250 deputies from the three republicans gathered in Vilnius. The session is being boycotted by mainly Russian deputies who opposed the Baltic drive to end 50 years of Soviet rule.

Diplomatic sources in Paris say the embattled president of Chad left his capital city today, amid reports that Libyan-backed rebels had again defeated government troops and continued an advance on the city. There is speculation that the Chadian leader may have fled to neighboring Cameroon, but other diplomats say he may have gone to take personal command of his troops for a last-ditch offensive.

Security sources in Lebanon say Israeli warplanes raided Palestinian positions for the second time this week in the Syrian-patrolled Bekaa Valley. Palestinian sources reported that at least two people were wounded in the raids, and Israeli military spokesman say all the planes returned safely to their bases. The Lebanese sources reported that the Israeli jets hit the military headquarters of the Libyan-backed Popular Struggle Front about 22 miles east of Beirut.

In Jerusalem, Israeli police and Palestinian sources reported that an Arab woman was shot and killed today after she stabbed two policemen in the eastern part of the city. Police said the attack occurred this morning near the central bus station in Arab East Jerusalem. They said the woman attacked a group of police officers, stabbing one in the back and another in the hand. Two of the policemen responded with fire from Uzi sub-machine-guns.

(DEC. 1) UPI - President Bush and top U-S military advisers- including the Joint Chiefs of Staff- are meeting at the Camp David retreat in the Maryland mountains. There is only cautious reaction from the White House to reports that Iraq has accepted the president's proposal for face-to-face talks.

The official Iraq News Agency says the ruling Revolutionary Command Council accepted the proposal and reiterated that it will use the opportunity to discuss the Arab-Israeli dispute. The United States has repeatedly refused to link the Persian Gulf and Mideast situations.

The Syrian defense minister says his nation could move as many as 500-thousand more troops into the Persian Gulf region to protect Arab states from Iraqi aggression. But he also said in an interview with an Abu Dhabi-based newspaper that he still has hope that Iraq will withdraw from Kuwait.

A White House spokeswoman says maintenance men removed old paint from a window outside the executive mansion caused a tiny fire this morning. She says the flames were quickly extinguished, even though several firetrucks were summoned to the premises.

NEW YORK (DEC. 2) UPI - A jury weighing the fate of two youths accused of gang raping and beating a woman jogger reheard testimony Saturday about attacks on other victims at the start of the roving crime spree in Central Park.

Apparently trying to piece together the sequence of violence in the moonlit park April 19, 1989, the jury asked for a map of the park and to rehear the testimony of two of the first victims of the 'wilding' rampage.

Kharey Wise, 18, and Kevin Richardson, 16, are accused of being part of a gang of up to 30 youths that roamed through the moonlit park, randomly attacking anyone in their path on April 19, 1989.

The jury wound up its deliberations Saturday at 6:45 p.m. EST and was to resume Sunday at 9:30 a.m. EST, viewing the videotaped confession of Richardson.

FRANKFURT, Germany (DEC. 2) - Eastern German railway workers have backed their union's call to halt further strike action, after a two-day stoppage that hit the eastern network last week, the GdED trade union announced Sunday.

The union had made the recommendation after negotiations Wednesday with the Reichsbahn, the state-owned rail corporation of former East Germany.

Its package required at least the support of at least 25 per cent of the Reichsbahn's workforce of 260,000. On Sunday, the GdED said 45 per cent voted in favour in a 24-hour ballot.

The strike was called to press for job guarantees and pay increases to enable east German railworkers earn at least half of their west German counterparts, who are employees of the Deutsche Bundesbahn.

In the event, the government and union agreed on a three-hour reduction in working time, to 40 hours a week, plus extra holiday time, vacation bonuses and child allowances.

But the government made no concession on the two key demands. The two sides agreed to discuss them in the first quarter of next year.

More than a quarter of the Reichsbahn's payroll faces unemployment under the government's plan to rebuild the crumbling network.

BAGHDAD (DEC. 2) - A peace rally arranged by Japanese legal scholar Antonio Inoki opened here Sunday with the participation of sports and artistic delegations from six countries, including the United states, organizers said.

The gathering is to demonstrate "solidarity" with the people of Iraq, currently living under an international trade embargo because of the August 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, according to one organizer.

Participants from Japan, the United States, Mexico, Brazil, South Korea and India will participate in football, basketball, volley ball, judo and karate competitions.

There will also be dance and music performances.

Another meeting, entitled "a Christian congress for peace," is set to open here Monday attended by Nobel peace laureate Mother Teresa and a representative of Pope John Paul II, according to the Iraqi News Agency.

The three-day congress has been called by the church in Iraq, which includes some 300,000 Chaldean Catholics.

BAGHDAD (DEC. 2) - The Iraqi government Sunday lashed out at Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze for what it called ''provocative'' remarks on the status of Soviet nationals working in Iraq.

Shevardnadze, in an interview with the Soviet news agency Tass Friday, said Soviet troops would join a military operation against Iraq if the lives or safety of Soviet citizens were in danger.

''We are very much surprised by the provocative statements made by Mr. Shevardnadze as carried by news agencies, especially his remark that the Soviet Union will send forces to the Gulf if Soviet citizens were hurt,'' an Iraqi Foreign Ministry spokesman said in a statement to the Iraqi News Agency (Ina).

Rejecting the Soviet foreign minister's remarks as ''baseless,'' the spokesman accused Shevardnadze of seeking to find a pretext to send Soviet troops to the Gulf region ''without discussing (this matter) with the Supreme Soviet Presidium which had previously criticised similar statements by Mr. Shevardnadze.''

The spokesman warned the Soviet Union that it would lose the friendship of 200 million Arabs if it acted beyond the limits it had reached so far.

Despite Iraq's reservations about the attitudes of Soviet officials toward the Gulf crisis, Iraqi officials or nationals did not maltreat any Soviet citizen working in Iraq under existing contracts between the two countries, the spokesman said.

He said Soviet citizens who had completed their contracts were allowed to leave Iraq, adding that thousands of them had already left.

The Soviet Union last week expressed ''serious concern'' over the fate of an estimated 3,300 Soviet citizens living in Iraq who wanted to return home but were not being allowed to do so.

NDJAMENA (DEC. 2) - Chadian rebel leader Idriss Deby arrived in a black Mercedes here Sunday, hours after the vanguard of his army took up position in front of the Hotel La Tchadienne.

Mr. Deby arrived in a convoy of some 20 Japanese jeeps carrying his supporters.

Some 100 dust-covered men aboard a dozen all-terrain vehicles painted in camouflage colors and filled with weapons and ammunition had earlier entered the capital.

There were no shouts nor acclamations as the rebel leader's convoy entered the city from the North and drove by the hotel where acting president Jean Alingue Bavoyeu, the speaker of the Chadian parliament, was waiting.

Mr. Deby instead headed for the Camp des Martyrs barracks in the city centre where his troops have been stationed after a lightning campaign which forced President Hissein Habre to flee the capital Saturday.

In a statement read on national radio Mr. Alingue appealed for calm and asked Ndjamena residents to stay at home.

The statement issued by the acting head of state amid rising insecurity in the capital warned that looters would be punished.

"Security forces of (Mr. Deby's) Patriotic Salvation Movement will be deployed to ensure a return to calm", the statement added.

Before Mr. Deby's arrival shots could be heard in the capital but military sources said they were meant to welcome Mr. Deby's troops.

A "welcoming committee" set up Saturday with the aid of the French military was disarming soldiers of the defeated government army.

Mr. Deby was a close aide to President Hissein Habre before he went underground in April last year after an aborted coup attempt.

HELSINKI (DEC. 2) - A Soviet Aeroflot passenger plane was hijacked on Sunday on an internal flight but has landed in Leningrad, Finnish authorities said here Sunday.

It was not known if the hijack was over.

The Tupolev 154 with 120 passangers and a crew of seven was hijacked soon after it had left Murmansk in Northern Russia to Leningrad, the authorities said.

The hijacker had demanded to be flown over Finland to Sweden, but the plane landed later in Leningrad, they added.

Four Soviet airliners have been hijacked to Finland this year. Two hijackers have been sent back, one will be be handed over next week and the Soviet Union has also asked for the extradition of a fourth who seized a Soviet plane last month.

DHAKA (DEC. 2) - More than 40 people have died in nearly a month of anti-government violence, opposition sources said Sunday, after President Hussain Mohammad Ershad said he proclaimed a state of emergency to ensure the security of Bangladesh.

Three people died from wounds inflicted Saturday when troops opened fire in the Mirpur residential district, opposition sources said, adding that three others were also gunned down near Yusuf market.

Residents in the capital's Malibagh area recovered two bodies, sources said.

No independent confirmation of the deaths were available, but officially six deaths have been confirmed since the imposition of a state of emergency by Mr. Ershad on Tuesday.

In southern Khulna, four people had died in the previous 24 hours in clashes between demonstrators and security forces.

With the report of 13 fresh deaths, the toll since the campaign to oust Mr. Ershad began October 10 rose to 45, according to unofficial count.

Meanwhile, Mr. Ershad was quoted by national television late Saturday as saying at public rallies in the coastal towns of Tekerhat and Kalihati that the "spate of violence and arson since October 10 left me with no choice but to go for the emergency,"

Officials said the president, who seized power in a 1982 military coup, on Sunday held his first cabinet meeting since the state of emergency was proclaimed. The goal was to discuss the current situation. details of what transpired were not available.

Police announced through microphones that after the end of a 12-hour break, curfew was reimposed at 6 p.m. (1200 GMT) until further orders.

It was one of the calmest days in recent weeks, which have seen widepread violence and arson as workers, students, doctors and other professionals joined the anti-government campaign.

PRETORIA (DEC. 2) - Ten people, including the deputy mayor of strife-torn Khayelitsha black township near Cape Town, were killed in overnight violence, police said Sunday.

The unnamed deputy mayor's body was found with multiple stab wounds and his firearm was missing, police said.

Five men were fatally wounded when two groups using firearms clashed at Table Mountain in war-torn Natal. Four houses were set alight, and later another body was found in the area, police said.

Nearly 5,000 people have died in Natal since 1986 when fighting broke out between supporters of Zulu leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi's Inkatha Party and the socialist United Democratic Front.

The bodies of three men were found at Bekkersdal, near Krugersdorp, about 30 kilometres east of Johannesburg. One man had been hacked to death, another hacked and stabbed and a third stabbed to death in three separate incidents, police said.

Police in the area were also targets for stone- and petrol-bomb-throwers, police said adding that no casualties were reported.

Police arrested 25 unionists who planned to hand a petition to the department of manpower here on Saturday when they staged an illegal march, state-run radio said.

BONN (DEC. 2) - The Christian Democratic Union (CDU) of Chancellor Helmut Kohl won the German elections Sunday, according to an exit poll by ARD television channel

The CDU, together with its Bavarian branch, the Christian Social Union (CSU) won 44 per cent of the vote, the poll said. The result should allow Mr. Kohl to remain in power, in coalition with the Free Democratic Party (FPD) of German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher, which picked up 11 per cent.

The polls, given by West German television stations, predicted that Kohl's Christian Democrats (CduCsu) had won about 44 per cent of the poll and their liberal Free Democrat coalition partners just over 11 per cent - enough comfortably to continue the coalition.

The main opposition Social Democrats led by Oskar Lafontaine were expected to win about 33 per cent of the poll. The Greens were predicted to get 5.5 per cent - just enough to regain parliamentary representation.

capability, army chief General Mirza Aslam Beg said Sunday.

Domestic military production has made the country capable of fighting long wars, the general told a seminar on defence production.

Beg said the first objective of the Pakistan army was to develop ''a meaningful capability'' that would be a deterrent against any aggression.

Without mentioning the U.S. demand that Pakistan open its secret nuclear facilities to inspection, the army chief said Pakistan would not submit to any diktat or accept any terms that were against its national interest.

Officials of the two countries are expected to initiate talks on resolving the differences over the nuclear issue in Islamabad next week.

Pakistan set on its nuclear course after India, its next door neighbour and arch rival, exploded a nuclear device in 1974. It says it would submit to any restrictions on its nuclear programme only if India did same.

BONN (DEC. 2) - The Party of Democratic Socialism (Pds), the successor to East Germany's Communist Sed, won seats Sunday in the first all-German parliament since World War Ii.

In recent weeks a financial scandal had caused a further loss of confidence in the reformed party and its dynamic chairman Gregor Gysi, 42. Top Pds officials had attempted to smuggle more than 100 million Deutschmarks (66.6 million dollars) in former Sed assets out of the country using bogus companies.

Gysi insisted he knew nothing of the matter.

The Sed, which was born of the union between Communists and Social Democrats in 1946, embodied the dictatorship from East Germany's founding in 1949 until the peaceful revolution in 1989.

In December 1989, following the toppling of state and party leader Erich Honecker's regime, the Sed was renamed and Gysi elected as chairman of the new Pds. Membership sank from 2.3 million to 300,000.

In the first free East German parliamentary elections in March and in local elections on May 6, the Pds managed to achieve two-figure vote percentages.

The Pds pinned all of its hopes in an exception made in German election laws for Sunday's elections: The 5 per cent of the vote needed to gain parliamentary representation was applied separately in eastern and western Germany.

Although the Pds failed to clear the hurdle in the West, it won slightly under 10 per cent of the vote in the East.

BONN (DEC. 2) - Chancellor Helmut Kohl said on Sunday that the victory of his ruling Christian Democrats in the German elections was a superb result.

''This is a superb result of which we can be justifiably proud,'' the chancellor told jubliant supporters at party headquarters two hours after polling ended.

The chancellor, whose coalition with the Free Democrats won an absolute majority in the Bonn parliament, said it was ''the best result since the introduction of free elections in the whole of Germany''.

Kohl, flanked by his wife Hannelore and Christian Democrat General-Secretary Volker Ruehe, said he would hold talks with the Free Democrats next week on the make-up of the new coalition.

ABU DHABI (DEC. 2) - Authorities in the United Arab Emirates have turned away a shipment of 82,445 sheep from Australia on grounds that the animals were diseased, the newspaper Al-Khaleej reported Sunday.

It said the sheep had earlier been rejected by Saudi Arabia.

In Canberra, the Australian Meat and Livestock Corporation acknowledged Wednesday that some of the live sheep refused last week end by Saudi Arabia were showing symptoms of scabby mouth.

The animals had been delivered to the Saudi Red Sea port of Jeddah aboard the carrier Mawashi Al-Gaseem. Saudi authorities have refused 13 consignments of Australian sheep since last year.

Australia in 1989 exported 6.3 million sheep to Gulf countries, including 3.1 million to Saudi Arabia, 1.4 million to Kuwait, 700,000 to the UAE and 400,000 to Qatar.

PARIS (DEC. 2) - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein on Sunday called for "dialogue without preconditions" between his country and the United States and said the talks should lead "down a path other than that of war".

Interviewed on French television, Mr. Hussein called for "French representatives" to be present at the talks. However he refused to answer all questions about an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait.

On Saturday, Mr. Hussein accepted a proposal from U.S. President George Bush for the U.S. secretary of state and Iraqi foreign minister to travel to each other's capitals to discuss a peaceful resolution to the crisis caused by Iraq's invasion of Kuwait August 2.

"If President Bush wants to establish a balanced dialogue, such a dialogue must not be undertaken on (the basis of) preconditions", Mr. Hussein said, speaking through an interpreter.

He added however that it was "important" the talks "cover all the region's problems so that the peace can be real and all-encompassing".

Earlier the United States rejected any linkage to other issues, such as the Palestinian problem.

Mr. Bush has said the talks would be aimed at making Iraq understand that the international community demanded it respect United Nations resolutions concerning Kuwait. A Security Council resolution adopted Thursday authorised the use of force against Iraq if it failed to withdrawn from Kuwait by January 15.

"One may ask if it is really a question of United Nations' objectives or those of the United States", Mr. Hussein commented.

However "the important thing is that the dialogue (with Washington) lead down a path other than war", he said.

Asked whether he thought the crisis was closer to war or peace, he said "Fifty-fifty". If the aim of the talks was real "dialogue", then "we will be closer to peace", he said. If "they want to make it a formal demonstration for the Congress and international opinion to have a clear conscience...then we will be nearer to armed conflict".

During the interview, Mr. Hussein also denied that his country had a nuclear weapon.

Referring to speculation about Iraq's capacity to build nuclear weapons, Mr. Hussein said, "If we had nuclear weapons we would have no hesitation in saying so. But we do not possess nuclear arms."

As for Iraq's request for French representatives to be present at the talks,

Mr. Hussein said it would be "preferable, instead of Iraq and the United States remaining face-to-face, because the Americans have far more extensive news media than the Iraqis which can influence international public opinion".

He repeated that the holding of some 3,000 Western hostages was "one of the methods we believe could prevent war" and he called for guarantees from Washington that the United States would "not resort to force until March 25".

Baghdad has announced previously that it would begin releasing foreign hostages from December 25 and for a three month period ending March 25, if no "aggression" was launched against it in those three months.

The French interviewers, Christine Ockrent and Ivan Levai, were searched painstakingly before being allowed to see Mr. Hussein.

Mrs. Ockrent had to remove her rings and both she and Mr. Levai had to wash their hands in a bowl containing a lotion which, she said, was meant to ensure they had nothing on their hands that could "contaminate the Iraqi president".

WASHINGTON (DEC. 2) - Defense Secretary Dick Cheney confirmed Sunday that Iraq had launched surface-to-surface SCUD missiles in what appeared to be the first test-firing since April.

In an interview on ABC television, Mr. Cheney emphasized that the missiles, which he identified as "SCUD variants" had been fired from inside Iraq and had landed inside Iraqi territory.

He said the missiles were last fired in April, four months before Iraq invaded Kuwait, its tiny, oil-rich neighbor.

The missiles have a range of 565 to 645 kilometers (350 to 400 miles) and usually carry conventional weapons. In the interview, Mr. Cheney acknowledged they "could conceivably carry chemical weapons."

National Security Advisory Brent Scowcroft asked on CBS television whether the missiles were meant to be a demonstration of toughness said, "I don't know what it was...

"But what it does, is underscore the fact that this is a man of unpredicatable behavior with powerful, deadly weapons and the means to put mass destruction devices on the front of them. And he could use them at a moment's notice," he said.

QUITO (DEC. 2) - Leaders of Ecuador's Popular Democracy (DP) party announced Sunday they would form a new, center-left party, complaining that the Christian democratic group had shifted too far to the right.

DP party members have been struggling with internal splits since August 1988 when the party made a deal with President Rodrigo Borja's Democratic Left, a social democratic grouping.

But a DP faction, headed by former president Osvaldo Hurtado, later scuttled the pact.

El Telegrafo newspaper reported that dissident party members from 16 provinces headed by former deputy Julio Cesar Trujillo, met Saturday night to discuss the party's move to the right.

The disgruntled DP members complained that the party was being drawn in the direction of the country's rightist politics that were dominated by personal rivalry and supported by the wealthy.

The DP "no longer expresses the policies of popular organizations in the country and the city and it is no longer in the vanguard in the struggle for their demands and hopes," the daily quoted a dissident as saying.

DAR ES SALAAM (DEC. 2) - Dar es Salaam university, closed after bloody riots by students demanding better living conditions six months ago, is to reopen next month, vice-chancellor Geoffrey Mmari has said.

Some 3,000 students were expelled after the riots by students demanding better accommodation and conditions for study. Many have been pardoned and will be re-admitted, Professor Mmari said at a graduation ceremony Saturday.

But an unspecified number of alleged ring-leaders have been barred, he said.

New students wishing to enroll for the 1990-91 academic year would have to wait for admission until the old students had completed their studies, he added.

President Ali Hassan Mwinyi, the university's chancellor, awarded post-graduate degrees, diplomas and certificates to 351 students, mostly from the medical school here and the Arusha law school, which were not involved in the unrest at the main campus.

Since the university was closed in May, the authorities have renovated campus buildings and dormitories, and have built new houses for faculty members.

BONN (DEC. 2) - The West German Greens became the latest victim of German unity on Sunday when they failed to win a seat in the Bonn parliament for the first time since 1983.

The ecologically-oriented party of pacifists and left-leaning intellectuals collected less than 5 per cent of the vote needed for representation in the national legislature.

In the eastern part of Germany, where there were separate election rules, the Greens there polled enough votes to give them eight seats in the 656-member Bundestag.

The result appears to herald the end of an era which began in the early 1980s and led to the Greens joining government coalitions at state level in Hesse, West Berlin and Lower Saxony.

The spectacular election victories recorded by the Greens prodded the major parties to give more consideration to the environment.

The environmental programme adopted by Chancellor Helmut Kohl's Christian Democrats (Cdu) and the ecology-oriented goals of the Social Democrats (Spd) robbed the Greens of many of their supporters.

Another nail in their coffin was the rapprochement between East and West and the moves towards global disarmament, which led to the disbanding of the peace movement - a major backer of the Greens.

The Greens themselves contributed to their own downfall by continual bickering among hardliners in the Marxist wing of the party and the so-called realists, who favoured cooperation with the Spd.

The rapid pace of German unity, which was generally opposed by the Greens, accelerated the decline and led to the unexpectedly clear rejection by voters in Sunday's first all-German elections in 58 years.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 2) - A senior U.S. official Sunday denied that President George Bush's meeting Friday with Chinese Foreign Minister Qian Qichen was a reward to China for not killing the U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force against Iraq.

Several Democratic congressmen had criticized the meeting, the first between

Mr. Bush and a Chinese official since the June 1989 massacre of pro-democracy demonstrators in Beijing, as a reward for China's abstention in Thursday's U.N. vote.

Mr. Bush suspended high-level exchanges with China after the Beijing suppression.

National Security Adviser Brent Scowcroft, asked Sunday if the United States had rewarded China by meeting with a Chinese official, told CBS television: "Suppose they had voted against us?"

"I don't know if they would have or not, but this meeting was in no way a reward for anything," he added.

China, which has veto power as one of the five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council, abstained from the vote which set a January 15 deadline for Iraq to pull out of Kuwait.

China voted in favor of all 12 previous resolutions against Iraq in connection with its August 2 invasion of its tiny, oil-rich neighbor.

Mr. Scowcroft said the Bush-Qian meeting was aimed at making it "unmistakably clear, personally, not through emissaries ... that there was no forgetting Tiananmen Square" in Beijing.

When asked whether a snub instead of a meeting with Mr. Qian might not have been more effective, he said the United States has "been snubbing them (China) for a long time."

Mr. Scowcroft said Mr. Bush's meeting with Mr. Qian was aimed at letting China know "there was no let up sanctions" the United States imposed after the Tiananmen Square crackdown.

SEOUL (DEC. 3) - South Korean textile exports dropped and imports grew in the first 10 months of the year as manufacturers failed to meet competition from cheaper Asian suppliers, the industry said Monday.

South Korea still retained a 9.15 billion dollar surplus in the industry, one of the most important to the local economy, said the Korea Federation of Textile Industries (KFTI).

Overall imports to the end of October were 2.95 million dollars, a 3.9 per cent increase over the same period last year, while exports dropped three per cent to 12.1 billion dollars, the KFTI said.

A KFTI official said the industry had suffered from demand reduction in the industrialized world due to the Gulf crisis, price competition from Taiwan, Hong Kong and China and the appreciation of the won currency.

He also said the textile industry needed to promote more investment to automate its facilities in the face of a manpower shortage.

"But the main reason is price competition from the other 'Dragons,'" he said in reference to Asia's three other newly industrializing economies.

Exports of finished products suffered the biggest fall, plunging 12.1 percent from the same period last year to 7.36 billion dollars. Exports of fabrics however grew by 20 percent to 3.79 billion dollars.

Imports of finished products rose a whopping 53.1 percent to 288 million dollars, the KFTI said.

(DEC. 2) UPI - Georgia Tech has done all it can in the regular season. The No. 3 Yellow Jackets must now wait for the outcome of the bowl season to see if it can win the national championship.

With sophomore Shawn Jones throwing four touchdown passes, Georgia Tech defeated arch-rival Georgia Saturday 40-23, enabling the Yellow Jackets to enter the bowl season as the the nation's only unbeaten major college team.

''It's great to end the season without a defeat,'' Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Ross said. ''It's a fantastic accomplishment.''

Jones threw TD passes of 48 yards to Bobby Rodriguez and 21 yards to Emmett Merchant in the second quarter and scoring passes of 7 yards to James MacKendree and 25 yards to Rodriguez in the third.

He completed 15 of 20 passes for 225 yards and hit 12 straight at one point.

Jones also was responsible for two successful 2-point conversions in the second, throwing to Greg Lester for the first and running in the other.

''Shawn had a fantastic day,'' Ross said. ''He was really into the ballgame. I know it meant an awful lot to him to get the four scores.''

Georgia Tech finished its regular season 10-0-1, with the tie at North Carolina. The Atlantic Coast Conference champion plays No. 14 Nebraska Jan. 1 in the Citrus Bowl at Orlando, Fla.

To win the national title, the Yellow Jackets must defeat Nebraska and receive upsets from Notre Dame over No. 1 Colorado in the Orange Bowl and Texas over No. 2 Miami in the Cotton Bowl.

Georgia finished 4-7 for its worst season since the early '60s.

--- AROUND THE COLLEGE SCENE ---

In other games on a sparse day of college football, Houston crushed Arizona State 62-45, No. 2 Miami topped San Diego St. 30-28, No. 4 Texas nipped No. 17 Texas A&M 28-27, No. 10 Tennessee blasted Vanderbilt 49-20 and Alabama downed No. 20 Auburn 16-7.

At Toyko, David Klingler threw for 716 yards and seven touchdowns while setting three NCAA passing records and lifting Houston to its season-ending victory. Klingler's performance came too late to help the junior's Heisman Trophy bid. The award for the nation's top college player went to BYU's Ty Detmer, and Klingler finished a distant fifth.

At San Diego, Craig Erickson threw for 284 yards and two touchdowns, including an 11-yard TD pass that snapped a third-quarter tie, helping the Hurricanes survive. Erickson, who completed 17 of 39 passes, found Randal Hill in the end zone to give Miami a 27-20 lead in the third. The Hurricanes recovered a fumble on the Aztec's next possession, setting up Carlos Huerta's third field goal of the game, a 22-yarder.

At Austin, Texas, Peter Gardere ran for two touchdowns and threw for another and the the SWC champion Longhorns stopped a 2-point conversion attempt by Aggies running back Darren Lewis with 3:46 left. A 38-yard run by Adrian Walker in the final minutes enabled Texas to run out the clock and end a six-game losing streak to Texas A&M in the 97-year-old series.

At Nashville, Tenn., Tony Thompson ran for 236 yards and four touchdowns, helping the Vols lock up the Southeastern Conference title and Sugar Bowl bid. Tennessee, 7-2-2 overall and 5-1-1 in the SEC, scored 35 points in the second half to overcome Vanderbilt's 17-14 halftime lead.

At Birmingham, Ala., the Crimson Tide used a thieving defense and the foot of senior kicker Philip Doyle, making Gene Stallings the first Alabama coach to beat the Tide's arch rival on his first try since J.W. H. Pollard did it in 1906. Not even Bear Bryant, who was 19-6 against Auburn, beat the Tigers his first time out.

(DEC. 2) UPI - Seven astronauts are strapped in aboard the shuttle Columbia awaiting launch at 1:28 a-m, e-d-t, from Cape Canaveral. However, there are major doubts as to whether the ship will blastoff as planned, with weather conditions unfavorable and a reported buildup of helium gas used to operate engine valves. The effort is the fifth in six months to begin a 10-day astronomy mission.

In Soviet Central Asia, engineers are readying a Soyuz booster for launch later Sunday to carry a crew of three, including a Japanese television journalist, to the Mir space station. If all goes well with both launches, a record 12 humans will end up in orbit at the same time.

In Chicago, a group of Americans calling themselves ''Angels for Peace'' announced Saturday they will accept Saddam Hussein's offer to visit their hostage relative during the holidays. In Baghdad, Iraq's official news agency says the Iraqi leader is accepting President Bush's offer to hold high-level talks on the Persian Gulf crisis. However, Iraq wants to include the Arab-Israeli conflict in the discussions.

French air force transport planes are evacuating more than 900 foreigners- most of them French- from Chad's capital, where it is Sunday. The planes arrived as rebel forces reportedly backed by Libya continued their advance on the city, where shops are closed and the streets are empty. Radio France International quoted one man as saying Saturday- ''there has been shooting since nine this morning. There is shooting now.'' Chad's president fled to Cameroon Saturday after France refused to come to his aid.

New York City's health commissioner calls it a ''sad milestone.'' The city's Department of Health has reported its 30-thousandth AIDS case since the epidemic began 10 years ago. Dr. Woodrow Myers says about 64 percent of the New Yorkers afflicted with the virus have died. But Myers says Americans should NOT let the numbers- quote- ''numb us.'' In his words- ''AIDS is a preventable disease.''

Canadian police say three bandits used a garbage truck to smash through a fence and onto a tarmac where a plane had just landed at a Montreal airport. The men made off with a 13-Million dollar shipment of gold and other valuables from the twin-engine plane in the Saturday heist. Police say the trio did NOT fire the machine guns they were carrying and NO one was hurt.

DHAKA, Bangladesh (DEC. 2) UPI - Authorities relaxed a curfew in the troubled capital Sunday for 12 hours, the longest break residents have had since President Hussein Muhammed Ershad declared a national state of emergency early last week.

The curfew relaxation came one day after 11 people were killed and 200 others were injured when security forces opened fire on anti- government demonstrators in Dhaka and other parts of the country.

More than 60 people have been killed in violence since the imposition of emergency rule last Tuesday.

The nation observed a general strike Saturday and opposition leaders have called for similar strikes to be staged on Dec. 5, 10, 11 and 12 to protest the state of emergency and to demand Ershad's resignation.

''We demand the immediate withdrawl of the emergency,'' Amir Hussein Amu, joint secretary general of the opposition left-wing Awami League, said during a news conference Saturday evening. ''The people have rejected this government and it cannot stay in power. Our movement will continue until the fall of this government.''

On Sunday, authorities relaxed the curfew for 12 hours, beginning at 6 a.m., and people went shopping for food and other necessities.

It was the longest break Dhaka residents have had since Ershad announced the national state of emergency. Police and soldiers stood guard on street corners as people went about their business.

Ershad, while announcing the emergency, said the step was necessary ''to preserve national security and save the country from rampant violence.''

He accused opposition parties of endangering internal security and the economic life of the country.

The government crackdown came in the wake of frequent anti-government strikes over the past one month by opposition parties that disrupted normal life and often resulted in clashes between rival groups.

An eight-party alliance of the Awami League and a seven-party coalition led by the Bangladesh Nationalist Party organized the anti- government rallies and strikes since October.

The strikes aimed to force the resignation of Ershad and to insist on a general election under a neutral interim government.

Ershad seized power from an elected government in a bloodless coup in 1982 and obtained a five-year presidential term in the 1986 elections, boycotted by the major opposition parties.

BERLIN (DEC. 2) UPI - East Germany's former Stalinist leader Erich Honecker remained free Sunday morning after authorities issued an arrest warrant for his alleged responsibility for killings at the Berlin Wall, officials said.

German authorities had not received permission from Soviet officials to arrest the ailing, disgraced 78-year-old, who is staying at a Soviet military hospital, the officials said.

Under the terms of a bilateral treaty over the status of the 360,000 Soviet troops in East Germany, the German authorities would need Soviet permission to arrest Honecker within the military compound.

It was not immediately clear whether the Soviet authorities intended to allow the Germans to arrest Honecker later.

Honecker's lawyers said they would contest the warrant, which was issued Friday after authorities in Berlin found documents that showed the former hard-line communist leader had given the order to shoot anyone seeking to flee East Germany.

Berlin Justice Department officials said they discovered the documents at the former East German armed forces headquarters. They said the shooting order had originally been removed from the files it should have been in.

A Justice Department spokesman said sufficient evidence had been gathered to charge Honecker with homicide in connection with the killings.

More than 250 people were killed while seeking to flee the East Germany, 77 of them at the Berlin Wall.

The spokesman said authorities had only intended to announce the arrest warrant had been issued after Sunday's national and Berlin elections but had been forced to make the announcement Saturday after information was leaked to a Berlin newspaper.

Doctors said earlier that Honecker, who suffers from cancer, was not fit to stand trial.

Honecker, then head of the Defense Council, had played a key role in the secret planning for the Aug. 13 1961 erection of the wall by Soviet- backed East German troops.

Shortly after that, he allegedly ordered that anybody seeking to flee to West Germany should be shot.

Honecker was swept from power Oct. 18, 1989 at the height of pro- democracy demonstrations that eventually led to the collapse of his Stalinist government and to the Nov. 9, 1989 opening of the Berlin Wall.

He was evicted from his house in the elite Wandlitz suburb of Berlin and taken to the house of a Protestant pastor near the capital.

He and his wife, Margot, were later taken to the Soviet military hospital in Beelitz, just outside Berlin, following complaints from neighbors and because of fears for his safety.

KHARTOUM, Sudan (DEC. 2) UPI - Sudan, one of Iraq's few allies in the Middle East, Sunday welcomed President Bush's call for direct talks to end the Persian Gulf crisis but said the United States was trying to protect its oil interests.

''The new U.S. initiative, if it is genuine, constitutes a return to consciousness of the horrible hazards of war between Iraq and the foreign troops amassed in the Middle East,'' government spokesman Al Saddiq Bakheit said in a statement.

Sudan, ruled by a fundamentalist Moslem military junta, previously refused to condemn Iraq's invasion of Kuwait and had offered Sudanese troops to support Iraqi forces.

''The consequences of the gulf crisis underlines once again the need for a persistant regional Arab understanding (and a) unified Arab body,'' the statement added.

Bakheit said the U.S. readiness to talk resulted from its realization that war would jeopardize not only the oil fields but also the current Arab balance of power.

''The U.S. fears both prospects. Oil constitutes a lifeline for the Western powers while the existing balance of power constitutes access to maintain to political influence that maintains that power,'' Bakheit said.

HONG KONG (DEC. 2) UPI - A counterfeiting ring producing fake U.S. $100 bills has been broken up and authorities seized printing equipment and arrested four men, police said Sunday.

Authorities said the syndicate was discovered and broken up before any fake currency had been placed in circulation, but 25 counterfeit $100 bills were seized in a raid Friday night.

They said enough paper to print $7 million worth of counterfeit U.S. currency was discovered in the makeshift factory, along with other printing equipment to be used in the scheme.

Four men were arrested at the printing site in the raid but their names were not released until they could be formally charged, officials said.

BAIKONUR COSMODROME, U.S.S.R. (DEC. 2) UPI - A Soyuz rocket rumbled into space Sunday, carrying Japanese television correspondent Toyohiro Akiyama and two Soviet cosmonauts to the Mir space station.

The Soyuz TM-11 rocket lifted off smoothly and on time at 11:13 a.m. Moscow time (3:13 a.m. EST) from the same launch pad at the Baikonur Cosmodrome where in 1961 Yuri Gagarin began his historic first manned space flight.

Tokyo Broadcasting System paid $10 million for the right to have Akiyama, a 48-year-old former Vietnam War correspondent and Washington bureau chief for TBS, become the first journalist in space.

The decision to sell a foreign journalist the chance to be first in space on a Soviet mission set off howls of protest from Soviet correspondents. The Glavkosmos space agency has said a future flight will be reserved for a Soviet reporter.

During his eight-day mission to the orbiting Mir space station, Akiyama will file daily television and radio reports and also help carry out Japanese scientific experiments.

Currently the chief foreign news editor for TBS, Japan's No. 1 broadcast network, Akiyama was chosen over dozens of other TBS journalists for the assignment that required a year of training at the Soviet Star City cosmonaut base. He also had to break a four-pack-a-day cigarette habit.

Moments before the launch Sunday, Akiyama joked and chatted calmly with his wife, Kyoko, via a television hookup from the space capsule. Kyoko, looking tense by contrast, admonished him to be serious and do his best.

Accompanying Akiyama to the space station are Soviet cosmonauts Musa Manarov and mission commander Viktor Afanasiev, who will remain on the space station when Akiyama returns to Earth Dec. 10 with the current Mir crew, Gennady Strekalov and Gennady Manakov.

The $10 million fee paid by TBS and the Japanese advertising on the rocket are part of a Soviet attempt to make the country's space program pay for itself. TBS executives said last week the Glavkosmos space agency was still asking for more money - including $10,000 an hour to have the cosmonauts hold a video camera.

Aboard Mir, Akiyama will make a daily 10-minute television broadcast and two 20-minute radio broadcasts that will be relayed to Moscow and then on to Tokyo.

''I would like to feel the experience of space with all my senses - just what space is,'' he said at a pre-launch news conference. ''I would like to describe them to my countrymen in Japanese.''

TBS covered the launch live with no less than 20 television cameras, including one in the control room to capture the launch button being pushed and one under the launch pad that promptly melted at ignition.

A hoard of at least 150 foreign journalists watched the launch at the once-secret Baikonur Cosmodrome on the barren steppe of the Soviet republic of Kazakhstan.

Akiyama's disappointed backup for the flight, camera operator Rioko Kikuchi, won hearts at a pre-flight news conference when she said she hoped the Soviet crew she trained with could take her on their next mission ''as a personal item'' to test weightlessness.

Kikuchi, the 26-year-old backup ''cosmoreporter'' who suffered an appendicitis attack Monday and had to be operated on, came to the news conference with the beaming smile that has made her a favorite at Star City, where she trained for a year.

When asked if she ever hoped now to fly into space, she explained that Akiyamos crew was taking along the same little doll that Yuri Gagarin took on man's maiden space flight in 1961 - a doll that began floating free as soon as zero gravity was reached.

''I would like my crew to take me along (on their next mission) like that little doll,'' she said.

In addition to his daily broadcasts, Akiyama will also be helping carry out three Japanese scientific experiments during the mission, including one to show how frogs react to weightlessness in space.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (DEC. 2) UPI - Running six months late, the shuttle Columbia's crew rocketed smoothly into orbit Sunday on a 10-day flight to aim a $150 million battery of telescopes at the most violent stars and galaxies in the universe.

Orbiting the globe at an altitude of 219 miles, Columbia's 60-foot- long payload bay doors were opened about 90 minutes after launch, exposing the ship's ''Astro-1'' cargo of telescopes to the deep night of space.

''I can assure you there are a lot of elated shuttle and payload people ... to finally have Columbia and Astro in orbit,'' said launch director Robert Sieck. ''It's like an early Christmas present.''

After an unexpected 21-minute delay to check out low clouds in the area, the leak-free shuttle's powerful solid-fuel boosters ignited at 1:49 a.m. EST with a brilliant rush of flame, instantly pushing the 4.5- million-pound spaceplane away from its launching stand.

Launch of the 38th shuttle mission, NASA's second in a record-tying 17 days, came six months behind schedule - another shuttle record - because of dangerous hydrogen leaks that blocked launch attempts in May and September.

But after resolving a handful of minor technical glitches Saturday, it was clear sailing Sunday and Columbia, looking like a giant comet streaking across the cloudy night sky, majestically climbed away atop twin pillars of flame.

Joining Brand, 59, aboard Columbia were co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42, John ''Mike'' Lounge, 44, Robert Parker, 53, Jeffrey Hoffman, 46, and civilian astronomers Ronald Parise, 39, and Samuel Durrance, 47.

The first item on the agenda for the astronauts after reaching orbit Sunday was to begin activating Columbia's ''Astro-1'' payload, a complex task expected to take up most of the crew's first day in orbit. Science observations are scheduled to begin early Monday.

In Soviet Central Asia, meanwhile, a Proton booster blasted off at 3:13 a.m. EST carrying a crew of three, including a Japanese television journalist, to the Mir space station where two cosmonauts have been on duty since Aug. 1. As a result, a record 12 humans were in orbit at the same time.

The goal of the 38th shuttle mission, the sixth this year, is to study the most energetic stars and galaxies in the universe by analyzing high-energy X-rays and ultraviolet light that cannot penetrate Earth's atmosphere.

To collect as much data as possible, the astronauts will work around the clock in two 12-hour shifts, with Hoffman, Lounge and Durrance making up the ''day'' crew and Parker, Gardner and Parise staffing Columbia for the overnight shift. Brand is not assigned a specific shift.

Unlike the $1.5 billion Hubble Space Telescope, the four telescopes making up the Astro-1 payload will remain inside Columbia's cargo bay throughout the mission, operated by the astronauts from the crew cabin much like a normal observatory.

By extending humanity's vision beyond the blue end of the electromagnetic spectrum, Columbia's crew may find evidence for the existence of as-yet-unseen black holes, gain insights into the nature of enigmatic quasars, exploding suns and galaxies with ''active'' centers that send out torrents of energy.

The astronauts also plan to teach an astronomy lesson from space that will be beamed into classrooms on Earth and to chat with ''ham'' radio operators around the world as time permits, including the Soviet cosmonauts aboard the Mir space station.

Columbia is scheduled to land at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., to close out a nine-day, 21-hour and 57-minute mission.

The shuttle originally was scheduled for blastoff May 30 but the flight was grounded the night before when sensors detected explosive hydrogen gas spewing into the ship's engine room.

NASA managers initially suspected the sole cause of the leakage was damaged seals inside a massive 17-inch-wide fuel line fitting that subsequently was replaced with one borrowed from the new shuttle Endeavour.

After a second launch delay because of electrical problems with the X-ray telescope, another leak was discovered the night before a Sept. 6 launch try.

Three suspect fuel pumps were replaced before engineers discovered a partially crushed seal in a valve leading to main engine No. 3. The $250 seal was replaced, but Columbia's fourth launch attempt ended in failure when still more leaking hydrogen blocked a Sept. 18 liftoff.

Finally, after replacing yet another damaged valve seal and tightening virtually every fuel line fitting in the shuttle's engine room, Columbia passed a leak test last month to set the stage for launch.

(DEC. 2) UPI - The U.S.-led multinational military force in the Persian Gulf region was put on a state of alert early Sunday after intelligence reports indicated suspicious Iraqi missile activity, Cairo radio said.

The state of alert was not of the highest level, but some troops were ordered into special suits designed to repel chemical weapons early Sunday, the radio said.

There were no details on the type or extent of the reported missile activity.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein said Saturday that he would accept a request by President Bush for urgent, high-level meetings in Baghdad and Washington, but said the Palestinian-Israeli conflict must also be on the agenda.

Bush's call for the face-to-face meetings was praised Sunday by Sudan and Syria, which said the dialogue was ''suitable and appropriate'' if it avoided a war in the region, Egypt's semi-official Middle East News Agency said.

MENA also reported Sunday that 437 Filipinos detained in Iraq had been flown from the Iraqi port of Basra to Manila.

Bush conferred with his top military advisers Saturday at his retreat at Camp David, Md., about the reports of Iraq's conditional acceptance of direct talks to resolve the crisis triggered by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Kuwait's Crown Prince Saad al-Sabah welcomed Bush's call for talks, but said his government was not prepared to make ''any sort of compromises'' and had not decided to participate in the dialogue.

''The time has come for Saddam Hussein to implement all the (U.N.) Security Council resolutions and he should pull out his troops without any sort of conditions,'' the prince, who serves as prime minister of Kuwait, said at a news conference in the Saudi resort city of Taif.

The moves toward talks came as Baghdad Radio said tens of thousands of Iraqis marched in anti-U.S. protests in Baghdad and other cities. Diplomats in the region said the protests were organized by the government to protest a U.N. Security Council resolution Thursday authorizing force against Iraq.

The radio quoted demonstrators as saying, ''The Security Council has become a tool in the hands of the United States to implement its aggressive schemes against Iraq'' and, ''We will not give in to any threats or pressures.''

The demonstrations were organized on Martyrs Day, when Baghdad commemorates some 500,000 Iraqis who died in the 1980-88 Iran-Iraq war.

A U.S. airman was killed Saturday in a vehicle accident at an air base in eastern Saudi Arabia, the Air Force said.

The soldier's name was withheld pending notification of family, and the Air Force would not release details of the accident. He was a member of the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing's civil engineering squadron based at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in North Carolina.

Syrian Defense Minister Lt. Gen. Mustafa Tlass, meanwhile, reportedly said Damascus - an ardent Arab foe of Iraq - was willing to send an additional 500,000 troops to add to its 4,000 troops already in the gulf.

That would make Syria's armies the largest Arab contingent in the region, ahead of Saudi Arabia and Egypt, and make Arab troops more important if hostilities erupt after a mid-January U.N. deadline for Iraqi to leave Kuwait.

Washington has deployed some 230,000 troops to the region and has indicated it will deploy some 200,000 more after the first of the year.

A White House spokeswoman said the U.S. charges d'affaires in Baghdad, Joseph Wilson, had conveyed Bush invitation for talks to the Iraqi government.

A statement issued by Iraq's ruling Revolutionary Command Council chaired by

Saddam said Baghdad accepted Bush's offer, but said ''Iraq will seek to broaden any window of dialogue'' to include ''the Palestinian issue and other issues of occupied Arab lands.''

''Iraq seeks more than anything else what it has always sought ... to conduct a serious and deep dialogue,'' the Iraqi News Agency, monitored in Cairo, quoted the statement as saying.

JERUSALEM (DEC. 2) UPI - Three Arabs traveling on an Israeli bus Sunday drew knives, shouted ''God is great,'' and began stabbing passengers, slaying one and wounding three before a policeman killed one of the assailants.

The attack, on the border between the Tel Aviv suburb of Ramat Gan and the ultra-Orthodox community of Bene Beraq, was the latest in a series of stabbings by Arabs against Israelis in less than two months. The attacks began shortly after Israeli police opened fire and killed at least 17 Palestinians Oct. 8 on the Temple Mount, Islam's third holiest site.

A spokesman for Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir blamed Sunday's attack on what he called a trend toward Arab extremism since the Persian Gulf crisis began. Police said the three assailants were residents of the Israeli-occupied territories and were under age 20.

''What happened this morning is another result of the violent incitement among the Arabs toward fundamentalism and extremism,'' said Shamir spokesman Avi Pazner. ''This has been going on since the beginning of the crisis in the gulf and Israel is facing waves upon waves of terrorist attacks.

''We have no doubt whatsoever that we will be able to put that wave down like we have done so many times in the past,'' Pazner said.

Exactly a week before Sunday's stabbings, a heavily armed Egyptian border guard crossed into Israel and ambushed passing vehicles, killing four Israelis and wounding at least 23.

The three Arabs who carried out Sunday's attack entered the bus several stops before they pulled out knives about 9:30 a.m., shouted ''God is great'' in Arabic, and began stabbing passengers, police and witnesses said.

''Suddenly, there was an enormous commotion in the bus,'' one witness told Army Radio. ''I saw people getting out of the bus, full of blood. Two of them were terribly wounded. One of them was a yeshiva (religious academy) boy cut at several places.''

Four Israelis were wounded before the driver stopped the bus, fired in the air with his gun and opened the doors for the estimated 30 passengers to escape. One of the passengers later died from his wounds in an Israeli hospital.

According to police and witness accounts, the driver held the assailants at gunpoint as they sat on the empty bus before a police sapper who had been driving nearby boarded the vehicle.

One of the three Arabs rose from his seat and ran toward the policeman with his knife. The Arab slightly wounded the policeman in the hand as he opened fire with his Uzi submachine gun and killed the assailant.

Of the two other Arabs, one was shot in the head and the other apparently beaten by passengers, Army Radio reported. Police arrested at least one Israeli who tried to attack the Arabs as police took them from the bus, the radio reported.

''I heard 'Allah akbar' (God is great in Arabic) and cries. I ran to the front door ... and we fled outside,'' said bus passenger Elana Barbash, recounting the attack. ''When I heard 'Allah akbar' I understood what was going on. ... When I fled outside I saw the wounded falling out of the bus.''

PARIS (DEC. 2) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein said in a television interview that the chances of finding a peaceful solution to the Persian Gulf crisis are ''50-50'' and will depend on whether U.S. Secretary of State James Baker is ready to engage in a ''real dialogue.''

The Iraqi president told French television that peace or war will depend on whether Baker, who is expected to visit Baghdad in the coming days, will try to negotiate a settlement or simply attempt to portray to the U.S. Congress and the American people that the Iraqis are intransigent and war inevitable.

''If one wants to make of this encounter a real dialogue then we will be closer to peace,'' Saddam said.

''But if one wants to make of this meeting only a formal session to give the American Congress, the American people, and international public opinion a good conscience and to allow them to say they tried to talk with Iraq and that Iraq refused to give up its position, then in that case we are closer to war.''

The interview was conducted Saturday night. A small segment of it was broadcast during the mid-Sunday news by the state-owned Antenne 2 network, and the full interview was to be aired in the evening.

CAIRO, Egypt (DEC. 2) UPI - Former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali left Baghdad with 15 American hostages Sunday after delaying his trip in an apparantly unsuccessful attempt to free three more U.S. nationals, Egypt's Middle East News Agency said.

MENA said Ali, who arrived in the Iraqi capital last week, left on a chartered Iraqi Airways plane to Amman. From there, the group is expected to continue on another flight to Washington.

It said an undetermined number of Belgians and British nationals, freed by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein late last week, were also on the plane.

Ali, bucking U.S. State Department warnings against travel to Iraq, met with Saddam in Baghdad on an independent mission to win freedom for some of the estimated 700 Americans trapped in Iraq and occupied Kuwait.

He was scheduled to leave Iraq Saturday but remained an extra day to try to win the release of three more unidentified American hostages.

Many of the Americans are being held at key economic and military installations as a human shield against attack. Saddam has promised to release all foreigners in batches beginning on Christmas Day.

JERUSALEM (DEC. 2) UPI - Foreign Minister David Levy said Sunday Secretary of State James Baker had reassured Israel the Bush administration had not changed its position opposing linking the Persian Gulf crisis with the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

In a letter sent Friday to Levy, Baker reportedly said recent U.S. steps did not reflect any change in American policy related to the crisis triggered by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait during an oil and border dispute.

Friday, a day after the U.N. Security Council authorized the use of force by Jan. 15 if Iraqi troops did not leave Kuwait, President Bush called for an exchange of envoys to forestall war.

''There is no change in the U.S. position,'' Levy said, referring to the contents of Baker's letter. ''There is no change in its principles against aggression and there is no change at all in its opposition to linkage of the Iraqi aggression and the Palestinian-Israeli conflict.''

In response to Bush's offer, Iraqi President Saddam Hussein said he welcomed talks to resolve the crisis but urged Bush to accept a ''serious and deep dialogue'' that will include the Palestinian question.

During the weekly Cabinet meeting Sunday, Levy demanded his fellow government ministers refrain from making damaging statements on the Iraqi-U.S. talks, Army Radio reported.

Minister of Science Yuval Ne'eman had told the Cabinet he feared an Iraqi-American agreement would be made at Israel's expense, and Levy reportedly chastized the leader of the ultra right-wing Tehiya Party, the radio said.

ARMY DRILLING SITE, Eastern Saudi Arabia (DEC. 2) UPI - In a dusty basin hostile to everything but scorpions and desert mice, Steven Johnston watched his drilling crew try to tap into the storehouse of precious resources that lies beneath the surface of the Arabian desert.

''Drilling is a 50-50 chance. It can make you or break you,'' said Johnston, echoing the oilman's motto.

But Johnston, 35, of Atwater, Calif., is not looking for black gold. The stripes on his hardhat say sergeant and he works for the Army, not ARAMCO - the Arabian American Oil Company. The precious resource he's hunting is drinking water, a commodity as valuable to U.S. troops in the desert as oil.

''For the troops, yes, it's got to be precious,'' said Staff Sgt. James Bellamy, the manager of the drilling site. Like the other troops in Saudi Arabia, Bellamy and his drilling crew are drinking bottled water now and taking showers in water hauled from wells a long distance away.

The task of providing water to hundreds of thousands of soldiers keeps truck drivers on the road constantly. So the Army hopes to drill a series of up to 30 wells to cut down on the time spent hauling water to ease the strain on the roads and the drivers.

''If we can drill wells and space them out, then you're cutting down on time for someone on the road,'' said Bellamy, 35, of North Myrtle Beach, S.C. ''They're on the road all the time. That's what they're really trying to cut.''

If it seems unusual to be drilling in the desert for water, then maybe it helps to know that the drillers have to go to unusual depths to find it - about twice the 500 or so feet they would have to drill in the United States to find an underground river, or aquifer.

''The aquifer they told us (about) ... is around 12- to 13-hundred feet, so we're going down 13, 14 hundred feet,'' Bellamy said. ''There's plenty of water in Saudi Arabia. Just getting it, that's the problem. Reaching down, way down, and getting it.''

The drilling rig used by the 865th Well Drilling Detachment is designed for 600-foot holes, but can go as deep as 1,500 feet. Once they get started, the two drilling crews keep the rig going 24-hours a day and work long shifts for a couple of weeks until they get the job done.

''I run the night crew. We run 12 hour shifts because once you start drilling you don't stop,'' Johnson shouted over the roar of the drilling rig. ''You can't stop because you're afraid the hole will cave in and you'll lose all the steel.''

Something similar has happened once already since the crew started trying to drill their first water well in Saudi Arabia. The drill bit into clay 780 feet down and refused to budge so the men had to drag 780 feet of steel out of the hole and move to a new site. Fishing in the desert, they called it.

''We got stuck down in the hole. Steel stuck in the hole,'' said Bellamy. ''We got to be fishing in the desert ... You got to fish the steel out of that hole. Had to pull it all back up. Fish down, fishing in the dark. Fish it out.''

Although Americans have drilled for oil in Saudi Arabia for decades, Bellamy, who has bored for water in the United States, Honduras, Somalia and Jordan, said he would not be one bit happy about finding oil instead of drinking water.

''No, not at all, not at all, no, no, no, no,'' he said. ''Don't even mention the oil. Let's hit the water first and then we'll worry about the oil.''

Like other support soldiers in the desert, ready to drop their daily tasks and pick up arms if the Army decides, the troops at the drilling rig have had to adjust to the other life that inhabits their patch of sand.

The scorpions they've encountered are kept in a jar of formaldehyde, critters an inch and a half long with translucent skin that shows the dark, blood-red venom in their stinging tails.

The soldiers also kept friendly desert mice as pets for awhile. They trapped the rodents by cutting off the top of a plastic water bottle, burying it in the sand and putting food on a napkin on top of the foot- high container. The mice went for the bait and, plop, dropped into the empty water bottle and couldn't get out.

Johnston said they kept the mice and, typical engineers, constructed a maze out of plastic water bottles for them to run through. The springy mice escaped after a while, bounding over the side of an 18-inch-high box where they were being held.

The mice provided a break from what Johnston said was was hard, back- breaking work, sometimes filled with days of manhandling 20-foot sections of pipe and battering the steel with sledgehammers. Still, he said he preferred being a driller over life as a combat soldier.

''I'd rather be here,'' he said. ''Always something to do. Laying out there in the desert, just laying there with nothing to do is kind of boring to me. This here, we get to work, time goes by.''

As the sun slides down one horizon and the full moon rises on the other, it's moving toward Johnston's time of day.

''I like the night shift out here,'' he said. ''We sit here and drink coffee and just watch the drill go round and round and round.

LONDON (DEC. 2) UPI - Nine women ignored the advice of the British government and flew to Baghdad Sunday to meet with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and plead for the release of their hostage husbands.

''We're going to do what we can while we're out there, and hopefully President Saddam Hussein will be a little bit sympathetic and let us take all the men home for Christmas,'' said Gilly Battersey, a member of the group.

The women left on a World Jordanian Airbus flight to Jordan and planned to continue to Baghdad Monday in hopes of meeting with Saddam. Their husbands are among foreign hostages held by Iraq since Baghdad invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2.

Britain continued to discourage private citizens from traveling to Iraq to secure the release of hostages, many of whom are being held at key installations in Iraq and Kuwait as human shields against attack by a U.S.-led multinational force deployed in the Persian Gulf region.

''There is no question of the British government encouraging any person or group negotiating with Saddam Hussein on the release of hostages,'' said a Foreign Office spokesman.

''The position of families making personal visits is different, but we do not encourage or help them,'' the spokesman said. ''However, in a free society it is impossible to prevent families going if they are determined to do so.''

Earlier, a group of Belgian, British and U.S. hostages left Baghdad along with former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali on a chartered Iraqi Airways plane. Ali bucked U.S. State Department advice against the trip.

Saddam has promised to release all foreigners in batches beginning on Christmas Day barring unexpected developments.

Meanwhile, thousands marched silently from the Kuwaiti embassy to the center of London in a protest against Iraqi atrocities in Kuwait. Other protesters tied yellow ribbons around the statue of Eros in Picaddily Circus and released 1,400 yellow balloons in honor of the hostages held by Saddam.

(DEC. 2) UPI - Larry Johnson and the University of Nevada-Las Vegas Runnin' Rebels showed they are ready to defend their NCAA crown, two days after they learned they would be allowed to.

Johnson scored 26 points Saturday night, leading No. 2 UNLV to a season-opening 109-68 rout of the University of Alabama-Birmingham in Vancouver, British Columbia, the first NCAA regular-season basketball game ever played outside the United States.

The victory, extending UNLV's winning streak to 12 games, came two days after the NCAA Committee on Infractions decided to allow the school to defend its collegiate basketball crown this season.

The committee offered the university a choice of two penalties, both of which would allow the Runnin' Rebels to defend their crown in 1991, but would make the team ineligible in 1992. One option called for the team to make no television appearances in 1991-92, the other required Coach Jerry Tarkanian to sit out the 1991 tournament.

UNLV adminstrators chose to keep Tarkanian with the team in the tournament and forfeit next season's television appearances.

Saturday night's win extended a streak that includes the 103-73 defeat of Duke in the NCAA Final Four championship game April 2.

UNLV started with a 22-8 burst and never looked back as Tarkanian substituted freely en route to a 57-25 halftime lead.

Alabama-Birmingham, looking every bit the travel-weary team after travelling straight to Vancouver from Birmingham after Friday night's home-court victory over Auburn, shot just 23 percent in the first half and continued its turnover woes of the early season with a total of 26. The Blazers ended the game shooting 34 percent in falling to 3-1.

UNLV, meanwhile, shot 52 percent from the field and made 9 of 21 three-point attempts while outrebounding the Blazers 51 to 33.

Elbert Rogers led the Blazers with 25 points while Stacy Augmon added 19 for the Rebels.

Elsewhere in the UPI Top 25, No. 1 Arizona blew out Long Beach State 95-68, No. 3 Arkansas topped Kansas St. 112-88, No. 4 North Carolina pounded Iowa State 118-93, Bowling Green upset No. 5 Michigan State 98- 85, No. 6 Georgetown manhandled Southern Indiana, No. 7 Syracuse pasted Cornell 86-61, 9th-ranked Duke downed UNC-Charlotte 111-94, No. 11 Indiana ripped No. 21 Louisville 72-52, No. 12 Ohio State dismantled Youngstown State 112-67, co-No. 14 Georgia Tech fell to Richmond 71-69, co-No. 16 Oklahoma crushed Angelo 162-99, and No. 18 Virginia routed Winthrop 93-47.

At Tuscon, Ariz., Ed Stokes scored 14 points, pacing six Arizona players in double figures to lead the Wildcats, 6-0, to the rout of Long Beach State. Long Beach State, 1-2, made just 4 of its first 20 shots and finished the half a dismal 8 of 44 (18 percent). Matt Othick added 13 points and Chris Mills, Brian Williams, Khalid Reeves and Casey Schmidt had 10 points apiece to help Arizona win its 51st straight game at McKale Center.

At Charlotte, N.C., George Lynch scored 20 points and North Carolina's defensive pressure forced 28 Iowa State turnovers to win the consolation game of the Tournament of Champions. North Carolina, which was upset by South Carolina Friday night, forced 16 turnovers in the first half and built a 57-33 lead with 2:22 left in the half on a pair of free throws by Lynch. Rick Fox and Henrik Rodl scored 15 points each for the Tar Heels, who improved to 3-1.

Iowa State was paced by 22 points from Victor Alexander and fell to 1-4.

At Bowling Green, Ohio, Clinton Venable scored 24 points and Joe Moore added 23 as Bowling Green handed Michigan State its second loss in three days. The Spartans, 1-2, who lost to Nebraska on Wednesday, furiously fouled the Falcons in the final minutes, but Bowling Green, 3- 0, responded by going 8 of 8 in the final two minutes and hitting on 27 of 31 for the game. Michigan State's Steve Smith led all scorers with 29 points.

At Landover, Md., Alonzo Mourning scored 20 points to lead the Hoyas. Georgetown improved to 3-0 while Southern Indiana, a Division II school, dropped to 3-2. The game featured a matchup of Georgetown's Dikembe Mutombo against his brother, Ilo. The two Zairians were matched up on the floor often. Ilo Mutombo, 29, scored 12 points compared to six scored by his 21-year-old brother.

At Durham, N.C., Christian Laettner scored a career-high 37 points and added 11 rebounds to pace the Blue Devils. Duke led 85-83 before using a 16-2 burst to put the game out of reach. Bill McCaffrey had 14 points and freshman Grant Hill added 13 for Duke, which improved to 5-1. Freshman Jarvis Williams led the 49ers with 30 points.

At Indianapolis, Calbert Cheaney scored 19 points for the Hoosiers, who downed No. 21 Louisville in the Big Four Classic. Indiana, 4-1, went on a 10-2 run to open a 47-29 lead and were never threatened by the Cardinals, 0-1. Matt Nover scored 14 points and Eric Anderson added 13 for Indiana. LaBradford Smith, with 17 points, was the only Louisville player to score in double figures.

At Columbus, Ohio, Mark Baker scored 24 points and Perry Carter added 20 to help the Buckeyes to their third straight rout. Ohio State has scored more than 100 points in each of its games. Reggie Kemp led the Penguins, 2-1, with 25 points. Jimmy Jackson scored 13 points and had nine assists for Ohio State.

At Richmond Va., Jim Springer hit a short jumper at the buzzer to give Richmond the upset of Georgia Tech. Richmond led 71-69 with 2:05 remaining when Eric Johnson was called for goaltending, and Kenny Anderson made two free throws to tie the score. But Georgia Tech's defense was unable to stop Springer as he nailed the basket for the upset, improving Richmond's record to 2-1. Georgia Tech fell to 2-1.

At Loretto, Pa., Darelle Porter scored all 17 of his points in the second half to help Pittsburgh rally from a 17-point deficit. Earlier in the week, Pittsburgh held on for an 82-80 win at Siena.

At Norman, Okla., Brent Price scored a career-high 35 points to pace the Sooners to the second-highest point total in school history. Price, the brother of Cleveland Cavaliers guard Mark Price, was backed by 28 points from Roland Ware and 26 from Kermit Holmes. Oklahoma, 4-1, tied a school record with its 48th straight home win and set another record by making 49 free throws.

At Charlottesville, Va., Bryant Stith had 17 points and John Crotty 13 in the Cavaliers, 3-2, rout of Winthrop. The Eagles, were led by Lashawn Coulter with 17 points. The Cavaliers lost to New Orleans on Friday night.

(DEC. 2) UPI - TODAY'S PEOPLE:

FISHING RADAR: Gary Burghoff, the bespectacled Radar on ''M A S H,'' is a hero in the fishing world. He's invented a floating device that carries bait to attract small salt-water fish, which in turn lure bigger fish so that anglers can catch them. ''Everyone who sees it hits themselves on the forehead and says, 'Oh, my God, it's so simple,''' Burghoff said of his invention, which is called Chum Magic. ''But so was the paper clip.'' The device is shaped like a boat's hull and comes in a 35-inch size that sells for $59.95 and a 47-inch model that goes for $79.95. Burghoff, who does much of his fishing in Florida, where he has a home, says he often stays up late to fill orders for his invention. ''I feel like a cobbler,'' he says. ''I can just see it - Gary Burghoff, actor turned cobbler.'' Burghoff hasn't given up on the entertainment business, however. He recently directed ''Small Kill,'' a movie that will be released in the spring, and plays a dual role in it.

LEACH ON THE RICH: Robin Leach says he isn't worried about the economic decline sinking his syndicated television show ''Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous.'' ''I think the '90s will be much more interesting for 'Lifestyles,''' he told The New York Times. ''There's more fascination with a Gatsby in a depression, when no one's rich, than in a time when everyone's rich.'' But if the bottom does fall out, Leach has a fall-back plan. ''We can do 'Lifestyles of the Formerly Rich and Famous' or we can do 'Lifestyles of the Poor and Unknown,''' he said.

COSBY WORSHIPS TEMPLE: Bill Cosby is trying to help his alma mater, Temple University in his hometown of Philadelphia, out of a jam. Cosby, who played football and ran track for the Owls, will tape a series of television ads for a drive to woo back students who left the school because of a faculty strike this fall. The recruitment drive has a budget of $1.2 million.

BRILLIANT LETTERS: Correspondence between two of the greatest minds of the 20th century will be auctioned by Sotheby's in New York on Dec. 11. A draft of Albert Einstein's four-page letter to Sigmund Freud and Freud's 14-page response are expected to go for between $150,000 and $200,000. The subject of the letters is man's warlike nature.

CHURCH BLUES: Revived interest in blues singer Robert Johnson will be a boon to the Mount Zion Missionary Baptist Church near Morgan City, Miss. A 29-song collection of Johnson's works is selling well and Columbia Records plans to give $10,000 to a fund to build a monument to Johnson, restore the cemetery and help the church with financial problems. Johnson, who died in 1938 after drinking poisoned liquor, was a great influence on rock 'n' roll acts like the Rolling Stones, Led Zeppelin and Eric Clapton.

NEW YORK (DEC. 2) UPI - The head of the umbrella organization representing striking Daily News unions said Sunday his members were considering legal ways to disrupt subway and rail station sales of the newspaper.

Last week U.S. District Judge Miriam Cederbaum issued a temporary restraining order upholding a ruling allowing hawkers to sell the News in more than 100 Metro-North, Long Island Railroad and Metropolitan Transportation Authority stations. The distribution plan was expected to get underway Monday.

George McDonald, head of the Allied Printing Trades Council, said, ''We'll be evaulating the situation tomorrow. We have to see what is entailed and how many hawkers are down there (in the stations).

''Whatever we legally can do, we will do to upset the News program to put homeless hawkers in subway stations,'' he said. ''We think the program is unhealthy.''

The threat came as sporadic violence against News property and distribution trucks continued, with about a dozen small explosions erupting on a Brooklyn corner near a Daily News printing plant. Police later removed an unexploded pipe bomb and two other devices from a delivery truck ramp.

In the dispute over sales of the paper at rail outlets, MTA officials have said they would allow some sellers into the stations, but they tried to reverse themselves the following day. Cederbaum's decision, however, forced the MTA to let the hawkers into the system.

Unionized subway and rail station workers sent out mixed signals on whether they planned to thwart the hawkers Monday.

James Phelan, general chairman of the United Transportation Union, which represents Metro-North and LIRR workers, said Saturday ''pure anarchy'' might result if the News goes ahead with the commuter stations sales plan.

However, Phelan said no demonstrations were planned by LIRR or Metro- North employees.

Officials of Transport Workers Union Local 100, which represents city subway station workers, has threatened to strike if the hawkers enter the stations.

News publisher James Hoge released a copy of a letter he sent to MTA Chairman Robert Kiley, describing the threatened strike as illegal and demanding the MTA take legal action against its workers.

''As you know, the Taylor law makes it illegal for transit workers to strike and requires you and your chief legal officer to seek an injunction if an illegal strike is threatened,'' Hoge wrote.

MTA officials could not immediately be reached for comment.

In other strike developments, Hoge, during a Sunday appearance on WABC-TV's ''Eyewitness News Conference,'' said the paper this week had average daily sales of 525,000 copies.

Management officials have recently shied away from giving circulation estimates, as industry analysts have given far smaller figures.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 2) UPI - It's another week, another slew of frequent flier miles for globe-trotting George Bush, bound this time for South America with free trade on his lips and the Persian Gulf crisis very much on his mind.

Bush, who in the last two weeks has logged trips to Europe, the Middle East and Mexico, planned an evening departure Sunday for Brazil, the first of five countries he will visit this week to celebrate the rebirth of democracy and free markets in Latin America.

Originally set for September but put off by the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait and the press of budget talks, the trip will take Bush to four countries that only in the last several years have shed the yoke of military dictatorship.

Long on symbolism and short on major new proposals, the trip will dramatize what the Council on Hemispheric Affairs welcomed as ''the shift in focus'' of U.S.-Latin relations from contentious national security issues to the promise of greater economic interaction.

Jetting daily from one capital to the next, Bush will laud the reform efforts of a new generation of forward-looking Latin leaders and promote the ambitious notion of a hemispheric free-trade zone stretching from the Artic Circle to Tierra del Fuego.

At home, however, news of his discussions on trade, investment, debt and such non-economic concerns as the proliferation of nuclear weapons and protection of the environment will in all likelihood be obscured by preoccupation with the gulf crisis, which is keeping two of his senior foreign policy advisers - Secretary of State James Baker and national security adviser Brent Scowcroft - back in Washington.

As Bush shuttles about the southern cone of South America, giving that region a level of U.S. attention unseen in years, Baker is slated to testify before Congress and prepare for a possible mission to Baghdad to deliver a last-chance warning to Saddam Hussein that he must give up Kuwait or risk a U.N.-sanctioned attack by U.S. and other forces arrayed against Iraq.

The situation in the gulf has been more than a distant distraction for the Latin American leaders who hope Bush's presence will help bolster sagging domestic support for the often painful steps they have elected or been forced to take to overhaul their economies.

Brazil, for example, has taken a double hit from the gulf crisis as a former exporter of goods to Iraq and importer of Iraqi oil. In Argentina, Bush will praise President Carlos Menem as the only Latin leader to commit forces to the gulf. In Venezuela, he will thank President Carlos Andres Perez for boosting oil production to help meet the shortfall caused by the loss of Iraqi and Kuwaiti exports from the world market.

While that may make the trip topical back in the United States, the theme for consumption in Latin America will be what George Landau, president of the Americas Society and a former U.S. ambassador to three of the five countries Bush will visit, described as formal American ''recognition'' of the policies these democratic governments have undertaken and an exhortation to do more.

With the road to economic reform still strewn with obstacles of various shapes and sizes, part of Bush's mission will be to sell the people of South America on a point some of their leaders have had trouble driving home: that short-term sacrifice can produce long-term benefits.

Bush ''will give some kind of Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval'' for what each leader is doing, Landau said, at a time when reforms in Brazil, for example, have run into opposition from business leaders and bureaucrats and austerity measures have prompted violence in Argentina and Venezuela.

''It's a lot of goodwill, a lot of rhetoric and Bush pushing them in the right direction,'' Landau said. ''He annoints them, in effect saying, 'You're doing the right thing,'' and at the same time ''same time

The approach of the visit also has served as a catalyst for progress in resolving some outstanding disputes, including U.S. complaints about the Brazilian and Argentine nuclear programs, and clearing away what one senior U.S. official characterized as ''baggage of the past,'' in the case of soon-to-be-lifted trade sanctions on Chile.

By making the trip at this time, Bush hopes to underscore his promise that the U.S. interest in Latin America will not be sidetracked by dramatic political developments in Eastern Europe and the Middle East. More to the point, his mission also carries a message that while the United States will help foster growth and development, the ultimate success of the positive trends now at work will depend on the Latin American people and not just a helping hand from their powerful neighbor to the north.

JERUSALEM (DEC. 2) UPI - Israeli workers closed down the country's banks, airport, government offices and other services Sunday to protest proposed cuts in the minimum wage and higher taxes on savings to bankroll the absorption of thousands of new immigrants.

The strike called by the Labor Party-affilated Histadrut union shut virtually the entire public sector, with more than 500,000 workers reportedly involved in the indefinite strike.

''If those clever ones at the finance ministry advise the minister of finance not to talk with strikers,'' Histadrut leader Chaim Haberfeld threatened, the strike would continue at least another 10 days. The services involved in the strike included government offices, television, radio, banks, Ben-Gurion Airport and most of the health and educational system.

Haberfeld advised Finance Minister Yitzhak Moda'i to ''calm down'' and hoped that officials from both sides would come to a compromise. The government issued back-to-work orders to more than 15 percent of its civil servants, but the strike was expected to continue at least for another day, Israel Radio reported.

The Histradut union opposes economic measures proposed by Moda'i that would cut the minimum wage by 20 percent and raise taxes on savings another 20 percent to finance an estimated $30 billion need to absorb new immigrants.

Approximately 160,000 immigrants have arrived in Israel during the first 11 months of 1990, and the numbers may reach 300,000 by April, government officials said.

Israel's Ben-Gurion Airport, which in recent days has received up to 2,000 immigrants daily, was closed down during most Sunday. Planes loaded with immigrants were directed to military airports.

The strike was Israel's second general strike this year. The Histradut called a one-day strike earlier this year opposing proposed tax reforms by Moda'i.

Several members of Israel's right-wing government sharply critized the strike by the Labor-affiliated Histradut.

''The strike is against immigration, against the unemployed,'' Likud Minister of Economic Planning David Magen told Army Radio. He said the strike was ''a political party war.''

But Likud Foreign Minister David Levy warned ''the government should not clash with the weakest rings of our society.''

Commenting on the proposed 20 percent cut in the minimum wage, Levy, a former bricklayer from a development town, asked his colleagues at the weekly Cabinet meeting, ''how its possible to provide for a family with $400 a month.''

CHICAGO (DEC. 2) UPI - Peace activists opposed to a war in the Persian Gulf tried in futility well before dawn Sunday to stop 230 Marine Corps reservists from flying to North Carolina for training.

Members of the Uptown Pledge of Resistance clamped a bicycle lock on a gate at a Chicago-area Marine Corps Reserve Center, hoping to prevent reservists from leaving the facility and cause them to miss a 5 a.m. flight.

''We're taking this action because we don't want them to go over there and be killed or to kill anybody else,'' said Carl Meyer, a member of the Chicago group, which normally focuses on issues in Central America.

Fire Department personnel cut the lock around 4 a.m. and the Marines went on their way, Sgt. Daniel Pollock said. The 230 members of the 2nd Battalion, 24th Marines, 4th Division left by plane on schedule for Camp Lejeune, N.C.

The protesters left the scene and no one was arrested.

Hundreds of other reserve units left Illinois for Camp Lejeune and for the Middle East Saturday, a Marine spokesman said.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 2) UPI - Secretary of State James Baker said Sunday his planned talks with Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein will not become negotiations on the basic U.S. and United Nations conditions for ending the Persian Gulf crisis.

Other discussions could follow, however, if Iraq complies with the U. N. resolutions calling for withdrawal from Kuwait, restoration of the Kuwait government and release of all hostages, Baker said on NBC's ''Meet the Press.''

''We will not be negotiating backward from those United Nations resolutions ...There won't be negotiations in that sense,'' Baker said.

Later ''discussions should be between Iraq and Kuwait, quite frankly, discussions regarding the differences between those two countries,'' he said.

Baker said the purpose of the trip is to ''make sure that (Hussein) understands the international community, not just the United Nations, is very, very serious about not ruling out the option of the use of force if he is unwilling to leave Kuwait.''

While tentatively agreeing to meet with Baker, Saddam has said he wants to talk about other issues, including Israel and the Palestinian question, but U.S. officials are rejecting the suggestion.

If the issue is raised, Baker said he will tell the Iraqi leader, ''we don't think think you invaded Kuwait to help the Palestinians and if you did all you've done is hurt the Palestinians. And secondly these things should not be linked. They are two entirely different issues, and two entirely different questions.''

Baker said no date has yet been set for the trip to Baghdad, announced Friday by President Bush as part of a renewed diplomatic effort to resolve the crisis short of military action.

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger expressed serious reservations about the mission, saying it will not be possible to ''maintain the distinction between discussions and negotiations.''

The high-level meetings ''will inevitably lead to a negotiation,'' Kissinger said on ABC's ''This Week with David Brinkley.'' He predicted the move will lead U.S. allies to open their own contacts with Baghdad and thus weaken the anti-Iraq coalition the U.S. has forged.

Baker and Defense Secretary Dick Cheney both indicated that even if Iraq withdraws from Kuwait there still would be a need to deal with Iraq's military power and its potential for developing nuclear weapons.

''We still are going to be faced with an Iraq that has enormous military capability, and has demonstrated a desire to develop even more nuclear weapons ballistic missiles, etc.,'' Cheney said on ABC. ''It would be important to fashion in the international community a set of sanctions that were targeted specifically on those technologies that he's trying to acquire. It would be foolish for us to anything less.''

''In the aftermath of a resolution of this (Kuwait) crisis we would have to find a way to address those issues,'' Baker agreed.

Baker stressed the importance of convincing Saddam that military action against him is ''a viable and credible'' option, and he expressed disappointment that economic sanctions have not had more effect.

''We would have hoped that they would have worked now, and many major nations around the world told us they felt initially that there would be a good chance that they would work inside two or three months. It's quite clear that's not the case''

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole, also appearing on ABC, said the administration is experiencing ''a lot of frustration'' with complaints from Congress about how to deal with Iraq. He suggested Bush's plan to send Baker to Baghdad was ''in response to what he saw as an uncooperative Congress.''

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., on ''Meet the Press,'' called for more time to let the sanctions have their effect. Kennedy said they are hurting Iraq, but ''they cannot work by Jan. 15,'' the deadline contained in the U.N. resolution authorizing the use of military force.

(DEC. 2) UPI - The shuttle Columbia blasted into space this morning, six months late. Scheduled launches were postponed in May and September because of hydrogen fuel leaks. Commander Vance Brand said after he and six fellow astronauts went into orbit- ''That was really something.'' The astronauts will spend today activating their payload carrying a battery of telescopes to study X-rays and ultra-violet light from space. The flight will last 10 days.

The Soviet Union launched three men into space, including a correspondent for a Japanese television network. They will link up with the Mir station already in orbit and carrying two cosmonauts.

Food rationing began yesterday in several Russian cities, including Leningrad. It is the first rationing in Leningrad since the Nazis blockaded it during World War Two. Each Leningrad resident is allowed about three pounds of meat, two pounds of sausages, one pound of butter, 10 eggs and two pounds of macaroni a month. Authorities say food is NOT scarce in the Soviet Union countryside... but the crippled economy makes distribution difficult.

The U-S Peace Corps is growing, partly because of the changes in eastern Europe. Romania and Bulgaria are on the tentative list of 18 new countries to get volunteers in the next year. Peace Corps volunteers already serve in Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, mostly teaching English. Corps Director Paul Coverdell says informal talks are going on with the Soviet Union about sending a contingent.

Actress-comedian Whoopi Goldberg has won the N-Double A-C-P Image Award as entertainer of the year. She also was honored as best supporting actress for the movie ''Ghost.'' They will link up with two cosmonauts already orbiting earth in the Soviet Mir station.

President Bush and State and Defense Department officials huddled at Camp David yesterday to discuss Iraq's reaction to Bush's call for talks on the Persian Gulf crisis. Iraq's Saddam Hussein has accepted Bush's offer, but with the condition the Arab-Israeli conflict be discussed. The officials analyzed Iraq's answer, which White House officials stress is still UNofficial.

Thousands of people demonstrated in Boston yesterday against the U-S policy in the Persian Gulf. Daniel Ellsberg of ''Pentagon Papers'' fame told the crowd NOT to trust President Bush's statement there will be NO protracted conflict like the one in Southeast Asia. (DEC. 30) UPI - One man's prediction of an earthquake along the New Madrid Fault from Illinois to Mississippi will prove to be the greatest non-event since a 1930s radio drama triggered panic over fictitious invaders from outer space, a geologist said Sunday.

Many residents waited anxiously for Dec. 3 to come and go, the day New Mexico climatologist Iben Browning said was the most likely for a quake. Others more skeptical partied to music like ''Shake, Rattle and Roll'' and ordered Jello for dessert so they could watch it ''wiggle.''

Northwestern University Geology Department Chairman Seth Stein joined a long list of experts rejecting Browning's prediction.

''We are about to witness the greatest non-event since 'The War of the Worlds ''' Stein said. ''I'll state it as clearly as I can: Browing's prediction has been evaluated and determined to be complete nonsense, without scientific foundation - which is our jargon for: 'It's a crock.'''

''The War of the Worlds'' was a realistic 1938 radio drama directed by Orson Wells that described an invasion of New Jersey by men from Mars and panicked some listeners, who flooded authorities with telephone calls.

Stein said science is ''nowhere near being able to predict earthquakes with any precision. We wish we could, but we can't.''

Browning said there was a 50-50 chance of a quake along the New Madrid Fault sometime between Saturday and Wednesday, with the most likely date being Monday. The fault stretches from Illinois to Mississippi and runs through parts of Tennessee, Arkansas, Kentucky, Indiana and Missouri.

Browning has stuck by his projection based on lunar and tidal forces even though his daughter recently said recently she thinks Asia faces a better chance of a major earthquake than the central United States.

Brisk sales of earthquake insurance were reported in advance of the quake D-Day and many agents said the San Francisco quake - not Browning's prediction - was the real reason for the sales boom.

''Let me put it this way,'' Stein said. ''Anyone in the Chicago area who has bought earthquake insurance might as well have dumped it on lottery tickets.''

Dr. Paul Heigold, lead geophysicist at the Illinois State Geological Survey in Champaign, said Saturday, ''It's business as usual. It's status quo.''

Heigold said state survey offices took no extra precautions and would not be staffed outside of regular hours.

Cleanup was underway Sunday at the home of Larry Wright, 55, of Grafton, Ill., where 55 revelers joined a quake party at his newly completed home, perched seemingly precariously atop a bluff overlooking the confluence of the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.

Wright said the idea for the party came from his disdain for Browning's prediction.

''I have a weird sense of humor,'' he said. ''I like to make fun of things that other people take seriously.

''The height of the evening was, of course, our friend who impersonated Dr. Browning,'' Wright said, adding anyone who could answer the impersonator's questions was given a cap with a mallard on top so they could ''duck.''

Guests donned hard hats, knee pads, shoulder pads and other devices to protect themselves at the gathering that wound down about 2 a.m.

''We had decorated the house with the disaster zone tapes, you know the yellow police strips you see at crime scene that say disaster zone. We had signs that said, 'It's the big one.''' And music was chosen with the quake theme in mind.

''They all had a ball,'' Wright said. ''We invited 55 people and 55 people showed up. I've never had a party where everyone showed up.''

Larry Kitsch, a spokesman for the Midwest Committee for Rational Inquiry said a special meeting was being held in Chicago Sunday night of the local skeptics group that is a member of a larger nationwide group.

''We're having this dinner facetiously,'' Kitsch said. ''We're going to order jello for dessert so we can watch it wiggle around while the earthquake is going on.''

On Browning's prediction, scientists ''don't have the technology or the knowledge to predict earthquakes. So we feel it's not going to happen.''

(DEC. 2) UPI - President Saddam Hussein of Iraq told French television today that if what he called ''real dialogue'' results from face-to-face talks with the United States, the chance for Persian Gulf peace will rise. Saddam says the chance for war will rise if the United States tries to use the talks for propaganda.

Saddam released more Western hostages today. 15 Americans and an undetermined number of Belgian and British nationals left Baghdad on an airliner with former heavyweight boxing champ Muhammad Ali, who spent a week in the Iraqi capital.

Nine women left London today on a journey to Iraq that they hope will result in the release of their husbands... all held at so-called ''human shields'' in Iraq. The women ignored British government advice in starting the mission.

A group of peace activists in Chicago failed this morning in an attempt to prevent 230 Marine reservists from flying to North Carolina for training. The group clamped a bicycle lock on a gate at a Chicago- area Marine Reserve Center, but firefighters cut the lock, enabling the Marines to board an airport bus.

Three Arabs on an Israeli bus drew knives and stabbed passengers today, killing one person and wounding three before a police officer who happened on the incident shot and killed one of the attackers. The incident is the latest in a series of stabbings that erupted after Israeli security forces killed at least 17 Palestinians on Temple Mount in Jerusalem on October 8th.

CHICAGO (DEC. 2) UPI - The Toronto Blue Jays, hoping to improve their outfield defense, Sunday acquired two-time Gold Glove winner Devon White from the California Angels in a six-player deal.

The Blue Jays sent outfielder Junior Felix, infielder Luis Sojo and a minor-league player to be named to the Angels for White, pitcher Willie Fraser and a minor-league player to be determined.

''Basically, we're looking to Devon White for defense,'' Toronto General Manager Pat Gillick said. ''We have enough offense to carry Devon White, no matter what he hits.''

White, 27, batted .217 last year with 11 home runs, 44 RBI and 21 stolen bases - a far cry from his '87 numbers of .263 and 32 steals. He ranks fourth on the Angels' all-time list in steals with 123 and won the Gold Glove in 1988 and '89.

''Maybe Devon White needed a change of scenery,'' Toronto Manager Cito Gaston said.

''Maybe we didn't find the right key,'' California General Manager Mike Port said.

Fraser, 26, posted a career-best 3.08 ERA, pitching in 45 games in his second consecutive season out of the bullpen. In his last 38 appearances, he was 5-2 with two saves and a 2.07 ERA. Fraser posted even more impressive numbers from Aug. 5 to Sept. 12, going 3-0 in 14 appearances with two saves and a 0.40 ERA. He held left-handed batters to a .207 average, lowest among California pitchers and fourth in the AL.

Gaston said Fraser and Frank Wills will probably battle for the Blue Jays' No. 5 spot in the rotation.

Felix, 23, is expected to start in center field for the Angels. He batted .263 in his second major-league season with 15 home runs and 65 RBI. The switch-hitter had 45 extra-base hits in 127 games.

Sojo, 24, hit .296 for Toronto's Triple A Syracuse team before being recalled July 14. He was honored as the MVP in the International League All-Star Game.

''Obviously, this gives us something back in center field and a real commodity at second base as well,'' Port said.

With the Blue Jays, Sojo hit .225 while posting a .269 average with runners in scoring position.

The trade was the first between the two teams, and the first of baseball's winter meetings, which run through Wednesday.

Israeli banks, the airport and government offices were closed today because workers struck to protest proposed cuts in the minimum wage and higher taxes on savings to pay for the absorption of new immigrants.

Outside Tel Aviv, three Arabs on an Israeli bus pulled knives and stabbed passengers, killing one person and wounding three others. A policeman who happened upon the scene shot and killed one of the attackers.

Soviet President Gorbachev fired his interior minister today. The ministry is responsible for maintaining domestic order in the Soviet Union, and Gorbachev picked the former head of the Latvian K-G-B to take charge of the agency.

A Northwestern University geologist says the prediction of a major earthquake along the New Madrid Fault line from Illinois to Mississippi is the greatest non-even since the 1938 ''War of the Worlds'' broadcast. Geologist Seth Stein referred to the radio dramatization of an attack on New Jersey by space invaders that set off a panic on the East coast.

Climatologist Iben Browning forecast the earthquake as likely on December 3rd. But the geologist says the prediction has been evaluated and found to be what he termed ''complete nonsense.'' Nevertheless some residents along the fault line took precautions, while others planned quake parties.

(DEC. 2) UPI - The U-S-led multi-national went on a state of alert today on word that Iraq was testing missiles. Reports say the alert was NOT of the highest order, though some of the troops were told to don the special suits they must wear to protect themselves against chemical warfare.

The missile testing in Iraq comes on the same day that President Saddam Hussein told French television that there is a 50-50 chance for peace if there is what he termed ''real dialogue'' in talks with the United States.

Secretary of State Baker says there will be NO negotiations in his meetings in Iraq... that the basic U-S and United Nations conditions for ending the Persian Gulf crisis will stand... including an Iraqi withrawal from Kuwait.

(DEC. 2) UPI - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein refused to say in a French television interview whether he would be willing to withdraw from Kuwait. Saddam said there is a 50-50 chance for peace in the Persian Gulf if Secretary of State Baker engages in what he termed ''real dialogue'' in talks in Baghdad. Otherwise, Saddam said the United States will try to use the talks to prove that war is inevitable and the chance for war will rise.

Saddam gave a 45-minute interview to the state-owned French T-V network Antenna-2, insisting repeatedly that a global solution must be found to Mideast problems, including the Palestinian issue. He refused to say whether he will leave Kuwait and denied that he has an atomic bomb. He would NOT even say that he is willing to partially withdraw from Kuwait.

Officials in Saudi Arabia and Washington say Iraq was testing Scud surface-to-surface missiles today, and the B-B-C says the tests produced a heightened state of alert among the U-S-led multi-national force. U-S military officials, however, refused to say if an alert was in effect, saying it is policy to refrain from any discussion of such status.

The seven-man crew of the shuttle Columbia rocketed into orbit this morning and immediately set to work on activating a host of telescopes they carried into space for a 10-day astronomy mission. But the astronauts ran into computer problems with one of the telescopes and had periodic trouble getting a complex telescope-pointing system to lock onto the right stars. Ground controllers said they are confident that the problems will be resolved.

Soviet President Gorbachev made another move today to assert greater control over the crisis-wracked nation. He fired his interior minister and replaced him with the former head of the Latvian K-G-B. A two-sentence announcement carried by the official Tass news agency said the fired interior minister was moving to another job... but the position was NOT revealed.

Geologists are still putting down climatologist Iben Browning's prediction of a major earthquake along the New Madrid Fault from Illinois to Mississippi. But some residents of the town of New Madrid in southern Missouri are NOT so

(DEC. 2) UPI - Officials in Saudi Arabia and Washington says Iraqi forces fired surface-to-surface Scud missiles today in military activities inside Iraq. The say the missiles, which are capable of carrying multiple chemical warheads, landed in Iraqi territory. The B-B-C reports that troops in the U-S-led multi-national force in the Persian Gulf were put on a heightened state-of-alert. But U-S military officials won't say if an alert is in effect.

In Chad, there are conflicting reports about the fate of President Hissene Habre after rebel leader Idriss Deby launched an attack on the capital of N'Djamena. News reports from Libya says Habre was killed trying to flee the central African nation. But military sources in neighboring Cameroon say Habre escaped to a northern Cameroon town. (DEC. 2) UPI - Secretary of State Baker confirms that official discussions are underway in Baghdad to set up meetings for direct talks with Iraq's foreign minister on the Persian Gulf crisis. President Bush met with his advisers to discuss the conditions for the talks... and it apears Baker will visit the Iraqi capital.

It's another week of globe-trotting for President Bush. The president will hopscotch across South America... his first stop Brazil, where he'll talk about free trade. Bush will visit five countries this week to celebrate the rebirth of democracy and free markets in Latin America. The trip is long on symbolism and short on major new proposals. But it will dramatize the reform efforts of a new generation of forward-looking Latin leaders.

In Moscow, Soviet President Gorbachev today fired his interior minister and replaced him with the former head of the Latvian K-G-B. The shakeup at the HERNDON, VA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - After another victory in his longstanding skirmish with cola giant Pepsico, Hampton Brown III is even more determined to penetrate the Big Three of the world's cola market.

Brown, whose Herndon-based company, Hampton Associates & Son Inc., has fought Pepsico for worldwide trademark rights to the name of his cola, Jazz Cola, for about 10 years.

In January, Pepsico relinquished its attempt to wrestle away Brown's U.S. trademark. In October, Brown won victories in Japan and Spain. That extended his ownership of the trademark rights that already included the European Economic Community markets and the United Kingdom.

Pepsico is appealing Brown's registered trademark in the United Kingdom. Seagrams and Proctor & Gamble aborted their challenges to Brown's U.S. trademark application.

Pepsico's attempts to encroach upon Brown's trademark in Japan reached a zenith with the introduction of a drink called Jazz'In, ignoring Brown's trademark.

The name Jazz is recongnizably American and projects the image Brown wants for his fresh concept in colas. Jazz contains neither caffeine nor the chemically treated caramel found in other colas.

That is important to anyone who lives in a home with children.

In 1987, the British Ministry of Agriculture accepted the European Community Scientific Committee's recommendation that caramel colouring, particularly those used in colas, be drastically reduced. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has not addressed the chemical processes for obtaining ammonia caramel.

But as each obstacle falls - such as those created by Pepsico - Brown, a small-town businessman, moves closer to to his goal of marketing Jazz, first overseas and then in the United States.

SOUTH PASADENA, CA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Charles A. (Chuck) Crayne has joined T.H.E. Professional Software as manager of systems consulting. Crayne was formerly vice president of Technology Development for Xerox Computer Services in Los Angeles and is a 17-year veteran with IBM.

T.H.E. Professional Software offers software tools and consulting services to businesses, primarily in the areas of manufacturing and distribution systems.

Crayne was with Xerox for five years, where he was instrumental in the development of software tools to support manufacturing and distribution environments.

Following his Xerox work, he was a consultant with the Japanese-owned firm Bridgestone Software.

His role with T.H.E. Professional Software will be to introduce a new systems consulting service that will provide support to users in preserving their investment in their current software systems while taking advantage of the benefits of new systems technologies.

T.H.E. President Tom Thomson expressed the view that T.H.E. was fortunate in acquiring a senior, seasoned technical executive for this important role in helping the company achieve dramatic growth and expansion. ''We know that Chuck will contribute significantly to T.H.E.'s development and growth,'' he said, ''and we will benefit greatly from his background with Xerox and IBM.''

Crayne, who lives in Manhattan Beach, will begin his new duties immediately.

SAN JOSE, CA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Intelligent Network Applications (INA) Monday announced and demonstrated NetMapper, the first portable tool for integrated network management systems.

NetMapper provides configuration management, monitoring and network map creation for distributed, multivendor networks. NetMapper is integrated with Sun Microsystems' SunNet Manager and Novell's LANtern products.

NetMapper discovers workstations, bridges, printers and other devices attached to LAN or segmented LAN/WAN networks. Initially creating a hierarchical graphical map of the network, NetMapper will continuously monitor a network for configuration changes and alarm network operators when changes occur.

NetMapper is shipped with a large number of vendor-specific device definitions minimizing the task of defining such devices.

NetMapper is currently integrated with SunNet Manager. In addition to its other features, NetMapper provides a complete graphical user interface to SunNet Manager's configuration database. As an enhancement to SunNet Manager, NetMapper demonstrates the usefulness of third-party network management tools that provide increased functionality for INMSs.

With an optional extension through Novell's LANtern, NetMapper is able to detect configuration changes beyond Internet-connected devices (IP devices). LANtern allows NetMapper to detect Macintosh, PC, DECnet and other non-IP devices attached to a network.

INA announced its intention to port NetMapper to other integrated management systems in the near future. PRICING AND AVAILABILITY

NetMapper requires SunNet Manager running on a SPARCstation operator console for the minimum configuration. LANtern may be added to increase the scope of NetMapper. NetMapper lists for $1,995 and is currently shipping. Volume discounts are available.

Intelligent Network Applications, based in Menlo Park, was formed in July 1990 to develop and market network management tools for use with integrated network management systems.

DALLAS (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - AUDRE Recognition Systems Inc. (NASDAQ:ADREF) announced during the opening of the Department of Defense Computer-aided Acquisition and Logistics Support (CALS) Expo '90 that UNIX and DOS compatible versions of the company's engineering drawing, map and technical document conversion software have been released.

The Beta release of the AUDRE Technical Publications Conversion System and AUDRE Drawing Conversion, version 1.0 release, are the first in a series of PC products tailored for specific application on low-cost microcomputers.

Compatible with 286, 386 or 486 PCs (MS-DOS version 3.0 or higher), the Tech Pubs Conversion System provides the capability to transform technical documents into a CALS compliant format usable by industry standard computer publishing systems. The CALS compliant drawing conversion system provides the capability to convert drawing or map information into CAD or computer mapping databases.

The AUDRE workstation-based intelligent document conversion Beta version 5.0 is now available for existing customers, with a final release scheduled for January 1991. This release provides support for the new Hewlett-Packard (HP) Model 9000, series 400 workstations. The 400 series supports HP-UX, the OSF compliant UNIX operating system and the recently released Motorola 68040 processor.

''AUDRE is fully committed to industry established software standards,'' said Thomas F. Casey, AUDRE's chairman and chief executive officer. ''The availability of our conversion technology under OSF UNIX and MS-DOS windows virtually opens up the entire computer industry as a potential platform base for our software. 1991 should be a year of significant growth in our industry.''

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - PacTel Corp., a subsidiary of Pacific Telesis Group, has agreed to lease 80,000 square feet of space at Oak Court, a 10-story office building located in Walnut Creek.

The building, developed by Taylor Woodrow (Oak Court), Inc., is expected to be renamed PacTel Center.

PacTel Corp. made the announcement Monday along with executives of Taylor Woodrow. It is the first major lease signed at Oak Court, a 206,000-square-foot building located in Contra Costa Centre and adjacent to the Pleasant Hill Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) station. It is also the largest leasing transaction in the downtown Walnut Creek/Pleasant Hill area in the last eight years.

A total of 230 PacTel Corp. employees will relocate to Oak Court from offices in San Francisco and Irvine. The move is the result of a previously announced consolidation of PacTel Corp. with the headquarters staffs of PacTel Cellular and Pacific Telesis International. The company plans to begin taking occupancy in April 1991.

The company will occupy the seventh through 10th floors of the building, noted for its all-granite facade, its location next to BART and its immediate accessibility to Interstate 680. It is the tallest building at Contra Costa Centre, which is located approximately 35 miles east of downtown San Francisco.

PacTel Corp. also has the option to take additional square footage at the new PacTel Center for expansion purposes in the near future.

Robert Upton, president of Taylor Woodrow, said that in developing the project the company felt that the site offered a special opportunity because of its close proximity to both BART and the freeway. He added that the building was designed to appeal to Fortune 500-level companies, particularly through the use of high-quality standards of finish not often seen in suburban locations.

Oak Court, which is nearing completion, is one of the newest additions at Contra Costa Centre. Embassy Suites is scheduled to open a 234-room hotel next to Oak Court this week.

Tim Clarke and Dean Panfili, leasing agents with the commercial real estate brokerage company Cushman & Wakefield, represented Taylor Woodrow in the transaction. Jim Apple, also of Cushman & Wakefield, represented PacTel Corp.

PacTel Corp. is a subsidiary of Pacific Telesis Group, a worldwide diversified telecommunications company. Its subsidiary companies include, in addition to PacTel Cellular and Pacific Telesis International, PacTel Paging, PacTel Teletrac, PacTel Cable, PacTel Business Systems and PacTel Properties.

Oak Court is a development of Oak Court Partners, a joint venture between Taylor Woodrow and Nakano International Corp.

DENVER (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Monday, Tipperary Corp. (NASDAQ:TIPR) announced two recent exploratory successes in Texas.

In Frio County, the horizontally drilled Maria No. 1 well was completed on Nov. 16, 1990, flowing 630 BOPD on a 38/64-inch choke with 150 lbs. flowing tubing pressure from the Cretaceous Austin Chalk formation. Tipperary owns a 12.5 percent WI in the well with the balance controlled by the operator, Tide West Oil Co. and its working interest partners.

In Hardeman County, the company announced the successful completion of the Evans No. 74-2 well. This well, in which Tipperary owns a 9.625 percent WI, was completed in the Mississippian Chappel Dolomite flowing 207 BOPD, 3 BWPD and 160 MCF of gas per day through perfs at 8,619 feet to 8,626 feet with 1,275 psi FTP on an 8/64-inch choke.

The Hardeman County discovery is near an abandoned producer that recovered 330,000 bbls. from the same reservoir before watering out. Enserch Exploration Inc. (the operator) owns 82 percent of the well.

Additionally the company advises that in early December it expects to receive approximately $80,000 for its share of proceeds attributable to the first 2-1/2 months oil production from the Lane No. 4 well in LaSalle County, Texas.

This horizontally drilled Austin Chalk producer has recovered 57,000 barrels of oil in approximately 75 days. The well is currently flowing 650 BOPD.

BOISE, ID (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Warren E. McCain announced his retirement as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Albertson's Inc. effective Feb. 1, 1991.

McCain will continue to be active in management as chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors and will remain an employee and director of the company. McCain has worked for Albertson's for 39 years and has served as chief executive officer since 1976. During his tenure as chief executive officer, Albertson's has grown from a West Coast regional chain with less than $1 billion in sales to the sixth largest food and drug chain in the United States with 1990 annual sales of approximately $8.2 billion.

In a prepared statement, McCain stated: ''The company is very sound financially and the future looks very bright. Now is the time for us to make some management changes that will take us through our next growth cycle.'' The company announced the following management changes to be effective Feb. 1, 1991.

Gary G. Michael, 50, will replace McCain as chairman of the board and chief executive officer. Michael has been with Albertson's for 25 years and has served in various finance, real estate and retail operations capacities during that period of time. He is currently vice chairman and chief financial and corporate development officer.

In addition, the board of directors increased the responsibilities of John B. Carley, 56, currently president, to include the position of chief operating officer. A veteran of 40 years with Albertson's, Carley has held many positions in retail operations and will be responsible for all retail store, distribution center, transportation and private label operations.

A. Craig Olson, 39, has been appointed senior vice president, finance, and chief financial officer. Currently group vice president of finance, he will have responsibility for all accounting, finance, treasury and risk management functions. He is a 1974 graduate of the University of Idaho and is a certified public accountant.

Albertson's Inc. is the sixth largest food and drug chain in the United States and operates 527 retail stores in 16 Western and Southern states with corporate headquarters located in Boise.

PHOENIX (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - America West Airlines (NASDAQ:AWAL; PSE:AWA) announced that it will begin operating in the California corridor between San Francisco and John Wayne Airport at Orange County offering eight daily non-stop round trips on Feb. 1.

In addition, the carrier will offer two new non-stop round trips between San Jose and Long Beach on Jan. 6. The 10 new flights are part of a major schedule enhancement the airline is developing for early 1991.

Peter Otradovec, vice president of planning for the airline said, ''The California corridor is one of the most lucrative areas in the United States and we believe that America West is well positioned to successfully enter this market.'' He continued, ''At this time, America West serves 15 California cities including six Los Angeles area airports and three Bay Area airports.

''While many carriers offer air transportation between Los Angeles

International and San Francisco International airports, America West will provide a convenient alternative for travelers who prefer the new, modern John Wayne Airport in Orange County and the uncongested Long Beach Airport.''

In addition, the carrier announced that it will begin new international service between Phoenix and Nagoya, Japan, via Honolulu, on Feb. 1. America West will also provide additional service at many cities throughout the carrier's system. ''We believe that these schedule enhancements will fortify our overall route structure.'' Otradovec stated.

America West, the nation's number one carrier in on-time performance, operates a fuel efficient fleet of 103 aircraft including Boeing 747s, 757s, 737s and de Havilland Dash 8s. The carrier recently acquired up to 118 Airbus A320s and will operate 16 of the new aircraft by mid-1991. America West offers convenient service with more than 650 daily flights from coast-to-coast and across the Pacific to Hawaii.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Abner J. Greshler has been appointed a director of Sterling Bank, it was recently announced by the bank president, Joseph C. Carona.

Greshler, ''Abbey'' to his many friends and associates, is a long-time Beverly Hills resident and, for the past 32 years, president of Diamond Artist Talent Agency. He also serves as president of both York Pictures Corp. and R. G. and Scarus Productions.

''We are confident that Abbey's lengthy association with the Beverly Hills community will enhance growth of our new Beverly Hills regional office,'' said Carona. ''Of course our recently established Entertainment Division can only be encouraged by having someone with his stature in the entertainment industry actively involved with Sterling Bank.''

Greshler began his distinguished career at the age of 15, managing some of the day's most popular artists, including Xavier Cugat and Paul Whiteman.

Over the years he has been responsible for boosting the careers of many of Hollywood's legends. The comedy duo Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis was put together by Greshler. During the years they performed together, Abbey also produced their TV show, tours and many motion pictures as well.

The roster of his Diamond Artists Talent Agency reads like a ''who's who'' in Hollywood. He has represented such stars as Al Jolson, Danny Kaye, Jack Klugman, Tony Randall, Vince Edwards, David Janssen, Cloris Leachman and Milton Berle.

No stranger to television, Abbey has been associated with some of TV's most memorable series, including ''The Fugitive,'' ''Ben Casey,'' ''Quincy,'' ''The Odd Couple'' and ''Harry-O.''

His contribution to the entertainment industry was recognized in 1988 when his peers, The Association of Talent Agents, honored him with their 50th Anniversary celebration. Greshler and his wife Vi also contribute their time and energy to countless civic and charitable organizations, among them, Share Inc., which Vi helped found, the Los Angeles Free Clinic and Jules Stein Eye Institute.

Sterling Bank's corporate headquarters and main office is located in Los Angeles. Other regional offices are in Burbank, Tarzana, Glendale and Beverly Hills.

SANTA CLARA, CA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - RasterOps Corp. Monday announced a Video Tuner for its SPARC Card TC PIP, adding on-screen control to the only high-resolution, 24-bit color product with live TV-in-a-window capability for the Sun Microsystems SPARCstation.

The Video Tuner enables users to control functions such as audio, channel contrast, brightness and volume through an on-screen control panel. It can receive UHF and VHF signals from antenna inputs and CATV from cable input. The tuner then outputs the video signal to the SPARC Card TC PIP (True Color/Picture-in-Picture). The Video Tuner has a built-in audio amplifier and speaker.

With the RasterOps SPARC Card TC PIP and the TV Tuner, stockbrokers can watch financial news while working on a spreadsheet, and teachers can access educational programming in the classroom without the need for a television monitor.

The SPARC Card TC product is a 24-bit color SBus display card. The PIP Video Option is a daughter card installed directly onto the main card's surface. The two products together provide users with the ability to work with more than 16.8 million colors simultaneously to produce photographic quality images as well as importing and capturing live video images.

This capability is ideal for applications such as desktop publishing, color pre-press, image processing, geographic information systems, mulitmedia and interactive training. True Color is especially crucial when the computer-generated images must be of photographic quality.

The PIP Video option provides a sizable live video window that can be placed anywhere on the screen. The video window acts as a standard Sun window from any application. Video can be run simultaneously with other applications (e.g. GIS packages, graphic design, layout, spreadsheet, etc.), which provides users a dynamic information input source.

Suggested retail price for the RasterOps SPARCstation TV Tuner is $495, available in January. Suggested retail price for the RasterOps SPARC Card TC PIP is $6,990. It is available immediately.

RasterOps Corp., headquartered in Santa Clara, designs, manufactures and markets photorealistic color-imaging products for Sun SPARCstation, Macintosh, IBM PC and Digital RISC-based workstation platforms. RasterOps products are designed primarily for the graphic arts, printing, publishing and related industries.

SAN JOSE, CA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Directors of Pacific Western Bancshares Inc. (ASE:PWB), the parent company of the $1.2 billion Pacific Western Bank, declared a semi-annual cash dividend of 12 cents per share at its recent monthly board meeting.

It matches the 12 cents per share dividend first paid a year ago which had increased from 9 cents paid in July of 1989. The new dividend will be payable Jan. 21, 1991, to shareholders of record on Dec. 17, 1990.

Phillip R. Boyce, chairman and chief executive officer, made the dividend announcement and added that the company has met its performance objectives in the year to date period. ''During the first nine months of 1990, we increased net income by 41 percent over 1989, from $9 million to $12.8 million, which raised earnings per share from 74 cents to $1.01. We increased our return on equity from 17.6 percent on an annualized basis to 20.3 percent.

''These record earnings underscore management's success in making the tough decisions necessary to overcome the challenges of the economy and turn them into advantages during 1990,'' he noted.

''An example of this is expense control where we have reduced our ratio of non-interest expense from 4.96 percent to 4.66 percent of average assets. That was achieved while increasing our asset base 25 percent through internal growth and acquisitions.

''Our earnings growth and high levels of return on equity are further proof of the strategy which emphasizes those lines of business we know best in the market ares where we have long term experience and expert knowledge. This strategy serves our shareholders and, at the same time, reinforces our commitment to the growing communities where our customers live and work,'' Boyce concluded.

LONDON (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - "We're shrinking our world down to size, rendering distinctions between night and day, East and West, and 'your nation or mine' irrelevant...we're evolving to the point where the entire planet will be wired together, in one unified system."

Speaking at the Financial Times World Telecommunications Conference, William T. Esrey, chairman and chief executive officer of United Telecommunications Inc., which owns Sprint, talked about the pivotal role telecommunications plays in developing the global market, where companies can offer products that appeal to consumers around the world.

According to Esrey, whether or not international companies take a centralized or decentralized approach to their business management and their telecommunications systems will no longer be an issue in the 1990s. He said the more critical issue will be the ability of telecom technology to support rapid decision-making and of telecommunications providers to form effective partnerships.

Esrey is best known as the executive whose vision led to development of what is arguably the most advanced long distance network in the United States: Sprint's nationwide 100 percent fiber-optic, all-digital network.

He is now leading the company's strategic thrust in worldwide markets, where he sees advancements in the telecommunications industry giving consumers unprecedented opportunities to demand new services from their long distance carriers.

Referring to advanced telecommunications as "the single most powerful tool available today to the global business operator," Esrey said that the emergence of such universal markets is driven by a concept he calls the "global mind."

The global mind, he said, comes with the development of a worldwide telecommunications network featuring intelligent information processing and communication.

"It will mimic the human mind, whose hemispheres communicate through electrical pulses we call synapses. The global mind will similarly flash intelligent, decision-support information from one hemisphere to another, with synapsal speed, through a comprehensive intelligent telecommunications network reaching out and embracing the world," Esrey said.

According to Esrey, such capabilities will enable global corporations to overcome many of the obstacles that widely dispersed geographic operations place in the way of effective management. He noted that sheer size can hamper a corporation's movement into growing international markets, because it must create more management layers, and more steps in the decision-making process.

ENGLEWOOD, CO (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Denver-based securities dealer Chatfield, Dean & Co. Inc. announced Monday that it had obtained an order from a Florida court requiring the Comptroller's Office to register to Chatfield Dean the Florida offices formerly licensed to The Stuart-James Co. Inc.

The decision was issued late Friday after a hearing before the Hon. N. Sanders Sauls. The case, No. 90-5173, was filed in Leon County, Florida Circuit Court.

Chatfield Dean's president, Sanford D. Greenberg, said, "This order removes the final obstacle to the liquidation of Stuart-James. It assures protection of Stuart-James' customers whose accounts could have been frozen had that company gone bankrupt. We look forward to being of service to those customers."

In addition to the Florida offices, two of which are in Tampa and one each in Boca Raton and Clearwater, Chatfield Dean now has offices in Denver; Chicago; San Diego; Seattle; Darien, Conn.; Bethesda, Md.; Roslyn, N.Y.; Atlanta; and Irvine, Calif.

Greenberg stressed that his company will not be involved in the "penny stocks" handled by Stuart-James. "Our company offers investors safe, conservative investments appropriate to fixed income customers, discount brokerage services where the customer can talk to a broker instead of a clerk, professional portfolio management, and investment opportunities in capital formation for sound ongoing companies," Greenberg said.

HAYWARD, CA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Monitek Technologies Inc. (NASDAQ:MTEK), announced Monday that it has entered into a software license agreement with a leading U.S. biotechnology firm.

The agreement provides for licensing of Monitek software relative to its Cell Density Analyzer, which is used to obtain optical density measurements as a means of accurately monitoring a dynamic biometric system, such as a fermentation process. It will allow the licensee to link the Cell Density Analyzer to a main frame computer system that is used to control its processes.

Ken Anderson, Monitek's chief executive officer, stated that it is the company's goal to secure several such agreements with major biotechnology and pharmaceutical companies, both in the United States and internationally.

Monitek Technologies is a technologically advanced instrument manufacturer at the forefront of the liquid monitoring industry. Utilizing optical, magnetic, ultrasonic and acoustical technologies, the company can analyze and measure liquids used in industrial and waste water environments.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Energex Minerals Ltd. (TSE:EGX/NASDAQ: EGEX-F) announced that Giddings Ltd., a Texas limited partnership in which Energex owns a 10 percent interest, sold its 25.25 percent interest in a natural gas gathering system.

As a result Energex received a cash distribution of $930,000. An additional estimated $100,000 has been withheld by the general partner of Giddings Ltd. for the final accounting and reinvestment in a CASE tools (Computer Aided Software Engineering) producer. Proceeds from the distribution will be used in part to exercise the option on the U.S. producing properties discussed below.

As previously disclosed, Energex assisted a London-based company (the ''Buyer'') in acquiring interests in approximately 150 producing oil and gas wells located offshore in the Gulf of Mexico and onshore n Oklahoma and Kansas. In exchange for its services, Energex earned an option to acquire a one-third interest in the acquired properties on the same terms and conditions as the Buyer.

The Option period will extend for six months from the final closing which is anticipated to occur in mid-December. The option exercise price is $2.67 million. The effective date of the transaction upon exercise of the option will be July 1, 1990.

Financing to exercise the option will need to be arranged. It is anticipated that the acquisition funds will be a combination of the proceeds from the sale of the natural gas gathering system discussed above, production revenues from the properties themselves from July 1, 1990, to the option exercise date, production related debt and a private placement of equity.

MELVILLE, N.Y. (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - HUMANCAD Monday announced Mannequin, the first PC-based software package that integrates moving human likenesses into computer-aided design (CAD) and graphic design software.

This innovative product implements the ''human fit'' into its graphics to change the way products are developed.

''We created Mannequin because many of today's products do not fit the needs of individual customers,'' said Ken Goodman, HUMANCAD vice president and general manager. ''Too often, customers tolerate products that are too small, too large, uncomfortable, or unsafe. Mannequin can dramatically improve the appeal of thousands of products by allowing designers to meet individual customers' needs, by matching product designs to different human body types.''

Mannequin actually implements the human fit into the design process. It utilizes advanced technologies and graphics to develop moving, fully dimensional human likenesses that can see, walk, bend, and grasp objects in a quantifiable, ergonomic manner. The program uses extensive ergonomic data to allow users to combine specific likenesses of men, women, and children of different sizes, shapes, and nationalities into a design.

The program can be integrated with most popular CAD and graphics software packages, such as AutoCAD, Generic CADD, Corel Draw, Micrografx Designer, Harvard Graphics, and Aldus Pagemaker to provide the user with a variety of design options.

Mannequin draws human figures from 10 world populations, including the North and South Americas, Europe, and the Far East. The package also draws five different body sizes from extra small to extra large. Specific body parts, such as arms, legs or heads, can be drawn to different scales as well. Advanced hidden line and solids modeling features allow the user to develop two- and three-dimensional images to enhance the human-like qualities of the program.

HUMANCAD's pioneering software represents a natural extension of its parent company, Biomechnics Corp. of America (BCA) of Melville, N.Y. A publicly held company, BCA is the largest ergonomics consulting firm in the U.S.

SAN JOSE, CA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - International CMOS Technology Inc. (ICT), (OTC:pink sheets) announced Monday production of a new ultra-fast PLD (Programmable Logic Device), an integrated circuit used by manufacturers of high-speed computers and electronic systems.

The PEEL22CV10A-10 utilizes ICT's new 1-micron CMOS (Complementary-Metal-Oxide-Semiconductor) EEPROM process, the first of its kind to achieve speeds through the device as fast as 10 nanoseconds (10 trillionths of a second). PEEL which stands for Programmable Electrically Erasable Logic is ICT's trademark for its family of PLD products.

Drew Osterman, ICT's president and chief executive officer stated: ''The PEEL22CV10A-10 is our flagship product for 1991. The standard 22V10 device, offered by several semiconductor manufacturers such as Lattice, Cypress and AMD, is the single most popular PLD architecture with estimated sales of over $150 million out of a total $850 milion PLD sales in 1990 (source: preliminary 1990 estimates In-Stat Inc.).

''However, other PLD manufacturers have yet to break the 15-nanosecond CMOS 22V10 speed barrier in a market that demands the highest speeds.

The PEEL22CV10A-10 allows high-speed computer and electronic equipment manufacturers such as Compaq, DEC, AT&T and Northern Telecom, to operate their systems at extremely high clock frequencies keeping pace with the fastest 16-bit and 32-bit microprocessors.

International CMOS Technology Inc. (ICT) designs, manufactures and markets user-programmable integrated circuits. ICT's products include a variety of memory and logic devices, and the software and hardware development tools for designing with programmable circuits.

BOSTON (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Ernst & Young Monday opened its Center for Information Technology and Strategy in the Beacon Hill area of Boston, in a town house built in 1804.

The center serves as a focal point for advanced thinking on the linkage between information technology and business strategy.

Center professionals provide industry-based strategy consulting and develop original research programs. They work closely with Ernst & Young consultants from the rest of the firm.

The Center, at One Walnut Street, will house 40 consultants, professionals and staff.

''We have created an oustanding capacity to assist clients' senior management in getting more out of their information technology investments,'' said Alan Stanford, Ernst & Young's National Director of Information Systems Consulting.

Ernst & Young, the international professional services firm with over 100 U.S. offices, is a leading provider of wide-ranging information systems consulting services. Conceptual skills available through the center and research conducted by its professionals strengthen the firm's existing prowess in information technology management.

Ernst & Young has recently developed leading-edge studies of the aerospace, defense, and biotechnology industries as well as reports on American competitiveness and information security.

According to Bernard F. Mathaisel, the center's managing director, ''Information technology strategy consulting requires understanding of and strong experience in business strategic planning, leading-edge technologies, and the marketplace, as well as special management process skills which facilitate analysis and presentation of the ideas and recommendations to senior executives. Ernst & Young has significant capabilities in all these areas.''

SAN DIEGO (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Fujitsu Systems of America Inc. Monday announced a contract to supply Wells Fargo Bank with Fujitsu's ACT 4000 automated teller machines (ATMs).

Fujitsu's ATMs will be installed in four new Wells Fargo branch locations in Safeway stores. These ATMs will join Fujitsu's installed base of over 50,000 ATMs worldwide.

Fujitsu ACT 4000 in-lobby ATMs will be installed in each selected Safeway location during December and first-quarter 1991, providing 24-hour ATM convenience. The in-store branches, located in Novato, Healdsburg, Antioch and Santa Rosa, will operate seven days a week, offering the full range of banking services to customers.

One key feature is ACT 4000's innovative color graphics screen displays. A wide array of icons, color choices, font sizes and special effects, including animation, provides greater overall readability and simplifies transaction lead-through.

Another key advantage is installation flexibility. Since space is at a premium in small branch environments, ACT 4000's small footprint and front-service access for replenishment minimizes space requirements for these in-store locations.

In addition to the full range of banking services, Wells Fargo's new branch locations will offer convenient 24-hour service through use of ATMs. As a result, continual ATM security and reliability are a necessity. The secure ACT 4000's superior reliability meets the rigorous standards required for 24-hour unattended operation.

Fujitsu ATMs have a high reliability record with an average of 20,000-plus transactions between hardware service calls.

The ACT 4000 is a member of Fujitsu's family of ATM products that includes in-lobby, through-the-wall and drive-up terminals. Fujitsu was the first ATM vendor in the United States to offer color graphics with the ACT product line.

Safeway, the nation's third-largest grocery chain, operates 877 stores in the United States and 220 stores in Northern California. Wells Fargo Bank is the principal subsidiary of Wells Fargo & Co., the 11th-largest bank holding company in the United States.

Fujitsu Systems of America Inc. is one of the Fujitsu Ltd. family of companies. A global leader in computer and telecommunications technology, Fujitsu Ltd. has annual revenues greater than $16 billion. Fujitsu Systems of America, a major supplier of end-user systems to the U.S. market, designs, develops and markets automated teller machines, retail point-of-sale systems and handheld computer systems.

CLINTON, N.J. (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - FiatAvio and Foster Wheeler Italiana, S.p.A. announced Monday the incorporation of a new company, F.FW FiatAvio-Foster Wheeler per l'Energia S.p.A.

F.FW will design and install power plants based on the use of gas turbines utilizing advanced cogeneration and combined cycle technologies.

Cogeneration and combined cycle plants make use of the residual heat of the flue gas released by the turbines to produce additional electric or thermal energy. This provides a substantial improvement in overall efficiency, with further reduction of the emission levels, already low because of the use of gas.

FiatAvio, with a 60 percent equity participation, will contribute with its know-how and experience in the design and manufacturing of gas turbines.

Foster Wheeler Italiana, with a 40 percent share, will contribute with its experience in the design of power plants and in the manufacture of heat recovery boilers.

F.FW exploits the complementary capabilities of the two partners, which have already jointly executed combined cycle plants. Their 120 MW power plant for Fiat at Mirafiori (Turin), which began operations in June 1990, was ''a promising start for a company addressing both the domestic and the international market'', as Mauro Bertini, Chairman of the Board of F.FW and Corporate Planning Director of FiatAvio reported.

Other members of the Board are Sergio Garrone, Manager of FiatAvio's Gas Turbine Division, and Giovanni Brustia, an Executive Director of Foster Wheeler Italiana. Giorgio Ferrari from Foster Wheeler will take the position of General Manager of F.FW.

FiatAvio is a world leader in the production of accessory gearboxes and is a partner, together with General Electric, Pratt & Whitney, Rolls Royce and MTU, in the most important aerospatial research programs relevant to design and manufacturing of engines for use in the civil and Government sector.

FiatAvio designs and manufactures gas turbines for the industrial field and supply power stations on a turnkey basis all over the world.

Foster Wheeler Italiana, S.p.A., corporate affiliate of Foster Wheeler Corporation of Clinton, N.J., is one of the most important engineering companies in Italy. In operation since 1957 and employing over 1,000 people in Corsico (Milan) and Rome.

Foster Wheeler Italiana designs and constructs industrial and energy-related plants, for which it also designs and manufactures fired heaters, for process industry, steam generators, waste-heat boilers and equipment for energy recovery and conservation.

NEW YORK (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - The DALBAR Mutual Fund Survey of broker/dealers and registered representatives ranked OppenheimerFunds the number one mutual fund company (tied with American Funds) for customer service in the United States.

OppenheimerFunds has an accuracy rate of 99.98 percent for processing transactions. In addition, their telephone hold time is less than half the industry standard.

The fourth annual DALBAR survey asked registered representatives their opinions on three additional issues:

-- Operational Support -- OppenheimerFunds tied with American Funds for number one.

-- Marketing Support -- OppenheimerFunds ranked number one.

-- General Opinion of Company -- OppenheimerFunds tied for number two.

In the main office evaluation of fund groups, OppenheimerFunds ranked number three out of 31 mutual fund companies.

OppenheimerFunds was the only mutual fund group that rated among the top three in all four categories.

The broker/dealer and registered representatives surveys are conducted annually by DALBAR Surveys Inc. and are designed to measure the perception of the primary distribution channel for mutual funds. Broker/dealers and registered representatives ranked over 30 mutual fund firms on their perceptions of service, marketing and product issues.

DALBAR Surveys Inc. is a research and consulting firm to the mutual fund industry. The DALBAR Survey is conducted annually to obtain the opinions of the broker/dealer community about the mutual funds they sell.

The DALBAR Survey is sponsored by mutual fund companies that are concerned about the quality of service they provide. The survey includes fund companies that are distributed by independent broker/dealers and specifically excludes those sold through a captive sales force.

The survey was conducted by questionnaires sent to top producing registered reps and the main the offices of their firms. Survey results have a margin of error of +/- 5 percent for aggregate scores. For further information about the DALBAR survey, contact DALBAR Surveys Inc. at 617/439-6199.

SANTA BARBARA, CA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Continuing to enhance its internetworking product suite, Advanced Computer Communications (ACC) Monday announced it will add support for the Switched Multi-megabit Data Service (SMDS) as a software option to the company's line of remote bridge/routers.

SMDS service, expected to be commercially available by the beginning of 1992, will initially be offered at DS1 speeds of 1.544 Mbps.

SMDS is an alternative data-transmission service that currently is supported by regional Bell Operating Companies, such as Pacific Bell, Southwestern Bell and other operating companies. Based on the emerging IEEE 802.6 proposal for data, voice and video transmission, SMDS is positioned as a Metropolitan Area Network (MAN) for data communications.

The Series 4000 multiprotocol bridge/router routes all DECnet, IPX, XNS and TCP/IP packets, while simultaneously bridging all other network protocols. All Series 4000 products have built-in network management features based on the Simple Network Management Protocol (SNMP).

Since its incorporation in 1975, ACC has been developing and manufacturing data communications hardware and software products that focus on customer needs. Its internetworking products were introduced in 1987. Since that time ACC has become a market leader in the remote bridge/router and network management arena.

Worldwide, ACC products are connecting local and wide-area networks in government and commercial industries.

SAN DIEGO (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - TeleSoft Monday announced that its TeleGen2 Ada compiler, Version 1.4A for SPARC workstations and servers from Sun Microsystems Inc., now interfaces to Oracle and Sybase databases.

The compiler has been integrated with Oracle's Pro Ada precompiler and with Sybase's open client and APT-Library. This provides TeleGen2 Ada applications with direct access to both of these popular databases. Also, the TeleGen2 Ada Host Development System is the only such system supporting Sun Microsystems' OPEN LOOK XView toolkit.

''TeleSoft's TeleGen2 Ada is one of the world's leading and most robust Ada technologies,'' said Stan Tims, senior director of marketing, UNIX Products Division, Oracle Corp. ''ORACLE Pro Ada is now integrated with TeleGen2 Ada. The Pro Ada database tool combined with TeleSoft's compiler system allows our customers to write Ada-based applications which easily access Oracle databases.''

Version 1.4A of TeleGen2 Ada is faster, more robust, and better integrated with Sun features. Developers can now create Ada applications with an OPEN LOOK GUI using TeleGen2 Ada's bindings to the XView Toolkit -- a new feature in the recently released Version 1.4A.

The new TeleGen2 Ada SPARC compiler runs under both SunOS 4.03 and SunOS 4.1. The cost of the compiler is $7,500 per workstation, including the XView Toolkit binding, and is available now. The cost of the Sybase bindings, available from TeleSoft, is $895. Users wanting ORACLE Pro Ada for TeleGen2 Ada should contact Oracle directly for pricing and availability.

TeleSoft is the leading international provider of software engineering products and services in support of such standards as Ada, X Windows, and SDL. TeleSoft also is a systems supplier and integrator for telecommunications, aerospace/defense and other technical computing markets.

SCHENECTADY, NY (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - General Electric has announced the culmination of a series of contracts to supply 10 GE MS9001E gas turbine-generators, associated equipment, spare parts and services to the Israel Electric Corp. Ltd. (IEC) for a total contract price of about $200 million.

The Israeli contracts call for the supply of 10 gas turbine-generators, controls, balance-of-plant equipment such as low-voltage switchgear and diesel generator sets to integrate the turbines into the IEC system, spare parts and site technical assistance. Under the terms of the contract, GE will source accessory equipment in Israel for four of the units.

IEC is adding the units in pairs at various locations along its electrical system to meet load growth demands. Units 1 and 2 are installed and went into commercial operation in September, 1989.

Units 3 and 4 have also been installed and are currently preparing to go to commercial operation. Units 5 and 6 have been shipped and will be operational in the spring of 1991. Units 7-10 will be shipped in late 1991 and early 1992 and are scheduled for commercial operation in late 1992.

The gas turbines, which will operate on distillate fuel oil only, are rated at 121.3 megawatts at ISO conditions. Based on average U.S. usage, 10 MS9001E gas turbines would provide enough poere to meet the needs of approximately 870,000 people, roughly the size of San Diego.

The gas turbines are being manufactured at GE's Greenville, S.C., facilities, generators at GE's Schenectady plant and controls at the GE plant in Salem, Va.

GE is the world's leading manufacturer and supplier of power generation systems and services, including steam turbines, gas turbines, STAG combined-cycle systems, cogeneration power equipment and a variety of uprate, upgrade and power plant maintenance programs.

Through a subsidiary component, GE Environmental Systems, GE provides flue gas desulfurization and other air purification systems.

SAN JOSE, CA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Areal Technology, Inc., has signed a contract for approximately $4-million with Disk Technologies Corp. (Disctec), Winter Park, Fla., for MD-2060 ultra-thin, high-capacity 2 1/2-inch fixed disk drives.

Disctec will use the Areal drives in its Disctec RHD 60, a palm-sized removable 60-Mbyte data storage cartridge for MS-DOS based desktops, portables and notebook computers. The RHD 60 gives users the option to remove data from the system for security or safety reasons or when the drive is being transported, and to interchange data between different systems. It is available at a suggested retail price of $865.

MD-2060 2 1/2-inch drives are now being produced at Areal's 27,000 square foot facility in San Jose. Higher volume production is scheduled to begin in the first quarter of 1991 under terms of a contract-manufacturing agreement recently signed between Areal and Sanyo Electric Company.

The MD-2060 stores 62.9-Mbytes (Megabytes, or millions of characters of information) of formatted data on a single glass disk operating at very high storage densities. As a result, Areal has reduced the height of the drive to 14.9mm (0.59 inches) including printed circuit board. This is almost 3mm shorter than the nearest multi-disk 60-Mbyte competitor.

Areal Technology, Inc., is a private company formed in 1988 to design, manufacture, and market very high-capacity, very low- cost low-profile Winchester disk drives. The company employs 60.

Disk Technologies Corp. (Disctec) is a private company that designs, manufactures and markets ultra-small, high-capacity, removable data storage subsystems. It is located at 147 West Lyman Avenue 200, Winter Park 32789; 407/645-0001; 800/553-0337; 407/628-4404 (FAX).

DENVER (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Schield Management Co. (NASDAQ:SMCC) Monday announced that is has completed the acquisition of Progressive Ventures Inc. (PVI) effective Nov. 28.

PVI is now a wholly owned subsidiary of Schield Management Co.

This acquisition is a strategic cornerstone toward the long range goal of becoming a larger, more diversified company in the investment management marketplace through acquisitions and expansion of the product base.

There are several immediate benefits from this combination. These include the addition of strong management resources with experience in the capacity as an investment advisor, a strengthening of the balance sheet resulting from assets acquired from PVI and an enhanced revenue stream as PVI is the advisor to the Schield Progressive Environmental Fund.

Schield Management Co. has been in business as an investment advisor since 1972. Its principal lines of business include providing market timing services, providing investment advice to both individually managed accounts and the Schield Portfolios Series of mutual funds, publishing and marketing an institutional investment advisory publication and providing bridge loans and equity financing.

Schield Management Co. shares are listed in the additional over-the-counter market under the NASDAQ symbol: SMCC. There are approximately 1,612,000 shares outstanding, including its shares issued by PVI shareholders as a part of the PVI acquisition.

Schield Management Co. is currently in registration for an offering of $1.8 million in new securities. The offering is being underwritten by Cohig & Associates Inc. on a firm commitment basis.

This announcement shall not constitute an offer to sell or solicit an offer to buy in any state in which such offer, solicitation or sale would be unlawful prior to registration or qualification under the securities laws of any such state.

NASHVILLE, TN (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - DeVlieg-Bullard Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:DVLG) Monday reported results for the first quarter of its 1991 fiscal year that included higher sales but a slight decline in net income from the year-earlier period.

For the three months ended Oct. 31, 1990, net sales increased 30 percent to $22,775,000 compared with $17,544,000 in the first quarter of fiscal 1990. Net income for the most recent quarter totaled $884,000 vs. $938,000 in the year-earlier period.

Although net income was lower than a year ago, charges in the year-earlier period relating to certain classes of the company's preferred stock resulted in an increase in earnings per share to 7 cents vs. 3 cents a year ago.

Laurence DeFrance, chief executive officer, indicated that the lower earnings for the quarter were primarily due to sluggish demand in several of the company's operating units. He said: ''Shipments of woodworking machinery to the housing industry were affected by the protracted softness in new construction.

DeVlieg-Bullard is a diversified industrial concern specializing in servicing, upgrading, automating and remanufacturing precision engineered machine tools. The company also manufactures sophisticated original and replacement tooling products used in industrial machine tools. ORLANDO, FL (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Celebrity Resorts Inc. (the ''Company'')(NASDAQ:CELE,CELEW) Monday announced plans to begin construction of its resort facilities on Orange Lake in Ocala, Fla. in January, 1991.

The company, which completed a successful initial public offering of its shares in August, expects to proceed with construction of recreational vehicle (''RV'') sites, a sales office and a clubhouse upon receiving final approval from local licensing agencies.

Davey Johnson, the company's president, and former manager of the New York

Mets Major League Baseball Team, believes that public response to the company has been outstanding. ''I could not be more pleased with the results of our recent public offering,'' stated Johnson.

As provided in the company's offering prospectus, the company expects to market memberships to recreational vehicle owners and users, as well as others who wish to utilize the fishing and outdoor facilities planned for the resort.

Johnson also announced that the company's board of directors had established a committee to explore and review possible investments by the company in professional baseball (the ''Baseball Committee'').

The Baseball Committee will consist of Directors Johnson, John Abplanalp, general manager of the Tiros Plastic Divison of Precision - Valve and Hartley T. Bernstein, a partner in the New York firm of Brandeis, Bernstein, the company's attorneys. Bernstein will chair the committee.

The company expects to actively seek investments in a major league baseball franchise as well as other professional baseball operations within the State of Florida.

The company, which went public Aug. 14, was founded by Johnson and a number of other former and present baseball coaches and managers, and is engaged principally in the development and eventual operation of a destination resort and fish camp located at Orange Lake, Fla.

NEW YORK (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - AMREP Corp. (NYSE: AXR), builder of new communities and international distributors of magazines, Monday announced the completion of the sale of its water and sewer utility systems serving the City of Rio Rancho, N.M. to a subsidiary of GWC Corporation of Wilmington, Del.

The purchase price was approximately $40 million, of which $21.5 million was used to repay utility debt. It was announced last May that the purchase price would be in excess of $36 million. The final purchase price reflected additions to the utility plant, but did not include the previously announced sale of the water utility serving AMREP's Eldorado at Santa Fe, N.M. Community, as this system was not sold.

A portion of the remaining proceeds will be used to reduce other debt and the balance added to working capital. After recovering its investment, AMREP will realize a profit on the sale of over $3 million.

Howard W. Friedman, AMREP chairman, said, ''The elimination of debt service coupled with the opportunities to utilize this significant infusion of cash will be highly beneficial to the company's long-term growth.''

GWC is a publicly owned water utility holding company whose common stock is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol GWCC.

SANTA CLARA, CA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - 3Com Corp. Monday announced first quarter 1991 availability of its dual-protocol Connection Service software for the 3Com CS line of terminal servers.

The new software lets terminal and PC users concurrently access minicomputers running Transmission Control Protocol/Internet Protocol (TCP/IP) and Digital Equipment Corp.'s (DEC) Local Area Transport (LAT) protocol. The software also contains features that allow it to be tailored to specific business requirements.

3Com terminal servers provide network access for resources such as terminals, personal computers, modems, minicomputers and printers. The TCP/LAT Connection Service is the latest product in 3Com's line of terminal server software for the CS/2000, CS/2100, and CS/1 terminal servers.

Connection Service products currently available provide access to minicomputers running TCP/IP, Open Systems Interconnect (OSI) or Xerox Network Systems (XNS) protocols. End user and network administrator interfaces are consistent across Connection Service products, simplifying day-to-day use and minimizing training. TCP/IP Protocol Support

The TCP/LAT Connection Service software adds two new features to the existing single-protocol TCP/IP Connection Service: the Serial Line Internet Protocol (SLIP) and the Simple Network Management Protocol (SNMP). SLIP enables TCP/IP to run over serial lines, such as those used by personal computers for remote access to minicomputers via modem.

Remote connections via SLIP appear local to the user. Support of the industry-standard SNMP network management protocol allows 3Com TCP/IP terminal servers to be managed by any vendor's SNMP-based manager. LAT Protocol Support 3Com's LAT implementation is licensed directly from DEC to ensure compatibility. It is based on LAT 5.1 specifications, and contains the key features required for LAT connectivity, including reverse LAT. Reverse LAT allows a minicomputer to initiate a session connection.

With this feature, a host application could initiate a session to print on a terminal server-attached printer. ''3Com's direct licensing approach ensures that its LAT implementation will be compatible with all Digital Equipment Corp. systems and peripherals,'' said William R. Johnson, vice president, Telecommunications and Networks Group at Digital Equipment Corp.

The TCP/LAT Connection Service software adds tailorability features in the areas of user interface, network administrator interface, and security options to robust TCP/IP and LAT protocol implementations, creating a powerful terminal server software package.

3Com Corp. is a leading independent global data networking company, providing multivendor connectivity that spans organizations and businesses worldwide. The company designs, manufactures, markets and supports a wide range of networking systems based on industry standards and open systems architecture.

LEXINGTON, KY (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Thomas & King Inc., whose restaurants rank among the best in the Applebee's Neighborhood Grill and Bar system, will open two new Applebee's casual-style restaurants early this month.

Applebee's in Columbus, Ohio, and Phoenix, Ariz., will open simultaneously on Dec. 10, said Thomas & King President Mike Scanlon. The restaurants will be the 10th and 11th in the Thomas & King chain, which includes neighborhood grills in the Lexington, Dayton, Columbus and Cincinnati metropolitan areas.

The new Columbus location, at 6669 Dublin Center Drive, represents that city's third Applebee's within one year. The new Applebee's at 2720 West Bell Road in Phoenix is the first in that metropolitan area.

Positioned as a neighborhood gathering place, Applebee's offers an alternative to traditional full-service and to fast-food restaurants. Its moderate-priced menu includes sought-after appetizers such as buffalo chicken wings, mozzarella sticks, chicken fingers and quesadillas.

Specialty items include broiled Cajun trout, sizzling steaks, chicken and steak fajitas, BBQ riblets, combination dinners, hamburgers, soups, salads and desserts.

Thomas & King's serving-the-customer philosophy has been their key to success. Average sales at Thomas and King's Applebee's rank at or within the top 5 percent of sales at the approximately 150 franchised and company-owned Applebee's.

Within the last year, the Lexington-based company has tripled its sales to more than $17 million and has doubled its employee base. In fact a number of the Thomas & King Applebee's rank in the weekly top 10 of the entire Applebee's International chain.

In Phoenix Sean Saunders will manage a staff of three other managers and 100 employees. Saunders has eight years of experience in restaurant management, including the last two years at the Improvisation Comedy Club and Restaurant in Tempe, Ariz.

WOBURN, MA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Alpha Industries Inc. (AMEX:AHA) Monday announced a new financing agreement with Silicon Valley Bank of Santa Clara, Calif., which is expected to fulfill the company's capital requirements for the foreseeable future.

As part of a complete restructuring of Alpha's long-term financing arrangements, which began last March, Alpha has obtained a $5 milion revolving line of credit from Silicon Valley Bank. The credit arrangement replaces a previous commercial credit relationship which was discontinued by Bank of New England.

In addition, the company has succeeded in restructuing its $3.1 million of Industrial Revenue Bonds by a conversion to fixed rate First Mortgage Bonds purchased by The Putnam Companies of Boston. The IRB refinancing was necessitated by the failure of Bank of Boston to maintain an investment grade rating for its underwriting letter of credit. Special financial advice was rendered by Goldman Sachs of Boston.

COLUMBUS, OH (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Bob Evans Farms' (NASDAQ:BOBE) sales for the second quarter ended Oct. 26 were $127.3 million, an increase of 11 percent over $114.6 million a year ago.

Net income for the second quarter was $8.8 million, or 28 cents per share, compared with $7.6 million, or 23 cents per share, for the second quarter of 1989.

Increases in net sales for both the second quarter and six-month periods were due to more restaurants in operation and higher wholesale prices being charged for sausage products. The increase in net income for the second quarter was due to more restaurants in operation and improved pre-tax margins in the sausage segment.

The sausage segment continued to experience high live hog costs over a year ago, however, pre-tax margins did improve as a result of higher wholesale prices being charged for sausage products.

During the second quarter, three new Bob Evans Restaurants opened in Erie, Pa.; Richmond, Va.; and Bowling Green, Ky.; and two Owens Family Restaurants in Arlington and Dallas, Texas. The Erie, Pa., Bob Evans Restaurant now holds the company record for highest sales volume during opening week. A total of 247 restaurants were operating at the end of the quarter compared with 227 a year ago.

Through more efficient operations, the company now has less duplication of efforts to better serve Bob Evans customers. This is a result of the recent corporate restructuring which implemented seven operating groups and eliminated multiple reporting structures. For the first time in many years, a promotion to cross-sell Bob Evans Farms Sausage in the company's restaurants was held. During October, this '' Oktoberfeast'' promotion featured Bob Evans Farms smoked sausage. Because of this succesful promotion similar projects are being planned.

The board of directors declared a $.065 per share dividend on Oct. 11 payable to stockholders of record Nov. 9.

Bob Evans Farms Inc. currently owns and operates 248 restaurants in 14 states, including nine Owens Family Restaurants in the Dallas/Ft. Worth metroplex. The company produces and distributes a variety of fresh pork sausage products under the Bob Evans and Owens names in 23 states and the District of Columbia.

READING, PA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T announces availability of an integrated circuit that replaces several PBX components.

The new device -- the LH1208 PBX Switch Set -- performs the break and access switch functions between the PBX line feed and the telephone loop. This is what makes your telephone ring or your ''message waiting'' lamp light.

The LH1208's single chip construction and absence of mechanical contacts means no performance degradation over time, no contact bounce and no EMI (electro-magnetic interference). It provides system designers with a longer life, higher reliability and lower cost chip solution.

The chip combines analog and digital circuitry with high-voltage switches to produce a very powerful and versatile PBX switching function. It packs five high-voltage switches, ring trip circuitry, ring trip/off hook status, zero cross switching and an auxiliary latch into a single, monolithic integrated circuit.

Excellent system performance is achieved through the LH1208's superior electrical characteristics, including matched on resistance, high load voltage and fast switching speeds resulting from the solid-state design. The chip is available in surface-mount packaging.

The LH1208 PBX Switch Set is priced at $7.80 for quantities less than 1,000. Samples are available on request. Further information can be obtained by calling the AT&T Microelectronics Customer Response Center at 1-800-372-2447 (in Canada, 1-800-553-2448), or by writing to AT&T Microelectronics, Dept. 52AL300240, 555 Union Blvd., Allentown, Pa., 18103.

AT&T Microelectronics offers a full line of high-performance components and electronic systems to original equipment manufacturers. Included in the product line are application specific integrated circuits, communication devices, graphics and speech processors, analog integrated components and linear arrays, interconnect products, lightwave products, and power supplies.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - NYNEX Corporation, the Communications Workers of America (CWA) and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) announced Monday an agreement to develop and implement programs that help employees balance the demands of a career and family life.

The new programs will reflect employees' varied lifestyles and family structures.

As part of the agreement, the company is making available up to $3 million to fund initiatives that increase the supply or improve the quality of child and elder care facilities in communities where its employees live or work.

''Underlying the action today is the peace of mind it can foster for employees who will know that those who depend on them are receiving quality care while they're at work,'' Jan Pierce, vice president - District 1 of the CWA, Jack Barry, president of the IBEW, and Don Reed, NYNEX vice president- Human Resources & Quality, said in a joint statement.

''Clearly, this represents a confluence of concerns on the part of labor and management that is simply 'smart business.' Any employee who is worried about what's going on at home can't be expected to devote their best professional effort to the job.''

The agreement is designed to help people manage both a full-time job and a busy home life. It reflects a variety of life styles and family structures of current employees, and meets the needs of the diverse and changing labor force of the future.

A 12-person NYNEX/CWA/IBEW committee will oversee work and family issues. Under the terms of the agreement, this committee will review and approve funding requests that are presented by the joint labor/management Work and Family committees that exist throughout the NYNEX companies.

In addition, the agreement provides for employees to retain medical, dental and vision benefits for the duration of leaves of absence to care for newborn children. Employees will also receive credit toward their pension for the time spent on this type of leave. The six union representatives and six representatives of the company will also develop a mission statement to focus joint work and family efforts, recommend long-range plans, and review the activities of work and family committees throughout NYNEX. The committee will enhance ongoing efforts to balance the demands of family and work.

VALLEY STREAM, N.Y. (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Nationwide Cellular Service Inc. (NASDAQ:NCEL), Monday announced it had obtained a $7.5 million line of credit from Congress Financial Corp., a New York-based specialist in asset-based lending and a subsidiary of CoreStates Financial Corp. (NASDAQ:CSFN), a $22.8 billion bank holding company headquartered in Philadelphia.

Nationwide Cellular Service Inc. is one of the largest resellers of cellular telephone service in the country, with more than 67,000 subscribers in major metropolitan areas.

The company indicated that $2.0 million of the facility would be used to repay existing debt. According to Stephen Katz, chairman of the board of Nationwide, ''This credit facility, particularly in the current economic climate, will provide the increased working capital which will enable the company to continue to expand its subscriber base and pursue its other interests in the cellular makret.''

Barry A. Kastner, vice president of Congress said, ''Our business is to provide asset-based financing to middle-market companies. Nationwide Cellular Service is a company with valuable assets in a high-growth industry, which makes it an ideal financing situation for us.''

MORRISTOWN, NJ (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Businesses using token ringR or StarLAN Local Area Networks (LANs) can now have unprecedented access to compatible LANs with a new "gateway" device introduced today by AT&T Network Systems and Eicon Technology, Inc.

The Local Area Network Communications Server (LCS) provides businesses with an easy and cost effective way to link PC users within the same location or multiple locations, regardless of distance.

The LCS acts as a gateway for PCs into AT&T's Datakit IIR Virtual Circuit Switch (VCS), through which users can connect to host computers or compatible LANs also served by Datakit II VCS.

Datakit II VCS is a high performance packet switch that interconnects computers, terminals, and other data processing devices over local or wide area networks.

The LCS consists of an AT&T Model 6386 PC configured with a standard token ring or StarLAN interface card, the EiconCard intelligent coprocessor card, and Eicon's Access Gateway software.

It will work with a variety of vendor LAN equipment, such as NETBIOSR/NOVELL NetWareR compatible LANs, and will support data capabilities such as access to host computers, file share, and file transfer.

"The LCS, integrated with the Datakit wide area backbone network, offers businesses a local area to wide area solution," said Guy Hoffman, Vice President of Eicon Technology, a leading vendor of LAN gateway and wide area networking products. "We are committed to delivering excellence to the end user through this strategic partnership with AT&T.

The LCS and Datakit II VCS will be available through traditional AT&T sales channels, a key one being the corporate utility network offering, known as Custom Network Offering II.

"The mission of this offering is to deliver a comprehensive data networking connectivity package to our customers," said Ray Rossmann, Business Communications Services Product Manager for Custom Network Offering II. "Eicon LAN connectivity combined with Datakit II VCS substantially enhances a customer's flexibility to access any application environment anywhere in their corporate network."

LONDON (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - British Gas (NYSE:BRG) and its partners, Yukong Limited and Union Pacific Petroleum Suez Limited, announced today that they have tested oil in their current Gulf of Suez offshore wildcat well, known as the Warda prospect.

Initial test results appear promising, but the testing program is expected to last until the end of the year. Further information will be released by the group after completing the test program.

British Gas is the operator of the partnership through its subsidiary BG Egypt S.A, located in Maadi, Cairo. The joint-venture interests in the block are as follows:

British Gas 50%
Yukong Limited 25%
Union Pacific Petroleum Suez Ltd. 25%

British Gas, headquartered in London, is the largest integrated gas company in the Western world and is primarily involved in the purchase, transmission, and sale of natural gas to domestic, industrial and commercial customers in Great Britain.

Important support activities to its marketing efforts include appliance trading and customer service to domestic gas customers. British Gas is also active in the exploration for and production of hydrocarbons both offshore and onshore. Expertise developed in the gas business is offered for sale overseas through the British Gas International Consultancy Service. American Depositary Receipts are traded on the New York Stock Exchange. SAN ANTONIO (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Builders Design, Inc. (NASDAQ SYMBOL: BDNI, BSE SYMBOL: BDI) Monday announced that it has entered into a letter of intent to acquire the assets of Pacific Business Group, Inc. which conducts business under the name of Design For Living, a privately-owned San Diego-based company with 1989 revenues of approximately $22,000,000.

Design For Living markets and sells floor coverings to residential and commercial builders in six locations in Arizona and Southern California.

Jack Cook, President of Builders Design, stated that Design For Living would be acquired solely for stock and the assumption of certain liabilities. The number of shares of Builders Design Common Stock to be issued will be subject to final negotiations and mutual agreement.

Cook also stated that the proposed transaction is subject to the negotiation and execution of a definitive acquisition agreement and to obtaining any necessary regulatory and other consents and approvals.

Through its Phoenix-based wholly-owned subsidiary, Letco Inc., Builders Design markets and sells floor, wall and window coverings to residential and commercial builders and on a retail basis through nine stores located in Arizona and California.

Cook explained that, because new homes sales have declined from prior years' levels, by combining the operations of Letco and Design For Living together with those of New Era Interiors, Inc., another acquisition announced last week this combined group of companies is expected to provided enhanced marketing and sales opportunities which will result from its larger market share as well as other substantial benefits from economies of scale.

Builders Design Convertible Preferred Stock, Redeemable Common Stock Purchase Warrants and Class A Redeemable Common Stock Purchase Warrants are also traded in the over-the-counter market.

BLUE BELL, PA. (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Unisys Corp. Monday announced that it has received a contract from BellSouth to provide multiple 2200/600ES mainframe systems, which will run mission-critical customer service application software.

These systems allow BellSouth to assign and track individual telephone lines from the central office to the telephone pole outside a customer site. This tracking information assists the telephone company in processing customer requests for increased service or repairs by correlating phone lines, addresses, and phone numbers.

''With systems installed in all seven Regional Bell Operating companies in the United States, Unisys continues to build its leadership position as a leading supplier of integrated information solutions to the telecommunications industry,'' said Gary Alexander, President, Unisys Communications Industry Systems Division.

''The new 2200/600ES mainframes will provide BellSouth with a more reliable, powerful and cost-effective delivery system for their crucial operational applications,'' continued Alexander.

The Unisys 2200/600ES offers up to a 15 percent increase in performance and a 60 percent reduction in power and cooling requirements over existing 2200/600 models. These increases in performance and reliability are achieved through the implementation of 16-way interleave and a new Input/Output Complex Cabinet design.

CLEVELAND (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Cleveland-Cliffs Inc announced today that hourly employees of the Empire and Tilden Mines and related facilities in Michigan ratified a new labor contract on December 1, 1990. Production will resume shortly at both mines. The employees, represented by the United Steelworkers of America, had been on strike since August 1, 1990. A Cliffs' subsidiary manages and has equity interests in the mines through partnerships with various steel companies.

Cliffs said the new contract matches other United States iron ore industry contracts in providing wage increases, a variable compensation plan, and excess inflation payments. The contract also improves benefit plans and adds special bonuses to resolve outstanding issues. The contract will expire on August 1, 1993.

Wages will increase by $1.25 per hour immediately and an additional 25 cents per hour on January 1, 1992. The variable compensation plan, in the form of a production bonus, will pay a minimum of 25 cents and a maximum of 69 cents per hour worked, depending on the level of future production. With the production bonus, average wages will increase by 15 to 18 percent, plus any payments for excess inflation.

Each employee will receive a $2,000 signing bonus in 1990 that recognizes the lag in timing of the new contract versus other operations that reached new contracts in 1989. Starting in 1991, employees will receive three annual cost-of-living supplements totaling $2,000 to resolve a Michigan mine issue from the 1987 contract regarding the inflation adjustment formula.

Also, each employee will receive 50 shares of Cleveland-Cliffs Inc common stock as soon as regulatory clearance is obtained. The approximately 90,000 shares of stock will be acquired by the mine partnerships in the open market.

M. Thomas Moore, chairman and chief executive officer, said, ''We are pleased to end this unfortunate strike with a creative agreement that provides competitive compensation and benefit gains and resolves significant issues fairly. We are hopeful that the information and viewpoints exchanged between the company and the union during negotiations will lead to a better and mutually beneficial relationship.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - North American software firms sales increased 63 percent in Europe during Third Quarter, 1990, the Software Publishers Association announced Monday.

Thirty-two U.S.-based software firms, including Lotus, Microsoft, Ashton-Tate, WordPerfect, Aldus, Claris, Software Publishing, Borland, Symantec, Wordstar, Enable, T/Maker and others participated in the SPA's data program by submitting confidential data to the accounting firm of Arthur Andersen, who prepared the report for the SPA. The data was collected in 18 software categories (including Word Processors, Graphics, Spreadsheets and others) and in six different software formats (including Macintosh and MS-DOS).

The 32 firms reported aggregate European software sales of $228.8 million (measured at wholesale in U.S. dollars) for the Third Quarter. This represented a growth rate of 63 percent over Third Quarter, 1989.

Sales of DOS/Windows software increased 61.1 percent in Third Quarter, and Macintosh sales increased 82.7 percent. ''The European market continues to defy forecasts of a slowdown,'' stated Executive Director Ken Wasch. Third Quarter sales throughout Europe increased 63 percent. This compares with a 48 percent growth rate in the Second Quarter.

As in the United States, Microsoft Windows applications sales are startling. Windows software sales in Europe increased 110 percent in First Quarter, 106 percent in Second Quarter, and 243 percent in Third Quarter. ''The Windows numbers are phenomenal,'' stated Research Director Ann Stephens. ''In Europe, this is the year of the graphical user interface.'' Windows is now the second largest European software format, behind MS-DOS.

In total volume, Germany/Austria is the largest European market for the U.S.-based firms, at $62 million, followed by the United Kingdom and Ireland at $56.6 million and France at $40.6 million. These figures should not be considered estimates of market size, since the sample only includes the sales of the major North American software firms in each market. Generally, in the European software markets, the sales of U.S. PC software products are approximately 70 percent of the total market in each country.

The Software Publishers Association is the worldwide trade asociation of the PC software industry. Its 720 members include the leading publishers of business, consumer and education software. The SPA's members also include European-based software firms. The SPA's European office opened in January, 1990 at the CNIT in Paris La Defense, France.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Telecredit Inc. (NASDAQ:TCRD) announced Monday that net earnings for the second quarter of fiscal 1991 ended Oct. 31, 1990 rose 12 percent to a record $7,045,000, or 63 cents per share, on revenue of $42,741,000.

In fiscal 1990's second quarter, net earnings were $6,311,000, or 57 cents per share, on revenue of $40,653,000.

For the first half of fiscal 1991, net earnings were a record $14,344,000, or $1.28 per share, 11 percent ahead of the $12,938,000, or $1.17 per share, reported for the first six months of fiscal 1990. Revenue rose to $85,507,000 from $81,640,000 a year earlier.

Chairman Lee A. Ault III said that pre-tax earnings from check services in the second quarter rose 3 percent over the like period last year as operating revenue increased 9 percent to $24,580,000. He added that the dollar value of checks authorized in connection with Telecredit's check purchase service increased 18 percent to approximately $2.12 billion in the quarter.

Ault said that pre-tax earnings from card processing services increased 17 percent in the second quarter compared to the prior year despite the reduction in Telecredit's credit union card processing customer base following the expiration of the company's processing contract with Payment Systems for Credit Unions (PSCU) in October 1989.

Noting that earnings comparisons in future periods will no longer be distorted by the loss of a portion of the credit union customer base, Ault said: ''We anticipate solid gains in card processing earnings for the second half of fiscal 1991.''

Pre-tax earnings from enhancement services in the second quarter were ahead of internal expectations, Ault said, as revenue grew 229 percent from the like period last year. ''We believe enhancement services have the potential to make a meaningful contribution to Telecredit's overall earnings in the years to come,'' Ault concluded. Telecredit Inc. provides check authorization, credit card processing, and other payment services to retail merchants, financial institutions and others.

DAYTON, OH (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Audio/Video Affiliates Inc. (NYSE:AVA) Monday reported revenues and net income for the third quarter and nine months ended Oct. 31.

For the third quarter ended Oct. 31, 1990, the company reported net income of $109,000, or 2 cents per share, compared with a loss of $997,000, or 16 cents per share for the quarter ended Oct. 31, 1989. The average number of shares outstanding during the third quarter was 6,671,000, compared to 6,231,000 for the like period in the prior year. Revenues for the quarter totaled $34.1 million, compared to $29.6 million for the prior year's third quarter.

For the nine months ended Oct. 31, 1990, the company reported net income of $478,000, or 7 cents per share, compared with a loss of $2,624,000, or 35 cents per share, for the prior year's first nine months. The average number of shares outstanding during the first nine months of Fiscal 1991 was 6,671,000, compared to 7,441,000 for the first nine months of the prior year. Revenues for the first nine months of Fiscal 1991 were $97.8 million, compared to $95.3 million for the prior year.

Same store sales for the third quarter increased 31.9 percent, as compared to the like period in the prior year, and for November 1990, same store sales increased 40.7 percent, as compared to November 1989. As of the end of the third quarter of Fiscal 1991, the company had 83 stores, compared to 87 stores in the prior year.

Commenting on the results, Stuart A. Rose, chairman and CEO of Audio/Video Affiliates Inc., said, ''The transition experienced during Fiscal 1990 is favorably continuing into Fiscal 1991.'' Rose attributed the company's performance in the third quarter to the store closings in Fiscal 1990, the continued strong controls and monitoring of overhead-related costs and the increase in same store sales experienced during the quarter.

DFW AIRPORT, TX (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - American Airlines said Monday that it has agreed to purchase Continental Airlines' Seattle-Tokyo route authority for $150 million.

The closing of the sale is subject to the receipt of the necessary approvals from the U.S. government and the bankruptcy court.

Under the agreement, which American signed after Continental filed its bankruptcy petition, the closing will take place on or before Dec. 31, 1991. Continental has agreed to continue operating the route until the closing occurs.

American was a major participant in the Seattle-Tokyo route case a few years ago and said at the time that the route could be a major stepping stone to making the airline a third strong U.S. carrier in the Pacific.

American recently was awarded San Jose-Tokyo route authority and has announced that it will inaugurate the route on March 2, 1991, using new McDonnell Douglas MD-11 aircraft.

American has operated nonstop service between Dallas-Fort Worth and Tokyo since May 1987.

BLUE BELL, PA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Sabena World Airlines has signed for the Unisys Airline Revenue Enhancement (ARE) System, which will help the carrier increase profits by anticipating market demand.

The ARE System will enhance Sabena's long-range passenger demand forecasts and will recommend optimal seat allocations and booking profiles by point of sale.

The ARE system uses data from an airline's reservations system and offers advanced modeling and forecasting techniques to detect market movement early in the booking process. These capabilities assist an airline in maximizing the revenue generated by its flight schedule and fare structure.

The ARE system is the only revenue enhancement system to provide separate long-range forecasting, profiling and clustering, and short-term forecasting in a single product. The system will operate on a Unisys 2200/400 mainframe. Implementation will begin in the first quarter of 1991.

Sabena has been using USAS Cargo for air freight management for eight years. Earlier this year, the carrier doubled its processing capacity with the acquisition of two Unisys 2200/400 mainframes.

With 30 years of experience serving the airline and travel industry, Unisys is a leading supplier of advanced automation systems, software and services to this market. More than 140 airlines in the world depend on Unisys products.

Furthermore, Newmax Co. Ltd., the Korean company which has a right to purchase 10.5 million shares of common stock of NMI for $4.2 million, has delayed its decision and has not yet obtained Korean government approval regarding the making of that investment.

An action has been initiated by MiniScribe Corp., as Debtor in Possession, to recover $2,813,000 of allegedly preferential or fraudulent transfers made by MiniScribe Corp. to NMI during the year 1989. A tentative settlement has been negotiated for the sum of $50,000, subject to approval of the Bankruptcy Court in Denver.

Newmax has advised that its decision whether to proceed with the acquisition is contingent upon such approval, among other things.

GREENWICH, CONN (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Walsh, Greenwood & Co., a

Connecticut-based investment firm, Monday announced that certain of its affiliates have acquired additional shares of common stock of The Shirt Shed Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:SHRT) and certain securities exercisable for shares of Shirt Shed common stock.

Assuming full conversion and exercise of its securities, Walsh Greenwood and its affiliates own 3,763,303 shares of Shirt Shed common stock, representing approximately 44 percent of the outstanding common stock on a fully diluted basis.

These shares, together with shares owned or purchasable by management of Shirt Shed, represent in excess of 50 percent of the Shirt Shed common stock and may therefore represent the ability to effect certain changes through the voting of such shares, including, without limitation, a proposed acquisition of Shirt Shed by Signal Apparel Company Inc. (NYSE:SIA), an affiliate of Walsh Greenwood.

Signal is currently in discussions with Shirt Shed regarding the proposed acquisition by Signal of all outstanding shares of common stock of Shirt Shed not currently owned by Signal at a price of $4 per share. The negotiations between Signal and Shirt Shed are continuing and Signal and its affiliates are in the process of seeking financing to consummate the transaction.

Although no assurance can be given, Walsh Greenwood is confident that both the financing and the acquisition of Shirt Shed will be consummated.

In addition to the shares of common stock described above, Signal currently holds a $6 million subordinated note which, under certain circumstances, is convertible into shares of Shirt Shed's preferred stock, and at $3 per share, into 2 million shares of Shirt Shed's common stock.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Vari-Care Inc. (NASDAQ:VCRE) Monday announced record fourth quarter and year-end results for the year ended Sept. 30.

Results for these periods included a pre-tax gain of $568,000 from the sale of the 67 bed Magnolia Haven Nursing Home in Tuskegee, Ala., effective Sept. 30.

Fourth quarter revenues rose 7 percent to $13,102,000 from $12,236,000 in the same period last year. Net income for the final quarter of fiscal 1990 was $628,000, or $.12 per share, versus $110,000, or $.03 per share in last year's fourth quarter.

Revenues for the year ended Sept. 30, were $49,349,000, up 5 percent compared to $46,965,000 last year. Net income for fiscal 1990 was $1,430,000, or $.27 per share, versus $1,241,000, or $.24 per share.

The company also announced that its board of directors declared a cash dividend at the rate of $.04 per share. This, the company's 17th consecutive annual cash dividend, is payable on Dec. 27, to shareholders of record on Dec. 13.

Commenting, Robert H. Hurlbut, president of Vari-Care, stated, ''Patient revenue growth was achieved despite a slight decline in overall patient census and a greater proportion of subsidized patients. This growth was based on increases in room rates, both private pay and subsidized, as well as greater income from ancillary services. A strong performance by our Alabama region, the stabilization of profitable operations in Arizona, plus the gain on the sale of Magnolia Haven produced our record earnings.

''We are extremely excited about the Renaissance, our new, luxurious 120-bed facility in Naples, Florida, designed for 60 skilled nursing care beds and 60 personal care beds, which is scheduled to open in several months. Likewise, the 44-bed addition to our Boulevard Manor facility in Boynton Beach, Florida will be operational soon. Although, on a near-term basis these expansions will have a negative impact on our consolidated results, we made the decision to expand in Florida because we are confident that they will, over time, contribute to our growth and profitability,'' Hurlbut concluded.

Vari-Care, Inc. provides a full range of recuperative and healthcare services including skilled nursing, intermediate and personal care, retirement apartments, home health care, adult day care, and meals-on-wheels. The company operates 23 long-term healthcare facilities in Alabama, Arizona, Florida and Texas with a capacity of 2,518 residents and 164 beds coming on line in 1991. The company also has a 68-unit retirement apartment complex in Texas.

PORTLAND, MAINE (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - The One Bancorp (''the Company''), announced Monday to investors holding the $9,996,000 remaining principal balance of its 7-1/2 percent Convertible Subordinated Debentures that it has decided to suspend the approximately $375,000 interest payable on the debentures today, although the Company has sufficient assets and liquidity to make the payment.

In October, 1990 the Company repurchased $26.8 million of the $36.8 million principal balance of convertible subordinated debentures previously outstanding at a gain of approximately $22 million.

Vincent E. Furey Jr., president and chief executive officer noted that, ''The Company is obligated to employ its funds judiciously, and the Indenture relating to the Subordinated Debentures provides a thiry-day grace period for payment of interest. The Company intends to complete a review of its current financial position and a reassessment of alternative courses of action which may be taken.''

Upon completion, a final decision will be made regarding the interest payment.

The Convertible Subordinated Debentures are obligations of The One Bancorp. As such, suspension of the interest payment will have no impact on the Company's banking subsidiaries, Maine Savings Bank, Southstate Bank for Savings and The Bank of Hartford, each of which 2ontinue to maintain sufficient liquidity to fund operations and to honor all financial commitments.

Furey emphasized that, ''Payment of interest on certificates of deposit and all other deposit accounts at the banking subsidiaries will not be affected and all other business conducted by the subsidiaries will continue as usual.''

Deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. for up to $100,000 per custom account. The One Bancorp is a $2.2-billion, Maine-based bank holding company with FDIC-insured banking subsidiaries in Maine, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

PARAMUS, NJ (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Jennifer Convertibles Inc. (NASDAQ: JENN BSE:JEN) Monday reported year end results and record sales for the period ending Aug. 31. Profits for the fourth quarter were the highest in the company's history.

Jennifer Convertibles Monday announced results of operations for its fiscal year which ended Aug. 31. Sales increased by 7.4 percent to $32,117,341 compared to $29,909,342 in fiscal 1989. The company's loss for the period decreased by $1,037,371 from $1,334,471 in fiscal 1989 to $297,100 in fiscal 1990.

Harley Greenfield, president of Jennifer, said that after the significant growth in stores and sales from fiscal 1987 to fiscal 1989, fiscal 1990 was a year of consolidation. During the year two new stores were opened and six stores were closed as a result of the company reevaluating the efficiency of each store's operation. Of the loss of $297,100 for fiscal 1990, $288,611 was attributable to costs associatecd with the six closed stores and their operations prior to closing.

In a year where many retailers, particularly those in the Northeast, suffered substantial losses and liquidity problems, the company generated positive cash flow from operations of $419,821 in fiscal 1990 compared to a negative cash flow of $1,548,767 in fiscal 1989, an improvement of approximately $2 million.

During the year, cost of sales and selling and G&A expenses as a percent of sales were reduced, demonstrating the economies of scale which can be achieved as the company's growth continues.

For the fourth quarter ended Aug. 31, revenues were $7,918,734 and net earnings after tax were $81,256 or three cents per share, the highest in the company's history. Greenfield said that the results of the fourth quarter were especially significant in view of the economic environment in which they were achieved.

Subsequent to the end of the year the company has signed a series of agreements with Crown Investment Group Ltd. and its wholly owned subsidiary Summit Investment Group Ltd. pursuant to which six licensed stores will be established and operated in Florida.

The company will receive a five percent royalty on sales by the Florida stores. In addition, two company-owned stores were sold to Rudzin Furniture Inc. and a ten-year license agreement was entered into between Rudzin and the company whereby Rudzin will pay a royalty of five percent of these stores sales to the company.

WHITE PLAINS, NY (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - New England Telephone and New York Telephone announced Monday they will give local transport providers like Teleport Communications Group and Metropolitan Fiber Systems the opportunity to interconnect to the network by placing their transmission equipment in telephone company central offices.

This arrangement will enable these companies to connect directly to the telephone companies' networks and broaden the opportunities to offer private line and special access services to their customers.

NYNEX's telephone companies are among the first in the nation to offer this type of access arrangement to its competitors in the local exchange market.

"This signals a major change in how the telephone companies will connect other local providers into their networks," said Brian Lane, vice president - Regulatory Matters for the NYNEX telephone companies. He noted the new access arrangements will ultimately provide an increased number of options to customers and will create a more robust local network.

"NYNEX's action recognizes competition in the local exchange business and is consistent with regulatory policies favoring competition in this area," said Lane. "It also reflects NYNEX's view that competition is healthy wherever it best serves the needs of our customers."

NYNEX's unprecedented move follows petitions by Teleport to the regulatory commissions in Massachusetts and New York seeking new access arrangements in connecting its equipment to the New England Telephone and New York Telephone networks.

New England Telephone announced its plans to offer the new type of access arrangements in a November 30 filing to the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities. Pending DPU approval, the company will have 90 days to submit an intrastate tariff for offering these new services. The tariff will also include comprehensive pricing proposals for the interconnection arrangements. New York Telephone is expected to file tariffs for new interconnection arrangements by year's end, according to Lane.

BEDFORD HEIGHTS, OH (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Riser Foods, Inc. (AMEX: RSR) today reported its results for the first quarter of fiscal 1991 which ended October 20, 1990, noting continued profitability improvement over last year.

The company's results for its first quarter of fiscal 1991, a sixteen week quarter which ended October 20, 1990, showed net income of $2.4 million, or 30 cents per share, on sales of $315 million compared with net income of $1.9 million, or 23 cents per share, on sales of $320 million a year ago.

Riser noted that the net income reported for the first quarter of the previous fiscal year included an extraordinary income item of $500,000 which represented the utilization of a Federal Income Tax net operating loss carryforward.

Riser indicated that first quarter net profits increased 30 percent over last year despite higher effective income tax rates. Additionally, fiscal 1991 results do not include any extraordinary income items which benefited last year' results.

The continued emphasis on strengthening margins and reducing operating and administrative costs, coupled with interest rate reductions, have contributed significantly to the continuing trend of profitability.

Riser said that it is pleased with its first quarter results despite the 1.6 percent decrease in sales. Riser's decrease in sales was attributed primarily to a decrease in sales of five of the company's Carl's stores and a decrease in sales of its wholesale division which was affected when one of its customers closed five stores last spring.

Sales from Riser's 39 Stop-N-Shop stores remained unchanged from last year. However, Riser noted that it experienced sales increases in its five Akron area Carl's stores and its Eagle Ice Cream division.

Based on its continued improving performance, Riser announced that commencing with the second quarter of fiscal 1991, it had negotiated reductions in the interest rates and fees associated with its Bank Credit Facility over and above those attainable in the existing agreement. Riser feels these reductions are further evidence of its strengthened financial position and improved banking relationships.

Riser operates 50 supermarkets in Northeastern Ohio under the Rini-Rego Stop-N-Shop and Carl's format, one deep discount store, a wholesale food distribution business (American Seaway Foods), a food service division (Seaway Food Services) and an ice cream manufacturing operation (Eagle Ice Cream).

MILWAUKEE (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Computerized Thermal Imaging (CTI) is under an agreement to deliver a thermal imaging unit to the Milwaukee County General Hospital, a leading pediatric hospital in the country, located in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee County is a 1,200 bed facility which plans to utilize additional termal imaging units before the end of the first year. CTI, moreover, has verbal agreements from the following medical facilities:

Highland Park Imaging Center (2 units)
University of Chicago (2 units)
Rush Presbyterian Saint Lukes (3 units)
University of Wisconsin (1 unit)

Management believes all of the above verbal agreements should be signed within 30 days.

Each thermal imaging unit sold brings in a minimum of $225,000 in revenue. Once the unit is in, furthermore, the contract (which is locked into for six years) provides the medical facility with an average $500 per case, which translates into $600,000 of which CTI receives 25 percent or $150,000 on an annual basis. Management bases this figure on the following conservative estimate - $150,000

Based on the above verbal agreements, this translates into $3.5 million in the first year, and $2 million thereafter on a residual basis with no increase in case load.

Computerized Thermal Imaging Inc. is the state-of-the-art leader in medical diagnostic computerized thermal imaging technology. Computerized thermal imaging is a non-invasive, harmless technique using the body's own infrared energy like a road map to detect abnormalities in human physiology.

AUSTIN, TX (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Gulf States Utilities Co. (NYSE:GSU) officials announced Monday that the Beaumont-based electric utility will implement a $65 million bonded interim rate increase in Texas next week.

The base rate increase, which will go into effect Dec. 11, will be subject to refund if a lesser amount is granted on a permanent basis.

GSU filed a rate case with the Public Utility Commission of Texas in March 1989. State law provides for rates to be put into effect under bond after a certain period of time has elapsed. GSU's case was placed under suspension while the PUCT awaited a ruling from the Texas Supreme Court on whether certain River Bend costs could be considered by the commission.

Several other Texas utilities have already implemented rates under bond this year, including Houston Lighting & Power, Texas Utilities, El Paso Electric Co. and Texas-New Mexico Power Co.

Officials decided to implement rates under bond to avoid the possible loss of additional revenues while the rate request remains under consideration.

Company officials said the bonded rates should be in effect for only a few months, since a final decision in the rate case is expected during February 1991. If the amount granted is less than the interim amount, customers will get refunds plus interest. A bond is posted to ensure the utility has enough money to make any necessary refunds.

It has been two and one-half years since GSU received a rate increase in Texas. Since January 1988, the company has received about $60 million in rate increases in Texas and about $158 million in rate increases in Louisiana. GSU has also requested that a $29.9 million revenue increase go into effect in Louisiana next March.

ATLANTA (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Deak International officially has become Thomas Cook Currency Service Inc., bringing a 150-year tradition in travel to North America.

The name change, effective Dec. 3, was the final step in the August acquisition of Deak International by The Thomas Cook Group, based in London. The firm will operate using the trade name Thomas Cook Foreign Exchange.

The company's Southeast regional office is located in Atlanta and oversees operations in several states in the Southeast. In North America, the firm operates a 110-branch foreign exchange and precious metals retail network. The Thomas Cook Group is the largest retail foreign exchange network in the world.

"For many years, The Thomas Cook Group has maintained a high retail profile in Europe and around the world," said Peter J. Middleton, chief executive officer of The Thomas Cook Group. "Deak's name change and the worldwide reputation the company enjoys in the travel business will give us the same high profile in North America."

Thomas Cook Foreign Exchange will serve corporate clients and individuals in North America, providing currency exchange, traveler's checks and precious metals for investment.

"Joining The Thomas Cook Group team is a giant step for us and our customers," said Sue Holloway, vice president and Southeast area manager of Thomas Cook Foreign Exchange and formerly with Deak International. "Becoming a part of this well-known international firm will greatly benefit our clients, increasing their accessibility to our services worldwide."

The acquisition added 72 branches in the United States and 38 branches in Canada to the 1,600-plus Thomas Cook network worldwide. The firm also acquired Deak offices in the United Kingdom and New Zealand. The Thomas Cook Group is now represented in 120 countries.

"Our corporate name, synonymous with trust and reliability in travel for nearly 150 years, brings a strong base to our newest branches in North America " Middleton said. "This represents another major step in Thomas Cook's continuing commitment to a standard of outstanding service worldwide." Annual sales in the United States by The Thomas Cook Group exceed more than $20 billion.

The Thomas Cook Group, founded in 1841, is a wholly owned subsidiary of Midland Bank. The Thomas Cook Group and Thomas Cook Currency Services Inc. specialize in foreign exchange, traveler's checks and precious metal investments. The company is headquartered in London. Annual sales exceeded $20 billion (US). The North American retail operation is currently headquartered in Toronto.

HARTFORD, CT (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - The Advest Group Inc. announced that Advest Bank, its wholly-owned subsidiary, is no longer subject to the Competitive Equality Banking Act of 1987.

This means the bank is freed from the constraints which regulated its growth, cross-marketing efforts and expansion of activities.

''Advest Bank remains a Connecticut-chartered, FDIC-insured savings bank.

However we will have more flexibility in marketing our services and will ultimately be able to meet a broader array of customer needs,'' according to Allen Weintraub, chief executive officer of The Advest Group Inc.

The bank continues to be regulated primarily by the Banking Department of the State of Connecticut and nothing changes in regard to its charter, capital structure or customer relationships.

''The bank has successfully met the Qualified Thrift Lender test which essentially means that the majority of the bank's loans are, and must continue to be, housing related. That fits with the overall approach taken by the bank since it opened in 1984,'' said John F. Beckert, president of Advest Bank.

In addition, The Advest Group was able to elect to be treated technically as a savings and loan holding company. ''Because The Advest Group is a diversified financial services company, this change is advantageous. We offer the full array of investment brokerage services through Advest Inc., and can now also provide a wider range of banking services through Advest Bank. This flexibility is an important part of our long-term marketing capability,'' Weintraub noted.

''There is no change to the corporation's capital structure and no action is required by shareholders,'' he added.

The Advest Group is a diversified financial services company headquartered in Hartford. It is traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol ADV.

In addition to Advest Bank, the company's other principal subsidiaries include Advest Inc., a leading regional broker/dealer; Boston Security Counsellors, an investment management company; Shore & Reich Ltd., a retirement plan administrator; Lyons Zomback & Ostrowski, financial consultants specializing in the banking industry.

WINDSOR LOCKS, CT (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Burritt Bank of New Britain opened its first supermarket branch office in the Finast supermarket located in Tri-City Plaza in Vernon, Connecticut Monday.

''We are much more than just a check cashing facility,'' said Jack C. Jaynes, president and chief executive officer of Burritt. ''Through our in-store facility, Finast clients will have access to full-service banking seven days each week.''

Burritt's new Finast branch will provide a complete range of financial services, including savings, checking, certificates of deposit, as well as mortgage and consumer loans.

''One of the most unique aspects of Burritt's first supermarket branch,'' noted Jack Moffatt, president of First National Supermarkets Eastern Division, ''are the unprecedented hours of operation. This will be the first time a bank in New England is open everyday, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. This presents a wonderful time savings convenience to our Finast customers, and we're extremely pleased to join with Burritt Bank in offering this additional service.''

Although the concept of a full-service bank inside a supermarket is a new one for this market area, nearly 800 successful in-store banks already exist throughout the United States. In accordance with an agreement signed earlier this year with Burritt Bank, First National Supermarkets will open three additional in-store Burritt branches in 1991. These locations include the Southington Edwards and two proposed Finast stores in Bloomfield and West Hartford.

Burritt Bank currently serves central Connecticut with 11 offices in New Britain and in suburban Hartford communities. First National operates 36 Finast and Edwards stores in Connecticut and another 28 in New York, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

POUGHKEEPSIE, NY (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Poughkeepsie Savings Bank (NASDAQ:PKPS) Monday announced that its President, J. Michael Feeks, and Executive Vice President-General Counsel, Neil S. Lang, have resigned, effective at the end of this year.

The Company said their management positions were being eliminated as part of an intensified effort to reduce operating expenses and restore the Bank's profitability.

In making the announcement, Poughkeepsie's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Christoph H. Schmidt, said, ''A more streamlined management structure is consistent with our plans to transform Poughkeepsie Savings into a smaller, locally-oriented institution. Michael Feeks and Neil Lang have both made significant contributions to the Bank, and will be helping us to make this transition as orderly as possible.'' The duties of President will be assumed by Mr. Schmidt, and the two executives' other responsibilities will be transferred to other bank officers.

Messrs. Feeks and Lang intend to open a consulting firm offering banks and thrifts a variety of services relating to the new regulatory and economic environment. Schmidt said that Poughkeepsie anticipates utilizing the firm's services to assist the Bank in the implementation of its plans.

Poughkeepsie Savings Bank, with assets of $1.4 billion, is a community banking institution with 11 branch offices in the mid-Hudson Valley region of New York and a mortgage banking subsidiary based in Tampa, Florida.

NEW YORK (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - Effective Dec. 2, passengers who fly Swissair and Delta Air Lines may enjoy convenient through-check-in service.

Customers from Switzerland to North America with onward Delta connections, and Delta passengers transferring onto Swissair flights to Switzerland need only check-in once -- at their original airport of departure.

Normally, passengers changing flights to another air carrier must check in again at the transit airport concerned. On itineraries involving several changes of airline, this can also mean waiting on line to check in a number of times.

Swissair and Delta's new ''through-check-in'' program eliminates this inconvenience. A Swissair customer traveling from Geneva via Zurich to Atlanta, for example, with an onward Delta connection to Mexico City, can receive all three boarding cards: Geneva-Zurich, Zurich-Atlanta, and Atlanta-Mexico City -- when checking in at Geneva Airport. The system also works for a Delta customer who, for example, flies from Memphis via Atlanta to Zurich, with an onward Swissair connection to Milan. This translates into a considerable amount of time saved on such multi-sector flights.

The service is effective in seven U.S. gateways where Delta and Swissair have joint operations, including Anchorage, Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York and Philadelphia.

The through-check-in procedure, a major service innovation for the air transport world, uses the United Nations EDIFACT computer language for its operations.

Through-check-in is just one example of the customer benefits being developed by Swissair and Delta in their marketing alliance.

DALLAS (DEC. 3) BUSINESS WIRE - SRX, the Dallas-based manfacturer of premium telecommunications systems and related peripherals, Monday announced the introduction of the privately-held company's new VisionACD Management Reports Package.

''Our new turnkey package was designed to provide Automatic Call Distribution system administrators with immediate access to useful information concerning ACD activities, including number of agents logged in, agents logged out, agents in wrap and the amount of time a call stays in queue before being answered,'' explained Jim Steenbergen, SRX president and CEO.

Running on an external personal computer, the VisionACD Management Reports Package also enables the system administrator to manage up to 64 ACD groups with up to 63 agents per group, monitor real-time ACD activity via color display and generate customized real-time and historical reports based on system-provided information.

Reports may also be generated which evaluate agent performance, agent groups and trunks in order to maximize control of a call center; frequently-required reports may be programmed to be automatically generated on a regular basis.

No special supervisor or agent phones are necessary for the VisionACD Management Reports Package, which requires SRX Release 4.3 or greater software for System One and Release 2.1 or greater software for VisionMS. The package is compatible with all SRX stations and comes with the standard SRX One-Year Warranty.

Founded in 1983, privately-owned SRX provides premium telecommunications switching equipment including patented voice and data switching technologies to customers worldwide.

NORWALK, CT (DEC. 4) BUSINESS WIRE - First National Realty Associates Inc., headquartered in Norwalk, announced Monday that it has reached an agreement in principle to merge First United, Realtors of Chicago, with First National Realty, according to Jay N. Torok, chairman and chief executive officer.

''We are excited at the prospect of adding an esteemed firm such as First United to the growing First National Realty family,'' stated Torok. ''First United will be an asset for First National Realty, bringing an outstanding reputation for growth and professionalism, and a track record for excellence in providing real estate brokerage services, and will establish First National as a dominant presence in what we feel is a key marketplace, the greater Chicago area.''

First United, Realtors, the largest privately owned real estate company in greater Chicago, maintains 28 branch offices and 700 sales associates, serving the Chicago metropolitan area.

This will be the fourth major acquisition by the company in the last two months, First National Realty having already acquired regional firms such as Royer Realty of Atlanta; Realtech Realtors of Wilton, Conn. and Gribin Von Dyl of Sherman Oaks, Calif. in the past six weeks.

This acquisition will bring First National Realty to a total of over 2,200 sales associates in 82 branch offices throughout the company.

First National Realty is a national residential real estate brokerage company founded in 1988, with the following operations; Wallace, Anderson Realtors, San Francisco; and Ramsey-Shilling Inc., Gribin Von Dyl and Dipple Realty, Los Angeles; Realtech Realtors, Fairfield County, Conn.; First National Realty of Florida, Boca Raton, Fla.; First National Realty, Atlanta; and Ackerman & Co., Houston.

BRASILIA (DEC 3) - U.S. President George Bush will visit Argentina Wednesday as scheduled despite Monday's military revolt there to show his support for democracy and Argentine President Carlos Menem, a White House spokesman said.

"We believe that events (in Argentina) are essentially under control and that there is no need to change our plan to go," spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said here Monday, as the U.S. president kicked off a six day tour of five South American countries.

He is scheduled to arrive in Buenos Aires Wednesday.

"I have no thoughts of changing my plans. I have great confidence in the security there," Mr. Bush said at a meeting with Brazilian President Fernando Collor de Mello.

Mr. Fitzwater said it "seems likely" that the right-wing army rebels who occupied the infantry barracks in Argentina's capital Monday wanted to embarrass Mr. Menem two days before Mr. Bush's arrival.

Nevertheless, Mr. Fitzwater said, Mr. Bush "wants to express his confidence in President Menem and his support for democracy in Argentina. We intend to proceed on our original schedule."

One official, who requested anonymity, said the rebellion was no more than "an inter-military squabble."

"It doesn't seem too serious," said Bernard Aronson, assistant secretary of state for Inter-American Affairs. "There's a small group in the military that has certain grievances and every once in a while something like this happens."

DHAKA (DEC 3) - Bangladesh President Hussain Mohammad Ershad said Monday he would resign 15 days before elections next year but his opponents called on him to step down immediately and vowed to continue protests against his rule.

"I hope this will end the state of anarchy prevailing in the country," the 60-year-old former general, who seized power in a 1982 military coup, said in a nationally broadcast speech.

Mr. Ershad said he had accepted opposition demands and that he would hand over power to a vice-president acceptable to them with elections held under and an interim government.

"Our demand is the immediate resignation of (Mr.) Ershad and holding free and fair polls for a sovereign parliament under a neutral government," Sheikh Hasina Wajed was quoted as saying by Abdul Jalil, joint secretary of her eight-party opposition Awami League.

"Our campaign (to oust Mr. Ershad) will go on and I appeal to people to go forward with the strikes planned for the coming days," Sheikh Hasina said, adding that Mr. Ershad's speech was vague, contained nothing new and had caused confusion among the public.

Begum Khaleda Zia, whose Bangladesh National Party heads another seven-party opposition alliance, said nothing short of Mr. Ershad's immediate resignation was acceptable.

"This is a mere bluff to hoodwink the people," a senior party official quoted her as saying.

Begum Zia also said the opposition would continue its strikes and protests until the president stepped down.

The opposition agreed November 19 that Mr. Ershad should resign after dissolving parliament and handing over power to a vice-president acceptable to them.

ABU DHABI (DEC 3) - U.S. Energy Secretary James Watkins arrived in the United Arab Emirates late Monday from Saudi Arabia for talks on the oil market with his UAE counterpart, Youssef Omeir ben Youssef, officials here said.

On Sunday, Mr. Watkins met with Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Hisham Nazer on efforts to stabilize the international oil market, official Saudi sources reported.

U.S. President George Bush's proposal Friday for direct talks with Iraq on the Gulf sent oil prices tumbling in New York, dropping below 30 dollars a barrel.

Prices soared from around 18 to 20 dollars a barrel in the aftermath of the August 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait and have been volatile ever since.

WASHINGTON (DEC 3) - The State Department Monday praised New Zealand's decision to send military forces to the Gulf, but said that nation remained suspended from the Anzus defense treaty because of its anti-nuclear policy.

"New Zealand's decision to stand with those nations militarily confronting Iraqi aggression is welcomed," department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said.

"New Zealand's decision apparently reflects its own assessment that as a United Nations member, it has a common interest in working collectively against such aggression."

But, Miss Tutwiler added, "the United States position on defense relations with New Zealand ... remains unchanged."

Earlier Monday, New Zealand Defense Minister Warren Cooper said his country was sending three C-130 Hercules transport planes and a military medical team to the Gulf.

He said the deployment was likely to be under some form of Anzus Pact control. That accord groups Australia, New Zealand and the United States.

Under the previous Labor Government in New Zealand, Washington suspended Anzus relationships with New Zealand after Wellington refused to let in U.S. warships without assurances they were not nuclear armed.

In 1986 New Zealand passed anti-nuclear laws which forbade nuclear warships from entering its ports.

NEW YORK, United Nations (DEC 3) - A U.N. human rights commission voted overwhelmingly Monday to condemn human rights violations in Kuwait which have occurred since Iraq invaded its smaller neighbor on August 2.

The measure was approved by a vote of 132 in support, one against and one abstention. The resolution will sent for further consideration to the U.N. General Assembly.

Iraq opposed the measure.

The document condemns rights violations and asks Baghdad to respect the Geneva Conventions, in regard to Kuwait, to assure protection for civilians in wartime.

The panel also describes itself as gravely concerned by Iraq's pillaging and systematic destruction of Kuwait's economic infrastructure.

Iraq argued against the measure, saying the panel had ignored human rights violations committed by Israel in the occupied territories and the consequences of the economic blockade of Iraq by the international community, which was imposed to push Iraq out of Kuwait.

CARACAS (DEC 3) - Finance Minister Roberto Pocaterra will travel to New York Tuesday to sign an agreement to restructure debt owed by the Venezuelan Government to commercial banks, officials announced.

Caracas owes 21.6 billion dollars to the banks. Its total debt is more than 30 billion dollars.

Venezuela wants to refinance the debt as part of the Brady Plan, introduced by Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady to reduce Latin America's debt by some 20 per cent.

Venezuela's accord with its 400 creditor banks will mean a lowered total debt, lower fixed and variable interest rates, the right to buy back its debt on the secondary market at a discount and a fresh injection of funds.

Central Bank head Pedro Tinoco will accompany Mr. Pocaterra, the officials said.

BUENOS AIRES (DEC 3) - Mutinous soldiers who seized the army headquarters in downtown Buenos Aires have surrendered, a colonel leaving the facility said Monday, as Argentina's fourth military insurrection in as many years appeared to peter out.

Red Cross teams evacuated wounded from the headquarters, where journalists outside could see rebel soldiers seated on the floor, their hands behind their heads, being guarded by loyalist soldiers.

The surrender was announced by an officer who identified himself as Colonel Macedra.

Earlier, Air Force jets bombed a dozen-strong tank column that had rolled out of a tank factory in the nearby town of Boulogne and was rumbling toward Buenos Aires before government forces retook the facility.

Government sources said two of the tanks that were attacked on the Panamerican highway were damaged, but it was not immediately clear if the rest of the column had surrendered.

In pitched fighting earlier in the day, government forces recovered an infantry barracks and naval buildings in addition to the tank factory.

With a visit by U.S. President George Bush two days off -- the president said he still planned to come -- the Argentine capital was turned into a combat zone.

The crisis began before dawn Monday when rebel troops seized the army headquarters, the barracks and a tank factory on the outskirts of the city, prompting President Carlos Menem to declare a state of siege, suspending civil liberties.

The rebels said the uprising was aimed at ousting the leadership of the army, not the government.

At least three soldiers were killed and about a dozen other people were wounded in the initial clashes of the insurrection, the army said. Three more people were reported killed and several others injured when a rebel tank crashed into a passenger bus.

Demanding the "total defeat" of the rebels, Mr. Menem ordered the air force and the navy to join the army in crushing the uprising.

After the reported surrender of the rebels at army headquarters, Mr. Menem said he considered the uprising to be an attempted coup. He also said he did not rule out applying the death penalty, contained in the Argentine military code, against the rebels.

("We're going as scheduled," U.S. presidential spokesman Roman Popadiuk said in the Brazilian capital, where Mr. Bush was on the first stop of a five-nation South American tour.)

Exchanges of automatic weapons fire near the presidential palace sent pedestrians scurrying for cover behind cars and in entrance ways to buildings.

In a nationwide radio and television broadcast, Army Commander General Martin Bonnet demanded the rebels' "immediate and unconditional" surrender. But when his calls were ignored, tank regiments and artillery units were ordered into action.

The first major counter-attack targeted the Patricios infantry barracks, encircled by tanks and troops armed with rocket launchers.

Reporters at the scene heard heavy exchanges of cannon, mortar and automatic weapons fire as fighting for the barracks erupted.

WASHINGTON (DEC 3) - The U.S. State Department Monday stopped short of apologizing for the U.S. ambassador to China, who criticized Chinese protesters, but qualified his name calling as a "spontaneous remark."

U.S. Ambassador to China James Lilley said earlier he regretted referring to protesters against Chinese human rights violations as "cowards", claiming he was provoked when called an obscene name.

"We're all human beings," said State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler.

"The ambassador's spontaneous remark does not represent the considered views of the United States government, nor indeed of Ambassador Lilley himself as he clearly articulated in his speech later that day."

After an incident Saturday before the ambassador spoke at a U.S.-Chinese trade conference in Seattle, Mr. Lilley said: "It was a mistake in the first place. I shouldn't have done it."

Mr. Lilley and Chinese Ambassador Zhu Quizhen were met by about 50 protestors who carried placards and chanted "China -- Human Rights" and "Remember Tiananmen Square," referring to the bloody Chinese Army crackdown on pro-democracy activists in early June 1989.

The ambassador, who was born in China, said he regretted having shouted back at the crowd, "Were you at Tiananmen Square? I was there. You're a bunch of cowards. You go back to China and serve China."

The U.S. envoy, who left Seattle Sunday for Tokyo, defended his position on human rights in China in an interview with the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. He pointed to his assistance to Chinese dissident Fang Lizhi, who lived at the U.S. embassy in Beijing for 13 months before being allowed to leave China earlier this year.

"No one appreciates better than Ambassador Lilley the challenge of working for reform and human rights in China," said Miss Tutwiler. She said he would not be reprimanded.

Mr. Lilley, a former Central Intelligence Agency officer and ex-ambassador to South Korea, was appointed to his current post by President George Bush.

MONTREAL (DEC 3) - Canadian police have seized 115 kilograms (253 pounds) of cocaine hidden in the secret compartment of a van from Miami, Florida, authorities said Monday.

The cocaine was valued at more than 80 million Canadian dollars (68 million U.S.) and was destined for Montreal and Toronto, said police spokesman Rejean Belanger.

The Canadian police arrested 25 people -- most of them from Colombia and Cuba -- in connection with the drug bust. They were to appear before a judge Monday said Lieutenant Belanger.

Police said they had expected two vehicles would contain a total of 215 kilograms (473 pounds) of cocaine but police found only the 115 kilograms in a van from Miami.

Authorities suspect one of the men arrested, Maximo Morales, was the head of a Montreal drug network.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police seized 500 kilograms of cocaine in April, 1989.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 4) - The World Bank has agreed to lend Chile 80 million dollars to finance expansion of the Chilean Telephone Company, officials said here Monday.

Sources at the International Finance Corporation, the World Bank subsidiary which made the loan, said the telephone company planned to install 630,000 new telephone lines, doubling the number currently in service.

Chileans often wait years to get a telephone, and a family which falls on hard times can often sell their line for thousands of dollars.

"Our links with the IFC, which began a year ago, reflect our participation in the world financial markets and make up a significant vote of confidence in the telephone company and in Chile," said Luis Terol, head of the Chilean telephone company.

The loan in the second of three agreed to in 1989. The three loans total 228.3 million dollars.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 4) - The United States has increased its quota for sugar imports with reduced tariffs by 375,000 tons to 2.1 billion tons, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced Monday.

The measure is aimed at compensating for domestic sugar shortages, the USDA said.

Volume was fixed for each country. The Dominican Republic, for example, can now export 358,010 tons to the United States; the Philippines, 321,397 tons; Brazil, 294,953 tons; Australia, 168,835 tons; and Guatemala, 97,640 tons.

Countries which exceed the limits are subject to a 16-cent supplementary tax on each pound of raw sugar.

JOHANNESBURG (DEC. 4) - Foreign investors are willing to invest in Africa only if South African firms are involved, making South Africa already a virtual trade "powerhouse" on the continent despite international economic sanctions, the South African Bureau for Information said Monday.

"In spite of sanctions, there is virtually no African country South Africa does not trade with," the Bureau said quoting A.J.W. Roodt, director: Africa trade promotion and relations in the Department of Trade and Industry.

South Africa's drive for regional development, the Bureau says, aims to combine South African expertise and entrepreneurship with Western capital to develop South Africa into an economic power.

South African companies are already being acknowledged in certain "bilateral situations" particularly with Southern African states which, according to Trade and Industry Minister Kent Durr, makes South Africa "a launching pad to sub-equatorial Africa".

South Africa's annual exports to Africa are currently estimated at some two billion rands (796.8 million dollars), and imports from Africa have nearly doubled to some 1.26 billion rands (502 million dollars) last year, a bureau document on "development aid to Africa" said.

According to Mr. Roodt imports hold the biggest potential for trade with Africa as South Africa needs to import products "found in huge quantities" in the continent.

"Hard wood", from the vast plantations of Zaire and Mozambique, is cited as an example, in that those countries have a poor infrastructure to exploit it, while South Africa can provide a market for these products and has the knowledge to develop "backward areas to the advantage of both such countries".

Sanctions, because of South Africa's apartheid policies, the Bureau says, nevertheless "impede the flow of badly needed capital" to the country.

Consequently South Africa, with its own development needs, cannot supply sufficient human and financial resources for direct aid projects in Africa.

JAKARTA (DEC. 4) - A private firm launched Indonesia's first locally built sedan aimed for the mass market on Tuesday.

The Rakyat (People's Car) 90 is produced by PT Indo Mobil Group, one of Indonesia's leading automotive firms, which also handles the local sales of Mazda as well as a number of other Japanese and European cars.

The five-door 1,400 cc hatchback uses 74 percent locally made components, one factor which allowed it to be competitive in the market, said Indo Mobil President Director Subronto Laras.

There is nothing fancy about the car, which company executives admitted looked like one of Mazda's early 1980s models.

"We stick to the basics of making cars. The objective is to make the car affordable to a large number of people," said Mr. Laras.

At 23 million rupiahs (12,500 dollars), the car undercuts all other sedans and is competitive with the highly popular light commercial cars, whose local production is strongly encouraged by the government.

The MR90 defies the government policy of discouraging production and sales of sedans, which are subject to 100 percent import duty and 30 percent luxury tax but Mr. Laras said he believed there was a strong demand for sedans "if the price is right".

The MR90 had so far required very little invesment from Indo Mobil since most of the work was subcontracted to 24 suppliers of parts and components, another factor that gave it a competitive edge, he said.

Indo Mobil's own Mazda factory provided the engine but other suppliers included a local Honda motorcycle plant and local Mitsubishi component-makers.

The large number of participants had caused some problems as a delay from one supplier could halt production, Mr. Laras said, adding that one such delay had reduced the number of MR90 units to 600 at the time of the launch, instead of the 1,000 originally planned.

Mr. Laras said he hoped to push sales to 1,500 units per month after six months and to 2,000 units by the end of next year.

If sales exceeded this level, then Indo Mobil would have to start thinking about investing in its own plant and rely less on subcontractors, he added.

CANBERRA (DEC. 4) - Australia's current-account deficit swelled to 1.67 billion Australian dollars (1.3 billion U.S.) in October from a revised 1.31 billion (1.02 billion U.S.) in September, the Bureau of Statistics said here Tuesday.

The September figure was revised from an earlier 1.512 billion (1.18 billion U.S.).

The October figure compared with a deficit of 2.386 billion in October 1989, and was at the lower end of market expectations, which had ranged from 1.7 to 2.1 billion dollars.

October's unadjusted merchandise trade deficit, 167 million dollars (122 million U.S.), followed a revised 199 million surplus in September, a Bureau spokesman said.

But both imports and exports had fallen sharply in September, and the October figure compared favourably with a deficit of 385 million in August, when two-way trade was similar.

Exports in October were 4.41 billion dollars, up 10.7 per cent on the revised figure of 3.98 million for September.

October's imports, 4.58 billion dollars, jumped 16.5 per cent from 3.78 billion in September.

Seasonally adjusted, the current account deficit narrowed to 1.19 billion (0.93 billion) dollars in October from 1.33 billion (1.03 billion) in September, and compared with 1.74 billion in October last year.

The seasonally adjusted trade surplus was 229 million (178 million U.S.), following revised figures of 112 million for September and a deficit of 105 million in August, the Bureau said.

NEW DELHI (DEC. 3) - The Indian government has announced a series of austerity measures for its offices throughout the country in a bid to overcome a worsening economic situation resulting from the Gulf crisis.

An official announcement overnight Sunday said the measures includes a 10 percent cut in the government's electricity and telephone expenses, minimising travel by bureaucrats and drastic cuts on entertainment.

The announcement also clapped a ban on the purchase of new vehicles until March 31, the last day of the Indian financial year, and reiterated a previous decree for a 20 percent reduction in the consumption of petrol and diesel fuel.

The measures are aimed at meeting an economic crisis in the aftermath of Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait, and the consequent impact on oil supplies, expatriate earnings, world trade and capital flows.

Finance Minister Yashwant Sinha said on November 21 that the new Indian government which assumed office last month had inherited a "very, very difficult economic situation" which required harsh remedial steps.

"The message of austerity must go out loud and clear. This will mean cutting down all wasteful, ostentatious and unnecessary expenditure," he said hours after taking charge.

Sunday's announcement said the austerity measures would apply to central ministries and departments, their subordinate offices, public sector firms, and autonomous and statutory bodies funded by New Delhi.

It added that all ostentatious and decorative lighting, normally done on occasions like Republic Day (January 26) and Independence Day (August 15), will be stopped.

Details of savings anticipated by the government were not available.

A non-official mid-year review of the economy released last month said inflation was expected to rise to 12 to 13 percent in the current fiscal year ending March 31, 1991, from the current 10.2 percent.

The budgetary deficit is now likely to surpass 100 billion rupees (5.55 billion dollars) against the pre-Gulf crisis estimate of 72 billion rupees (four billion dollars).

TOKYO (DEC. 3) - Marubeni Corp., a mammoth Japanese trading company, said on Monday it has exported oil-drilling and recovery equipment worth 1.5 billion yen (11.5 million dollars) to the Soviet Union.

Marubeni officials said the export of the items, including well-head and other equipment, followed the issue by the Soviet Bank for External Economic Relations of a letter of credit for the Soviet Oil and Gas Industry Ministry.

They said the Soviet ministry had switched the import of such equipment from former communist bloc countries to high-quality Western products in order to boost oil production to earn foreign currency.

TAIPEI (DEC. 3) - Taiwan, bowing to Washington's threat to impose retaliatory trade measures, has decided to partially open the domestic spirits market to the United States and the 12 member nations of the European Community (EC), finance officials said here Monday.

The abrupt about face decision was made by the Ministry of Finance (MOF) Sunday after the fourth round of U.S.-Taiwan cigarette and alcoholic beverage talks ended deadlocked over the weekend in Washington, Vice Finance Minister Li Chung-ying said.

At the talks, Taiwan delegates had set January 1992 the time to open spirits imports while their U.S. counterparts had insisted the island liberalize the market by April next year or face trade retaliations under Section 301 of the Trade Act, Mr. Li said.

The liberalization showed Taiwan's goodwill and commitment to international free trade, he said, adding that trading companies can immediately apply for spirits import licenses from the state-run Taiwan Tobacco and Wine Monopoly Bureau.

However, the finance official said the MOF will not make immediate concessions to lower the current 275 per cent monopoly tax on imported spirits to the 185 per cent reportedly proposed by the United States, pending further negotiations.

The spirits imports applied to Irish, Scotch and other whiskeys, cognac, armagnac and other brandies, rum, gin and vodka, Mr. Li said, but not to distilled spirits such as rice wine.

Armed with retalitory threats, Washington has been pressing Taiwan to widen the local market to U.S. products to help narrow a long-standing trade imbalance which reached a record 16 billion U.S. dollars in 1987 in favor of the island.

Under various export incentives and measures to boost imports from the United States, Taiwan's largest trading partner, the trade gap was cut to 13 billion dollars in 1988 and to 12 billion dollars last year.

The imbalance in the first ten months of 1990 shrank 23.8 per cent to 7.8 billion dollars from a year earlier and is expected to fall to nine billion U.S. dollars for the whole year.

SINGAPORE (DEC. 3) - Singapore is ready to set a 20 percent limit on tariffs for a range of items that are not subject to the city-state's "duty-free" policies, press reports said here Monday.

The position was reported in the Straits Time and the Business Times, quoting a Singapore official in Brussels where the Uruguay Round of talks under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) was wrapping up.

The ministry of trade and industry here would not comment on the reports, which said that Singapore was prepared to set a 20 percent tariff limit on 60 percent of selected items as its contribution to freer world trade.

The Straits Times quoted the official, a member of Singapore's delegation to the GATT discussions, as saying the republic was ready to offer "even more generous terms" if necessary.

Currently, 95 percent of Singapore's imports are duty free. The 20 percent ceiling on tariffs would reportedly affect more than 3,000 other product lines.

The official, who was not named in the reports, said Singapore was hoping for a successful conclusion to the GATT talks to strengthen multilateral trading system.

"As a country highly dependent on free trade, whatever rules coming from GATT must ensure fair and open competition," he told the Singapore correspondents in Brussels.

A commentary in the Straits Times said that whether the talks result in a package of trade liberalization measures will determine the "shape and health of the world economy in this decade and the possibly the next."

It said the row between the United States and European Community over farm subsidies was "potentially destructive" and held the key to the eventual success or failure of the Uruguay Round.

NEW DELHI (DEC. 3) - India's leading automaker Maruti Udyog Ltd. (MUL) is to export almost 4,000 cars to Italy and Portugal, a senior company official said Monday.

General Manager D.S. Gupta said here that 3,600 cars would be shipped to Italy and 300 to Portugal in the fiscal year beginning April 1991, the first time the state-run firm has won orders in the two European countries.

Mr. Gupta called the maiden dents in the auto markets of Italy and Portugal "a drop in the ocean," but added that the deal would generate 14 million dollars in foreign exchange.

The orders were bagged during a visit last month to Europe by MUL Chairman R.C. Bhargava and Mr. Gupta.

MUL, partly owned by Suzuki Motors of Japan, controls 60 percent of the Indian automobile market. It already exports to 20 countries including Australia, France, Cyprus, Hungary, Tanzania, Malta, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Bhutan and Nepal.

BRUSSELS (DEC. 3) - The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (Gatt) opened here Monday a ministerial conference to try to wrap up the four-year "Uruguay Round" talks to liberalize world trade.

With major differences remaining among the 107 delegations here, diplomatic observers put the chances at 50-50 for a new world trade accord being approved during the talks lasting through December 7.

The Uruguay Round, begun in Punta del Este in 1986, has aimed at liberalizing 15 key areas of world trade.

But one key issue, the size of cuts in subsidies paid to farmers, remained unresolved as the session got underway, the dispute chiefly being between the European Community on one side and the United States and other major food exporters on the other.

With Belgian King Baudouin in attendance, Gatt general director Arthur Dunkel opened the session with an appeal to the delegations to reach a political consensus and end the crisis.

Outside the conference hall, some 25,000 farmers from across Europe were preparing a mass demonstration against the farm subsidy cuts.

ABU DHABI (DEC. 3) - United Arab Emirates (UAE) oil earnings are expected to rise by 52 per cent in 1990 due to an increase in prices and production, Planning Minister Sheikh Humayd bin Ahmad Al-Muwalla has said.

Earnings will reach 57.2 billion dirhams (15.58 billion dollars) compared with 37.6 billion dirhams (10.24 billion dollars) in 1989, he said in a report marking the UAE's National Day on Sunday.

Oil accounts for more than 90 percent of the UAE's income, with revenues fluctuating every year according to market prices.

The latest increase in earnings was prompted by a rise in oil prices to above 30 dollars linked to Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Meanwhile the UAE -- in line with an agreement by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries of which it is a member -- decided to increase output by over 500,000 barrels per day, further pushing up revenues.

The production hike was aimed at offsetting a loss of four million bpd that resulted as Iraqi and Kuwaiti oil supplies were halted under a U.N. embargo issued after the invasion of the emirate.

Elsewhere, Sheikh Humayd said that the UAE's liquified gas exports were expected to increase to 4.1 billion dirhams (1.1 billion dollars) in 1990 from 3.4 billion dirhams (926 million dollars) in 1989.

He also revealed that investment in the oil sector totalled 41.7 billion dirhams (11.36 billion dollars) during 1985-1990.

Sheikh Humayd said the increase in oil exports was expected to push up the gross domestic product to 121 billion dirhams (32.9 billion dollars) in 1990 from around 100 billion dirhams (27.2 billion dollars) in 1989.

The UAE's GDP stood at only 6.5 billion dirhams (1.77 billion dollars) in 1972.

About 80 percent of the UAE's oil output comes from Abu Dhabi and the rest from Dubai, Sharjah and Ras Al Khaimah. The UAE is also made up of the Fujeirah, Ajman and Umm Al Quwain emirates.

A recent report by former oil minister Mana Saeedd Al-Oteiba put the UAE's proven crude reserves at 116 billion barrels, of which 109 billion were in Abu Dhabi alone.

Bangkok (DEC. 3) - Vietnam's communist party, conceding mistakes made in the past under a ''dogmatic'' economic policy, has drafted a strategy of accelerated development of the economy in order to double peoples' incomes by the year 2000, Hanoi reported Monday.

According to a report by the Vietnamese News Agency (Vna), a party document drafted at last week's central committee meeting stressed that Hanoi continued to adhere to communist ideology.

But the central committee criticised the fact that for too long, Vietnam had pursued ''a dogmatic socialist model of economic development'', the Vna said.

Among the mistakes in the past, the party concluded, had been the abolition of private business and an ''overemphasis on heavy industry'' built up with Soviet help.

At the moment, the average per capita income in Vietnam is around 210 dollars a year. By the year 2000, Hanoi expects the country's population to rise from the current 66 million persons to 80 million, with the work force rising from 32 million to 45 million persons.

BHOPAL, India (DEC. 3) - Thousands of protestors demonstrated outside the factory of Union Carbide Corp. here Monday, chanting slogans and burning effigies to mark the sixth anniversary of the Bhopal gas disaster.

Some 5,000 people who survived the world's worst industrial disaster on December 2-3, 1984, marched to the factory in three processions, shouting "Down With Union Carbide" and "Union Carbide Get Out."

Outside the factory, they beat effigies of the U.S. multinational's former chairman, Warren Anderson, with sticks and shoes and spat on them before setting them ablaze.

Hundreds of police and firefighters were in attendance at the now-closed pesticides plant in the old quarters of Bhopal as demonstrators converged on the site beginning early Monday.

Protest organisers, including political parties and voluntary groups, said demonstrations and public meetings would continue all day.

The government of Madhya Pradesh state, which administers Bhopal, held an ecumenical prayer in memory of the 3,828 people officially stated to have died as a result of exposure to methyl iso-cyanate, the gas that leaked from the factory.

State Chief Minister Sunder Lal Patwa visited Hindu and Sikh temples, a church a mosque and cremation and burial grounds to pray for the dead.

Street protests and prayers have become a yearly ritual on this day in Bhopal, a city of more than 600,000 people.

Some 1,750 people were killed immediately and more than 50,000 permanently maimed in the gas leak, the world's worst industrial disaster.

BEIJING (DEC. 3) - China and the Soviet Union, as a further sign of improving relations, recently agreed to reciprocal use of their radio transmitters, Beijing announced Monday.

The accord, "aimed at strengthening relations between the radio transmitting organs of the two countries," was signed late last month in Beijing, the ministry of radio, cinema and television said.

The accord will allow Radio Moscow to be heard loud and clear in southern and eastern Asia and the Pacific, while Radio Beijing will be better received in the Gulf and Europe.

Chinese transmitters will relay Soviet programming to Australia, Bangladesh, Burma, Vietnam, Indonesia, Thailand and the Philippines, among other countries.

In turn, Chinese radio broadcasts well be relayed by Soviet transmitters to Iraq, Saudi Arabia and other Gulf states as well as Turkey, France and Britain.

The two-year accord will be automatically renewable unless one or the other signatories decides to pull out.

In another sign of improving ties, Soviet and Chinese officials reopened talks on demilitarisation of their common border, Soviet Embassy sources said.

The talks followed from Mr. Gorbachev's proposal on demilitarising the 7,500-kilometer (4,600-mile) border during his visit here in May 1989.

The second round of negotiations started Friday, according to the sources, who declined to give details of the discussions to reduce troop and weapon concentrations on the border.

The first round was held here in June.

The May 1989 summit between paramount leader Deng Xiaoping and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev ended 30 years of Sino-Soviet rift.

Riyadh (DEC. 3) - Defence ministers of the six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council (Gcc) are to meet in the Saudi capital of Riyadh Tuesday to discuss military issues following the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait on August 2, reports said Monday.

The defence ministers of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain, Oman, and the United Arab Emirates (Uae) will review during their two-day meeting the military situation in the Gulf region brought on by the continued Iraqi occupation of Kuwait.

They will later make recommendations to their heads of state who are scheduled to hold a summit meeting in the Qatari capital of Doha on December 22, the Kuwaiti News Agency (Kuna) said.

The Saudi newspaper Okaz Monday underlined the significance of the Gcc defence ministers' meeting, noting that it comes after the adoption by the United Nations Security Council of a resolution authorising the use of military force against Iraq if it does not withdraw its troops from Kuwait by January 15.

''The meeting also comes before the forthcoming Gcc summit which will approve the recommendations of the joint ministerial meetings in all fields of coordination and cooperation,'' the paper said.

It added that despite their preoccupation with the Gulf crisis, Gcc leaders were pursuing efforts for joint coordination and cooperation in all fields.

''The Gcc states have confronted the Iraqi aggression against Kuwait with a united and solid stance,'' the paper said.

Gcc foreign ministers are due to meet in Doha Saturday to prepare the agenda of the upcoming summit.

The Gcc was set up in 1981 after the start of the Iraq-Iran war in an attempt to coordinate the economic and defence policies of the six oil-rich states.

MANILA, Dec 3 (AFP) - Talks on the future of U.S. military bases in the Philippines were to resume here Tuesday with the duration of a new leasing agreement and compensation topping the agenda, sources on both sides said.

U.S. chief negotiator Richard Armitage was expected to arrive Tuesday and hold one-on-one talks with his Philippine counterpart, Foreign Secretary Raul Manglapus, prior to meetings between full panels.

The talks, due to end Friday, will be the fourth round of the negotiations on Clark Air Base, Subic Naval Base and four support facilities, which constitute the largest American military complex overseas.

The current U.S. lease expires on September 16, 1991.

During the last round, the United States asked for 10 to 12 years of continued access, while the Philippines said it was looking at a five- to seven-year new lease.

JERUSALEM (DEC. 3) - Israel is to impose more stringent checks on Palestinians entering the country from the occupied territories because of an escalation in anti-Israeli attacks, police said.

Controls at checkpoints into Israel will be tightened, a police spokesman said. Some posts will be closed and replaced by roving checkpoints in the occupied West Bank.

Israeli military authorities will hand out thousands more "green cards" barring Palestinian workers from Israel because of criminal records or nationalist activities. 10,000 cards have already been issued.

Three Palestinians stabbed passengers on a bus Sunday near Tel Aviv killing an Israeli student and wounding three teenagers. One of the attackers was shot dead and the other two captured.

Soldiers walled up the home of one of the three attackers and the army also plans to dynamite the homes of the other two, the military said.

In Amman, an Islamic underground group, Al-Jihad Al-Islami Kataeb Al-Aqsa, claimed responsibility for the attack and warned of further strikes.

The attack came one week after an Egyptian conscript crossed into Israeli territory near the southern resort city of Eilat and opened fire on a bus carrying workers, killing the driver and wounding 22 passengers.

Israel's new security measures also come ahead of the third anniversary of the start on December 9, 1987 of a Palestinian uprising against Israeli rule of the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The army imposed a curfew and made several arrests Monday in the Tulkarm region of the West Bank where a petrol bomb was hurled the previous day at a military patrol. There were no casualties.

BEIJING (DEC. 3) - Italy and Spain will be the first countries of the European Community (EC) to renew aid and loans to China which were suspended following the Tiananmen crackdown, an official report said Monday.

The China Daily said the move followed a "successful visit" to the two countries in November by a delegation led by Chemical Minister Gu Xiulian. It was the first such high-level visit since the partial lifting of sanctions last month by the EC.

An industry official said "Italy has agreed to resume gradually providing its contracted loans and grants which were stopped after June 1989," the army crackdown on democracy activists in Beijing's Tiananmen Square.

Spain will also probably increase its loans to China because Madrid is very interested in playing a role in the construction of China's key chemical fertilizer projects, the China Daily said, quoting Zhang Gengxin, director of the ministry's foreign affairs department.

The Spanish Embassy indicated that its loans and aid to China would be renewed early next year.

Spanish Foreign Minister Francisco Fernandez Ordonez last month became the first EC minister to visit Beijing since June 1989.

A Spanish diplomat here said Mr. Ordonez discussed with his counterpart, Qian Qichen, a Madrid plan to open early next year a line of credit "at least equal" to the 450 million dollars in loans granted before the Tiananmen crackdown.

Mr. Zhang said that since sanctions were imposed, Italy had dropped from China's second largest EC trading partner, with bilateral trade reaching an annual high of 2.5 billion dollars, to fourth largest. Germany is China's largest EC trading partner.

Duesseldorf (DEC. 3) - Westdeutsche Landesbank (WestLb) said here Monday it has acquired a controlling 50.11 percent share of the department store group Horten from the German subsidiary of the British firm Bat industries Plc.

WestLb did not disclose the price it paid the Hamburg-based Batig company for Horten. But industry sources believed the bank paid less than 500 million marks (333 million dollars), or the nominal value of the share package.

Horten, which in 1989 had a turnover of some 3 billion marks, reported a further rise in its turnover through September this year of 6 percent. The department store chain employs 15,000 people.

The other major Horten shareholder is the Degav investment company, with a 25 percent holding. The remaining 25 percent of Horten's equity is dispersed among more than 25,000 shareholders.

Bat had announced a year ago its aim to sell its majority holding in Horten. But talks with several potential buyers, including other German department store companies, failed to reach an agreement.

Horten chairman Heinz Garsoffky then took the initiative and engineered the deal with WestLb, sources said. Both Horten and WestLb, which is the central bank for the state of North Rhine-Westfalia, are based in Duesseldorf.

PHNOM PENH (DEC. 3) - Rubber production in Cambodia is back to pre-war levels and rubber has become a major export item, according to the official press.

Official statistics estimate some 5,000 tons of crepe (pressed rubber) will be produced from 50,000 hectares (123,500 acres) of plantations this year, SPK news agency said in a dispatch late Sunday.

The figure puts output back to pre-war levels, the agency said, adding that rubber was the country's second most important product after timber.

Exports tripled between 1983 and 1989. During the first nine months of this year the country sold 12,000 tons of rubber overseas.

Principal markets were the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, where buyers want Cambodia to use hard currency. An estimated 20 million dollars worth of rubber products had gone to those regions, SPK said.

It added that crepe was also sold last year to Singapore, Hong Kong, Japan and France.

Discussions on cooperation in the commodity were also under way with a private Malaysian company.

SPK said that a policy of self-financing had given the rubber industry more freedom.

Observers here noted that much of the rubber industry, centred in the eastern province of Kompong Cham, was privatised under economic reforms launched by the government last year.

War began in Cambodia in 1970 and was followed by four years of brutal Khmer Rouge rule between 1975 and early 1979, when the radical communist group was ousted from power by the Vietnamese. Civil war has wracked the country since then.

The rubber industry took a battering in the 1970s and has been struggling to recover ever since.

NAIROBI (DEC. 3) - Rebels of the Sudan People's Liberation Army (SPLA) said Monday they had captured the south-western garrison town of Sosyubo, and claimed it was the sixteenth town they had taken in two weeks.

Rebel radio, monitored here, said the SPLA was now shelling the town of Maridi also in the south-west. The radio said 22 government soldiers had been killed in the 10-hour battle for Sosyubo, which fell to the rebels on Sunday morning. It gave no details of rebel losses.

The SPLA, which has been fighting since 1983 to free mainly Christian and animist southern Sudan from domination by the Islamic north, now claims to control the south-western province of Equatoria.

The radio said the capture of Sosyubo, near the border with the Central African Republic, gave the SPLA control of the border with the Central African Republic.

Government troops fled into the Central African Republic but the rebels said they did not pursue them.

Moscow (DEC. 3) - Continuing its go-it-alone economic reform policy course, the parliament of the Russian federative republic here Monday approved private land ownership, a decision challenging one of the chief cornerstones of the country's communist ideology.

The parliamentary vote followed several days of controversial debate on far-reaching reform of the agricultural sector proposed by parliamentary president Boris Yeltsin.

The land ownership reform is a further step by Russia, the biggest of the republics in the Soviet system, to assert its independence in policy matters, having already introduced the radical ''500 days'' programme to convert from a socialist to a market economy.

In the land ownership debate, proponents of private ownership said returning land to private hands was needed to raise farm efficiency and as a corrective adjustment to the mass land collectivisation of the farming sector imposed by the communists in the 1920s and 1930s.

The private ownership bill was a compromise however which will not assure a completely free property market as advocated by Yeltsin.

For example, a private property owner may sell his land back to the state only. This was a concession to opponents of the reform who feared that land could become an object of speculation.

The vote in favour of private land ownership by the 1,000 deputies was seen as a further victory for Yeltsin, who backs a rapid and radical pace of economic reform. Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev had taken part in the debate to voice opposition to private land ownership.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 3) - Construction spending in the United States rose 1.3 percent in October, the first hike in three months, the Commerce Department reported Monday.

It said overall residential, non-residential and government spending reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 434.4 billion dollars, up from 428.9 billion dollars in September. Spending was unchanged in August at 441.2 billion dollars.

The construction industry has been in the doldrums for months, beset by high interest rates, tight lending requirements, high vacancy rates and slumping consumer confidence in the wake of the Gulf crisis.

JOHANNESBURG (DEC. 3) - South African police made their biggest ever airport drug seizure on Monday when they confiscated heroin and mandrax tablets worth some 17 million rands (6.75 million dollars).

Johannesburg police spokesman Captain Eugene Opperman said police found heroin worth 15 million rands (5.97 million dollars) in suitcases in the international transit section at Jan Smuts airport here.

Capt. Opperman said it was the biggest such find at a South African airport.

In another incident at Jan Smuts, an Indian woman was arrested when she tried to bring mandrax powder with a street-value of 150,000 rands (59,760 dollars) into the country, Capt. Opperman said.

Three other women on the same flight were arrested when mandrax tablets worth some two million rands (796,812 dollars) were found in their possession.

Mandrax, which is mixed with marijuana and smoked, is banned in South Africa.

MOSCOW (DEC. 3) - An extraordinary Congress of the Russian Federation on Monday voted to restore private ownership of land for the first time since the 1917 revolution.

The measure was adopted by 602 votes to 369 with 40 abstentions after four days of intense debate. Its passing was greeted with applause from one part of the chamber.

One major restriction will apply however. The land acquired privately cannot be resold for at least 10 years and then only to local councils.

Private property will be on a par with other property titles such as kolkhozes or collective farms and cooperatives.

Russian Prime Minister Ivan Silayev submitted the agrarian reform to deputies last week, triggering an immediate row over the issue of private land ownership.

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev last week said he was opposed to "privatizing" land.

LONDON (DEC. 3) - The issue of the future location of the International Cocoa Organisation (ICCO)'s headquarters will not be resolved at the executive committee meeting taking place in London December 3-5, delegates said Monday.

The lease on the ICCO's current headquarters, which it shares with the International Coffee Organisation (ICO) in Berners Street, Central London, is due to expire in May of next year.

The two organisations have to decide between staying where they are, moving elsewhere in London, or possibly moving abroad.

The Netherlands have signalled their interest in bringing the ICCO and the ICO to Amsterdam, but have not as yet prepared a detailed proposal for discussion.

Mr. Jan van Sluisveld, representing the Netherlands at the executive committee said the potential Dutch proposal would have the aim of "helping" the ICCO and the ICO, by giving them the option to relocate in a cheaper European city. "Rents for office space in Amsterdam are half those of London", he said.

However he also said that the Netherlands was "not in a position to make a definite proposal at the moment". This will mean that the earliest the issue could be fully discussed would be at the next meeting of the council, due to be held in London March 18-22.

NICOSIA (DEC. 3) - The Saudi Basic Industries Corporation (SABIC) is aiming to expand its petrochemical operations abroad to include downstream ventures overseas, the Middle East Economic Survey (MEES) said in a report published here Monday.

The weekly newsletter, quoting SABIC vice chairman Ibrahim Ibn Salamah, said the company would expand either through joint ventures with foreign partners or initiate petrochemical costruction projects on its own.

"Worldwide, business is becoming more global than simply regional," he said. "And the kingdom and SABIC are part of this global business community."

While Saudi Arabia has already been involved in the production of base petrochemicals like ethylene, glycol, polyethylene, ammonia and urea, it is also introducing new products such as propylene, butadiene and benzene on the domestic market, Mr. Ibn Salamah said.

"At the same time we are now going into the intermediate and downstream industries in participation with our foreign partners and the private sector, not just for domestic consumption but also for export worldwide," he said.

Mr. Ibn Salamah said the years 1991-1995 would see rapid expansion with resident downstream operations in Asia, Europe and the Middle East but did not specify in which countries.

Asked about the danger of over-capacity in the petrochemical industry once Saudi Arabia is a full-fledged competitor to already existing enterprises, Mr. Ibn Salamah admitted the risk existed, notably if all plants worked at full capacity.

"But supplydemand and prices always operate to balance the market and determine how much production should be reduced," he said.

DUSSELDORF, Germany (DEC 3) - West LB, Germany's biggest private bank, announced on Monday that it had agreed to buy 50.11 percent of the Horten store chain from the British BAT Industries group, but did not give the price.

Banking circles said the price was "well below half a billion Deutschemarks (333 million dollars)," and BAT sources in London indicated that the price was about 140 million pounds (about 270 million dollars).

The deal, due to take effect at the end of the year, is subject to aproval by the German cartels office.

The bank said it had acted for itself and did not intend to pass the stake on to other investors.

An investment company called DEGAV holds 25 percent of Horten, and the rest of the equity is held by small investors.

Horten, the fourth-biggest German store chain, controls 54 stores. In 1989 it had consolidated sales of three billion marks (two billion dollars) and 15,000 employees. But profits fell by 52.7 percent to 15 million marks (10 million dollars), and the dividend was cut from six marks to three marks.

On Monday Horten shares fell by 9.8 marks to 203 marks.

NAIROBI (DEC 3) - The government of Somalia imposed Monday a nationwide state of emergency and placed the army on alert as rebel forces advanced on the capital Mogadishu.

Reports here said there had been a complete breakdown of law and order in the capital where witnesses reported 16 people killed overnight in a clash between members of two rival clans.

Prime Minister Mohamed Hawadle Madar said the situation in Mogadishu was ''very alarming''. He warned that murderers, looters and saboteurs would face the death penalty or life imprisonment.

Western radio reports said rebels had fought their way to within 50 kilometres of Mogadishu, and that numerous rebels had infiltrated the capital to prepare a final offensive against government forces.

The Somali National Movement has been fighting since 1988 from northern Somalia to overthrow the government of President Mohammed Siad Barre who has been in power for 21 years.

It has joined forces with two other opposition groups, the United Somali Congress, in the country's central regions, and the Somali Patriotic Front, in the south, to try to overthrow 71-year-old Siad.

In October, rebel forces claimed to have killed 400 government soldiers, and in September rebels said they captured a regional capital, Dusa Mareb in the central Ghel Gudud region.

Most Westerners have already left the country. Several European Community (E.C.) countries have asked France to evacuate any remaining nationals at short notice if necessary. France has 4,000 troops stationed in neighbouring Djibouti.

MOSCOW (DEC 3) - President Mikhail Gorbachev issued a directive Monday setting up a special committee to receive and distribute international humanitarian aid arriving in the Soviet Union, Tass news agency said.

The panel, which reports directly to Mr. Gorbachev, is to be headed by first deputy prime minister Lev Voronin.

It will tackle problems related to the "transport and distribution of medicine and other goods" donated to the Soviet Union by foreign countries, Tass said.

Food shipments from Germany arrived in Moscow and Leningrad, the biggest Soviet cities, last week, and aid was expected from the United States within the next few days.

LIMA (DEC. 3) EFE - At least 20 leftist Peruvian guerrillas were killed Monday during a two-hour gun battle with security forces near a town in the central Andean highlands, a radio station based in the capital reported.

Citing police officials, the RadioProgramas station said the clash came as security forces surprised a group of Tupac Amaru Revolutionary Movement (MRTA) rebels who were preparing to attack the town of Alto Mayo, some 650 km north of Lima.

Five security force members were wounded in the gun battle and a quantity of arms and ammuntion was recovered, police said.

A Senate Commission recently reported that 3,213 people have been killed this year in political violence in Peru. Of the number, 245 were security force members.

The commission said that 19,024 people had been killed since the Maoist +Shining Path+ rebel group took up arms in 1980, four years before the smaller MRTA group emerged.

Tupac Amaru, which takes its name from an 18th century Indian leader who led a rebellion against Spanish rule, first hit headlines with a machinegun attack on the U.S. embassy in the capital in September 1984.

LONDON (DEC. 3) XINHUA - LEONID ZAMYATIN, THE SOVIET AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN, HAS APPEALED TO THE BRITISH PUBLIC FOR FINANCIAL RATHER THAN FOOD AID TO HELP HIS COUNTRY OVERCOME SHORTAGES THIS WINTER.

FOOD RATIONING HAS BEEN REPORTEDLY IMPOSED IN LENINGRAD AND OTHER SOVIET CITIES, FIR THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE SECOND WORLD WAR.

WRITING IN A LETTER PUBLISHED IN THE TIMES NEWSPAPER TODAY, THE SOVIET AMBASSADOR SAID THAT FOOD PARCELS WERE POURING INTO HIS EMBASSY AND A SPECIAL CHARITY FUND HAD BEEN SET UP FOR CASH DONATIONS.

"THERE ARE HARDLY ANY WORDS THAT CAN REFLECT TRULY THE DEPTH OF OUR APPRECIATION AND GRATITUDE FOR THIS NEW SHOW OF HUMAN WARMTH BETWEEN OUR TWO NATIONS," ZAMYATIN SAID.

HE SAID THAT THE DISRUPTION OF FOOD SUPPLIES TO SOVIET CITIES WAS "A PRICE THE SOVIET UNION IS PAYING FOR THE DIFFICULT TRANSITION TO A MARKET-ORIENTED ECONOMY."

THE AMBASSADOR PLEDGED TO SPEND CASH DONATIONS ON FOOD AND MEDICINE IN BRITAIN FOR DISTRIBUTION TO THE SOVIET UNION'S "LEAST PROTECTED ELEMENTS OF SOCIETY - OLD AND SICK, YOUNG AND DISADVANTAGED."

"IT IS IMPORTANT TO NOTE THAT THE INTERESTS OF THOSE IN NEED IN MOSCOW AND LENINGRAD WOULD BE BEST SERVED THROUGH FINANCIAL AID," HE ADDED.

A SPOKESMAN AT THE SOVIET EMBASSY SAID TODAY THAT TINNED FOODS WERE BEING SENT IN BY INDIVIDUALS, FIRMS AND OTHER ORGANISATIONS, ADDING THAT A SOVIET CARGO PLANE IS EXPECTED TO LEAVE BRITAIN THIS WEEK WITH ABOUT THREE TONS OF CANNED FOOD ON BOARD.

LAGOS (DEC. 3) XINHUA - A 20-MAN SOVIET DELEGATION HAS ARRIVED HERE TO HOLD TALKS WITH THE NIGERIAN GOVERNMENT ON DEBT REPAYMENT.

THE DELEGATION WHICH ARRIVED HERE LAST SATURDAY WILL DISCUSS WITH THEIR NIGERIAN COUNTERPARTS THE REPAYMENT OF 5.6 BILLION NAIRA (ABOUT 651 MILLION U.S. DOLLARS AT THE CURRENT EXCHANGE RATE) NIGERIA OWES TO THE SOVIET UNION. THE MONEY WAS OWED IN BUILDING THE AJAOKUTA STEEL PROJECT.

SOURCES HERE SAID THAT THE SOVIET DELEGATION MADE UP OF MINISTER OF FOREIGN ECONOMIC RELATIONS MR. KOTOUSHEV, MINISTER OF METALLURGY MR. S.V. KOLPAKOV AND MINISTER OF ERECTION AND SPECIAL CONSTRUCTION MR. A.K. MIKHALCHENKO WILL ALSO REVIEW THE PROGRESS OF THE MULTI-BILLION MAIRA STEEL PROJECT IN NI- GERIA.

CRUCIAL TALKS ARE SCHEDULED FOR TODAY, WHICH WILL BE THE THIRD ROUND IN A SERIES OF NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN THE TWO COUN- TRIES OVER THE DEBT.

EARLIER INDICATIONS SHOWED THAT THE SOVIET CONTRACTOR MIGHT STOP WORK ON THE AJAOKUTA STEEL PLANT IF NIGERIA FAILS TO RE- DEEM THE DEBT.

IT IS LEARNT THAT NIGERIA PLANS TO IMPORT ABOUT 200,000 TONS OF BILLETS FROM THE SOVIET UNION LATER THIS YEAR AS RAW MATERIALS FOR THE COMPLETED ROLLING MILLS IN THE PLANT.

THE AJAOKUTA PROJECT IS EXPECTED TO BE COMPLETED IN TWO YEARS.

TOKYO (DEC. 3) KYODO - JAPAN'S DOMESTIC SALES OF NEW CARS, TRUCKS, AND BUSES IN NOVEMBER POSTED THE FIRST YEAR-ON-YEAR DROP IN 21 MONTHS, IN THE FIRST SIGN THAT THE COUNTRY'S BOOMING AUTO MARKET MAY BE SLOWING DOWN, AN INDUSTRY ASSOCIATION SAID MONDAY.

THE JAPAN AUTOMOBILE DEALERS' ASSOCIATION SAID NEW MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATIONS IN THE MONTH FELL 2.7 PERCENT FROM A YEAR EARLIER TO 499,563 VEHICLES, THE FIRST DECLINE SINCE FEBRUARY 1989, WHEN POTENTIAL BUYERS DELAYED THEIR PURCHASES PRIOR TO THE INTRODUCTION OF THE CONSUMPTION TAX IN APRIL IN PLACE OF THE HIGHER COMMODITY TAX.

THE ASSOCIATION ATTRIBUTED THE DOWNTURN TO HIGHER INTEREST RATES ON CAR LOANS, SHORTAGES OF PARKING LOTS, AND UNCERTAINTY OVER THE PERSIAN GULF CRISIS, WHICH COMBINED TO DEPRESS BUYING INTEREST.

THE POOR SALES IN THE LATEST REPORTING MONTH BROUGHT TO ABOUT 5.51 MILLION VEHICLES CUMULATIVE SALES FROM JANUARY TO NOVEMBER, MAKING IT DIFFICULT FOR ANNUAL SALES TO TOP THE TARGETED 6 MILLION MARK, INDUSTRY SOURCES SAID.

AN OFFICIAL AT A MAJOR AUTOMAKER SAID, "IT WILL BE ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO ACHIEVE THE TARGET, UNLESS SALES IN DECEMBER MANAGE A CONSIDERABLE IMPROVEMENT."

THE AUTO INDUSTRY HAD EXPECTED SALES TO BREACH THE SIX MILLION VEHICLE LINE THIS YEAR, COMPARED WITH 5.56 MILLION VEHICLES POSTED IN 1989.

SALES OF SMALL CARS, WHICH ACCOUNTED FOR ABOUT 70 PERCENT OF TOTAL SALES, DROPPED 11.6 PERCENT TO 304,699 VEHICLES, THE FIRST DOUBLE-DIGIT DECLINE SINCE JULY 1984.

IN CONTRAST, SALES OF LARGER PASSENGER CARS -- THOSE WITH 2,001 CC OR LARGER ENGINES -- WERE ALMOST UNHURT, JUMPING 60.1 PERCENT TO 51,700 VEHICLES.

SALES OF TRUCKS ROSE 4.7 PERCENT TO 140,277 VEHICLES, AND THOSE OF BUSES SOARED 39.5 PERCENT TO 1,887.

MITSUBISHI MOTORS CORP., MAZDA MOTOR CORP., ISUZU MOTORS LTD., AND HINO MOTORS LTD. POSTED GAINS IN SALES, WHILE SEVEN COMPANIES, INCLUDING HONDA MOTOR CO., WERE ON THE MINUS SIDE.

SALES OF IMPORTED AUTOMOBILES REGISTERED AN 8.9 PERCENT YEAR-ON-YEAR INCREASE IN NOVEMBER TO 16,186 UNITS.

OSAKA (DEC. 3) KYODO - RINKAI CEMENT CO., A CEMENT IMPORTER, SAID MONDAY IT WILL SET UP A CEMENT FACTORY IN NORTH KOREA TO EXPORT THE COMMODITY TO JAPAN.

A FORMAL CONTRACT WITH NORTH KOREAN AUTHORITIES WILL BE SIGNED IN EARLY JANUARY, THE COMPANY SAID.

RINKAI IS THE FIRST JAPANESE COMPANY TO OPEN SHOP IN NORTH KOREA AND FOLLOWS RECENT MOVES TOWARD NORMALIZING DIPLOMATIC TIES BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES, INDUSTRY SOURCES SAID.

THE FACTORY WILL BE BUILT IN HAEJU AND PRODUCE 1.5 MILLION TONS OF CEMENT PER YEAR FROM 1992, THE COMPANY SAID.

PRODUCTION FACILITIES WILL BE BROUGHT FROM JAPAN. TOTAL COST OF THE PROJECT WILL BE ABOUT 25 BILLION YEN, IT SAID.

TOKYO (DEC. 3) KYODO - RIDING ON THE WAVE OF THE RECENT BEAUJOLAIS NOUVEAU

FEVER IN JAPAN, IMPORTED WINES ARE EXPECTED TO EDGE OUT DOMESTIC WINES IN SALES THIS YEAR, INDUSTRY ANALYSTS SAID MONDAY.

SALES OF IMPORTED WINES, WHICH HAVE ENJOYED 35-55 PERCENT GROWTH OVER THE PAST FEW YEARS, WILL JUMP ANOTHER 14 PERCENT TO 70,500 KILOLITERS THIS YEAR, COMPARED WITH 70,000 KILOLITERS FOR DOMESTIC WINES, ASAHI BREWERIES LTD. SAID.

"IMPORTED WINES WILL BE THE PACE-SETTER OF THE FUTURE WINE MARKET HERE," A ASAHI BREWERIES OFFICIAL SAID.

ITALIAN WINES ARE FARING ESPECIALLY WELL, POSTING A 40 PERCENT INCREASE IN THE FIRST 10 MONTHS OF THIS YEAR.

THE ANALYSTS SAID THE IMPORT WINE FERVOR WILL NOT EASILY FIZZLE OUT, AS JAPANESE CONSUMERS ARE BECOMING MORE QUALITY-CONSCIOUS.

SUNTORY LTD., A LEADING LIQUOR MANUFACTURER, EXPECTS IMPORTED WINES TO TAKE MORE THAN 60 PERCENT OF JAPAN'S WINE MARKET IN FIVE YEARS.

MANILA (DEC. 3) KYODO - FILIPINO AND AMERICAN NEGOTIATORS WILL RESUME TALKS TUESDAY ON THE FUTURE OF U.S MILITARY BASES IN THE PHILIPPINES AFTER THE PRESENT TREATY EXPIRES NEXT SEPTEMBER.

FOREIGN SECRETARY RAUL MANGLAPUS AND U.S. CHIEF NEGOTIATOR RICHARD ARMITAGE WILL MEET "ONE-ON-ONE" TO KICK OFF THE THIRD ROUND OF THE TALKS.

"WE'RE VERY OPTIMISTIC ABOUT THE PROGRESS WHICH HAS BEEN ACHIEVED," U.S. EMBASSY SPOKESMAN STANLEY SCHRAGER TOLD REPORTERS.

COMMITTEE SOURCES SAID THE ISSUE WOULD HAVE BEEN WRAPPED UP LAST SATURDAY IN CONTINUING WORKING-LEVEL TECHNICAL TALKS IF NOT FOR "HEATED DISCUSSIONS" ON CONTINUED U.S. ACCESS TO THE BASES AFTER THE PRESENT TREATY EXPIRES.

THE U.S. HAS APPARENTLY AGREED TO WITHDRAW ITS FORCES FROM SUBIC NAVAL BASE, 80 KILOMETERS NORTHWEST OF MANILA, BUT THE TWO SIDES ARE STILL DISCUSSING HOW LONG THE WITHDRAWAL WILL TAKE.

WASHINGTON HAS ALREADY ANNOUNCED IT WILL WITHDRAW COMBAT TROOPS FROM CLARK AIR BASE, IN ANGELES CITY, BUT WOULD LIKE TO RETAIN LANDING RIGHTS FOR AN UNDETERMINED PERIOD AND ACCESS TO A MAJOR AIR TRAINING FACILITY.

THE TWO SIDES ARE ALSO EXPECTED TO DISCUSS COMPENSATION, YET TO BE TOUCHED UPON IN THE TALKS, WHICH BEGAN IN MAY.

THE U.S. HAS PLEDGED TO PAY 480 MILLION DOLLARS ANNUALLY IN THE LAST TWO YEARS

OF THE CURRENT TREATY FOR USE OF THE BASES.

ANY AGREEMENT WILL HAVE TO PASS THE 23-MEMBER PHILIPPINE SENATE, WHERE OPPOSITION TO THE BASES IS STRONG.

MEANWHILE, U.S. MILITARY AUTHORITIES ON SATURDAY IMPOSED A CURFEW FOR U.S. SERVICEMEN AND RESTRICTED TRAVEL OUTSIDE CLARK AND THREE OTHER U.S. FACILITIES BECAUSE OF INCREASED COMMUNIST REBEL THREATS DUE TO THE UPCOMING TALKS.

TOKYO (OCT. 3) KYODO - MAZDA MOTOR CORP. SAID MONDAY IT HAS BEGUN SELLING A NEW LOCALLY PRODUCED PASSENGER CAR, THE MR90, IN INDONESIA.

THE ADDITION OF THE REAR-WHEEL DRIVE, FIVE PASSENGER, 1415 CC VEHICLE TO MAZDA'S TWO EXISTING MODELS IN INDONESIA SHOULD HELP THE AUTOMAKER WIN A LEADING POSITION IN THE SOUTHEAST ASIAN COUNTRY'S FAST-EXPANDING PASSENGER CAR MARKET, COMPANY OFFICIALS SAID.

CAR SALES IN INDONESIA ROSE 53 PERCENT TO ABOUT 221,000 VEHICLES IN THE JANUARY TO OCTOBER PERIOD OVER THE SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR, THE OFFICIALS SAID.

THEY EXPECT FURTHER EXPANSION IN THE COUNTRY'S MARKETPLACE, WHERE THE COMPANY ALSO SELLS ITS FRONT-WHEEL DRIVE MAZDA 323 AND 626.

MAZDA HAS ACHIEVED NEARLY 75 PERCENT LOCAL CONTENT IN THE MANUFACTURING PROCESS OF THE NEW FIVE-DOOR MR90 HATCHBACK AT ITS ENGINE AND BODY MANUFACTURING PLANT IN A SUBURB OF JAKARTA, SET UP IN JULY 1989.

THE COMPANY EXPECTS TO SELL 1,500 VEHICLES PER MONTH AT A PRICE OF 22 MILLION RUPIAH, THE OFFICIALS SAID.

OSAKA (DEC. 3) KYODO - SHARP CORP. SAID MONDAY IT IS RECALLING 43,094 DEFECTIVE WASHER-DRIERS THAT COULD POSE A FIRE HAZARD.

OFFICIALS SAID THE ES-XI WASHER-DRIERS, PRODUCED BETWEEN MARCH 1987 AND SEPTEMBER 1988, MAY SMOKE OR CATCH ON FIRE BECAUSE OF A DEFECTIVE CONNECTOR.

IN THE FIRST 10 MONTHS OF THIS YEAR, THREE OF THE WASHER-DRIERS HAVE IGNITED -- ONE EACH IN KYOTO, AICHI, AND TOKYO. NO ONE WAS INJURED IN ANY OF THE INCIDENTS.

THE OFFICIALS SAID THE POWER CIRCUIT BOARD AND THE CONNECTOR OF THE MACHINES WILL BE REPLACED WITH A NEW, DIRECTLY SOLDERED CIRCUIT BOARD.

THERE IS NO PROBLEM WITH WASHER-DRIERS OF THE SAME MODEL MANUFACTURED SINCE OCTOBER 1988, THE OFFICIALS SAID.

TOKYO (DEC. 3) KYODO - AN AFFILIATE OF TOYAMA CHEMICAL CO., A MEDIUM-SCALE DRUG FIRM, ON MONDAY FILED FOR COURT PROTECTION FROM ITS CREDITORS IN THE THIRD-LARGEST BANKRUPTCY CASE THIS YEAR, TWO CREDIT RESEARCH AGENCIES SAID.

BOTH BLAMED THE DOWNFALL OF TOHO CHEMICAL CO. ON HEAVY INTEREST BURDENS INCURRED THROUGH REAL ESTATE INVESTMENTS.

TOKYO SHOKO RESEARCH LTD. ESTIMATES LIABILITIES LEFT BY THE BANKRUPT FIRM AT SOME 95 BILLION YEN. ANOTHER RESEARCH AGENCY, TEIKOKU DATABANK LTD. PUTS THE FIGURE AT 92 BILLION YEN.

ACCORDING TO THE RESEARCH AGENCIES, TOHO CHEMICAL'S FINANCIAL LIABILITY IS THE THIRD LARGEST FOR A COMPANY GOING BUST THIS YEAR.

TOHO CHEMICAL REPORTEDLY HAD BEGUN EXPANDING INTO REAL ESTATE IN 1987 AMID A BOOMING REAL ESTATE MARKET, WITH NEARLY 90 PERCENT OF ITS TOTAL SALES RESULTING FROM REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

BUT THE FIRM'S RECENT INABILITY TO RESELL PROPERTIES IT BOUGHT AT HIGH PRICES FORCED IT TO BORROW HEAVILY TO COVER REAL ESTATE DEBTS, THEY SAID.

FALLS CHURCH, VA (DEC. 3) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

The NIKKEI closes up sharply, gaining 271.36, or 1.2% on optimistic news on the Middle East. ... In midday trading, the FTSE was trading solidly higher, up 17.2 points. ... The dollar is up in early morning trading.

AT&T is trying to buy NCR CORP. for $6 billion, but NCR is balking. free trade zone for the Americas. ... "The New York Times" reports PAINEWEBBER will dismiss as many as 30 of its 163 investment bankers.

WHAT'S AHEAD:

Delegates from 107 nations begin five days of negotiations today in an effort to overhaul the world trade system. ... CHRYSLER says it will stop reporting 10-day car and truck sales. ... The COMMERCE DEPARTMENT releases new home sales figures for October tomorrow and manufacturers' shipments, inventories and orders on Wednesday. ... Also Wednesday, the LABOR DEPARTMENT issues third-quarter productivity and cost revisions. ... Major retailers report on November sales Thursday. ... The LABOR DEPARTMENT issues November unemployment statistics on Friday and the FEDERAL RESERVE reports on consumer credit.

FROM THE BULLS:

"There's been a lot of spook to the market because of this [Mideast situation] " says JOHN MANLEY at SMITH BARNEY. "Even if it's not settled peacefully, the market and the economy are at stages where they almost have to get better." He says 2800 on the Dow is "not asking too much from these levels." ("USA Today", 12/3)

"Although the market reacted positively to the Mideast news, I still think it's in a holding pattern," says JACK WALKER BELLINGHAM, a money manager who runs his own firm in San Francisco. "My feeling is the market has discounted the Middle East crisis." Bellingham, who manages $40 million, is cautiously bullish. He believes there is not much on the downside and a potential for 3000 in the Dow. ("Investor's Daily", 12/3)

FROM THE BEARS:

"Earlier this year, I thought we would see the economy hit bottom sometime between September and December and the stock market go through the kind of climactic blowoff that would correspond with the economy's low," says BRETT BRUBAKER, a portfolio manager at ABRAHAM & SONS. "But it's clear now that the economy is going to continue going down and the stock market hasn't taken that knockout punch yet." (WSJ, 12/3)

STOCK MARKET:

"I tend to think we are in a bear market rally at this particular time," says ELIZABETH DATER. "Having said that, I think there are terrific opportunities. I think we have borrowed the growth of the '90s in the '80s. The question is how much and how long it will take to work through it. ... Consumers and businesses at least now are in a bunker mentality. We're starting to see a process of reliquification taking place. I would expect to see the savings rate go dramatically higher. All of the signs point to long-term significantly lower interest rates, which will be very positive for equities." ("Wall Street Week", 11/30)

"The vigor with which the Federal Reserve moved to lower rates to stimulate a stalling economy clearly inspired the stock market [Friday]," says HUGH JOHNSON at FIRST ALBANY. ("USA Today", 12/3)

"I'm relatively neutral," says MARTIN ZWEIG. "Short-term, I think the market is going to go higher. Long-term, I'm very skeptical and I think the market could go a lot lower later on." He says most of his indicators are positive, "but you have this monster out there. If the debt unwinds, it could turn the recession into something pretty ugly. And if goes on for long enough, the market will go down." ("Wall Street Week", 11/30)

The nation's money managers are neutral on the stock market in the short term, but decidedly bullish over the longer haul, according to "Barron's" latest quarterly survey. One a scale of 0 to 10, the response from more than 180 professionals surveyed worked out to a 5.1 over the next three months, a somewhat bullish 6.7 over the next year and a strongly bullish 8.7 over the next two years. The consensus prediction is that the Dow will be at 2660 on New Year's Day, bottom around 2250 in March and then climb to 2900 by the end of 1991. ("Barron's", 12/3)

MARTIN SASS, president of M.D. SASS INVESTORS SERVICE, says he has a "positive outlook" on the market but emphasizes that it is "a long- term perspective. I would much rather buy on weakness than chase strength like we had [Friday]. I think what we're seeing is a period where we're starting to see some resolution to the crisis atmosphere that has caused sort of a white-knuckle period in which the market dropped from 3000 to 2360." He now sees a time frame for resolving the Middle East crisis and says problems with the economy, domestic interest rates and the "global credit crunch" are also starting to move toward a resolution." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 11/30)

JACK SOLOMON at BEAR STEARNS says falling oil prices were "really like having manna from heaven" as far as the stock market was concerned Friday. He says the "puncturing" of the oil price bubble "will help the banking system and alleviate fears ... of a credit crunch." MICHAEL METZ at OPPENHEIMER says: "On a short-term trading basis, the variable that short-term traders fix themselves on every day is oil prices. It's sort of the pulse of whether there's going to be a war or not." ("The Washington Post" 12/1)

"The main point is that the bad news on earnings is still ahead of us and expectations are too high," says TOM DOERFLINGER at PAINEWEBBER. "The worst is yet to come." (NYT, 12/2)

STOCK TIPS:

Retail analyst JOSEPH ELLIS at GOLDMAN, SACHS looks for "a poor Christmas, perhaps the worst since the 1982 recession" for sales. Despite the overall hard times for retailers, he continues to like WAL-MART, LIMITED, GAP, DAYTON-HUDSON, HOME DEPOT, TOYS 'R' US. "These are the quality growth stocks in the industry," he says. ("Wall Street Week", 11/30)

JACK WALKER BELLINGHAM, a money manager who runs his own firm in San Francisco is 35% invested in stocks, 45% in bonds and 20% in cash. He is wary that many individual stocks are getting hurt by earnings disappointments, but he currently likes PEPSICO INC., ORACLE SYSTEMS CORP. and McCAW CELLULAR COMMUNICATIONS INC. ("Investor's Daily", 12/3)

ALUMINUM CO. OF AMERICA, AMAX INC., PACCAR INC., COMMUNICATIONS SATELLITE CORP. and PHELPS DODGE are the favorite year-end "buy" stocks of MICHAEL METZ at OPPENHEIMER. ("The Washington Post" 12/2)

GENETECH stock is recommended by VIREN MEHTA, an analyst with MEHTA & ISALY WORLDWIDE PHARMACEUTICAL RESEARCH. But he says the company should answer certain questions at a Dec. 12 meeting for analysts. "Having done this transaction [to sell controlling interest to ROCHE] they now need to substantiate to the public that they have things in their pipeline." He considers shares attractive below 31 because "the company's science remains among the best and there is the possibility that Roche would want to buy them out." Roche has until Dec. 31 to get Genetech shares at 38. After that, the price goes to 39, rising to 60 by June 30, 1995. (NYT, 12/3)

Toy analyst SEAN McGOWAN at GERARD KLAUER MATTISON has turned bearish on the Japanese-made NINTENDO video game craze and says several U.S. toy companies should benefit from shifting tastes. His recommended stocks now are HASBORO, MATTEL, TONKA and TOYS 'R' US. ("Barron's", 12/3)

"The stock market has priced all the industrial, manufacturing and capital goods companies like we're going to have a 1980s-style recession that will wipe out their results," says JOHN KNAPP, president of SECURITIES COUNSELORS OF IOWA. But he does not expect that to happen and recommends such well-known companies as ALUMINUM CO. OF AMERICA, ALCAN and PHELPS DODGE in metals, MORRISON KNUDSEN in engineering and construction, CATERPILLAR and JOHN DEERE in equipment and CSX CORP. and NORFOLK SOUTHERN railroads. (WSJ, 12/3)

Most frequently mentioned favorite stocks of the 180 money managers in "Barron's" latest quarterly survey are IBM, PEPSICO, MCI and PHILIP MORRIS. Stocks most mentioned as "short" candidates are BLOCKBUSTER ENTERTAINMENT, COCA-COLA, DISNEY, GENERAL ELECTRIC, MICROSOFT and PHILIP MORRIS. ("Barron's" 12/3)

MCI COMMUNICATIONS is featured in the "Heard on the Street" column in "The Wall Street Journal" this morning and the telephone stock gets less-than-rave reviews from several analysts. "There's real resistance to [the stock] getting back above 20," says ALAN BOND at W.R. LAZARD. "I hate to use the term 'dead in the water,' but it certainly doesn't seem like there's a lot of enthusiasm. ... the temptation is to double up at these depressed levels ... but whether I feel comfortable enough to buy more I'm not sure." The stock closed Friday at 19 7/8. WOLODYMYR WRONSKYJ at DREYFUS says he would not sell at that price, but "would not be aggressive in buying more." On the other hand GEORGE VANDERHEIDEN, manager of FIDELITY DESTINY FUND, sold some stock before it started a November plunge from over 30 and again at 24. But when it got down to 19, he decided "this is crazy" and bought more. (WSJ, 12/3)

ADAPTEC INC., a maker of chips, boards and computer software used to improve communications links between personal computers and their associated peripherals, is the subject of a glowing review this week in "Barron's." The article notes that earnings are expected to be up sharply for the third straight year. "Over the longer pull, the company's outlook is enhanced by a variety of new products, including new lines of controllers for both laser printers and high-capacity disk drives," the article says. "Adaptec is in good shape. It has over $52 million in the till and almost no debt." ("Barron's", 12/3)

#90337m0002 12/03/1990 ~Market Consensus Surveys

FALLS CHURCH, VA (DEC. 3) MCS - A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

"When the man comes down from Mount Olympus and says we're in a meaningful downturn, that's significant," says WILLIAM SULLIVAN JR. at DEAN WITTER REYNOLDS. "It clears up all doubt about where the Fed stands." His comment was on FED CHAIRMAN ALAN GREENSPAN's testimony before Congress last week. (NYT, 12/2)

"The economic numbers will reinforce the concept that rates will come down," says DONALD FINE at CHASE MANHATTAN BANK. "November is shaping up as being equally as weak as October was." GARY SCHLOSSBERG at WELLS FARGO BANK says the unemployment numbers due out Friday "will be weak enough to encourage the Fed to ease one more time before the year is out." (NYT, 11/3)

The Fed "appears to be increasingly generous in its reserve operations," says ROBERT DiCLEMENTE, a senior economist at SALOMON BROTHERS INC. It apparently is acting because "the typical year-end hike in financing rates associated with window dressing operations has started earlier than usual and seems to be more intense." ("Investor's Daily", 12/3)

JIM GRANT says "goings on in the money market ... constitute some evidence that there might be developing a worldwide shortage of what the economists call liquidity and what the rest of us know as cash.

"What matters is not the absolute level of corporate debt, but who has the debt and whether they have the capacity to service it," says STEPHEN ROACH, chief economist at MORGAN STANLEY. "Public utilities, business services, food, tobacco and petroleum companies ... account for the bulk of the great debt wave of the 80's and their cash flow will be sufficient to afford that kind of debt expansion. Even in a recession, people aren't going to stop eating, after all." (NYT, 12/2)

"There's a lot of new money coming into the bond market," says CHARLES LIEBERMAN at MANUFACTURERS HANOVER SECURITIES. He says yields on long-term Treasury bonds could fall below 8% by the spring. The yield closed Friday at 8.39%. (WSJ, 12/3)

THE ECONOMY:

"Everyday we're bombarded out here by TV and newspapers telling us that times are awful," says JOHN KNAPP, president of SECURITIES COUNSELORS OF IOWA. "But when you really look at the regional composition of gross national product, you find that the regions that were weak in the mid-80s, when the dollar was strong, are doing very nicely. The Northeast, which waltzed through the tough times then, is where the pain is now." (WSJ, 12/3)

"The coincident indicators - industrial production, personal income, employment and manufacturing trade sales - have been falling for the past four months by ever-larger amounts," says WILLIAM MacREYNOLDS, director of forecasting for the U.S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE. "Instead of foretelling a recession that is a few months away, those indicators show that it already has started." ("Investor's Daily", 12/3)

"It looks like the leading indicators are catching up with the economy," says ROBERT DEDERICK, economist at NORTHERN TRUST CO. in Chicago. ("The Washington Post", 12/1)

slow and gradual recession" that will prove "much healthier over the long run" than the traditional kind that he calls "V-shaped recessions" because the Fed slams on the brakes to cool an overheated economy and then hits the gas pedal after a recession develops. "Thus, the entrance into and exit from recent recessions were quite dramatic. But this time is distinctively different." He says manufacturing may not be hit as hard as usual, but banks and financial service companies will suffer more than usual. (NYT, 12/2)

"What's being camouflaged by the Mideast is the impact of the recession on the economy," says JACK WALKER BELLINGHAM, a money manager who runs his own firm in San Francisco. "I think the president used strong words when he said the economy is weak. My feeling is we could be in a recession for 12 months." ("Investor's Daily", 12/3)

"I'm probably more negative than most people on the intermediate-term outlook [but] one of the things I find very encouraging in this downturn is that it seems very normal," says JOSEPH ELLIS at GOLDMAN, SACHS. "It appears to be to be a normal economic downturn accompanied by a normal bear market. I don't see this as something exceptional. It's a normal cyclical event." ("Wall Street Week", 11/30)

A peaceful solution in the Mideast "could go a long way to making whatever recession we have a lot milder," says MARIA RAMIREZ, head of MARIA RAMIREZ CAPITAL CONSULTANTS. "We've had nothing but bad news. ... We deserve some good news and here it is." MICHAEL ENGLUND, economist at MMS INTERNATIONAL, says of the latest Mideast developments. "It would be up, up and away for stocks," says AL GOLDMAN at A.G. EDWARDS & SONS. "We had a glimmer of that Friday." ("USA Today", 12/3)

BILL WOLMAN, chief economist at "BusinessWeek" and "CNBC" says the diplomatic overtures launched by PRESIDENT BUSH will have a positive economic impact if people feel confident it will avert war. "People will feel good," he says. "The same thing happened when [the Soviet Union] tried to put missiles on Cuba and John F. Kennedy made [them] blink first - as the saying goes. After that happened, there was a surge in consumer spending. ... Consumers just felt good. ... In this case there would be more reason to feel better than there was in the case of the Cuban missile crisis simply because the price of oil probably really would go down. ... I have no idea whether we are on the road to peace or not. But if you believe we are ... then you can make a case that it definitely has a positive economic effect." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 11/30)

SEATTLE (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Due to the accuracy and performance of the upper stage booster rocket that launched the Ulysses spacecraft last month, researchers stand to gain much more information about the sun than originally envisioned, Boeing Aerospace & Electronics said today.

After deployment from the shuttle Discovery, Ulysses was launched by a three-stage booster rocket provided by the Boeing Defense & Space Group. That launch was so accurate, that 10 days after launch, Ulysses was able to make a scheduled course adjustment using just 18 pounds of fuel instead of the planned 36.

As a result, Ulysses has enough fuel remaining to extend its mission and conduct science research during a second orbit of the sun. Original mission planning calls for the conduct of science on just one orbit of the sun.

Ulysses was launched on its trajectory to solar polar orbit by a unique, three-stage booster vehicle combining a two-stage Inertial Upper Stage (IUS) with the single-motor Payload Assist Module-S (PAM-S).

The IUS is built for the U.S. Air Force and NASA by Boeing's Aerospace & Electronics Division at the Boeing Space Center in Kent, Wash. For the STS-41 Ulysses mission, Boeing integrated a McDonnell Douglas-built PAM-S atop the IUS, providing the first-ever three-stage booster rocket to launch an interplanetary probe from a space shuttle.

NEW YORK (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Citibank announced today the latest phase in its three-year program to expand the size and scope of its unit that provides businesses nationally with credit card authorization and processing services.

The bank has formally renamed its expanded merchant credit card activities Citibank Establishment Services. The unit, formerly called Card Acceptance Services, is among the country's largest providers of credit card processing services for businesses accepting Visa, MasterCard, Diners Club, Carte Blanche and other credit cards.

Headquartered in Melville, N.Y., Citibank Establishment Services has major operating and customer service facilities in Hagerstown, Md., and Sioux Falls, S.D.

"The renaming of Citibank Establishment Services is a logical step in the quick-paced development of this business over the last few years," said Bruce M. Weber, president of the unit. "It more accurately describes the wide range of authorization, settlement, and information services - as well as an unmatched level of customer service - we can provide for businesses."

Citibank Establishment Services already processes credit card transactions for businesses representing more than $22 billion in consumer purchases. Adding significant volume each year since 1987, the business has grown to one of the three largest in the United States.

"Our growth reflects both Citibank's commitment to the credit card industry, in general, and our ability to provide better service and more tailored products than the competition," Weber said.

He noted that the renaming to Citibank Establishment Services is the latest step in the three-year-old expansion of the business. Other major development have included:

- Acquisitions of two significant merchant card programs from First Chicago Corp. and Houston's First City Bancorp, both in 1990;

- The development of CitiNet, Citibank's proprietary transaction delivery system that provides credit card approval processing for merchant locations nationwide; and

- The introduction of industry-specific products and services that have enabled Citibank to take a leadership position in providing credit card processing services for businesses in the car rental, retailing, and travel industries.

CLEVELAND (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Directors of The Standard Products Co. (NYSE: SPD) today announced a reduction in the regular quarterly dividend.

The new dividend of $.12 per share will be payable January 25, 1991 to shareholders of record January 11, 1991. It compares with the previous quarterly dividend of $.23 per share.

James S. Reid, Jr., Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, said, "The Board's decision was based on the overall economic outlook and the Company's plans for the future. We have just come through several years of substantial long-term investment in plant and equipment both in this country and the United Kingdom as well as for acquisition and joint venture operations. In addition, we are seeing softness in both the North American and overseas car builds and are also in the midst of a major start-up program in the U.K. for Ford's new Crown Victoria/Mercury Grand Marquis models.

"No one ever likes a dividend reduction but, given our future needs and opportunities, I am convinced the Board's action is prudent at this time."

SUNNYVALE, CALIF. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - MASS Microsystems (NASDAQ: MMIC) has signed a definitive agreement to acquire the assets of HyperPro Inc., it was jointly announced here today by Adel El-Shimi, president of MASS Microsystems and Wayne Robertson, president of HyperPro. As a result of the acquisition, MASS Microsystems will offer complete custom multimedia system solutions. Terms of the agreement, which is anticipated to close by Dec. 31, 1990, and is subject to certain conditions, were not disclosed.

"During the past six months, the market for personal computer multimedia applications has become increasingly confused as new, single focused products have been introduced. Users have had to undergo sharp learning curves in order to select the most appropriate combination of hardware, software and videographics peripherals. With HyperPro, MASS Microsystems is now positioned to offer complete custom solutions to the multimedia needs of the business community," stated El-Shimi.

According to El-Shimi, HyperPro is a leading custom developer of custom multimedia software, setting standards for the industry in products ranging from interactive video presentations and applications to marketing kiosks, desktop presentations, video disc and CD-ROM applications. In addition, HyperPro recently introduced its first product targeted for the distribution channels, "VideoAuthor," a software program that controls the display of real time interactive video on the computer screen.

"HyperPro, operating as a wholly owned, but distinct, subsidiary of MASS Microsystems, has worked with such major clients as Amoco Chemical Co., Northern Telecom, Pacific Bell Directory, Oracle, Apple Computer and Microsoft to provide innovative multimedia system solutions. In many cases, these systems will include MASS Microsystems' line of removable storage disk drives and videographics peripherals. However, it is important to note that HyperPro will also use competitive products if the resulting system better suits the client's needs," stated El-Shimi.

HyperPro was founded in 1987 by Wayne Robertson, president; Paul Foraker, chief operating officer; and David Donaldson, creative director. The three formerly worked in the product development group of Apple Computer Inc. and launched HyperPro in conjunction with the release of Apple's HyperCard software development system.

MASS Microsystems is a multimedia driven, peripheral enhancement company operating worldwide. The company manufactures the award-winning ColorSpace line of videographic products and the Datapak line of 45mb removable cartridge storage systems for the Apple Macintosh family of personal computers.

KEARNY, NJ (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Goody Products, Inc. (NASDAQ: GOOD) announced today that the company has entered into a licensing agreement with Mattel, Inc. (NYSE: MAT) for the production and distribution of a line of hair accessories under the trade name "Barbie for Girls(TM)." Trade response to the new fashion line has been overwhelming.

"Barbie for Girls" is a high-fashion line of hair accessories products including pony tail holders, barrettes, fashion combs, ribbons, fashion bows and ties. The license gives Goody exclusive rights to distribute the "Barbie for Girls" line in virtually every channel of trade in the United States, its territories and possessions.

The "Barbie for Girls" line was recently introduced at a trade show and has been previewed with major customers, receiving an enthusiastic reception. "The early order rate for our Barbie line of hair accessories has far exceeded our most optimistic expectations," noted Leonard Goodman, chairman and CEO.

"We expect to begin limited shipping of the 'Barbie for Girls' hair accessories line in spring 1991, with full distribution by later in the year. In addition to Goody's traditional outlets, we anticipate new channels of distribution for the line from children's apparel chains and major toy chains as well as toy departments of our mass merchandise customers," Goodman said. "The 'Barbie for Girls' line should also produce added holiday season volume, strengthening our traditionally soft fourth quarter," he concluded.

Mattel's Barbie doll is supported by a large advertising budget and along with licensed products represents worldwide retail volume of $1.2 billion. "We are very encouraged over the prospects for the Barbie license," Goodman said.

Goody Products, Inc. is engaged in the design, manufacture and marketing of a wide variety of hair accessories and owns and operates three additional consumer products subsidiaries and divisions: Opti-Ray, a designer and marketer of high-quality fashion sunglasses; Ace Comb, a manufacturer of premium high-quality hard rubber combs, and Pretty Neat Products, a producer of plastic cosmetic organizers.

ANN ARBOR, MI (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Digital Equipment Corporation (NYSE: DEC) and Comshare, Inc. (NASDAQ: CSRE) today announced a Digital Cooperative Marketing Program (CMP) agreement, under which the two companies will jointly market Comshare's Commander EIS and System W software products in the U.S. Comshare, working closely with Digital, will also enhance its product line to use Network Application Support (NAS) -- Digital's software for application integration in a networked, multivendor environment -- to link executive ease of use with enterprise network resources such as databases, electronic mail, and integrated office systems.

Commander EIS and System W enable executives and other professionals to more effectively make business decisions on products, markets, planning, and organizational performance by quickly and easily understanding critical information from within and outside their business. The products are major components of Digital's portfolio of executive- and decision-support applications that, through NAS, enable users to easily access, analyze, and share business information throughout an organization.

Commander EIS (Executive Information System) software gives executives individualized, highly refined summaries of information in an exceptionally easy-to-use format that requires no training. Commander EIS works in a client/server PC-to-VAX environment. Executives use a mouse or touch screen on a PC or Apple Macintosh II to easily review reports, charts, memos, and spreadsheets, and share this information with geographically dispersed management teams.

System W DSS (Decision Support System) software is ideal for managers who need applications for financial modeling and management reporting. System W simplifies complex modeling for strategic planning, budgeting, forecasting, consolidation reporting, financial analysis, profitability, and inventory planning, allowing organizations to better prepare for and respond to changes in their business environment.

Commander EIS and System W are available from Comshare immediately for Digital's VAX VMS systems. Software prices for typical Commander EIS or System W configurations start at $43,000, based on VAX system size.

Digital Equipment Corporation, headquartered in Maynard, Mass., is the leading worldwide supplier of networked computer systems and services. Digital offers a full range of computing solutions and systems integration for the entire enterprise -- from the desktop to the data center.

KANSAS CITY, MO (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Applebee's International, Inc. (NASDAQ:APPB) announced today that it has agreed in principle to sell its company-owned St. Louis, Mo. restaurant interests to a new franchisee, Apple Partners, Ltd.

The company has one Applebee's restaurant open in St. Louis, one under construction which will open in mid-December, and two sites approved in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

Specific details were not disclosed. However, the company indicated that it expects to report a gain on the sale when the transaction is completed.

Abe J. Gustin, Jr., president and CEO, said that selling company-owned restaurants to a franchisee in a major market fits well with Applebee's ongoing strategy. "As in the past, certain company-owned restaurants in newly developed markets may be sold to a franchisee whom we believe will fulfill the potential of the market. We have plans to use our financial resources and staff to develop other key markets in the same way during 1991."

MINNEAPOLIS (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - LaserMaster Technologies, Inc. (NASDAQ: LMTS) announced that it has closed on the sale of $1,750,000 of the company's 10 percent Convertible Subordinated Debentures to institutional buyers and that it expects to close on the sale of an additional $2,330,000 in such debentures on Monday. Mel Masters, chief executive officer, expressed satisfaction that the offering had been a success. Masters indicated that the offering, which permitted sale of up to $10 million in convertible debentures, was being closed early because the $4,080,000 expected to be raised meets LaserMaster's objectives in raising capital for purchase of inventory and working capital.

The company indicated that a number of additional institutions were considering purchase of additional debentures, in minimum amounts of $500,000, and that purchases by institutions currently evaluating the debenture would be permitted through next week.

LaserMaster Technologies, Inc. designs, manufactures and markets laser printer and display systems and subsystems for high quality electronic printing and desktop publishing applications. LAWRENCEVILLE, NJ (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Imo Industries Inc. (NYSE: IMD) today announced that it has acquired Optic-Electronic Corp. (OEC), a producer of electro-optical components and systems.

Based in Garland, Texas, OEC had sales of $75.1 million and pretax income of $5.7 million in its fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1990. The acquisition price based on improvements in equity at date of closing amounted to approximately $39 million. Payment by IMO is in conformance with the use contemplated for a portion of the proceeds from the company's debenture issue of November 1989.

OEC's product line includes fiber optic image intensification tubes, night vision systems, laser systems and other related electro-optical components and systems. It also has advanced technical capabilities in optical coating, fiber optic fabrication and gallium arsenide wafer processing. Approximately 15 percent of OEC's revenue is from sales outside of the United States.

"OEC and Varo have similar production and engineering facilities within city blocks of each other, and integration of these activities will boost production efficiencies and allow other cost savings," said W. J. Holcombe, IMO chairman and chief executive officer. "In addition, combining R&D programs is expected to enhance new product development in a significant way.

"IMO's existing electro-optical operations, consisting of the company's Baird and Varo units, had a backlog of about $200 million as of Sept. 30. OEC's backlog as of Sept. 30 was $88 million. Combining the capabilities of OEC with those already in place at IMO will enable us to expand our product offerings across a broad spectrum of laser and electro-optical areas and establish a stronger position from which to expand our worldwide business."

IMO, whose 1990 revenues are expected to exceed $1 billion, supplies analytical and optical instruments, electronic and mechanical controls, engineered power products and their support services to industrial and defense customers worldwide.

TAMPA, FLA. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - First Florida Banks, Inc. (NASDAQ: FFBK) today announced that it received notice by phone on Friday, Nov. 30, 1990 at 5:00 p.m., that the Comptroller of the Currency had denied the application of First Florida to acquire Mid-State Federal Savings Bank (NASDAQ-NMS: MSSB). First Florida has not yet received the official order of the Comptroller indicating its action but understands that the application was denied because of supervisory reasons having to do largely with asset quality concerns in both institutions and certain additional First Florida practices and systems.

For these reasons, the Comptroller concluded that the merger is not in the best interest of First Florida Bank, N.A., the general public, and the Bank Insurance Fund.

The acquisition agreement between the parties contemplates an alternative acquisition structure not requiring Comptroller approval when the initial structure fails to gain timely regulatory approval. No assurance can be given that the regulatory agencies which must approve such alternative structure, the Office of Thrift Supervision and the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, will approve the restructured acquisition in light of the Comptroller's rejection of the pending application for supervisory reasons. As required by the acquisition agreement, First Florida intends to prepare and submit applications for regulatory approval of the alternative structure - the acquisition of Mid-State as a thrift subsidiary of First Florida Banks, Inc.

A. Bronson Thayer, chairman of First Florida, stated that: "We are obviously disappointed, but the Comptroller's action is consistent with national regulatory concerns about loan deterioration and capital preservation evident in recent examinations of this region's banks and the tougher regulatory attitude toward financial institutions in today's economy. We will continue to attempt to satisfy such concerns and abide by the terms of our agreement with Mid-State."

First Florida Banks, Inc., a Tampa-based company with $5.7 billion in assets, operates 155 banking offices along Florida's West Coast from Pensacola to Naples/Marco Island and across the Central Florida corridor to the Atlantic Coast. First Florida's common stock is traded in the national over-the-counter market under the NASDAQ symbol FFBK.

DENVER (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - AMDURA Corporation (NYSE: ADU) announced today that it has filed a plan of reorganization with the United States Bankruptcy Court in Denver, under which it proposes to emerge from Chapter 11 and be reorganized in a manner allowing it to retain its 100 percent owned subsidiaries, The Crosby Group, Inc. and The Harris Waste Management Group, Inc., its 57 percent owned subsidiary Vac-Tec Systems, Inc. and certain other assets.

Under the plan, of the initial nine person board of directors of the reorganized AMDURA, five will be nominated by the Bank Group and one by the AMDURA, Coast and ANDCO Unsecured creditors' Committees. The plan also provides that the remaining three members of the initial board will be the chief executive officers of AMDURA, Crosby and Harris.

Waldera stated that the company is engaged in continuing discussions with various creditor groups concerning its reorganization filing. He stated that no agreements or commitments have been reached with any creditors and also that any reorganized plan would be subject to Bankruptcy Court approval.

AMDURA also announced that the company is nearing completion of the preparation of its consolidated financial results for fiscal 1989 and would release the results within a week. Waldera stated that the results would show very substantial overall losses for this period due to certain operational and non recurring considerations unrelated to the company's Harris and Crosby subsidiaries.

On April 2, 1990, AMDURA Corporation and its hardlines distribution subsidiaries, including AMDURA National Distribution Company and Coast to Coast Stores, Inc., filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code in the United States Bankruptcy Court, Denver. AMDURA's manufacturing subsidiaries, The Crosby Group, Inc., The Harris Waste Management Group, Inc. and Vac-Tec Systems, Inc., were not included.

The Crosby Group, Inc., headquartered in Tulsa, Okla., is a leading manufacturer of fittings for the wire rope and chain. The Harris Waste Management Group, Inc., headquartered in Minneapolis, is a leading manufacturer of equipment for the recycling and waste management industry. Vac-Tec Systems, Inc., headquartered in Boulder, Colo., manufactures equipment used to apply decorative and industrial coatings.

SANTA ANA, CALIF. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - On-Site Toxic Control Inc. (OTC: Pink Sheets) reported increased revenues for the year ended June 30, 1990.

Revenues for the year increased $226,398 to $1,354,731 from $1,128,333 the previous year. Stockholders deficiency reached ($30,061) compared with ($230,513) at the end of 1989. Net loss was reduced to ($633,875) or ($.31) per share from ($650,333) or ($.50) the previous year. Assets rose from $608,447 in fiscal 1989 to $1,030,477 in fiscal 1990.

"These results reflect increasing recognition of the company's air and water treatment systems as a method of solving industrial contamination pollution problems, and our improved marketing efforts," stated David Fletcher, president of On-Site Toxic Control Inc. and its principal subsidiary Ultrox International. "This past year," he continued, "marked the beginning of a new phase of growth for our company as we completed the transition from the development stage to full-scale production and sales."

Demand for the company's four rental water treatment units also increased in fiscal 1990. Gross profits from this segment rose to $41,071 from $5,615 the previous year, due in part to lower operating and maintenance costs. Revenue from the company's laboratory services unit rose 31 percent due to increased demand and higher service rates.

During the third and fourth quarters, the company signed additional marketing and technical agreements with Unocal and with FMC, the largest North American producer of hydrogen peroxide. The marketing agreement with Unocal's Unipure Group, signed in April 1990, is designed to enable the two firms to jointly market purification systems to decontaminate sites with both toxic organic and inorganic contamination.

As a result of these agreements and the company's expanded marketing efforts, revenue backlog for the first quarter of 1990 (unaudited) already exceeds the level of annual sales in fiscal 1990. This backlog includes systems for five Fortune 500 customers.

Subsequent to year end, Ultrox completed the installation of a new, South Gate Calif., treatment plant. This $500,000 water treatment facility is the first application of the Ultrox technology to restore a municipal water well to drinking water standards.

On-Site Toxic Control Inc. through its subsidiary, Ultrox International, is in the business of on site destruction of toxic substances found in groundwater an industrial wastewater. The Ultrox process photochemically eliminates organic contaminants through a patented oxidation process. Principal customers are major industrial corporations, water utilities and operators of Superfund clean-up programs.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - In an automotive industry first, Chrysler Corporation (NYSE: C) and MCI Communications Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: MCIC) today announced an agreement whereby the two companies will make MCI's long distance services available to the automobile manufacturer's national dealer network.

Through the new program named DEAL (Dealer Easy Access Long distance), all of Chrysler Corporation's 5,300 Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge, Jeep and Eagle dealers nationwide are eligible to utilize MCI's long distance services at rates otherwise unavailable to businesses the size of the typical dealership. Previously, these services were reserved for the largest companies.

The DEAL program agreement also makes available to dealers such MCI services as Vnet, Calling Card, 800 and Payphone Services, and allows Chrysler dealers to take advantage of special dialing plans such as convenient access to designated Chrysler offices throughout the U.S.

"This unique agreement will provide Chrysler dealerships throughout the U.S. with the same competitive advantages in services and operating and cost efficiencies that our corporate offices expect with MCI," said Tom Marinelli, director of sales operations for the corporation.

"Chrysler's decision to expand the availability of MCI's services to its dealers reflects the tremendous confidence the company has in our products and services," said Bert C. Roberts Jr., MCI's president and chief operating officer.

"The DEAL program exemplifies how telecommunications can serve as a practical competitive tool in information-intensive industries such as the automotive industry," added Roberts.

Chrysler Corporation, headquartered in Highland Park, Mich., is a diversified multi-billion dollar company involved in automotive manufacturing, electronics and financial services.

Headquartered in Washington, MCI Communications Corporation, provides a full range of global telecommunications services to businesses, residences and governmental agencies. With 1989 revenue of $6.5 billion, the company owns and operates the world's second-largest communications network, employing advanced fiber optics, digital microwave, satellite and digital switching technologies.

MCI Central Division is an operating division of MCI Telecommunications Corporation serving Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio, North and South Dakota, and Wisconsin.

ATLANTA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - John A. Helms has been named executive vice president and general counsel of Massachusetts Indemnity and Life Insurance Co. (MILICO), it was announced today by MILICO and its parent company, Primerica Corp. (NYSE: PA).

Donald R. Cooper, MILICO's chairman and CEO, said: "John has impeccable credentials and we are delighted to have him join our team. He brings an extraordinary wealth of experience and education to his new position in which he will be responsible for the legal activities of MILICO and its A.L. Williams sales force."

Helms leaves his position as a partner in the Atlanta law firm of Trotter Smith & Jacobs. Prior to that, he spent more than 15 years at Life of Georgia including more than 10 years as its general counsel and secretary.

Helms was graduated from Harvard Law School in 1964, and earned his undergraduate degree in Economics and Business Administration from Vanderbilt University. He is a member of the Legal Section of the American Council of Life Insurance and is serving on the board of directors of the Association of Life Insurance Counsel. Helms is also a member of the American Bar Association and its Insurance Law section and has served a term as chairman of the Corporate Counsel section of the State Bar of Georgia. He is a past president of the Harvard Law School Association of Georgia and is currently second vice president of the Harvard Law School Association, the national Alumni Association of the Harvard Law School.

MILICO currently leads the insurance industry with more than $320 billion in individual life insurance in force. MILICO is the underwriter of term life insurance policies marketed exclusively through The A.L. Williams Corp. (ALW) and its affiliated sales force. In addition, ALW markets mutual funds and various financial products in concert with certain Primerica Corp. subsidiaries. Primerica, the parent company of both MILICO and ALW, is a diversified financial services company with assets of approximately $21 billion.

TAMPA, FLA. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Nutmeg Industries, Inc., (NASDAQ: NUTM) today reported net sales of $26,106,000 for its third fiscal quarter ended October 27, 1990, an increase of 95 percent over the $13,412,000 reported in the comparable quarter a year ago. Net income increased to $989,000 or $.15 per share in the three months ended October 27, 1990, from $164,000 or $.02 per share in the three months ended October 28, 1989.

For the nine months ended October 27, 1990, net sales were $55,966,000, up 40 percent from the $39,888,000 reported in the nine months ended October 28, 1989. Net income for the 1990 nine-month period was $1,480,000 or $.22 per share compared to $2,161,000 or $.35 per share in 1989.

Richard E. Jacobson, Nutmeg chairman and chief executive officer, said, "We are encouraged by our continued progress. Our core Nutmeg Mills subsidiary posted strong sales and profit gains compared to last year's third fiscal quarter, when we encountered significant computer conversion problems. In addition, our results reflect the contributions of McBriar Sportswear, acquired on May 31, 1990, and our 'Saturday's Hero' joint venture, begun in this year's first quarter."

Jacobson said that "the retail environment is very difficult. We think that licensed sports will out-perform most other retail sectors, but we are maintaining a cautious attitude and will continue to emphasize cash flow and liquidity. Our $2.4 million in borrowings under our credit lines were lower than a year ago despite our acquisition of McBriar, the startup of 'Saturday's Hero' and the growth in Nutmeg Mills. Our consolidated order backlog is $16 million compared to $14 million last year."

Jacobson also said that Nutmeg has acquired over 400,000 shares of its own stock since the end of the third quarter, in accordance with an announcement made earlier.

Nutmeg Industries designs, manufacturers and markets high-quality sportswear generally bearing the insignias, names, colors, cartoon characters or other identifying symbols that various organizations have authorized the company to use. Nutmeg distributes its sportswear products to department and sporting goods stores and specialty retailers under the "Nutmeg Mills" label; to mass merchants and chain stores under the "Saturday's Hero" label through a joint venture controlled by Nutmeg; and to the retail, advertising specialty, premium, career apparel and sporting-goods markets through McBriar Sportswear and B-P Knitwear.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Medcross, Inc., (NASDAQ: MDCR) said today that it expects "over $1 million" in new revenues each year to result from a limited partnership agreement signed last week.

Robert M. Irvin, Medcross president, said the company is the general partner of Medcross Imaging, Ltd., the limited partnership created to provide mobile magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) services to hospitals. Medcross will operate and manage a mobile MRI unit owned by the partnership.

Irvin said Edward White Hospital of St. Petersburg, South Bay Hospital of Sun City Center and HCA Raulerson Hospital of Okeechobee have signed long-term contracts for MRI services. Operations will begin in January. He said he is confident that the unit will generate over $1 million in revenues annually.

According to Irvin, MRI is a state-of-the-art diagnostic tool that "looks into the body without the risks of ionizing radiation."

Cost of the Philips T-5 MRI unit to be owned and operated by the partnership is about $2 million, Irvin said. Hospitals unable to buy their own MRI unit will find the services of the Medcross mobile unit to be "an attractive economic alternative".

Irvin the MRI partnership is "another of the steps the Medcross management team is taking to produce new revenues and profits while awaiting FDA (U.S. Food and Drug Administration) approval for gallstone lithotripsy."

Medcross provides management services to health-care ventures and consulting services to hospitals, clinics, and health-care professionals. The businesses that Medcross owns and/or operates include mobile magnetic resonance imaging, mobile and fixed-base computerized tomography, mobile and fixed-base kidney lithotripsy, mobile gallstone lithotripsy and mobile ultrasound services.

ATLANTA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - National Healthcare Inc. reported net income of $242,000 or $.01 per share for the first fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30, compared to a net loss of $524,000 or ($.05) per share for the first quarter of the prior fiscal year.

The quarter ended Sept. 30 included an extraordinary credit of $155,000 or $.01 per share resulting from the utilization of tax net operating losses.

The company noted operating earnings before corporate interest expense, taxes, and extraordinary item were $2.6 million and $4.0 million in the quarters ended Sept. 30, 1990 and 1989, respectively. Comparable operating earnings from the company's retained facilities were $2.6 million and $3.4 million in the quarters ended Sept. 30, 1990 and 1989, respectively.

Operating revenues were $57.3 million in the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, compared to $58.6 million in the same quarter a year earlier. The quarter ended Sept. 30, 1989 did not include revenues of $3.9 million from two facilities previously held for disposal and included revenues of $11.0 million from two facilities subsequently disposed. Comparable revenues from the company's retained operating hospitals increased approximately $5.8 million for the quarter ended Sept. 30.

Contractual allowances as a percent of operating revenues increased 6.9 percent for the quarter ended Sept. 30, primarily as result of increased Medicare utilization in the company's hospitals. The quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 included approximately $589,000 in credits from reductions to contractual allowance provisions, primarily as a result of estimate changes and favorable settlements of prior year cost reports with program intermediaries, compared to credits of approximately $121,000 in the same period last year.

Operating expenses, excluding interest, remained unchanged in the comparable quarters ended Sept. 30, 1990 and 1989. Interest expense decrease 50.6 percent in the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 primarily due to reductions in interest expense on the company's bank debt and outstanding subordinated debentures as a result of financial restructuring transactions completed in fiscal 1990.

FAIRFIELD, CONN. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - A new line of rulers, scissors and shears made from recycled consumer plastic waste has been introduced by Acme United Corporation (AMEX: ACU), the country's largest producer of household shears, scissors, wooden rulers and yardsticks.

Discarded coffee cups, burger containers and school trays provide the raw material for the new products, called the Kleen Earth line. The waste is processed, ground and molded into rulers and scissor handles. A 12-inch ruler or 8-inch scissor handle uses the equivalent of four styrofoam burger containers or six coffee cups.

Henry C. Wheeler, chairman and chief executive officer, said, "We believe that Acme United is the first company to introduce this type of product, and we have every indication that the Kleen Earth line will be a big winner. Chain store buyers and office supply wholesalers and dealers in both the United States and Europe have expressed enthusiasm for these products."

Acme United is producing the Kleen Earth line in its Bridgeport, Conn., plant. Plans call for the company's English and German subsidiaries to manufacture and/or market these products for distribution to European consumers.

To encourage conservation and reforestation efforts, Acme United is sending a young pine tree sprout to customers who return Kleen Earth product packaging to the company for recycling.

The plastic rulers and scissor handles contain 90 percent recycled plastic consumer waste. The paperboard used to package the rulers and scissors is made from recycled materials and may also be reused. Vegetable-based ink is used in the packaging, which does not contain any plastic or cellophane.

Acme United has been assisted in the development of plastics for the Kleen Earth products by The Pimby Co., a Purdys, N.Y., firm specializing in creating consumer products from recycled waste.

Acme United, based in Fairfield, Conn., is also a leading producer of metal disposable surgical instruments, sterile procedure trays, germicidal products and wound-care packs for hospitals and the after- care market.

WESTBOROUGH, MASS. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - New England Critical Care, Incorporated (NASDAQ-NMS: NECC) and CarePlus, Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: CPLS), today reported they have entered into a definitive agreement to merge the companies and jointly pursue opportunities in the home infusion and alternate site healthcare marketplace.

Bob L. Wood, CarePlus' chairman, CEO and president, will assume the position of executive vice president of NECC and will become a member of the board of directors.

Under the terms of the definitive agreement, each outstanding share of CarePlus will be exchanged for 0.775 shares of NECC common stock. After the exchange, CarePlus will be a wholly-owned subsidiary of NECC. The tax-free merger will be accounted for as a pooling of interests.

In connection with the merger, CarePlus has granted NECC an irrevocable option to acquire, under certain circumstances, up to 18 percent of its outstanding shares, and NECC has granted CarePlus a similar irrevocable option to acquire up to 12 percent of its outstanding shares.

The definitive agreement requires the approval of shareholders of each company which NECC and CarePlus will seek at special shareholder meetings scheduled for March 1991. The merger is also subject, among other things, to the expiration of applicable waiting periods under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Act.

Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated and Alex, Brown & Sons Incorporated are acting as financial advisors to NECC and CarePlus, respectively.

Patrick S. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer stated, "We are excited about the opportunities provided by the merger to strengthen the companies' market leadership position while providing a stronger base from which to expand in infusion therapy and other alternate site healthcare opportunities."

"The two companies share a common focus on providing high-quality cost-effective alternate site healthcare. We look forward to working with the CarePlus management team and employees to expand our combined presence in the marketplace and in developing the alternate site market. In addition, we look forward to welcoming the CarePlus management team and employees as shareholders of NECC."

Bob L. Wood stated, "We at CarePlus are very proud of the success we have achieved over the last several years and in the services which we have provided to our customers and the opportunity we have given to our employees and our shareholders. We think this merger allows our shareholders and employees to participate to an even greater degree in the opportunity provided in the alternate site healthcare marketplace."

Founded in 1981, NECC was one of the first companies to provide infusion therapies such as parenteral nutrition, antibiotic therapy, chemotherapy and pain management therapy to patients in their homes. As a leading provider of these services in the alternate site healthcare marketplace, NECC today offers more than 18 types of home infusion therapies, with specialized services to specific patient populations including AIDS and pediatrics. New England Critical Care's headquarters are located at 50 Washington St., Westborough, Mass. 01581.

PITTSBURGH (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Westinghouse Electric Corp. (NYSE: WX) announced today that it will reduce employment in its energy systems business unit by 300 people.

The company said the reduction -- to be effective at year-end -- was essential to strengthen its competitive position in the commercial nuclear power market in the United States and overseas.

All of the employees affected by today's announcement are in salaried positions and all but 11 work in the Pittsburgh area.

"We are a market and technology leader in commercial nuclear power, and we have a rich portfolio of technologies in alternative energy sources, waste-to-energy and process control," said Nathaniel D. Woodson, vice president and general manager of the Westinghouse energy systems business unit. "But like many other U.S. companies, we face intense competition in our home market and internationally. We intend to win, but to do so we must reduce our costs.

"In the meantime, Westinghouse continues to employ more people in the nuclear field than any other company in the United States."

The company said it had offered a voluntary separation program for employees 57 years of age or older to lessen the impact of the reduction in force. More than 300 employees accepted the offer, which provided a year's pay to those who elected to terminate their employment before the end of the year.

"Reducing employment is one of many steps we are taking to strengthen our position in the marketplace," Woodson said. "We also are streamlining our work processes and eliminating layers of management."

"And we are going back to first principles by strengthening our customer focus working on technological innovations that will better serve our customers, and improving the quality and performance of our existing products.

"I know that this reduction will be very difficult for those it affects. We will work closely with them to help find new jobs. We are offering to help with resume preparation, interview techniques, employment searches and personal counseling," Woodson said.

Based on length of service, affected employees will receive full layoff benefits, including one week of pay for each year of service with the company, and extended medical and insurance coverage.

EXTON, PA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Intelligent Electronics Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: INEL), the world's largest chain of microcomputer dealers in terms of revenues and locations, today reported record net earnings of $29.3 million, or $2.09 per share on revenue of $1.5 billion, for the company's fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1990.

The earnings results represent a 109 percent increase over the $1 per share result reported for fiscal year 1989 (adjusted for the company's 2-for-1 stock split in July 1990). The 1990 fourth quarter earnings of 65 cents per share represents a 91 percent increase over the 1989 fourth quarter earnings of 34 cents per share.

Intelligent ended its fiscal year with a cash balance of $121 million. The 1990 cash balance is an increase of approximately $116 million over the 1989 year-ending cash balance of $5.3 million. During the year, the company also repaid approximately $27 million in borrowings.

The 1990 revenue figure of $1.5 billion more than doubles the company's 1989 fiscal revenues of $712 million. Revenues of $395 million for fourth quarter 1990 represent a 37 percent increase over revenues of $289 million for fourth quarter 1989.

Richard D. Sanford, Intelligent's chairman and chief executive officer, attributed part of the company's continued success to a strong focus on asset management. This focus has allowed Intelligent to continue to lead the industry in inventory turnover, collection of accounts receivable, and return on equity.

Intelligent Electronics provides intelligently based products to a network of approximately 1,000 centers located in all 50 states, Canada and Guam. The company operates five divisions -- Franchise, Company Center, Distribution Services, Corporate Services and International. The company's corporate headquarters is located in Exton with franchise operations in Denver and warehousing facilities in Chantilly, Va., Denver, and Livingston, Ontario, Canada.

WESTBURY, NY (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - The Olsten Corporation (AMEX: OLS) today announced it has completed the acquisition of Upjohn HealthCare Services, Inc. a subsidiary of The Upjohn Company. The acquisition increases the number of Olsten's health care offices to more than 275 and propels Olsten to the position of one of the top three health care providers in the industry.

"The health care environment has changed dramatically from the demand for institutional staffing to diversified home health care needs," said Frank N. Liguori, vice chairman and chief executive officer of The Olsten Corporation.

"This acquisition positions Olsten to better service the home health care market. Our full-blown network gives us a presence in every major metropolitan area in the U.S. and in Canada where Olsten has not previously provided service. We can now offer a truly international service network to our clients."

Health care services represents more than 30 percent of the company's sales. Under its health care division, Olsten provides a complete range of health care professionals, from registered nurses to home health aides and live-in companions, to hospitals, nursing homes, and other health care settings. Among its health care staff are physical and occupational therapists, speech pathologists, and medical social workers.

Founded in 1950 by William Olsten, who is chairman of the board, The Olsten Corporation is celebrating 40 years of service. Olsten, under its trade names Olsten Health Care Services and Olsten Temporary Services, is the third largest temporary help provider in the industry.

In 1989, it employed 325,000 temporary workers in business, industry, government, and health care throughout its network of 550 owned, franchised, and licensed offices in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, and Puerto Rico; the acquisition will increase that number to 750.

Combined sales in 1989, including those of franchisees, equaled $761 million. Upjohn HealthCare Services accounted for $182 million in sales in 1989, and the acquisition of the Upjohn network is expected to propel Olsten's annualized sales in excess of $1 billion, with health care representing approximately 30 percent.

The company reported corporate revenues in 1989 of $580 million and net income of $18 million and recently reported revenues of $456.5 million and net income of $12.3 million for the first nine months of 1990. Olsten's first public offering took place in 1968, and its shares began trading on the American Stock Exchange in 1982.

ALEXANDRIA, VA. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - PHP Healthcare Corporation (NASDAQ: PHPH), a major supplier of medical services for the Department of Defense and other government entities, reported a 28 percent increase in earnings before extraordinary items for its six month period ended Oct. 31, 1990, when compared to the first six months of the prior fiscal year. Earnings for the current six month period increased to $1.7CA million (49 cents per share) over $1.3 million (35 cents per share) before extraordinary items for the comparable six month period in the prior year. The increase in net earnings was even more favorable, increasing to $1.7 million (49 cents per share) over $549,000 (15 cents per share) for the comparable period in the prior year.

The company also achieved its highest quarterly revenues in its history. Revenues for the quarter ended Oct. 31, 1990, increased 20 percent to $23 million over $19.1 million for the comparable quarter last year.

Management attributes its increasing strong performance to high demand for its services, evidenced by the commencement of five projects during the six month period. PHP is meeting demand for health care in five major areas; ambulatory care, medical staffing, mental health, long-term care and total managed care.

EAST HARTFORD, CT (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Pratt & Whitney and International Aero Engines have announced the promotions of two executives.

Effective Jan. 1, 1991, Nicholas R. Tomassetti will become executive vice president of Pratt & Whitney's Commercial Engine Business. He is currently president of International Aero Engines (IAE), a five-nation consortium in which Pratt & Whitney is a major partner.

Tomassetti will report to Selwyn D. Berson, group vice president and president of Pratt & Whitney's Commercial Engine Business (CEB). He will work with Berson to provide leadership for worldwide marketing, engineering and customer and product support of P&W's commercial engines.

Tomassetti, who joined Pratt & Whitney in 1961, has held increasingly responsible positions in engineering, customer support and marketing. He succeeds Peter Chapman, who will be leaving the company at the end of this year.

Roland P. Dilda will succeed Tomassetti as president of IAE. He will report to the IAE executive board and be responsible for overall direction of IAE and its related business activities.

Dilda is currently vice president-strategic planning at Pratt & Whitney's Commercial Engine Business. Since joining Pratt & Whitney in 1964, he has served the company in engineering, customer support and marketing responsibilities.

Pratt & Whitney is a division of United Technologies Corporation (NYSE: UTX), headquartered in Hartford, Conn.

International Aero Engines is headquartered in Glastonbury, Conn. In addition to Pratt & Whitney, its member companies includes Rolls-Royce, MTU, Fiat and Japanese Aero Engines Corporation.

MINNEAPOLIS (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - K-tel International, Inc. reported the results for its first quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990. Consolidated net sales for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990 were $6,805,000 which resulted in income of $345,000 before income taxes and extraordinary items. For the same period last year consolidated sales were $8,714,000 and income before income taxes and extraordinary items was $84,000.

The results for the current period included a $176,000 gain from the sale of the distribution assets and systems in the United Kingdom. Also, the increase in profits as compared to the prior period is partially a result of lower selling, general and administrative expenses due to the sale of the company's United Kingdom subsidiary's distribution assets and systems coupled with significant cost reductions in the United States. Results for the quarter are not necessarily indicative of the results that may be expected for the year as a whole.

LAPLACE, LA. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Bayou Steel Corp. (AMEX: BYX) today reported earnings for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30.

Net income for fiscal year 1990 was $243,000, or $.02 per common share, on sales of $184 million, compared to net income of $8.1 million, or $.63 per common share, on sales of $209 million in fiscal 1989.

Earnings were down primarily due to lower shipments and profit margins on steel structural shapes and billets. Decreases in selling prices and increases in unit manufacturing costs, due to reduced operations for part of the year in response to market conditions, reduced margins. Steel structural shape shipments decreased to 411,660 tons in fiscal 1990 from 425,376 tons in fiscal 1989, while billet shipments decreased to 216,790 tons from 247,815 tons for the same periods.

Howard M. Meyers, president and chief executive officer, commented on Bayou's performance: "Our company's steel structural shape sales continue to feel the effects of a softened market. Increased competition, a larger supply of products in the market, and a hesitancy to buy shapes during a period of unstable prices have all contributed to the decrease in shape selling prices. In order to remain competitive and to sustain production volumes, we had to reduce prices, therefore shrinking our profit margins."

In further remarks, Meyers stated: "Billet prices were also significantly lower than last year. Subsidies by foreign governments to their steel-making industries have precipitated the decline in billet pricing. Consequently, we have curtailed billet production for resale and eliminated export billet shipments."

Additionally, in 1990, the company changed its method of determining the rate that interest expense is accrued on its Senior Secured Notes from the effective interest method to another acceptable method. The change had a favorable net effect on fiscal 1990 earnings of $978,000.

Bayou Steel Corp. operates a steel minimill producing structural steel products. Located on the Misssissippi River, the company operates four stocking locations along the inland waterway system at Pittsburgh, Chicago, Tulsa and Knoxville. The common stock of Bayou Steel Corp. is traded on the American Stock Exchange under the symbol "BYX".

PORTER, IND. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Canonie Environmental Services Corp. (NASDAQ: CANO) announced today that it is currently attempting to sell its analytical chemical laboratory in Stockton, Ca., and is conducting negotiations with several parties.

Canonie's president, Thomas A. Donovan, stated, "Due to the changing market, we do not believe having one laboratory is viable in today's business climate. Because of this and financial losses incurred by the laboratory over the past several quarters, we have made a management decision to sell our Stockton laboratory. We expect our company will continue to do the majority of its analysis in this laboratory in the future since we have staffed it with many qualified professionals and believe it to be a high-quality facility."

Canonie Environmental Services Corp. provides comprehensive services throughout the United States for remediation of sites contaminated by hazardous materials. The firm provides its clients with a complete range of services, including assessing the regulatory, technical and construction aspects of the problem; developing a strategic plan to solve the problem; and performing the necessary remediation and operation activities. Canonie Environmental Services Corp. is one of the few companies capable of providing such a broad range of services. The company has performed work at more than 100 project sites nationwide, including the management and control of remediation activities at various Superfund sites.

JACKSONVILLE, FL (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Dian Williams, a 12-year veteran of Barnett Banks, has been named president of Barnett Bank of Nassau County, an $84-million-asset affiliate of Barnett Banks, Inc. (NYSE: BBI). Williams is the second woman in Barnett's history to head one of the organization's banking affiliates.

Williams most recently served as senior vice president and regional branch administrator with Barnett's Jacksonville affiliate. The long-time Jacksonville resident joined Barnett as a management associate and pursued a career in office management and commercial lending before moving into branch administration. She is a graduate of Wolfson High School in Jacksonville and holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of North Florida.

"We believe that Dian will be a strong force to continue the solid performance of the Nassau County bank," said Richard Jordan, Barnett's executive for the north region, which includes the Nassau County area. "Her familiarity with the North Florida area, as well as her years of banking experience and highly visible commitment to community service, is an ideal fit for this bank and its market."

In 1989, Williams received the Tribute to Women in Business and Industry (TWIN) Award from the YMCA, an award honoring women who have contributed to the success of their organization and to the community. In addition, Williams currently serves on the boards of the YMCA and Ronald McDonald House. She has previously held leadership positions in such local organizations as Willing Hands, Clay County Chamber and Blanding Business Council. She has also served on the Northern Florida Chapter of the Leukemia Society Board of Trustees and as a Loaned Executive to the United Way.

Williams and her husband Robert have two children.

Barnett Bank of Nassau County has three offices and encompasses the Fernandina and Amelia Island communities. It is affiliated with Barnett Banks, Inc., a $31-billion-asset organization with 590 offices in Florida and Georgia. Barnett is Florida's leading banking company and the 20th largest in the country.

PARSIPPANY-TROY HILLS, NJ (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Two international corporations signed leases for office space totalling 13,000 square feet at

The Prudential Business campus. Drake Beam Morin, Inc. and Intel Corporation will become new tenants at the Campus, announced John Gregorits, general manager of the campus for The Prudential Property Company.

"We're pleased to welcome the regional offices of two international corporations to the campus," said Gregorits. "The campus has become a major attraction for Fortune 500 companies that want a suburban corporate environment and need quick access to international markets."

Drake Beam Morin, Inc., the largest career management consulting firm in the world, moved from Convent Station to approximately 9,000 square feet in Maple Plaza II. Drake Beam Morin provides outplacement services to businesses that must reduce their workforces.

"The Prudential Business Campus is a first class office park," said Gene Watkins, Drake Beam Morin senior vice president. "It's professional, convenient for our client companies and easy to get to. We love the building."

Intel Corp., the international microcomputer systems manufacturer, moved its sales office from Roseland to approximately 4,000 square feet in Arbor Circle South. Intel was co-founded in 1968 by Robert Noyce, the inventor of the silicon integrated circuit, or computer chip. Intel's campus sales office territory includes northern New Jersey and New York counties outside Manhattan.

"I look at a fair amount of real estate, and Arbor Circle is the most smashing building I've ever seen," said Clair Quaintance, regional business administrative manager for Intel.

In both transactions, Richard Baumstein, Thomas Semler, and Eugene Diaz represented The Prudential Business Campus. Drake Beam Morin was represented by Joseph Cabrera of The Galbreath Company and Intel Corp. by Dennis McConnell of Cushman & Wakefield.

Noted for its cultivated woodlands and award-winning building designs, The Prudential Business Campus is owned by a joint venture between The Prudential Property Company of Newark and US West Real Estate Inc. of Denver.

The 567-acre campus has 1.4 million square feet of office space in nine buildings. Tenants include Nabisco Brands, Aetna Insurance, BASF Corp., MCI, Corroon & Black, GAB Business Services, Legent Corporation, United Jersey Banks and The Prudential Eastern Group Operations.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Coldwell Banker Commercial Group, the nation's largest commercial real estate services firm, has appointed Ben F. Love, retired chairman and chief executive officer of Texas Commerce Bancshares Inc., to its Board of Directors.

The appointment was announced by James J. Didion, Coldwell Banker's chairman and chief executive officer.

"We are thrilled to have someone of Ben Love's stature on our Board," said Didion. "His reputation in the banking industry is unparalleled."

Love's position on the Board was formerly held by James F. Montgomery, chairman, Great Western Financial Corp.

"I have the highest regard for Coldwell Banker Commercial, and consider it the finest commercial real estate firm in the country," Montgomery said.

"Unfortunately, Great Western's extensive involvement in the commercial real estate field -- and our desire to continue doing business with Coldwell Banker Commercial -- could conceivably create at least the perception of a conflict of interest, which we felt was unacceptable to both companies."

Love, one of the most highly regarded and honored executives in the banking industry, assumed his position effective Nov. 13, 1990.

"I'm pleased to have the opportunity to serve one of the finest, most entrepreneurial companies in North America," Love said.

Coldwell Banker Commercial, headquartered in Los Angeles, is the nation's largest commercial real estate services company, with approximately 2,800 local brokerage specialists located in 90 offices across the United States. Services provided by the company include commercial real estate brokerage and management, mortgage banking, appraisal services, real estate investment banking, capital management and portfolio disposition.

NEW YORK (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc. (NYSE: MER) today announced that John J. Phelan Jr., retiring chairman and chief executive officer of the New York Stock Exchange, will join its board of directors on Jan. 1, 1991.

Phelan, who previously had announced his decision to retire at the end of this year, has served as chairman and chief executive officer of the NYSE since May 1984. He is widely credited with guiding the exchange and the securities industry through one of its most turbulent periods.

"John Phelan has been an eloquent champion of the free-market system throughout the world," said chairman and chief executive officer William A. Schreyer. "His extensive experience and expertise in the global financial markets, as well as his outstanding reputation for integrity, will certainly be an asset to our board. We are delighted that he will be joining us."

Prior to being elected chairman and chief executive officer of the NYSE, Phelan served as its president and chief operating officer from 1980 to 1984, and as vice chairman of the NYSE board from 1975 to 1980. He has been associated with the securities industry for 35 years.

From 1986 to 1989, Phelan also served President Reagan as chairman of the presidential board of advisors on Private Sector Initiatives.

During his tenure as chairman and CEO of the NYSE, Phelan advanced the exchange's stature in the global securities markets, reinforced confidence in America's capital markets and developed new relationships with the international business community.

Phelan graduated magna cum laude from Adelphi University with a B.B.A. He holds honorary doctorates from Adelphi, Niagara, Notre Dame and Tulane Universities, Hamilton College and Polytechnic University of Brooklyn.

COLUMBUS, OH (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Banc One Corporation (NYSE: ONE), said today that fourth quarter 1990 earnings are expected to be five percent to ten percent above last year's reported $.64 per share despite a one-time $25 million charge that will be taken in the quarter by its Indiana affiliate in conjunction with Indianapolis commercial real estate.

John B. McCoy, chairman and chief executive officer, said "The $25 million provision to be taken this quarter is for obligations related to the Bank One Center in Indianapolis." Banc One Indiana Corporation is principal tenant in the building, now 60 percent leased, and has made commitments to the extent of the reserve amount in its role as principal tenant.

McCoy added, "The structure of the real estate transaction entered into in 1984 has put us into a position to limit exposure to the amount of this special provision, which reflects the foresight of the officers of American Fletcher Corporation, the predecessor company to Banc One Indiana Corporation." McCoy said, "This was a unique transaction and our policy remains not to own downtown real estate for main office locations." Banc One Corporation acquired American Fletcher in 1987.

This special reserve was necessitated by an impasse in negotiations between the equity owners of the Bank One Center and the interim financing lenders. The owner of the building improvements is Monument Tower Associates Limited.

An affilitate of the Galbreath Company is the general partner of Monument Tower Associates Limited Partnership and an affiliate of Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc. is the sole limited partner. The interim financing lead lender is Citicorp Real Estate Inc.

Separately, McCoy added, "The Comptroller of the Currency's examination of Banc One Corporation is essentially completed and no significant additional reserves are required as a result of the exam."

Banc One Indiana Corporation is an affiliate of Banc One Corporation which has assests of $28.4 billion and operates 51 affiliate banking organizations with 747 offices in Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio, Texas, and Wisconsin.

Banc One Corporation also operates several additional affiliates that engage in travel, trust services, mortgage banking, consumer finance, equipment leasing, credit-related life insurance, investment management, data processing discount brokerage and venture capital activities.

SOUTHFIELD, MI (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - The following was released today by the law firm of Miller, Cohen, Martens & Ice, P.C.: The regional director for the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) in Detroit has charged the Days Hotel of Southfield with violating federal labor law.

The NLRB issued a complaint charging that the Days Hotel has illegally interfered with the rights of over 100 hotel workers by cutting their wages, health insurance and other benefits. The complaint was issued by the NLRB based upon unfair labor practice charges filed by Local 24, Hotel Employees and Restaurant Employees International Union, AFL-CIO. Local 24 represents over 100 hotel workers at Days Hotel.

The NLRB charges that the Days Hotel has unlawfully terminated health insurance coverage, leaving the employees without insurance coverage. The NLRB also charges that the Days Hotel has:

- Deducted money from the paychecks of employees for health care benefits for their family members, but illegally converted it to their own use
- Refused to pay vacation monies - Refused to pay overtime
- Refused to pay proper wages according to the contract
- Refused to pay for personal leave, birthday, and anniversary days

The NLRB seeks a restraining order preventing the Days Hotel from continuing its illegal conduct and seeks to recover monies for all employees for lost wages, vacation pay, and other benefits, and for any expenses that they incurred as a result of the Days Hotel's failure to provide insurance coverage. The amount of monetary damages is likely to exceed $100,000. A hearing before an NLRB administrative law judge is set for March 4, 1991.

Because of the widespread nature of the illegal conduct and the financial instability of the Days Hotel, Local 24 requested the NLRB to seek an injunction in federal court ordering the Days Hotel to comply with the NLRB complaint until a final decision has been issued by the NLRB.

Florence Farr, secretary-treasurer of Local 24, was pleased with the NLRB's actions. "The NLRB's decision is an important step toward our victory against a greedy and law-breaking employer. Days Hotel will be taught the rule of law and pay dearly for it."

The Days Hotel is owned by Martin Fine, of New York City, who took over the Days Hotel in the fall of 1989. A copy of the NLRB complaint can be obtained from Local 24's attorneys, Miller, Cohen, Martens & Ice, P.C.

WINTER PARK, FLA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Philip Crosby Associates, Inc., the quality management consulting firm, announced today that Philip B. Crosby, 64, who founded PCA 11 years ago, has requested that the Proudfoot board of directors permit him to retire from his role in management of the consulting firm effective Dec. 31, 1990. Crosby will continue to serve as consultant to the worldwide company, particularly in the creative areas.

"The company is well managed," Crosby said. "We started a succession plan back in 1983, and it has been implemented over the years. My desire is to concentrate more on writing and speaking about management issues, while cutting back on my travel schedule. I think executives should get out of organized operations by the time they are 65."

Larry McFadin, chairman and CEO of PCA, said "Phil will still be available to us on a regular basis, and we appreciated that. We recognize that he wants to be able to devote more time to his personal requirements."

Crosby served as chairman and chief executive of the firm from 1979 until 1987 when Larry McFadin became CEO. In 1985, the company went public and in 1989 was acquired by Alexander Proudfoot PLC. Both Crosby and McFadin joined the Proudfoot board at that time. In 1989, Crosby resigned as chairman of PCA and was given the title of founder chairman. He is now retiring from both the PCA and the Proudfoot boards.

Crosby, who has written eight books, has another one in process and continues to write articles while he maintains a reduced speaking schedule. He lives in Winter Park, Fla. with his wife Peggy.

EDISON, N.J. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - KCS Group, Inc. (NASDAQ: KCSG) today reported its net income per share from continuing operations for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1990 rose 104 percent compared to fiscal 1989.

Net income for the fiscal year just ended was $2,402,000, or $1.37 per share, compared to $1,214,000, or 67 cents per share from continuing operations in the 1989 fiscal year. Net income for 1989 also contained $4.71 per share related to discontinued propane operations which was primarily the result of the gain on the sale.

Fourth quarter net income was $297,000, or 17 cents per share, compared to a break-even result in fiscal 1989 from continuing operations. Operating revenues for the fourth quarter increased 19 percent to $18,663,000 compared to $15,715,000 in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1989.

KCS Group also reported a 47 percent increase in its prove natural gas reserves over fiscal 1989. At Sept. 30, proved natural gas reserves totaled 24.1 billion cubic feet compared to 16.4 billion cubic feet at the end of fiscal 1989, the result of acquisitions, new discoveries and development of existing fields.

According to James W. Christmas, president, "KCS Group is now entirely focused on the energy business and all of our operating units were profitable in fiscal 1990." He said the corporation's future is in gas and oil exploration, production, transportation and marketing and that the recent acquisition of a 150-mile gas transmission pipeline in Texas "shows our long-term commitment to energy." He said KCS Group "will continue to evaluate additional energy acquisitions that complete our business strategy."

Operating revenues for the 1990 fiscal year were $72,227,000 compared to $73,080,000 in fiscal 1989. Christmas said the slight revenues decline was due primarily to "a change in the sales mix of our marketing subsidiary."

He said KCS intends to concentrate on its natural gas operations "since new environmental regulations and the higher price of oil should measurably increase the demand for natural gas."

Christmas said operating income from oil and gas exploration and production was more than double the previous year and that gas marketing contributed significantly to operating income compared to a loss in 1989. Natural gas transportation accounted for only a minor part of operating income, he said, but pointed out that the 150-mile Texas transmission pipeline was not acquired until the end of the fiscal year.

"We now have about 40 percent of our $51 million of assets in natural gas transportation, 27 percent in oil and gas exploration and production and 23 percent in gas marketing," he said.

KCS Group, headquartered in Edison, has subsidiaries in gas and oil exploration and production, gas gathering and transmission, field services and marketing as well as an energy consulting unit.

BRIDGEPORT, W.VA. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Petroleum Development Corp. (NASDAQ-NMS: PETD) (PDC) announced today that it has completed the refinancing of its principal line of credit with Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co.

The refinancing resulted in an immediate reduction in the outstanding loan balance from $11.5 million to $4.75 million. Manufacturers Hanover also received options to purchase 2,750,000 shares of PDC common stock. The loan was previously held by Pittsburgh National Bank.

James N. Ryan, chairman of the board of PDC said the refinancing will significantly reduce future interest and principal payments required of the company, and the debt reduction will result in record profits for 1990. Earnings in future years will also be enhanced by the significant redution in the borrowing level and interest expense.

Ryan also said that the strengthening of the company associated with the refinancing, along with the company's increasingly successful public drilling program offerings should substantially improve the company's future growth prospects.

Petroleum Development Corp., a leading Appalachian independent oil and gas company, is headquartered in Bridgeport, W.Va., and is engaged in the business of exploring for, developing and producing oil and natural gas. Petroleum Development's common stock is trading in the NASDAQ National Market with the symbol PETD.

WELLESLEY, MASS. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - David J. Beaubien, EG&G's senior vice president for New Business Development today announced that he would retire at the end of this year. Beaubien joined EG&G (NYSE: EGG) in 1967 through the acquisition of Cambridge Systems, Inc., a meteorological instrument firm which he had founded a decade earlier. It was one of EG&G's earliest acquisitions and formed the management core for many of the company's activities in the environmental sciences.

Over the years, Beaubien directly served three generations of EG&G CEO's, heading a variety of the company's innovative growth initiatives. In commenting on the announcement, CEO John Kucharski said, "Dave was responsible for EG&G's early successes in its venture capital activities, as well as directing the company's acquisition program for nearly 20 years. Many of our more substantial divisions were orginially brought into the EG&G family under Dave's direction. Dave will continue to serve EG&G as a consultant to the corportion and serve as a board member for some of our subsidiary companies and joint venture interests."

Beaubien currently is a director of the Kidder Peabody Family of Mutual Funds as well as several private high-tech companies, and intends to maintain an active business schedule.

NEW YORK (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Giuseppe Garofano, chairman of the new Montedison, which is being formed by the merger of Montedison and Ferruzzi Agricola Finanziaria, speaking at a conference of financial analysts here today, announced the following financial estimates for fiscal year 1990 and forecasts for fiscal years 1991 and 1992.

For 1990, the company estimated total sales of $13.5 billion and gross operating profits of $1.55 billion. Sales from the company's chemicals sector will be approximately $5 billion, with gross operating profits of approximately $750 million, while the company's agro- industrial sector will achieve sales of approximately $8.5 billion and gross operating profits of approximately $800 million.

For fiscal year 1991, the company forecast chemical sales of $5.7 billion and agro-industrial sales of $9 billion, for a total of $14.7 billion. Gross operating profits are forecast at $1.9 billion, with $1 billion to come from the chemicals sector and $900 million from the agro-industrial sector.

For fiscal year 1992, the company forecast chemical sales of $6.5 billion and agro-industrial sales of $9.5 billion, for a total of $16 billion. Gross operating profits are forecast at $2.2 billion, with $1.2 billion to come from the chemicals sector and $1 billion from the agro-industrial sector.

Garofano stated, "The $6.5 billion in 1992 sales that we forecast from our chemicals sector, which has been renamed Montecatini, will be helped by investments of about $2 billion which we have made in the last two years, which include expanding our capacities in existing plants and the applications of our new technologies.

"With the Enimont sale behind us, we will have a much sounder portfolio and all the tools for a successful future, which include countercyclical and stable businesses to provide recession resistant qualities to our company."

The Ferruzzi Group is a leading international industrial system which operates through Montedison in the chemical, pharmaceutical and energy sectors, as well as in the agro-industrial sector, with an aggregate turnover of approximately $30 billion.

PHILADELPHIA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Sun Refining and Marketing Co. said today it will cease manufacturing naphthenic lube oils during the first quarter of 1991, when it closes its naphthenic lube plant at its refinery in Marcus Hook, Pa.

The Sun Co. (NYSE: SUN) subsidiary said the decision was the result of growing concerns about the future economic attractiveness of the naphthenic lubes business as well as escalating capital costs to modernize the aging plant and to comply with new and emerging environmental regulations.

Naphthenic lubes are used as transformer oils and metalworking oils and are also components of synthetic rubber and inks. The Sun plant makes 5,000 barrels a day, representing about 11 percent of the U.S. naphthenic lube market but less than 1 percent of the company's total sales volume. The closing of the naphthenic lube oil plant is expected to have minimal impact on the company's ongoing financial results, although there will be a one-time charge of $4 million after tax associated with the plant's closure.

Sun said it will be able to supply the majority of its naphthenic customers from inventory through the first quarter of 1991, but will exit the naphthenic lubes business when its inventory is exhausted.

The company said the closing will not affect its manufacture of Sunoco motor oils and other lubricating oils and specialty products, which are produced through a different process at facilities in Tulsa, Okla., and Yabucoa, Puerto Rico.

The company said it is in the process of discussing with employees and union leadership the impact of the shutdown with the aim of minimizing any adverse effect on the employees involved in the closing.

HOUSTON (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Battle Mountain Gold Co. (NYSE: BMG) said today that Colorado State District Court Judge Robert Ogburn has ruled in favor of its water rights change of use and augmentation plan. The decision clears the way for a pre-Christmas start-up of the 60,000 ounce per year gold mine located in Costilla County, Colo., pending construction completion.

BMG Chairman Karl E. Elers said he is delighted with the Dec. 1 decision which will allow the project to proceed without further delay.

Project Manager Gary Dodson, said the decision preserves the quantity of water historically used on the ranch so that at the end of mine production, the water can be returned to the ranch without any substantial loss in irrigated acreage. "This is a benefit to both Battle Mountain and to the community, because farm land will not have to be permanently taken out of production," Dodson noted.

The water rights proceedings, which included five days of testimony, allowed all interested parties and the community to have a final review of the environmental safeguards built into the project prior to the decision.

Battle Mountain Gold common stock trades under the symbol BMG on the New York Stock Exchange, the Australian Stock Exchange Limited, the Frankfurt Stock Exchange, the Swiss Stock Exchanges and the Toronto Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Despite continuing patterns of harassment and intimidation by striking employees, The Daily News continues to expand its ability to distribute the paper on a daily basis.

In the first two weeks of the strike, the News was limited to the use of 15-25 trucks serving about 400 retail outlets. Today, there are 97 trucks on regular routes serving 3,183 dealers throughout the city's five boroughs.

The growth of retail dealers handling the Daily News is as follows: Week of Nov. 12 1,859 dealers Week of Nov. 19 1,962 dealers Week of Nov. 26 2,141 dealers Week of Dec. 4 3,183 dealers In addition, there are now eight wholesalers handling 48,900 papers daily for retail outlets in areas contiguous to the city.

Today, as a result of a federal court order requiring that the MTA permit sales of The Daily News in the subway, as is allowed for all other newspapers, The News was sold by hawkers in both the five borough subway system and the Long Island Railroad. (Dealers who operate in the subways have refused to handle The Daily News because of fear of physical harm to themselves and their businesses.)

In the 13 of the 17 sales locations on the LIRR, sales were conducted without incident. However, hawkers were physically abused and harassed, sales were obstructed, and papers were stolen by striking employees at these four locations.

Law enforcement officers at the scene ignored the incidents of harassment and refused to respond to calls for help. The officers involved have been identified and appropriate legal actions are being taken to insure adequate law enforcement.

Sales in the subways occurred in each location where The News was permitted to be sold. Sales were conducted without incident.

Today, hawkers sold in excess of 200,000 copies of The Daily News. "We are delighted at the success of today's sales in the subways, on the LIRR, and at street locations," said John Sloan, vice president of Human Resources.

The hawkers program will be expanded tomorrow and in the days ahead. "New Yorkers want their Daily News and these efforts will help ensure that they get it," Sloan added.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - The Oversight Board for the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) announced today the appointment of Kurt W. Wierschem as vice president of oversight and evaluation effective Dec. 16.

As vice president of oversight and evaluation, Wierschem will head the division that oversees RTC operations, including policy impact and compliance, performance standards and progress measurement.

Wierschem comes to the Oversight Board from the RTC's Eastern Regional Office where he served as the supervisory managing agent of all conservatorship thrifts in Florida and Puerto Rico. Wierschem also was the managing agent of two seized Florida savings and loans -- CenTrust of Miami and Commonwealth Federal of Fort Lauderdale -- where he supervised the operations, asset downsizing and resolution process.

"Mr. Wierschem's first-hand knowledge of RTC's operations provides key experience essential to heading the oversight area," said Peter H. Monroe, president of the Oversight Board. "Wierschem also will provide valuable insight into the workings of the thrift industry that he gained from years of experience in the private sector."

Prior to joining the RTC in 1989, Wierschem spent 14 years in the thrift and banking industries where he held senior positions in both operations and lending areas. His experience includes serving as Southeast division manager and senior vice president for California Federal Bank of Ft. Lauderdale from 1988 to 1989; banking division manager and executive vice president for Security First Federal of Daytona Beach from 1984 to 1988; and division manager of consumer services for Empire Savings and Loan of Denver from 1975 to 1984.

From 1973 to 1975, Wiershem was a senior loan officer for Government Employees Financial Corporation, a subsidiary of GEICO Insurance. Wierschem also worked as a collection manager for Chrysler Credit Corporation in Denver from 1971 to 1973. Before working for Chrysler, he served four years as a captain in the U.S. Air Force, including a tour in the combat zones of Southeast Asia.

The Oversight Board formulates the policy, approves the funding and provides the general oversight of the RTC, the agency responsible for resolving the nation's failed thrifts.

KILLINGTON, VT. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - S-K-I Ltd. (NASDAQ: SKII), today announced a first quarter loss of $0.62 per share, compared to a loss of $0.68 last year, for the three months ended Oct. 28, 1990. Historically, S-K-I reports a loss during the first quarter as preparations are made for the upcoming ski season.

Revenues for the quarter were $4,158,399 compared to $4,751,331 for the same period in the prior year. Last year's revenues, however, included $650,000 from the sale of real estate. There were no real estate sales during the first quarter this year.

Preston Leete Smith, president and chief executive officer of S-K-I pointed out that, "Expenses for the quarter were reduced by 9 percent this year because we managed spending in such a way as to remain flexible in our commitments as the upcoming season unfolds."

"The sale of season passes and reservations for this season are ahead of last year and demonstrate continued strong support in the marketplace for the dependable product produced by our superior snowmaking systems," Smith noted. S-K-I's areas were all among the earliest to open this season.

At Bear Mountain, a new, high speed detachable quad chairlift, the first of four new lifts recently approved for the area, is scheduled to be completed before the Christmas holiday. "Response to this 34 percent increase in capacity has already materialized in the sale of season passes and with volume up substantially at Bear in November," Smith commented. Construction has been completed on a new quad chairlift at Mount Snow which will increase capacity there by 10 percent.

Smith added, "Although we are being cautious, our marketing and snowmaking strategy is to aggressively support the position of industry leadership S-K-I has established over the past 30 years."

SANTIAGO, CHILE (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Compania de Telefonos de Chile S.A. ("CTC") (NYSE: TCH) today announced that it has signed an investment agreement with International Finance Corporation ("IFC"), an affiliate of The World Bank. Under the agreement, IFC will loan CTC up to $80 million for use by the company in implementing its line-expansion development plan.

The investment agreement provides CTC with a senior loan of up to $60 million to be repaid semiannually on each March 15 and Sept. 15 through the year 2000 in essentially equal principal installments, commencing in 1994. Interest on the senior loan will accrue at 1-3/4 percent above LIBOR per annum. Further, the agreement provides CTC with a subordinated loan of up to $20 million to be repaid in two payments on Sept. 15, 1999 and 2000. Interest on the subordinated loan will accrue at LIBOR and at an additional rate ranging from zero to 6 percent tied to a corresponding range of CTC's net income from zero to more than $180 million per annum.

CTC covenants to IFC under the agreement to maintain a current ratio of not less than 1.0, a debt-to-equity ratio of not more than 1.25 and to pay dividends not exceeding its current dividend policy (80 percent of net income for any year and 60 percent of net income for any quarter).

On a separate matter, CTC announced that it has successfully completed a renegotiation of covenants regarding required numbers of telephone lines in service as discussed in the prospectus for the sale of its ADRs in the U.S. which closed on July 27, 1990. At a special meeting of its bondholders in Santiago today, the following new schedule for lines in service was unanimously approved:

-- Dec. 31, 1990 - no requirement -- Dec. 31, 1991 - 860,000 lines -- Dec. 31, 1992 - 1,010,000 lines -- Dec. 31, 1993 - 1,200,000 lines At Dec. 31, 1989, CTC had 645,863 lines in service and by Oct. 31, 1990 that number had grown to 764,232 telephone lines in service.

CTC also noted that a third quarter dividend of $0.19 per ADR was paid on Nov. 15, 1990 to holders of record of its ADRs on Oct. 24, 1990.

Compania de Telefonos de Chile S.A., the first South American company to list its shares on the New York Stock Exchange, is the largest telecommunications enterprise in Chile, owning approximately 94 percent of all telephone lines in the country. The company's principal business is providing local telephone services to 77 percent of the country where 92 percent of Chile's population resides, and provides domestic long-distance telephone services. Additionally, the company operates a cellular network in the two principal metropolitan areas of Chile, Santiago and Valparaiso. CTC is also expanding businesses not currently subject to Chilean tariff regulations, including public telephones, cellular telephones and private systems and equipment.

BOSTON (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Stone & Webster people in Saudi Arabia -- like employees of other U.S. companies there -- regularly visit troop units in the desert in an effort to provide a link with the outside world. Stone & Webster added a new wrinkle by using its facsimile machines to send soldiers' letters to the United States, and to receive replies. There is no charge to the troops for this service.

The following report is from the manager of the S&W office in Dammam to Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation headquarters in Boston:

"On Fridays, a weekend day here, our 'desert patrol' loads our four-wheel-drive vehicles with ice, soft drinks, candy, newspapers, paperbacks and sports equipment, strikes out about 5:30 a.m. We visit the encampment and distribute our cargo, chat with the troops, and try to help out in any way that we can. For example, we routinely bring the soldiers' film back to town from processing and return the prints the following week.

"Perhaps the service the troops appreciate the most is the transmission of letter home by fax. The letters are sorted geographically and faxed on Friday evening (Friday mornings in the States) to the Houston office. There the letters are placed in envelopes and mailed out that same day. The soldiers' families are given our fax number in Dammam to respond if they wish, and the desert patrol delivers any return mail when it makes its next rounds.

"The fax letters were a real blessing for one batallion in mid- October. There had been a fire in the mail tent that week which destroyed a large amount of incoming mail. The appreciation of the troops made that particular day especially rewarding for the desert patrol."

Stone & Webster has nearly 200 employees based at Dammam, located in Saudi Arabia's eastern province. That office is working for a variety of clients on refinery, petrochemical and electric power jobs. S&W did not reduce the scope of its operations after the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait in August.

The fax-mail service has drawn a number of letters of appreciation, both from the troops and from their families.

NORWOOD, MASS. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Microcom (NASDAQ: MNPI) today announced that its popular Virex(R) anti-virus software has been updated to combat the emergence of three new Macintosh viruses. The new viruses, which cause system crashes and damage application and system files, bring the total number of known Macintosh viruses to 29. The three new viruses are strains of the ZUC virus and nVIR viruses.

"Virex customers discovered the 'MODM' and 'zero' viruses," stated Robert Capon, vice president of Microcom's Utilities Product Group. "The powerful generic nVIR feature integrated within Virex successfully detected and treated the viruses, and our customers promptly reported the viruses to us."

Similar in structure to the 'ANTI' virus, the ZUC virus infects applications and causes the cursor to drift diagonally across the screen. Once the infection reaches the Finder, control of the cursor becomes impossible. The new strain of the ZUC was discovered in Italy.

"The discovery of the new variation of the ZUC virus indicates there is still an ongoing problem with new Macintosh virus strains. We will continue to provide protection against all known viruses," added Capon.

The two new variants of the nVIR virus, 'MODM' and 'zero' infect applications and system files, causing system crashes.

Explains Capon, "The generic nVIR feature of Virex gives users the security of knowing they are automatically protected from future nVIR variants."

Microcom will begin shipping Virex Version 2.84 immediately. Registered Virex users are eligible to purchase an update for $15 or can subscribe to Microcom's Annual Update Service for $75. The suggested retail price of Virex remains $99.95.

Virex was recently updated in October to Version 2.83 to combat 'ANTI-O,' an ANTI clone. Introduced in November 1988, Virex was the first commercial anti-virus software for the Macintosh. Since that time, Virex has been updated on more than 19 separate occasions to combat new viruses an to unveil new product features.

The Utilities Product Group, formerly known as HJC Software, Inc., was acquired by Microcom, Inc., of Norwood, Mass. in December 1989. The Utilities Product Group now includes Complete Undelete(tm) and Microcom 911 Utilities(tm) recovery software. Virex was developed and updated by Robert Woodhead, an internationally recognized authority on computer viruses. The Virex INIT was developed and updated by Walter J. Biess.

JACKSON, MISS. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Mobile Telecommunication Technologies Corporation International (NASDAQ: MTTL) announced today that William H. Crawley has joined the company as vice president and representative director of Asia Regional Operations, a division of the company's wholly-owned subsidiary, Mtel International.

"We are delighted that Bill Crawley has decided to join Mtel International," said Alexander H. Good, president of Mtel International. "Bill has the talents and long-term international experience to find and enter new markets for Mtel International in Asia."

Most recently, Crawley was International Regional Director for GTE- Hawaiian Tel (Asia) based in Honolulu, Hawaii where he was successful in winning several major telecommunications projects and positioning the company in Japan and Taiwan.

Previously, Crawley was a vice president of Rolm-IBM, Japan K.K. and from 1980-1986 was responsible for and managed their Tokyo office. During his tenure with Rolm-IBM, he developed the market entry plan for Japan, located and trained a 65-person distribution and support team, negotiated telecoms equipment type approvals with Nippon Telegraph & Telephone Corp. (NTT) and sold the first major computerized telephone reservations system to Japan Airlines.

Mtel is actively developing a global messaging network. In November 1989, the company signed an agreement with Singapore Telecom International Pte. Ltd. (STI) to provide local and international messaging services in Singapore and other parts of the Asia-Pacific region. More recently, the company formed the subsidiary Mtel (U.K.) Ltd., following the December 1989 acquisition of MobileComm Europe, Inc., a London-based company primarily involved in paging. Mtel also has a joint venture interest in a nationwide paging company in Thailand.

Mtel, headquartered in Jackson, Miss., is engaged in businesses that include nationwide paging and voice messaging services in the United States; nationwide paging services and paging system manufacturing in the U.K.; interests in other satellite-based telecommunications systems; air-to-ground and marine telecommunication systems; telephone answering service operations; and a digital microwave system serving southern California.

NEW YORK (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Mizlou Communications Company, Inc. (NASDAQ: MZLUL, MZLU) today reported that it had reached a preliminary understanding for the sale of its Sports News Network (SNN) and certain related assets to Landmark Communications Inc. and TeleCable Corporation or their affiliates.

The proposed transaction calls for an initial cash payment of $7 million at closing, deferred payments of $1.5 million payable in equal annual installments over five years and contingent payments, if any, up to $25 million based on SNN's 1995 revenues. The acquiror would also assume SNN's studio equipment leases, transponder lease, and certain other ongoing obligations, but not real estate leases. If the transaction is consummated the initial purchase price would be used to pay accrued liabilities and outstanding indebtedness.

The transaction is subject to negotiation and execution of definitive agreements, approval by the boards of directors of the acquiror and Mizlou, Mizlou shareholder approval and various other conditions to closing. If definitive agreements are executed, the acquiror would also lend up to $1.5 million to fund operating expenses pending the closing, subject to the acquiror's receipt from certain existing lenders of letters of credit for $1 million.

WASHINGTON (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - The Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC) will seek recoveries of approximately $700 million in claims against Continental Airlines Holdings (AMEX: CTA) and its subsidiaries on behalf of the federal insurance program, workers and retirees. The claims represent the underfunding of seven Eastern Air Lines pension plans for which Continental is responsible.

The PBGC terminated Eastern's pension plans in October, following an agreement reached in September with Continental for funding of the pension liability. Under the agreement, Continental had agreed to fully fund Eastern's pension plans over 12 years. That agreement was contingent upon Continental providing sufficient collateral to assure the security of the pensions.

PBGC and Continental were unable to reach agreement on an adequate collateral package because of changed circumstances including the effect of oil prices on the airline industry. Consequently, the settlement is now void. An agreement reached at the same time with Eastern Air Lines and Eastern's creditors is unaffected.

"In months of negotiation with Continental, the parent company for Eastern Airlines, PBGC sought full funding of the pension plans to protect the full benefits of workers and retirees and to avoid any loss to the insurance fund. Despite our best efforts, that result is no longer possible," said James B. Lockhart, PBGC executive director.

"PBGC continues to protect and pay basic retirement benefits to Eastern's workers and retirees up to limits set in law, and we will aggressively seek recoveries in court to pay benefits that are not federally guaranteed and to reduce our losses," he said.

PBGC guarantees basic pension benefits up to $2,164.77 per month. Certain benefits, such as early retirement supplements and benefits for post-termination death or disability, are not guaranteed. Health benefits are also not federally guaranteed. Except for highly paid workers, most participants in the Eastern plans will receive full pension plan benefits.

Changes to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act in 1987 provided additional protection for pension benefits not guaranteed by the PBGC. In addition to guaranteed benefits, PBGC will pay workers and retirees with non-guaranteed benefits a portion of every dollar recovered through the bankruptcy proceeding.

The PBGC will submit claims in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Wilmington, Del. By law, PBGC has a priority claim for pension underfunding equal to 30 percent of the combined net worth of a company and its affiliates and a general unsecured claim for the remainder against each member of the corporate group. Separately, PBGC will receive a part of the pension liability from Eastern Airlines escrow funds and an unsecured claim in that airline's bankruptcy.

CHICAGO (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Illinois Central Corp. (NASDAQ: ICRR), a railroad holding company headquartered in Chicago, announced today that it has proposed to the board of directors of MidSouth Corp., a railroad holding company based in Jackson, Miss., a transaction in which Illinois Central would acquire all of the outstanding shares of common stock of MidSouth in exchange for newly registered shares of common stock of Illinois Central.

According to the proposal, MidSouth shareholders would receive Illinois Central's common stock with a market value of $6.60 in return for each share of MidSouth common stock held by them, subject to the limitation that MidSouth shareholders would be entitled to receive no less than 0.5 shares nor more than 0.6 shares of Illinois Central's common stock for each share of MidSouth common stock held.

The exact exchange ratio would be determined based on the average closing price for the Illinois Central common stock during the twenty trading day period prior to the closing of a merger.

Based upon the number of shares of MidSouth common stock currently outstanding the proposal would result in the issuance of approximately 3.7 million to 4.4 million additional shares of Illinois Central's common stock, which would represent approximately 15.4 percent to 18.4 percent of Illinois Central's currently outstanding shares. The offering would be made only by prospectus and would not be anticipated earlier than this summer.

The proposal is conditioned upon execution of a definitive merger agreement mutually satisfactory to the parties, the receipt of required shareholder and regulatory approvals, including approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission and satisfaction of other customary conditions.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Unocal (NYSE: UCL) has strengthened its California oil reserve position offshore and in the San Joaquin Valley through a two-part transaction with Oryx Energy Company that was announced today.

Offshore Carpinteria, Unocal acquired a 42.5 percent interest in a producing lease with two offshore platforms, Henry and Hillhouse, which Unocal will operate. The company also acquired interests in seven other offshore blocks. Unocal will pay Oryx $15.9 million for these offshore properties.

Unocal will also acquire from Oryx a 100 percent interest in two producing properties in the Cymric field in Kern County, and an interest in a lease in South Mountain field near Santa Paula in Ventura County in exchange for its interest in a gas field in southeastern New Mexico.

The net gain in production for Unocal will be about 2,500 barrels of oil per day. Net reserves are estimated to be increased by about 11 million barrels.

Platforms Hillhouse and Henry lie next to Unocal production facilities in the Dos Cuadras field, where the company operates three platforms. As a result of this transaction, Unocal now operates 11 platforms offshore California.

The property acquired in Kern County is adjacent to Unocal production facilities in Cymric field.

PHILADELPHIA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - They are a unlikely looking bunch of elves as they hustle back and forth between the huge pile of Christmas gifts in the back of the Boeing cafeteria and the large cardboard boxes sitting on the floor nearby.

Thirty-four Boeing Helicopters and Boeing Computer Services employees gathered here on a Saturday, to sort, label and pack 20,000 pounds of Christmas gifts for the U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia.

Nora Kogut, chairperson of the hardy volunteers, explained all the activity: "We want the men and women to know that they have lots of friends at Boeing Helicopters and that we think enough of them and their mission to want to be a small part of it."

The busy packers are part of an organization known as the Boeing Employee Community Outreach Program that keeps Boeing personnel involved year-round in projects aimed at helping people who need assistance of one sort or another.

"We give what we can, whether it is money, toys, personal attention or in-kind donations," said Joanne Huggard, manager, Community Relations. "Nora and I, together with some of the committee, came up with this as an idea that couldn't be more timely.

"We only had two and a half weeks to get it all together, but with the cooperation of all the departments and the generosity of our employees and many local businesses, we were able to gather enough material to fill 33 skids to send overseas." (A skid is a low platform on which materials are arranged for shipping. The ones used in this operation are 55-inches-by-41-inches-by-40-inches.)

Boeing shouldered all costs for delivering the gifts to the troops. Kogut said they should arrive just in time for the holiday.

HARRINGTON PARK, NJ (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Rivervale Realty Company, a subsidiary of United Water Resources (NYSE: UWR), consummated the sale on Nov. 29 of a 223-acre tract of undeveloped property in Orangetown, N.Y., to Manhattan Woods Corp.

Manhattan Woods Corp. plans to build an 18-hole championship style golf course covering approximately 200 acres of the site. Rivervale Realty is continuing to work with Manhattan Woods in obtaining the necessary approvals for its development plan.

"Despite the generally soft nature of the real estate market," said United Water Chairman Robert A. Gerber, "Rivervale Realty has found a great deal of interest in its properties in the specialized golf course and upscale housing corners of the market." The chairman said the sale is expected to add significantly to United Water's fourth-quarter 1990 earnings.

Rivervale recently sold 123 acres of golf course property in Oradell and Emerson, N.J., and has contracts for the sale of about 74 golf course acres in Haworth. A 160-acre Rivervale Realty property in Emerson is under contract for sale to a golf course developer, pending New Jersey regulatory measures that will permit its development as a country club.

The Orangetown property was purchased in 1927. Rivervale Realty Company owns about 1,000 acres of property in northern New Jersey and southern New York.

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Chevron Corp. today announced that its Australian unit, Chevron Asiatic Ltd., will relinquish four offshore exploration permits located in Australia's Great Barrier Reef Marine Park.

Ray Wilcox, managing director for Chevron Asiatic, made the announcement in Melbourne, noting that this action is a result of discussions that began in May between Chevron and the Australian government.

"By relinquishing these permits and cooperating with the Australian government on this sensitive issue, we reaffirm Chevron's position as an environmentally responsible company," said Richard Matzke, president of Chevron Overseas Petroleum Inc., in a joint announcement made in San Francisco.

Chevron Overseas is the U.S.-based unit of Chevron Corp. devoted to exploration and production of crude oil and natural gas reserves outside the United States and Canada.

"We appreciate the position of the Australian government and respect the importance of protecting the Great Barrier Reef," Matzke continued. "We are also confident - based on our exemplary record of oil exploration and development in Australia and elsewhere in the world - that the permits could have been explored safely and in an environmentally responsible manner," Matzke said. "The considerations in this case, however, have lead to a mutual agreement of surrender," he noted.

Matzke pointed out that the crisis in the Middle East has again demonstrated the importance of developing additional reserves in non-OPEC countries, where such can be done in an environmentally safe manner.

Permits Q/4P, Q/5P, Q/6P and Q/7P, known as the "Queensland Permits," cover more than 30.5 million acres offshore Queensland on the eastern coast of Australia. Since acquiring the acreage in 1963, 5,000 kilometers of seismic evaluation were acquired. Only two wells, Capricorn and Aquarius, were drilled (1968).

Exploration was suspended in the permit areas in 1971, pending findings of a government study to determine the effects of drilling in the waters near the Great Barrier Reef. Following the passage of the Great Barrier Reef Marine Park Authority Act of 1975, exploration was prohibited within the Marine Park. The deepwater troughs adjacent to the Great Barrier Reef historically have been viewed as having a high potential for hydrocarbon reserves.

"An essential adjunct to any long-term acreage acquisition is the premise that government policy relating to those areas will remain consistent. The actions to relinquish these permits do represent a change to the original intent of the parties," Matzke pointed out, noting that the changes in policy are a result of the increasingly delicate balance between environmental concerns and energy needs.

RED BANK, NJ (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Hovnanian Enterprises, Inc. (AMEX: HOV) today announced wide-ranging, more aggressive corporate initiatives in response to weaker residential real estate markets.

The initiatives include deeply discounted home prices and auction sales on certain inventory of homes built but unsold in Florida, New Hampshire and New York -- offering consumers "truly exceptional homebuying values," according to Hovnanian, while enabling the company to better position itself for the future.

In turn, the company is writing-down the inventory to be sold off and certain other assets to reflect the deep price discounts that will be offered to facilitate quick sales. The non-cash, asset write-downs total $19 million pretax, or approximately $14 million after taxes, and will be charged to results for the fiscal third quarter ended Nov. 30, 1990, the company said. It added that implementation of the initiatives will allow Hovnanian to increase cash flows, receive tax benefits and reduce interest costs.

Hovnanian's core market of New Jersey remains solidly profitable, but the company only expects minimal consolidated profits before write- downs this fiscal year, which ends Feb. 28, 1991. After the non-cash write-downs, management estimates a net loss for the year of between $13 million and $14 million, or $.63 to $.68 a share.

The company said that, because the write-downs are all charged to the third quarter, that period will show a net loss. However, management added it expects its fourth quarter to be profitable and to report a small profit before write-downs for the year. Given the looming recession, it said that a return to net earnings may not be feasible until fiscal 1993, which commences March 1, 1992.

Despite the current pressures, Hovnanian's core New Jersey market is expected to continue to be solidly profitable for the company, though profit margins for that division are today lower than during the 1980s housing boom. In fact Hovnanian said it is going ahead with a number of new developments and land-option programs in the Garden State.

Hovnanian's financial condition will benefit from increased cash flows stemming from the sale of inventories written down in the third quarter, further aiding the company's strategic debt-management plan. "Fortunately, our company has always tried to maintain a conservative policy on leverage," Hovnanian said. He pointed out that only $150 million of the company's $218 million revolving bank line is currently utilized. Its strategic liquidation of inventories should further reduce Hovnanian's average short-term debt.

Even after the write-downs, the company reported its stockholders' equity will be in excess of $125 million, or approximately $6 per share.

Hovnanian Enterprises has been a leader in building high-quality, affordable priced homes since the company's inception in 1959.

CALABASAS, CA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Lockheed Corp. (NYSE: LK) today announced that its board of directors has elected four new outside directors, fulfilling a commitment made earlier this year to elect up to three new board members.

The corporation also announced that after careful consideration its board unanimously determined that pursuit of the tentative acquisition proposal of investor Harold Simmons is not in the best interests of the corporation or its shareholders and, therefore, voted to reject it. In rejecting the highly conditional proposal, the board focused primarily on the feasibility of the concept and the major business disruptions that pursuing it would entail.

The new Lockheed directors, selected from a list of candidates developed with suggestions from institutional investors, are:

Robert G. Kirby, 65, chairman of the board of Capital Guardian Trust Co. in Los Angeles;

Frank Savage, 52, senior vice president of The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States and vice chairman of the Equitable Capital Management Corp., New York;

Adm. Carlisle A. H. Trost (Ret.), 60, former chief of naval operations, Washington, D.C.;

Douglas C. Yearley, 54, chairman and chief executive officer of Phelps Dodge Corp., Phoenix.

In a letter expressing the board's decision to reject Simmons' proposal, Tellep cited "serious doubt about the ability to raise the funds necessary to complete the transaction." Tellep noted that the proposal depends on equity contributions based in part on borrowings against, or the sale of, unidentified assets that Simmons controls.

Lockheed is a world leader in defense and space systems technology, designing and producing missiles, communications and surveillance satellites, and military aircraft, as well as providing a wide range of aeronautical, space, environmental and engineering services. In the first nine months of 1990, Lockheed had net earnings of $236 million, or $3.73 per share, up from $111 million, or $1.78 per share, in the comparable period of 1989. Sales through Sept. 30, 1990, were nearly $7 billion.

FORT WORTH, TX (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - EmTech Environmental Services Inc. has announced a joint venture arrangement with Alpha Environmental Inc. to offer bioremediation services in the event of oil spills. Bioremediation is an innovative process that uses oil-eating microbes to break down the oil into harmless by-products.

Through the new alliance, EmTech will manage and staff bioremediation projects with Alpha providing the oil-eating microbes and technology for application. Plans are to handle bioremediation projects throughout North America as well as in select areas overseas.

According to EmTech President Kirk Blackmon, EmTech uses OSHA-trained and certified remediation workers for emergency incidents. In addition to emergency response and remediation, EmTech specializes in environmental consulting and the cleanup of hazardous waste materials on a nationwide basis.

EmTech and Alpha first worked as a team last July, as part of the first approved large-scale open water bioremediation effort. The United States Coast Guard and the State of Texas contracted the two companies to use bioremediation to clean up a massive oil spill in Galveston Bay, located at the mouth of the Houston channel.

EmTech and Alpha were selected for the project after conventional methods failed to solve the problem.

The EmTech-Alpha effort was successful, with 85 percent of the spilled oil remediated using Alpha's oil-eating microbes.

Popular Science also recently named Alpha's oil-eating microbes among the top 100 greatest achievements in science and technology during 1990.

EmTech Environmental Services Inc., a leader in environmental consulting, remedial action and emergency response, was established in Fort Worth in 1987. A Houston office ws opened in 1989.

Alpha Environmental Inc. was formed in 1985 for the purpose of researching and developing microbial technologies for the bioremediation of oil spills, the management of solid and liquid waste, and the demanufacturing of toxic and hazardous substances.

INGLEWOOD, CALIF (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Teletrac, a provider of vehicle location services, today inaugurated the first of three new services designed to locate and track vehicles in the Los Angeles basin.

Corporate Vehicle Locator Service is the first fleet management tool designed to provide fleet owners an affordable, 24-hour monitoring service with an accuracy of 100 feet. With a coverage area spanning over 3,000 square miles throughout Greater Los Angeles, Corporate Vehicle Locator Service will offer greater control over route planning, scheduling and dispatching.

Designed for Fleets of All Sizes Corporate Vehicle Locator Service has been developed for corporations, public safety and private organizations with a need to locate vehicles locally and regionally. In a six month pilot program conducted earlier this year by Teletrac, organizations with fleets of all sizes, including the Los Angeles County Sheriff, PrimeTime Shuttle, Chase Couriers and the Los Angeles County Office of Education, used the service to streamline dispatch operations and reduce fleet operation costs. Currently, Teletrac Corporate Vehicle Locator Service is being used by 25 fleets in Greater Los Angeles, with over 350 vehicles now equipped with vehicle locator units (VLU).

According to Steve Hamile, president and chief executive officer of Chase Couriers, Teletrac's Corporate Vehicle Locator Service has improved the company's productivity and helped to increase its customer base. "In just four months, Corporate Vehicle Locator Service has helped reduce the number of drivers needed to meet customer delivery demands. Our scheduling is much more efficient, and our customer service queries have also been substantially reduced."

Corporate Vehicle Locator Service is powered by Teletrac's vehicle location system, a system of sophisticated paging and receiving antennas that operates on its own radio frequencies.

LOS ANGELES (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - First Executive Corp. (NASDAQ: FEXC), a life insurance holding company, today announced plans to restructure its senior debt obligations. The company has reached a preliminary understanding with a representative of its banks and certain noteholders regarding certain of the terms of a proposed restructuring of First Executive's existing $275 million senior debt obligations. Based upon a final agreement, First Executive and the representative will, in the future, seek acceptance of the proposed terms by all holders of the First Executive senior debt.

The preliminary understanding contemplates, among other things, (a) a $30 million pro rata cash payment to those holders participating in the restructuring, (b) the issuance of $245 million of New Notes which will come due in equal installments in each of 1996, 1997 and 1998, (c) an increase in the current interest rate to 9.5 percent payable quarterly in a combination of cash (approximately 6 percent) and additional New Notes due in 1998 (approximately 3.5 percent), (d) a pledge of certain assets of First Executive as security, (e) an offer to the banks and noteholders to exchange certain real estate investments of First Executive for cancellation of a portion of the senior debt obligations, (f) mandatory principal prepayments in certain events and (g) new and broader than existing covenant restrictions on certain operations, including a prohibition of the payment of any dividends on, or redemptions of, First Executive's outstanding capital stock, including its Series E, F, G and H preferred stocks.

Partly in consequence, the board of directors of First Executive has determined not to declare the current regular quarterly dividends on its outstanding preferred stocks. With respect to its outstanding preferred stocks, First Executive has filed preliminary proxy materials with the Securities and Exchange Commission relating to a possible restructuring of its existing preferred stock obligations. Assuming that the negotiations regarding the restructuring of the senior debt obligations continue to progress and that other conditions permit, First Executive anticipates that such proxy materials may be available in final form as early as Dec. 31, 1990.

There is no assurance that any final agreement to amend or restructure First Executive's senior debt obligations will be reached or completed or that any restructuring of the existing preferred stock obligations will be proposed or completed.

This announcement shall not be deemed an offer of any securities for sale. The restructuring will only be conducted by means of a prospectus or other offering materials.

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Advanced Gravis Computer Technology Ltd. ("Advanced Gravis"), a British Columbia company, announced today that it has finalized a private placement with Logitech International S.A. ("Logitech"), a Swiss corporation. The private placement consists of a three year $840,000 CDN debenture convertible into 1,500,000 common shares of Advanced Gravis and a warrant to purchase up to 1,500,000 common shares of Advanced Gravis at $0.70 CDN per share. The debenture bears interest at 12 percent per annum, payable quarterly and is convertible at any time prior to maturity, in whole or in part, at Logitech's option.

The common shares underlying this debenture and warrants represent 34 percent of Advanced Gravis on a fully diluted basis and if converted and exercised would make Logitech the single largest shareholder. Logitech has acquired this interest in Advanced Gravis for investment purposes only. However, Logitech may in the future consider other alternatives, including acquiring or disposing of Advanced Gravis securities either through open market purchases or disposing of Advanced Gravis securities either through open purchases or privately negotiated transactions. Advanced Gravis has given Logitech a first right of refusal to purchase any further securities to be issued by Gravis as long as the debenture is still outstanding or if Logitech holds at least 500,000 shares in Advanced Gravis. The board of Advanced Gravis has also agreed to appoint a nominee of Logitech as an additional director.

Proceeds from this private placement have been used to supplement working capital and have created Advanced Gravis' first term debt.

Founded in 1981, Logitech designs, manufactures, and markets desktop tools -- hardware and software products that enhance individual productivity and creativity. The largest manufacturer of computer "mice" in the world, and the leading U.S. manufacturer of hand-held scanners, Logitech maintains manufacturing facilities in Fremont, California; Hsinchu, Taiwan; and Cork, Ireland; and sales offices in major cities in the U.S. Europe and the Far East. During fiscal year 1990, which ended March 31 of this year, Logitech posted a net income of US $8.8 million based on consolidated worldwide revenues of US $111.3 million.

Advanced Gravis designs, manufactures and markets high-quality microcomputer input devices, including the Gravis analog and switch joysticks and an optical MouseStick, for the IBM PC, Tandy and Apple platforms, as well as input devices for Nintendo, Amiga and Atari machines, and the Hardpac line of portable hard disk drives.

"Gravis welcomes Logitech's investment," says Gravis president and chief executive officer, Grant Russell. "This partnering will bring expertise and synergies in many areas, including manufacturing, R & D, and marketing. Our combined potential is very promising."

Advanced Gravis' working capital position is now significantly improved and has allowed the Company the opportunity to meet the strong fall demand for its products. It is hoped by management that this capital injection together with numerous cost reduction programs announced previously will ensure Advanced Gravis' return to profitability and growth.

LYNNWOOD, WASH. (DEC. 4) PR NEWSWIRE - More than $62,000 is on the way from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to Washington residents seriously affected by the recent floods. The federal checks are grants to provide emergency temporary housing for persons whose residences are uninhabitable due to the floods.

Joan Hodgins, federal coordinating officer, and Kate Heimbach, state coordinating officer, today announced that the Federal Emergency Management Agency has issued 52 checks, totalling $62,115 since President Bush declared the first three Washington counties flood disaster areas Nov. 26.

These temporary housing assistance checks are granted either to pay rent for those whose residences were rendered uninhabitable by the flood or to pay for repairs to make homes safe and habitable.

ZURICH, SWITZERLAND (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Harrier, Inc. (NASDAQ: HARE) today reported a net loss of $415,363 on sales of $404,605 in the fiscal first quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, compared with a net loss of $603,649 on sales of $27,733 in the corresponding three months a year ago.

In its Form 10-Q report filed with the securities and exchange commission, the company noted that the loss for the recent quarter was principally attributable to an increase in total salaries resulting from the addition of new employees, increased patent costs, and substantially higher general and administrative expenses related to the company's increased marketing efforts. Offsetting the impact of such increased operating expenses was the initial payment on the sale of a 25 percent interest in the company's Diesel Cleaner subsidiary and a $146,667 foreign exchange gain.

Management said it believed that continued sales of its Bioptron(R) Lamp and the shipment of initial production units of the Harrier Diesel Cleaner(R), combined with planned reductions in overhead, would result in a positive cash flow in the future.

The company further reported that it is currently in discussion with several large U.S. companies regarding U.S. and foreign manufacturing and distribution rights to the Harrier Diesel Cleaner, a proprietary product that significantly reduces harmful emissions generated by diesel engines.

The company reported the following comparative results for the quarter:

DEARBORN, MI (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Ford Motor Company (NYSE: F) will play an active role in a new effort by the North American automotive and steel industries to improve training for employees in the stamping industry.

That effort is being undertaken by a unique partnership of businesses, organized labor and government agencies from both the United States and Canada. Together, the groups have founded the North American Auto/Steel Curriculum Research Foundation (NAASCRF).

NAASCRF will study current education and training programs related to stamping technology and define a comprehensive program to enhance the skills of stamping industry employees.

Roman J. Krygier, stamping operations manager for Ford's Body and Assembly Operations, said, "On an industry-wide basis, about 50 percent of current stamping employees will be eligible for retirement within the next five years, and the employees who will replace them just don't have equal skills. We have to upgrade skills for those replacement workers, and we have to do it quickly."

Krygier estimates that between $25 billion and $30 billion will be invested industry-wide in stamping and related technologies over the next five years, including the continuing introduction of high- technology press lines and other automation. The full potential of that investment cannot be realized without a well-trained and educated work force.

"There's a very obvious need to develop a new, comprehensive curriculum for the stamping industry," Krygier added. "Most existing training programs were developed on a very fragmented basis and simply don't meet our future needs.

"This isn't a problem that affects only Ford, or only the auto industry. It's a concern for everyone who's involved in the stamping industry. That's why this approach -- government and private industry, business and labor, U.S. and Canada -- is so important. It brings all the major players together at the same time to address common needs."

Ford has been actively involved in stamping training for several years. The formation of NAASCRF will provide Ford and other companies with a mechanism to evaluate the effectiveness of their training and to build on the work the individual organizations already have done.

PHILADELPHIA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Philadelphia Electric Co. (NYSE: PE) said today it has entered into a joint petition for settlement of all appeals arising from the April, 1990 decision of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission (PUC) on PE's requested rate increase to recover the costs of owning and operating Unit 2 at the Limerick Generating Station.

The appeals followed the disallowance by the PUC of $307 million of PE's $549 million Limerick 2 rate increase request, including $106 million disallowed through a finding that 399 megawatts (mw) of company generation represented excess capacity.

The agreement was reached with the Office of Consumer Advocate (OCA), and other intervenors who opposed PE's rate request.

As part of the settlement, which was submitted today to the PUC for approval, PE and the OCA would agree to withdraw their appeals of the Limerick 2 rate decision.

Also, subject to the conditions contained in the settlement, PE would not file a request for another base rate increase before April, 1994, which would be almost five years since its last filing.

In return, upon final approval of the settlement, PE would have the opportunity to sell to other utilities up to 399 mw of the electric capacity found by the commission to be excess.

Furthermore, beginning in April, 1994, PE would be allowed to keep 16.5 percent of energy cost savings from the operation of Limerick 1 and 2, with customers receiving 83.5 percent.

PE customers would receive all proceeds from these two provisions in excess of $106 million per year through 1994 and share in the excess thereafter.

The agreement also facilitates consensus among the major parties including the Philadelphia Area Industrial Energy Users Group (PAIEUG) on issues affecting PE's Customer Assistance Program (CAP) for low- income customers and the company's conservation programs.

As part of the settlement, the company would agree to form advisory committees including the parties who challenged the rate increase, to evaluate PE's CAP operations and to advise the company on the continuing development of its conservation and other Demand-Side Management (DSM) programs.

SALEM, N.H. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Hadco Corporation (NASDAQ: HDCO) today announced that net income for the fiscal year ending Oct. 27, 1990, was $7.7 million, or 65 cents per share, up 59.7 percent from $4.8 million, or 40 cents per share, for fiscal 1989. Net sales were $161.0 million for fiscal 1990, up 3.3 percent from fiscal 1989's $155.8 million.

Net income for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1990 was $2.3 million or 20 cents per share as compared to $2.3 million or 19 cents per share for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1989. Net sales for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1990 were $40.3 million as compared to $42.5 million for the same period a year ago.

Bookings for the year were $156.2 million down from $162.0 million in fiscal 1989. Total backlog at year-end was $22.8 million down from $27.7 million at the end of fiscal 1989.

Jon Kropper, president and chief executive officer, stated, "We are very pleased with our performance in fiscal 1990. Gross margins continued to improve despite pressure on pricing, a tribute to improved manufacturing efficiency. Return on average equity was 16.7 percent for fiscal 1990.

"Bookings and backlog reflect the current softness in the electronics industry and the general uncertainty in the economy. Our 90-day backlog showed however only a modest decline from last year. Backlog due within the first 90 days of fiscal 1991 was $21.2 million as compared to $22.5 million due in the first 90 days of fiscal 1990. The decrease in total backlog and the relative strength of the short-term, 90-day backlog suggests our customers are pursuing a conservative procurement and inventory strategy. Hadco remains positioned to respond rapidly when demand for our customer's products accelerates.

"Hadco has excellent cash flow. Cash flow from operations exceeded $20.7 million in fiscal 1990. This cash was used to purchase $11.4 million of new capital, reduce our debt by $4.3 million, and repurchase $4.3 million of our outstanding shares. We ended the year with $20.7 million in cash, cash equivalents, and short-term investments. Cash balances have grown even as the company has invested, on average, 8 percent of revenue on new capital over the last five years.

"We plan to adhere to the strategies that served us well in the past revising them as needed. We plan to continue to make key investments in capital and people even in times of weak demand. These investments are dedicated to one thing -- continuous improvement in customer satisfaction.

"We thank our employees for their talents, energy and continuing dedication to our goals. Their commitment is the primary cause of our past and future success."

Hadco is the largest independent manufacturer of dense double-sided and multilayer printed circuits, serving customers in the computer, telecommunications, industrial automation and instrumentation industries. The company also manufactures backplanes for electronic interconnect systems. It operates six facilities in the United States.

ARLINGTON, VA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - USAir Express has announced that beginning Jan. 8 it will provide nonstop service between New Haven, Conn., and Washington's National Airport.

USAir Express, operated by Henson Aviation, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of USAir Group, Inc. (NYSE: U), will offer one nonstop flight to Washington National. It will depart New Haven daily at 5:15 p.m. arriving Washington National at 6:50 p.m.

From Washington National Airport, USAir Express will depart daily at 3:20 p.m. arriving New Haven at 4:55 p.m. This new service will be operated with 37-passenger, Boeing DASH-8 jet-prop aircraft.

"This new nonstop service will provide additional flight options for New Haven area travelers," said John Leonard, president and CEO of Henson Aviation, Inc. "Coupled with our existing one-stop and connecting service to Washington National via Baltimore or Philadelphia, these two segments help meet a growing need in the marketplace for USAir Express service to our nation's capital."

USAir credited the participation of local community leaders in presenting marketing information that helped the airline make the decision to offer this nonstop service from New Haven.

"This is a significant achievement for the Greater New Haven Chamber of Commerce's Air Service Development Group," said Chamber Chairman of the Board Richard G. Bell, partner with Tyler Cooper and Alcorn.

"Washington, D.C. is one of the top destinations for New Haven area travelers and this USAir Express link is of vital importance to our business and academic communities," he noted.

New Haven Mayor John Daniels said: "This is an important step for New Haven's air service improvement program with no adverse effects on the surrounding neighborhood. USAir Express' commitment to New Haven is a sure sign of our city's continued economic vitality."

USAir Express currently offers New Haven area travelers two daily nonstop flights to Baltimore/Washington International Airport and four daily nonstop flights to Philadelphia.

Both airports are major USAir connecting hubs, offering passengers hundreds of daily flights to the West Coast, Florida, Southeastern United States, the Midwest, San Juan, the Bahamas, and Bermuda. Beginning in April 1991 USAir will begin daily nonstop service to Paris, France, from Philadelphia.

BUENA PARK, CA (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Con-Way Western Express has opened seven new service centers in Southern California in an expansion of its regional overnight trucking network serving California, Arizona, and Nevada.

With the expansion, CWX has doubled its facilities in Los Angeles and Orange counties, and added three new satellite locations northeast of Los Angeles. The new service centers are in Long Beach, Irvine, Santa Ana and Foothill (Irwindale). Satellite locations opened in Bishop, Mojave, and Ridgecrest.

"These new centers increase our capacity, while providing better coverage in Southern California with a more efficient operation," said George C. Reid, president of CWX.

"We've seen continuing growth in demand for overnight freight service, particularly from companies with 'just-in-time' manufacturing and retailing operations. This expansion positions us to handle that growth and continue to provide the 98 percent on-time delivery performance required by the market." The new facilities will also alleviate some of the impact of L.A. basin traffic congestion on the company's operations, Reid said.

"With seven service centers in the basin - more than any other California regional trucking company - we can serve more customers with earlier morning deliveries and pick-ups later in the day," Reid explained. "We're now closer to many of our Orange County and Eastern L.A. customers, which means shorter travel times and fewer miles on our local equipment.

"Perhaps the biggest impact of the new centers," Reid continued, "is that we'll reduce the time our drivers spend on the freeways in rush-hour traffic. This expansion is part of our overall business plan to grow in the market and build efficiencies into our network, yet be attentive to community concerns about traffic, congestion, and air quality."

CWX, which specializes in next-day delivery of commercial and industrial shipments, now operates 43 service centers throughout its three-state network. Previously, CWX served the Los Angeles basin area from centers in Santa Fe Springs, downtown Los Angeles, and Anaheim.

CWX is one of four Con-Way regional next-day carriers operated by Con-Way Transportation Services (CTS), Palo Alto, Calif. CTS' three other regional carriers are: Con-Way Central Express, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Con-Way Southern Express, Charlotte, N.C., and Con-Way Southwest Express, Dallas. CTS also operates CF Truckload Service and CF Ocean Service, both based in Fort Worth, Texas.

NEW YORK (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - After three decades of delighting girls from New York to New Delhi, the world's most adored doll is making a December debut in two new Marvel comic books in time for the holidays.

"Barbie" and "Barbie Fashion," both monthly publications based on the internationally renowned doll from Mattel Toys, will showcase Barbie and her coterie of famous friends - including Ken - in original stories and special features such as fashion and exercise tips.

Many issues will also contain reports from the Barbie Children's Summit, a forum held in New York in November which brought together 40 children from 28 countries to exchange ideas about how to make the world a better place.

Assigned to the task of bringing the adventures of Barbie and her friends to life in the pages of Marvel Comics are a roster of writers and artists who are personally versed in the Barbie mystique. Writers are Lisa Trusiani, and Barbara Slate; artists include Anna-Marie Cool, Amanda Conner, June Brigman, and Mary Wilshire.

Since her first appearance at Toy Fair in March 1959, Barbie has been the undisputed leader of the fashion doll world, winning the hearts of girls in some 70 countries. Barbie's extensive wardrobe, which includes her own Bob Mackie original, is comprised of more than 6,000 fashions which utilize more than 75 million yards of fabric.

Over the years, Barbie has tried her hand at a wide spectrum of careers including astronaut, aerobics instructor, ballerina, business executive, television reporter, and teacher, and she has demonstrated equal versatility in her range of hobbies.

Today Barbie enjoys not only the affection of myriad young fans but also that of thousands of adult collectors who are united by clubs, conventions, and newsletters.

Premier issues of "Barbie" and "Barbie Fashion," available on newsstands, in comic book shops, in select bookstores, and by subscription, are packaged in special protective sleeves and contain free premiums such as Barbie doorknob hangers and Barbie Comics Readers Club wallet cards. Each issue is $1.00. "Barbie" and "Barbie Fashion" are trademarks owned by and used under license from Mattel, Inc. Copyright 1990 Mattel, Inc.

SAN FRANCISCO (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Plus System Inc. and Visa U.S.A. Inc. have agreed to provide each other's cardholders with access to all U.S.-based automated teller machines in their respective international networks, it was announced at the Bank Administration Institute's Retail Delivery Systems Conference in Anaheim, Calif.

This decision will ultimately add 14,000 domestic locations to the Visa International ATM Network, already the world's largest with over 60,000 machines worldwide. In addition, the PLUS NETWORK will gain 6,000 new locations in the United States. PLUS currently has 46,000 machines worldwide.

"By sharing all our network locations, we offer our cardholders greater convenience," said Wesley C. Tallman, Visa U.S.A executive vice president for debit systems. By participating in both networks, Tallman noted, financial institutions can generate increased volume from the 170 million PLUS cards issued as well as the more than 240 million Visa cards in circulation.

"We have made it as easy as possible for our members to share the networks," said D. Dale Browning, president of Plus System Inc. Browning explained that steps have already been taken to allow both PLUS and Visa members to access the respective networks with only minimal technical changes.

In addition, procedures are being standardized so that participants in either network have a common set of regulations governing their operation.

Under the terms of the dual-branding agreement, all domestic ATMs on either network will carry both a PLUS and a Visa decal. According to both organizations, this will make it easier for cardholders to locate network machines, where they can withdraw cash by using their Visa or PLUS card and a personal identification number. Transaction amounts are drawn automatically from the cardholders' accounts.

Founded in 1982, the Denver-based PLUS SYSTEM network last year processed 60 million transactions.

Visa, with more than 240 million cards issued and 8 million merchant locations is the world's largest consumer payments system.

BRIDGEPORT, CT (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - Wright Investors' Service has formed a joint venture with Disclosure Incorporated whereby Disclosure will market Worldscope(R), an international company database, developed by Wright, which covers more than 5,500 corporations in 25 countries.

Wright, headquartered here, is an independent financial publisher and investment advisory/management service with approximately $3.5 billion under management worldwide. With the addition of Worldscope, Disclosure will be the largest single source provider of domestic and international corporate information.

In making the joint announcement today, Peter Donovan, Wright president, and Steven Goldspiel, Disclosure president and CEO, said that Disclosure will market and distribute the full Worldscope product line through online information systems, compact disc (CD-ROM), magnetic tape lease and published periodicals.

According to Donovan, "We looked for a company with marketing muscle and expertise that would be able to market the high quality data we have in an effective, creative way, with the latest in technological developments, and concluded Disclosure was the one."

In 1988, Wright opened a global corporate research center in Shannon, Ireland, staffed with more than 60 international analysts to maintain and expand the Worldscope international corporate database.

The Worldscope database is the central information source for Wright's extensive financial services business. In addition to managing 28 domestic and international mutual funds, and the trust departments of 40 banks, Wright provides a variety of international financial advisory products and services.

"Today, CEOs, investment advisers and business executives operate in a business climate that is international," said Goldspiel. "Now we can provide them with all the pertinent data they need on domestic and international firms from one source."

Disclosure, the leading disseminator of public company information since 1968, provides information on 12,000 companies that file with the SEC through the Disclosure Database(R) that is marketed online, via magnetic tape lease and through COMPACT D/SEC, a CD-ROM product. Its LASER D/SEC, another CD-ROM product, provides actual images of SEC filings, including all graphics and photographs. Additional products provide information on international corporations in database or image form.

CLEVELAND (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - The Austin Company announced today that in collaboration with a Japanese firm it had been selected to design and engineer a cargo terminal complex at the new Kansai International Airport.

The island airport is under construction offshore in Osaka Bay. The construction value of the cargo complex is estimated at approximately U.S. $230,800,000 (Yen 30 billion).

Austin said its partner in the project was MHS Planners, Architects & Engineers of Tokyo.

The Austin/MHS consortium will be responsible for designing a 100,000-square-meter (1,300,000-square-foot) facility that will include separate international and domestic cargo buildings.

The facility will have provision for automated materials handling, storage and retrieval and will incorporate the latest technology for computer-controlled receiving and shipping.

The design phase of the project is expected to begin in January 1991 and completed by December 1991.

The Austin/MHS concept for the cargo complex was selected from among four proposals, two from all-Japanese teams and two from U.S./Japanese joint ventures.

This is the second major Japanese airport project to be awarded to The Austin Company in the last week.

On Nov. 29, Austin announced that together with MHS and Yamaoto/ Create Architects & Engineers of Tokyo it had been selected to design, engineer and administer the construction of the domestic and international passenger terminals at the new Hiroshima Airport. That project is estimated to cost U.S. $80 million.

The Austin Company has maintained an office in Japan for 17 years, and has completed more than 75 contracts for Japanese clients in the United States, Australia and Europe.

The Austin Company is an international organization of consultants, designers, engineers and constructors. Austin serves industrial, commercial, governmental and institutional markets. The company is headquartered in Cleveland, where it was founded in 1878.

COURBEVOIE, CEDEX, FRANCE (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - The Rhone-Poulenc Group (NYSE: RP Pr C, RP Pr A, RPU, RP WS) today announced its results for the first nine months of 1990.

During the first nine months of 1990, the Rhone-Poulenc Group has followed a strategy of recentralization and development on its strong points. Thus, the Rorer acquisition, concluded on July 31, 1990, allowed Rhone-Poulenc pharmaceuticals to figure among the top ten leaders in the pharmaceutical industry.

During the same period, the situation throughout the world has been difficult. This has been marked by a general slowdown in activities and by a decline in results.

The Rhone-Poulenc Group's results for the first nine months of the year reflects those difficulties. Consolidated sales reached FF 58.5 billion, an increase of 8.4 percent on the first nine months of 1989. On a comparable basis, sales have declined 6.7 percent, essentially due to the fluctuations in exchange rates. Operating income stood at FF 5.0 billion (-21.7 percent) and net income after tax and before payment of preferred shares stood at FF 1.97 billion (-47.2 percent). Net earnings per share amounted to FF 25.29 as against FF 61.20 in 1989.

Overall net income at the end of the fiscal year shall show a net decline when compared to that of 1989.

In 1991, the operating income should increase significantly on that of 1990. This improvement can be explained, notably, by a growth in the relative weight of "Life Sciences" (Health and Agro Sectors). These two sectors -- less sensitive to economic fluctuations -- will represent, in 1991, nearly half of the Group's sales and approximately two-thirds of its operating income.

Rhone-Poulenc S.A., an international chemical company ranking eighth worldwide concentrates its activities in three major areas: life sciences applied to man, animals, and plants; specialty chemicals, performance products and advanced materials; and major organic and inorganic intermediates. Rhone-Poulenc's preferred investment certificates trade in Paris and in the form of American Depositary Receipts on the New York Stock Exchange. The company operates in 140 countries and has 95,000 employees. Rhone-Poulenc's U.S. subsidiary, Rhone-Poulenc Inc., is headquartered in Princeton, N.J. In 1989, U.S. sales represented approximately 13 percent of overall Group sales.

LEXINGTON, MASS. (DEC. 3) PR NEWSWIRE - W. R. Grace & Co. (NYSE: GRA) has announced plans to expand its Lexington technical service and development facility in order to further the company's polymer technology for products ranging from ear plugs to a contraceptive sponge. The 1,100 square foot renovation is scheduled for completion by the end of this year.

The expansion of its Lexington research facility will provide Grace with the ability to create and expand upon the many uses of its innovative polymers -- liquid plastic materials which allow for the development of new and useful products.

Foam for the Future Grace develops and produces liquid plastic solutions (prepolymers) that are combined with water and other chemical compounds to form polymer foams, coatings and films. The research and development of both polymers and prepolymers is an area in which Grace has made tremendous strides.

Among its innovations, Grace's research staff developed a line of products called HYPOL in order to offer a polyurethane prepolymer that could be formed into end products by reacting with water alone -- eliminating the need for a variety of chemicals. As a result, HYPOL is an ideal polymer for a new class of foam-based products -- ranging from wound dressings to ear plugs, and perhaps even artificial human veins.

The uniqueness of the HYPOL family of prepolymers is its versatility and ability to adapt to a variety of end-uses. It is the only polymer of its type capable of accepting virtually unlimited amounts of water -- thereby totally changing its composition based upon the amount of liquid added. For instance, most polymer foams react with small amounts of water, but HYPOL prepolymers can accept large amounts -- even up to twice its total weight.

In addition, the materials can accept a wide variety of additives that can be mixed with water. Fragrances, fillers and dyes that cannot be used with conventional polyurethanes can be incorporated into HYPOL polymer foams. For example, manufacturers have found that HYPOL prepolymers provide them with the capability to produce colored and scented soap, filled sponges, peat moss containing agricultural/ horticultural growing media and active ingredient releasing medical and personal care foams and gels.

(DEC. 3) UPI - Federal investigators are looking into the cause of a deadly runway collision between two Northwest Airlines planes at Detroit airport. Investigators say it's took early to tell what happened, but there were two planes on the runway at the same time and that's NOT supposed to happen.

Authorities say the D-C-9 plane burst into flames when it was struck by the wing of the Boeing 727 on the fog-shrouded runway... killing eight people and injuring 21 others.

In Miami, hundreds of youths enraged at the acquittal of six policemen in the beating death of a Puerto Rican drug dealer went on a rampage tonight. Authorities say youths rioted in the predominately Hispanic Windwood section, burning buildings and cars and throwing rocks and bottles. No injuries are reported.

(DEC. 3) UPI - Trade ministers from 107 nations meet in Brussels, Belgium, Monday for the final week of a four-year round of talks in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. The talks' director says the closing days of the world trade talks pose a crucial political test because failure would ''let down'' the emerging democracies of Eastern Europe. Arthur Dunkel, director-general of the Geneva-based GATT, calls the final round ''an important political event.''

President Bush left Washington Sunday evening for Brazil... the first of five countries he will visit this week to celebrate the rebirth of democracy and free markets in Latin America. No major new proposals are expected to come out Bush's latest trip abroad. The president hopes to underscore his promise that the U-S interest in Latin America will not be sidetracked by dramatic political developments in Eastern Europe and the Middle East.

The orbiting Columbia astronauts are scheduled to begin aiming the shuttle's four-telescope payload at the heavens early Monday, looking for black holes, quasars and exploding suns. The experiments will give scientists their first detailed look at high-energy X-rays and ultraviolet light from deep space. Columbia blasted off from Cape Canaveral early Sunday, six months late because of crippling fuel leaks.

Also Sunday, a Soviet rocket streaked into space carrying a Japanese broadcaster, a chain smoker who quit cold turkey to be the first journalist in space. The mission is the first commercial attempt by the Soviet Glavkosmos space agency to launch cosmonauts for a fee after a decade of propaganda flights with cosmonauts from Communist or friendly countries.

There were NO reports of injuries Sunday after a United Airlines jetliner carrying the Washington Bullets and University of Utah basketball teams made an emergency landing at Denver's Stapleton Airport. The Boeing 737 lost power in one of its two engines after it left Baltimore Washington International Airport heading for its final destination of Salt Lake City. (DEC. 3) UPI - As the Iraqi government prepared for possible high-level talks with the United States its military forces stepped up their activity, testing missiles, digging tank traps, laying land mines and intensifying patrols.

Iraq test-fired Scud missiles inside Iraqi territory Sunday, reportedly putting U.S.-led military forces in a state of alert.

''The flight path of the missiles was away from the U.S. and coalition forces '' said a statement issued by U.S. military officials in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia. ''The firing appeared to be part of a rear or training mission.''

The statement said the surface-to-surface Scud missiles were fired within Iraq and landed in Iraqi territory Sunday, which marked the four- month anniversary of Baghdad's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait during an oil and border dispute.

''It's I think proof again, if anybody needed any, that he does in fact have ballistic missiles,'' Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said on ABC television's ''This Week with David Brinkley,'' adding the last time Iraq had test-fired the missiles was in April.

But Cheney said U.S. officials had no way to know if Saddam was trying to send a message to the United States.

The Soviet-made missiles, which have a range of 360 to 400 miles, can be used to carry chemical weapons, but Iraq has in the past used them with conventional high explosives, Cheney said.

Philippine workers returning from Iraq and occupied Kuwait reported stepped up activity among Iraqi troops.

''The Iraqis are all set for war,'' said Luis Agapon, 29, who worked in a supermarket in Kuwait before he joined the evacuation of Filipinos.

En route from Kuwait to the Iraqi port Basra, Agapon said he saw boys working side by side with soldiers in digging tank traps and placing land mines around the port of Basra. He also said he saw tanks, artillery and heavily fortified positions along the route.

''They were really fully prepared. Soldiers including volunteers were armed with AK-47 rifles. Many of them were always on the look out in their designated outposts,'' said Agapon.

''We were given warnings that the war may erupt any day,'' said Nova Galcid, a nurse at Al Jahra Hospital in Kuwait. ''We had no alternative but to go to Basra.''

She said ''tension was high and food was getting scarce,'' indicating a U.N. economic embargo was now being severely felt.

The British Broadcasting Corp. and Cairo radio said the U.S.-led multinational forces deployed in the region after the invasion of Kuwait were put on a state of alert early Sunday when intelligence reports warned of Iraqi missile activity.

Cairo radio said the state of alert was not of the highest level, but some troops were ordered to put on special suits that ward against chemical attack.

The U.S. military statement from Riyadh said, ''As a matter of longstanding policy, we never discuss alert status.''

It also did not say if troops, which include some 230,000 U.S. soldiers, donned gas masks or other chemical protective gear, saying, ''We do not discuss how our forces respond to Iraqi military activity.''

President Bush, who has indicated he will send 200,000 more troops to the region after the first of the year, last week offered direct talks with Iraq. His offer came after the United Nations set a Jan. 15 deadline for Iraq to leave Kuwait in a resolution authorizing force against Baghdad if necessary.

Saddam told French television in an interview broadcast Sunday that ''we will be closer to peace'' if Secretary of State James Baker - who is expected to visit Iraq under the offer - enters into a ''real dialogue'' with Baghdad.

''But if one wants to make of this meeting only a formal session to give the American Congress, the American people and international public opinion a good conscience, and to allow them to say they tried to talk with Iraq and that Iraq refused to give up its position, then in that case we are close to war,'' Saddam said.

Saddam said Saturday he would accept Bush's offer of direct talks in Washington and Baghdad, but that he wanted the Palestinian-Israeli question on the agenda as well as the gulf crisis.

Bush met with advisers to discuss the conditions, but it appeared Baker would visit Baghdad. Bush also invited Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz to Washington.

(DEC. 3) UPI - The road was a tough place for the defending Stanley Cup champion Edmonton Oilers in the first seven weeks of the season.

Edmonton did not win a game away from home during that span, having only one tie and six losses to show for their efforts.

Of course, most of those games were played without the injured Mark Messier, who tore ligaments in his left knee, and the suspended Petr Klima, who was out four games for a stick-foul incident.

With both Messier and Klima in the lineup, the Oilers finished a six- game trip Sunday night with a 4-2 record and a 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers.

''And we could have won them all,'' Edmonton Coach John Muckler said. ''We lost in overtime in Buffalo and lost by only one goal in Boston before they got an empty-net goal late in the game.''

Messier scored a power-play goal to break a third-period tie and hand the Flyers their first loss in seven games (5-1-1).

''Overall, it was a pretty successful trip for us,'' said Messier, who missed 10 games because of his injury and saw the Oilers go 1-9 without him.

The Oilers took a 3-0 lead over Philadelphia on goals by Esa Tikkanen, Anatoli Semenov and Ken Linseman.

But the Flyers rallied in the third period, getting a goal by Dale Kushner 40 seconds into the final period and another by Mike Ricci 1:29 later.

''Before the third period, the first thing we said was we didn't want them to get a quick goal and they did,'' Messier said. ''They got a quick goal and they got the momentum and they were tough to stop.''

Keith Acton, who did a good job checking Messier most of the night, gave the Flyers a 3-3 tie with his goal at 10:14 of the third period.

Shortly after that, the Oilers got their first power play of the game and Messier scored 6 seconds into the advantage.

Philadelphia had successfully killed 20 consecutive penalties before Messier scored his second goal of the season.

''To score that quickly on the power play took them right out of the game,'' Craig Simpson said. ''In the past, when a team got a big goal against us, we would come back and get another one.''

Tikkanen added his second goal of the game and Joe Murphy scored into the empty net to give the Oilers only their second win at the Spectrum in their last 12 visits (2-9-1).

''It's tough to play here,'' goaltender Bill Ranford said. ''They come out hard every night. It's not an easy building to win in, so we'll take a win whenever we can get it.''

In other NHL games Sunday night, Vancouver topped Winnipeg 5-1, Buffalo tied Detroit 3-3, Chicago edged St. Louis 3-2 and Calgary tied Quebec 5-5.

-- AROUND THE NHL --

Canucks 5, Jets 1

At Winnipeg, Greg Adams and Trevor Linden scored two goals apiece and defenseman Garth Butcher drew four assists to power Vancouver. Fredrik Olausson ended Kirk McLean's shutout bid at 9:08 of the third period.

Red Wings 3, Sabres 3

Blackhawks 3, Blues 2

At Chicago, Ed Belfour scored his NHL-leading 16th win of the season, leading the Blackhawks. Steve Larmer got his 400th career assist and Chris Chelios added three assists for Chicago, which extended St. Louis's winless streak to six games.

Flames 5, Nordiques 5

At Quebec, Joe Sakic scored a power-play goal with 3:48 left in regulation to lift the Nordiques to the tie. Robert Reichel had two goals for the Flames and Ken Quinney scored twice for the Nordiques, who overcame a two-goal deficit in the third period with two power-play scores.

BONN, Germany (DEC. 3) UPI - Helmut Kohl led his center-right coalition to victory and inflicted a crushing defeat on the opposition Social- Demorats in the first all-German elections in almost 60 years, confirming him as chancellor of the newly-reunited country.

Officials results announced early Monday morning showed the coalition led by Kohl's conservative Christian Democratic Union garnered 54.8 percent of the vote, while the Social Democratic Party received only 33. 5 percent.

In the only major surprises in the elections, held two months after the Oct. 3 merger of East and West Germany, the environmentalist, left- leaning Greens party suffered a major loss of support while the liberals registered stronger-than-predicted gains.

Kohl's government had been widely expected to maintain the parliamentary majority it held in West Germany since 1983 - and in united Germany since unification.

But the liberal Free Democratic Party, the junior partner in the coalition and the power base of Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher received far more votes than anticipated, obtaining 11 percent of the vote.

Together with the 36.7 percent won by the CDU and its Bavarian sister-party, the Christian Social Union, the results will give the center-right coalition 398 seats in the 656-seat Bundestag - the federal German parliament in Bonn.

The CDU-CSU will have 319 seats and the FDP 79.

''This is a tremendous victory,'' said a beaming Kohl, after the results were announced.

During the CDU's election campaign, Kohl had capitalized on the leading role he played in bringing about the merger of East and West Germany.

Genscher is also believed to have derived electoral benefits from his longstanding policy of East-West detente.

''Now we will have the task of successfully concluding German unification domestically ... which will also mean an inner renewal of the coalition,'' said Genscher, in what was seen as a hint that the FDP will be seeking more power in Kohl's government.

The crushing defeat of the SPD, which will have 239 deputies in the Bundestag, had been largely anticipated.

Kohl's fiery SPD challenger, Oskar Lafontaine, who is Prime Minister of the western German state of Saarland, had widely focused on the cost of unification during his campaign. Before that, he had called for a slower pace in the process leading to the merger.

The Greens party, which got 8.3 percent in the last West German elections only got 3.9 percent in a coalition with small, left-leaning parties, apparently after losing votes to the right and the left.

The Greens-led coalition will get eight parliamentary mandates.

The Party of Democratic Socialism, the renamed East German communists, will keep 17 members in the Bundestag, after getting 2.4 percent of the vote.

The elections capped just over one year of dramatic changes, including the Nov. 9, 1989 opening of the Berlin wall and were the first free all-German elections in 58 years.

Several officials said the elections were the most important in post- war Germany, but the 76 percent turnout was far lower than at the last German elections.

In the first free elections in East Germany in March this year, 93.4 percent of registered voters cast their ballots and in the 1987 West German elections, turnout was 84.3 percent.

(DEC. 3) UPI - Although they looked inept at times and invincible in other stretches, the inconsistent Indiana Pacers reached a turning point Sunday night.

Chuck Person scored 20 points, Reggie Miller added 19 and the Pacers held off Milwaukee for a 107-103 victory. Indiana fell behind by 14 points in the first 8:08, rallied to take a 15-point lead halfway through the third quarter, then clung to a 1-point lead through the final minutes to snap a four-game losing streak.

''We have to go out and make war every night,'' Person said. ''Our guys are ready to do that. We played hard-nosed and aggressively and stayed after people. We converted plays late, something we hadn't been doing.''

The resurgence came after a second meeting of the season among players, a talk

Person said helped bring the group together.

''We have to forget about what each individual needs and worry about what the team needs,'' Person said. That way, we can all get what we ''eds,'

Person and Miller each sank two free throws in the final 21 seconds to extend Indiana leads from 1 point to 3, the last by Person giving the Pacers a 105-102 lead with 13 seconds to play. Milwaukee's Jay Humphries sank the second of two free throws with five seconds remaining and Detlef Schrempf added the final Indiana points after being fouled on the next inbounds pass.

Schrempf added 18 points for Indiana while Rik Smits contributed 16 points, Vern Fleming scored 13 and LaSalle Thompson pulled down 15 rebounds and scored 9 points. Jack Sikma led Milwaukee with 16 points, scoring 11 in the fourth quarter, while Ricky Pierce added 15.

Indiana (6-10) had lost 9 of its previous 11 games and the Pacers are winless away from home this season. Dropping Milwaukee (11-5) opened a stretch of five games in seven days, which continues Tuesday at Minnesota.

''During the season, you have big games you have to win. Minnesota is one of those games this year because it's on the road and it will help the team psychologically,'' Miller said. ''We can get to .500 and get something rolling.''

Indiana Coach Dick Versace would have liked an easier time, but praised his team for inspired play.

''The meetings had a lot to do with the open minds,'' Versace said. ''The biggest difference was we played hard. I hadn't been able to get them to see they hadn't been playing as hard as they did tonight. It's nice to have them back. We backed off on our defensive pressure a bit once we got a 15-point lead. It's hard to put a good team away.''

Sikma scored 6 points in a 12-3 Milwaukee run to open the fourth quarter, pulling the Bucks within 84-83 with a pair of free throws with 8:32 remaining.

''After getting off to such a great start and having to come back, it's like climbing the same hill twice,'' Sikma said. ''We played well enough to get back into it. I'm disappointed.''

Milwaukee pulled ahead 26-12, helped by hitting its first nine shots. Indiana had an 11-0 first-quarter run, then surged to an 18-1 run over the middle of the second quarter. Indiana led 58-46 at halftime, having completed a 28-point turnaround by outscoring the Bucks 46-18 over a 15:10 span.

''In the second quarter, we played without our brains for five or six minutes and let our emotions take over,'' Milwaukee Coach Del Harris said. ''You have to use emotions. You can't let them use you. The first quarter came too easily. When they went into their risky kamakaze play, we just fell into a trap.''

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday night, Portland outlasted Utah 101-97 and the LA Clippers routed Minnesota 102-77.

Blazers 101, Jazz 97

At Portland, Ore., Buck Williams scored 23 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to lead the Trail Blazers to their third straight victory, raising their record to 14-1, best in the NBA. The Jazz were led by Karl Malone with a season-high 36 points in a game that was in doubt until the final minutes of the fourth period.

Clippers 102, Timberwolves 77

At Los Angeles, Bo Kimble scored a season-high 27 points and Charles Smith added 26 and grabbed 14 rebounds, leading the Clippers. Rookie Loy Vaught came off the bench to chip in with 12 points, and guards Gary Grant and Winston Garland added 10 apiece. Minnesota suffered its third consecutive loss and completed the four-game road swing with a 1-3 mark.

TOKYO (DEC. 3) UPI - Japan's Emperor Akihito plans to tour Asian countries next year, possibly around May, becoming the first Japanese monarch to visit the region in history, published reports said Monday.

The Mainichi Shimbun and the Tokyo Shimbun, quoting government sources, said the trip will take the 56-year-old Akihito to South Korea and all or some member states of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations.

Thailand is most likely to be included in his itinerary in view of the close relationship between the Japanese and Thai imperial families, they said.

The government will soon start arranging for Akihito's itinerary through diplomatic channels between Japan and the nations concerned, the dailies said.

When the plan comes through, it will be Akihito's first overseas tour since acceding to the ''Chrysanthemum Throne'' in January 1989, following the death of his father, Emperor Hirohito.

It also will be the first overseas travel by a Japanese monarch since the Hirohito made a historic tour of the United States in 1975. Hirohito also visited Europe in 1971.

Akihito's overseas travel plan emerged after completion of all official functions for his accession to the throne, including the official enthronement ceremony Nov. 12, attended by representatives from about 150 countries.

Many foreign guests invited Akihito and Empress Michiko to visit their countries at an opportune time, government officials said.

Japan's Emperor has not made an official tour of Asia in the 2,600- year history of Japan, the dailies said.

Akihito's planned visit to South Korea was postponed in 1986 because of Michiko's illness.

South Korean President Roh Tae Woo extended an invitation to Akihito anew when he made his first official visit to Japan last May.

His itinerary will be discussed when Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu makes a planned visit to South Korea and the Association of Southeast Asian nations in January, the dailies said.

Sakamoto later told a news conference Kaifu's Asian tour planned for January remained unchanged despite a United Nations Security Council resolution authorizing the use of force against Iraq in the Gulf crisis.

Sakamoto added, however, the final itinerary for Kaifu's trip will have to be adjusted according to developments in peace talks between the United States and Iraq.

Kaifu is scheduled to make a three-day visit to South Korea, starting Jan. 9. He will then leave on a tour of the ASEAN nations about a week later.

(DEC. 3) UPI - President Bush begins another trip... Iraq steps up military activity... and the space shuttle astronauts aim their telescopes. Those stories and more, next from U-P-I.

A group of military officers apparently seized Argentina's military headquarters early today, just three days before a scheduled visit to the country by President Bush.

Reporters said some soldiers, either assailants or guards, were wounded and carried away by ambulances from the military headquarters in downtown Buenos Aires.

Government officials said President Carlos Menem had declared a state of seige and was commanding operations against the rebellion from his office in the government palace, only a half block from the skirmishing.

Bush was scheduled to arrive in Brazil this morning and planned to arrive in Buenos Aires on Wednesday.

President Bush will talk free trade today during his 24-hour visit to Brazil.

Bush left Washington late yesterday for a five-nation tour of South America where he'll celebrate the rebirth of democracy and free markets in Latin America.

The president's latest overseas voyage is expected to be long on symbolism and short on major new proposals. It comes after his recent visits to Europe, the Middle East and Mexico.

Bush's trip was originally set for September, but was put off by the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait and the press of budget talks.

But by making the trip at this time, Bush hopes to underscore his promise that the U-S interest in Latin America won't be sidetracked by dramatic political developments in Eastern Europe and the Middle East.

Jetting daily from one capital to the next, Bush will laud the reform efforts of a new generation of forward-looking Latin leaders. And he's expected to promote the ambitious notion of a hemispheric free-trade zone stretching from the Artic Circle to Tierra del Fuego.

(DEC. 3) UPI - Troops in the Middle East got a scare from Iraq yesterday.

The B-B-C and Cairo radio said the U-S-led multinational forces were put on a state of alert early yesterday when intelligence reports warned of Iraqi missile activity.

Iraq reportedly test-fired Scud missiles inside Iraqi territory.

U-S military officials in Saudi Arabia said ''The flight path of the missiles was away from the U-S and coalition forces.''

Saddam Hussein told French television Sunday that- in his words- ''we will be closer to peace'' if Secretary of State Baker enters into what Saddam called a ''real dialogue'' with Baghdad. Baker is expected to travel to Iraq for talks aimed at averting war.

President Bush also invited Iraq's foreign minister to Washington.

Black holes, enigmatic quasars and exploding suns are just some of the mind-bending oddities the shuttle Columbia astronauts will be looking for today when they aim their powerful telescopes at the heavens.

The sensitive instruments will give scientists their first detailed look at high-energy X-rays and ultraviolet light from deep space.

The Columbia crew rocketed into orbit yesterday in a spectacular pre- dawn liftoff from Cape Canaveral... and began activating the suite of telescopes.

Running six months late because of crippling fuel leaks, Columbia's crew hit the deck running, but soon afterward ran into trouble loading one telescope with critical computer control software. And they had problems getting a complex telescope pointing system to lock onto the proper stars because of computer programming that limited the system's sensitivity to starlight.

But later yesterday, revised software was radioed to the shuttle for use with the Instrument Pointing System and officials say the astronauts plan to proceed with science observations today.

One of their first tasks will be observations of two stars in the constellation Orion, the nearby star Capella in the constellation Taurus and an irregular galaxy in the Southern Hemisphere constellation Vela.

(DEC. 3) UPI - It's expected to be a stormy week for trade ministers from 107 nations meeting today in Brussels, Belgium.

They will have to deal with disagreements over agriculture, services and other key areas during this final week of a four-year round of world trade talks.

The talks under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade began at a Uruguayan resort in 1986, and are supposed to conclude on Friday.

Many officials say, however, that the GATT talks could collapse in failure or recess this week with only partial agreement and resume in January.

A 391-page draft text, hammered out over the past four years, lacks crucial negotiating documents on agriculture, foreign investment and anti-dumping measures.

At a news conference yesterday, Arthur Dunkel, director general of GATT, said a breakthrough must be reached by the end of Tuesday in order for the talks to succeed.

It's feared that collapse of the talks could lead to a bitter trade war among many GATT members at a time when much of the world is heading into recession.

MOSCOW (DEC. 3) UPI - A weekend earthquake in the central Asian republic of Kirghizia destroyed nearly 1,000 homes and public buildings and left more than 3,000 people homeless in three villages, officials said Monday.

No one was reported killed in Saturday's quake, which measured 5.1 on the Richter scale, the Soviet Center for Seismic Information said. A moderate aftershock measuring 4.4 on the Richter scale shook the same area Monday morning.

The quakes were centered in the Osh region of Kirghizia, about 2,000 miles southeast of Moscow in an active seismic zone near the Soviet- Chinese border. A June quake in neighboring Kazakhstan killed two people and flattened hundreds of homes on both sides of the border.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said local authorities were still assessing the damage from Saturday's quake, and had found more than 940 homes and public buildings destroyed in the villages of Kyzyl Charba, Salam Alik and Ak Terek.

A local relief headquarters was set up and tents, food and other necessities have been sent to the area, the report said.

(DEC. 3) UPI - There's trouble in one of the South American nations President Bush plans to visit this week. Argentina's military headquarters was seized early today by a group of military officers. Reporters said some soldiers were wounded and carried away by ambulances from the military headquarters in downtown Buenos Aires. Witnesses said officers and enlisted men tried to dislodge the rebels from the building and several soldiers were reported wounded in the ensuing gunfire. Some radio reports said two officers were killed. Bush planned to arrive in Argentina on Wednesday.

President Bush is in Brazil today, starting a trip that will take him to five South American nations. In Brazil, Bush is expected to deliver his most important speech of the trip, outlining points of his ''initiative to the Americas'' and the new role of importance Latin America is to play in U-S policy. Bush's trip was originally set for September, but was put off by the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait and budget talks.

GENEVA (DEC. 3) UPI - Reported global cases of AIDS rose by 8,465, or 2.83 percent, in November to reach a total of 307,379 by Dec. 1, the World Health Organization said Monday.

The known total of acquired immune deficiency syndrome Oct. 31 had been 298,914.

The United States reported 2,733 new cases in November for a total 152,231, or 49.53 percent, of the world figure.

At one time the United States accounted for two-thirds or more of known cases but the U.S. percentage has fallen steadily in the past one year as developing country reporting improved somewhat.

WHO said the true worldwide number of cumulative cases since 1980 is four times the officially reported total and is around 1.3 million.

That is because the Third World - especially increasingly stricken African nations - lack the infrastructure needed to properly track the fatal disease.

Africa had 77,043 cases, considered by WHO to be only a fraction of the real number.

Figures reported by African countries also are usually outdated - the 15,569 known figure for Uganda dating to March 31 and that of 11,732 for Zaire going to Jan. 31.

Europe had 41,564 reported cases as of Dec. 1 and Asia had 843. Oceania had 2,334, with Australia accounting for 2,081 of those.

The Americas had 185,595 cases on Dec. 1, including the U.S. figure.

(DEC. 3) UPI - Optimism about the Persian Gulf crisis bolstered stock prices Monday on the Tokyo Stock Exchange, but selling by margin-strapped investors prevented the rally from expanding futher.

The blue-chip Nikkei average of 225 selected issues, which fell 257. 97 points Friday, gained 271.36 points to 22,725.99.

The broader-based Tokyo Stock Exchange Price Index of all major shares, which dropped 14.95 points Friday, bounced back 19.21 points to 1,671.22.

Volume remained slow at an estimated 250 million shares, compared with 351 million Friday.

Advances topped declines 717 to 198, while 149 issues remained unchanged.

Elsewhere in Asia, stocks rebounded sharply in moderate trading on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange, bolstered by promises of Iraqi-U.S. talks on the Gulf crisis.

The benchmark Hang Seng Index jumped 55.11 points - or 1.86 percent - to close at 3,020.17. The gain followed a loss of 13.29 points Friday and a 51-point drop over the last week.

Among the narrower indexes, financials gained 16.72 points, utilities jumped 90.30, properties surged 102.94 and industrials rose 46.08 points.

Volume amounted to around an estimated 710 million shares, compared with 545 million shares Friday.

In Singapore, stocks climbed on the Singapore Stock Exchange as hopes of a peaceful settlement to the Gulf crisis replaced last week's apprehension.

The Straits Times Industrial Index, which eased 2.82 points Friday, jumped 19.04 points to 1,125.63. The broader-based All Singapore Index rose 5.20 points to 312.86.

Volume amounted to around an estimated 42.2 million shares, compared with 32.8 million shares Friday.

In Bangkok, stocks rebounded 7.3 percent in light trading on the Thailand Stock Exchange.

In Australia, stocks closed mostly higher on the Sydney Sharemarket boosted by hopes of peace in the oil-rich Middle East.

The All Ordinaries Index, which fell 22.6 points Friday, added 4.3 points to 1,324.0. The All Industrials index rose 9.2 points to 1,996.9 and the All Resources Index added 0.9 points to 803.1.

Volume amounted to around an estimated 56.5 million shares, compared with 112 million shares Friday.

MOSCOW (DEC. 3) UPI - A man with a homemade bomb attempted to hijack a Soviet airliner to Stockholm, but the pilot landed in Leningrad and the would-be hijacker was disarmed safely, the news agency Tass reported Monday.

The attempt to seize the Leningrad-to-Murmansk Aeroflot flight Sunday was the latest in a flurry of hijackings and hijack attempts by Soviet citizens wanting the leave the country, but in most of the previous incidents the hijackers turned out to be unarmed.

In fact, Tass said, the pilot of the Aeroflot flight Sunday disregarded the hijacker's threat to blow up the plane unless it flew to Sweden and instead returned to Leningrad because the crew was assured that all passengers and baggage had been checked properly.

The hijacker, identified by Tass as German Gerasimov, an employee of a building cooperative, allowed all 120 passengers to leave the plane after talks at the airport. He was arrested by an airport assault squad.

''A homemade bomb was found on him,'' Tass said. ''Its explosive capacity was confirmed by experts.''

There were no injuries during the incident.

BALTIMORE (DEC. 3) UPI - Dozens of people have called Johns Hopkins Hospital with concerns about their health because of reports that a breast cancer surgeon had died of AIDS, hospital officials say.

The hospital plans this week to mail letters to about 1,800 people on whom Dr. Rudolph Almaraz had operated, offering free AIDS testing and counseling.

The (Baltimore) Sun reported that Almaraz, 41, died of acquired immune dificiency syndrome two weeks ago.

Dr. Timothy Townsend, senior director for medical affairs at Hopkins, said about 50 people called the hospital Sunday. Operators told callers to contact Townsend at his office Monday.

Hospital spokeswoman Joann Rodgers said the letter sent to patients, which now refers to unconfirmed rumors that a doctor had AIDS, will be changed if the hospital can confirm the cause of death.

Almaraz's lawyer, Marvin Ellin, told the newspaper the doctor died of AIDS. Rodgers said the hospital has not yet spoken to Ellin directly.

Physicians said it is highly unlikely that Almaraz's patients could have contracted the AIDS virus from him. Doctors face a greater risk of contracting the AIDS virus from patients, they said.

''When you're operating on a patient, the patient's blood is all around. That's the way surgery is,'' Dr. Gregory Bulkley, said a professor of surgery at the Hopkins medical school. ''It's very rare that a surgeon's blood, however, would get into a patient.''

Bulkley said a study has found that a doctor operating on a person with AIDS who accidentally pricks himself or herself has a 0.2 percent chance of contracting the AIDS virus.

The risk of transmission from a doctor to a patient is so small as to be immeasurable, he said.

Ellin said Almaraz believed he contracted the virus in 1983, while serving a fellowship at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York.

A Sloan-Kettering spokeswoman said Sunday the hospital did not have any records that would indicate Almaraz contracted AIDS when he practiced at the hospital from July 1 to Dec. 1.

TOKYO (DEC. 3) UPI - With the postwar Cold War era over, Japan's Defense Agency has come under growing pressure to trim its spending for national defense buildups, government sources said Monday.

They said the Finance Ministry, in a bid to hold down national budget growth, is seeking the Defense Agency to cut down its expenditures to an annual growth rate of less than 4.0 percent.

The ministry contends the Soviet military threat to Japan in the Far East, the principal factor behind Japan's steady and substantial defense buildups in the past, has disappeared along with growing East-West detente, the sources said.

The Defense Agency has requested a 5.8 percent increase to $338.5 billion for its defense buildup spending in fiscal 1991, beginning next April 1.

Fiscal 1991 will be the first year of the next five-year, mid-term defense buildup plan to be implemented by the government.

Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu told a recent meeting of the national Security Council that Japan's defense policy is facing a turning point as a Cold War is over and the targets set by the 1976 National Defense Program Outline will be attained by the end of the current fiscal year.

The council agreed to set a new five-year buildup plan but decided to review it three years later with a view to scaling it down amid growing East-West detente.

The Defense Agency's buildup plan calls, among others, for the procurement of another Aegis electronic destroyer in addition to one ordered this year and seven more anti-submarine warfare helicopters for the Maritime Self-Defense Force and an additional 11 F-15 fighter interceptors for the Air Self-Defense Force.

The United States wants Japan to purchase an airborne warning and command system, known as the AWACS, to help curtail Japan's bloated bilateral trade imbalance which amounts to about $50 billion a year, according to recent news reports.

In line with the so-called burden sharing, the Defense Agency said its budget request includes an increased share of the costs for maintaining U.S. forces in Japan under the Japan-U.S. security treaty.

The agency asked for an appropriation of $523.6 million to shoulder part of salaries and fringe benefits for about 22,000 Japanese workers employed at U.S. military bases.

The United States maintains about 45,000 troops for the security of Japan, mostly in Okinawa, site of major U.S. military installations in the Pacific.

The sources said the Finance Ministry hopes to hold the net annual growth rate of Japan's defense outlays below the nation's net economic growth target set at 3.75 percent for the five-year period 1988-92.

Japan's defense budget grew at an annual rate averaging 5.4 percent during the current five-year period ending this fiscal year.

Japan spent a total of 18.4 trillion yen $141.5 billion for defense buildups over the last five years.

The sources said the 1992 fiscal budget to be compiled by the Finance Ministry is expected to exceed $538.5 billion for the first time.

The government normally compiles a draft budget in December for approval by parliament before a new fiscal year starts.

NDJAMENA, CHAD (DEC. 3) UPI - A Chadian rebel leader denied Monday he received Libyan backing for his successful invasion of the Central African country, saying the equipment used by his forces was captured from the Chadian army.

Idriss Deby, speaking to reporters in the capital of N'Djamena hours after he triumphantly entered the city, confirmed that former President Hissene Habre was alive and had been able to escape to northern Cameroon.

The Libyan news agency Jana reported Sunday that Habre as well as members of his family and several aides had been killed while trying to escape Chad, but the reports were denied by military sources in neighboring Cameroon and by French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas.

''The military equipment that I invite you to visit was recovered in the field by my men,'' Deby said. ''We have not received any military help from Libya. The majority of the vehicles are marked FT for Forces Chadiennes and were used to protect the president.''

In Paris, a French Foreign Ministry spokesman said 1,600 persons had been flown out of the African country over the weekend and that about 100 additional French citizens stationed in southwest Chad would be arriving in the French capital Monday on a special flight.

The spokesman, Daniel Bernard, said only about 200 French nationals of 1,500 that live in Chad were still in the country. He said between 30 percent and 40 percent of those evacuated were third-country nationals, but gave no details.

Bernard said there had been no contacts between Paris and Tripoli over the events in Chad and did not indicate when or if Paris would recognize the new government in N'Djamena.

In Moscow, Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Vitaly Churkin said all dependents of Soviet diplomats in Chad had been evacuated to Cameroon. He said only the Soviet charge d'affaires and one other embassy official remained in N'Djamena. He said Moscow had asked French troops to ensure the safety of Soviet citizens.

Military sources in Paris said the 800 soldiers sent to N'Djamena over the weekend to reinforce the 1,000 men permanently stationed in the country will be returned to their home bases in France very shortly.

Deby said he hoped to maintain good neighborly relations with Libya and will try to resolve the problems between the two countries through diplomacy. Chad and Libya have been at odds over control of the 1,000- mile long mineral-rich Aouzou Strip in northern Chad. In 1986 France sent troops to stop a Libyan offensive in northern Chad.

But on Sunday Dumas, explaining the French government's decision not to intervene in the fighting between Habre's and Deby's troops, said ''the days are gone when France had a choice of governments in these countries, changed their governments or maintained them when it wanted to do so.''

While France refused to intervene in the fighting, it increased its military presence to 1,800 men from 1,000 to insure the safety of its nationals. Almost 1,000 French citizens living in Chad were flown into Paris Sunday aboard two leased 747 Boeing jets.

''Today, if there were a Libyan offensive, we would react,'' Defense Minister Jean-Pierre Chevenement said over the weekend, adding that the current situation was not the same as in the past.

Deby told reporters his forces had almost captured Habre Nov. 25 near the town of Adre on the Chadian-Sudanese frontier about 124 miles from the eastern city of Abeche.

''He fled in a vehicle and we pursued him to Oichaloiba near Abeche, where he took a plane,'' Deby said. Habre is believed to have fled N'Djamena at dawn Saturday when he realized the city was lost, and his whereabouts were a mystery until late Sunday, when officials in Cameroon confirmed the former president had reached the town of Maroua in the north of the country.

N'Djamena was reported calm Monday despite sporadic gunfire heard overnight. A 6:00 p.m. to 6:00 a.m. curfew remained in place in the capital, authorities said.

Deby declared Sunday he wants to establish a democratic, multi-party political system in the desperately poor West African state and said that in the meantime the new president will be chosen by his Popular Salvation Movement.

Deby's troops entered Chad from Sudan three weeks ago, meeting little resistance from forces loyal to Habre. They seized Abeche on Friday and quickly moved towards the capital of N'Djamena 450 miles to the southwest.

Deby's forces met no resistance when they arrived in N'Djamena Sunday and were able to enter the dusty town triumphantly.
